Elimination of Wood Waste Will Save Country Many Thousands of Dollars

It has been estimated that in converting logs into finished lumber and lumber products, the waste amounts to over 50 per cent. of the bulk of all trees cut for lumber. This is equivalent to an annual loss of from $10 to $15 for every man, woman and child in the country. At present it is impracticable from a financial standpoint to reduce this waste as there is no market for the tree tops, culls and wood-trees left in lumbering operations, and only a very limited one for the bark, slabs, sawdust, edgings and trimmings of milling operations.

The Department of the Interior is recruiting the staff of its Forest Products Laboratories, recently established in connection with the Forestry Branch, with skilled mechanical and chemical engineers and by constant experimentation it is hoped to find a commercial use for these products.

Timber has often been shunned as a structural material because no reliable figures regarding its strength were available, and when complete tests have been made it is regarded as certain that a demand will be created for some of Canada's tree species which are now left in the woods as valueless.

The Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, of which these laboratories are one development, has recently issued a circular describing the various lines of investigation to be followed at these laboratories. Not the least important will be to develop chemical methods for utilising minor wood wastes and another circular written by the engineer in charge of this work deals with the general aspects of the subject. A large percentage of the small-sized waste wood can be utilized by the process known as "destructive distillation," but the machinery employed in this process is not very efficient. The manufacture of ethyl alcohol and producer gas from sawdust has already been proved feasible, and the securing as Superintendent of the Laboratories of John S. Bates, B.A., B.Sc., one of the foremost authorities on wood-pulp manufacture in America, ensures the development of this Branch of Wood Utilization.

How People Feel

When They Have

Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a [illegible] or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. DRIVES STAPLES STRAIGHT

Tool of New Design for Wire Fence Erectors and Other Workmen

In the erection of wire fence it is generally necessary to drive a large number of staples and for the security of the fence it is desirable that the staples should be driven straight and accurately. Owing to the irregularities of the wooden posts and the strain of the fence wire, which is under a heavy tension when being erected, it is not always an easy matter to put the staples just where they are wanted to be of the most service.

TOOL FOR DRIVING STAPLES

The tool shown in the accompanying cut is designed to accomplish this. With its aid a great many more staples may be driven in a given time and they are driven in a much superior manner. Besides being a convenience to fence erectors there are other mechanics who will find use for this tool such as electricians, box makors, [illegible] and the like.

ABOUT BIRDS

A Column of Interesting Facts on the Bird Kingdom

The humming birds of South America are quite fearless of man. They will readily enter the open windows of houses if they see bowers.

The Sparrow

Perhaps the greatest enemies of our native birds are the house cat and the English sparrow. Cats kill vast numbers of young birds while they are yet in the nest or shortly after leaving it, while the English sparrow may not molest our native birds to any great extent. Yet it has simply taken possession of their habitations and crowded them out.

The Curlew

The curlew, a bird of Eskimo that used to fly south in enormous flocks has within the past ten years become practically extinct. An explanation has been discovered in the fact that the pampas lands of Argentina, where the birds used to winter, are now under cultivation for wheat. So does man prove enemy to the lower animals, even when pursuing a harmless vegetable diet.

Our Friends

A French naturalist asserts that if the world were to become birdless, man could not inhabit it after nine years' time, in spite of all the sprays and poisons that could be manufactured for the destruction of insects. The bugs and slugs would simply eat up our orchards and crops.

DREAMS AND DISEASE

Troubled Sleep Frequently Explainable by Bodily Ailments

What is a dream? Many have tried to pierce the mystic veil that divides sleeping and waking life. Dreams and their portents have formed the life study of numerous scientists; but, strangely enough, little progress has been made in the scientific understanding of dreams. Professor Freud, a well known scholar and investigator, voices some remarkable facts regarding the relation of disease to dreams.

"Dreams of patients suffering with organic disease of the heart and kidneys are sometimes greatly troubled by terrors and wild phantasies. This I have often seen in fevers and in the acute infectious diseases generally. Such a symptom," says the professor, "is evidence of a disordered bodily state, in which the nervous system is reacting to some toxic or mechanical stimulus of considerable intensity. One patient used to dream again and again that a cat had him by the throat, and was slowly choking him to death. This mental agony would continue until he awakened spontaneously with a sensation of great tenseness and fullness in the throat. He developed finally a cancer of the throat.

"Where such dreams occur again and again we should seek for the cause of the stimulus in some localized region of the body."

A Piece of Metal Which is Storing up Heat at all Times

The electric cooking block is a substitute for the stove in that it performs a great many of the offices of the stove in a very satisfactory manner, but from the standpoint of the electrical manager it has the additional advantage that it does not make its demand for current during the hours of the greatest load. On the contrary the general adoption of the block would make a constant call for current which is what the electrical companies are desirous of cultivating.

ELECTRICAL COOKING BLOCK WHICH STORES UP HEAT

The stove consists of a block of iron imbedded in heat insulating material. Within this block is an electrical heating unit. The surface of the iron block forms a smooth plate on which a cooking utensil may be placed. But normally, when the stove is not in use it is covered by a lid also filled with heat insulating material. As there is practically no outlet for the heat generated by the heating unit, the iron block is steadily heated and rises in temperature until the cover is removed for a cooking utensil to be substituted. After one dish has been cooked the cover is applied to the stove again and it is permitted to store heat until the next dish is to be cooked. As compared with the ordinary disk stove the heat storage stove uses very little current.

HAPPY CONVICTS

A Swiss prison appears to be the very place in which to spend a cheap holiday, as you have practically all you want—a comfortable cell, central heating, electricity, good food, a fair quantity of wine or beer and tobacco, and a library. You can learn a trade, have plenty of exercise, and there is little work to do in return for all these advantages. Until a year ago, at Thorberg Prison, good conduct prisoners were even allowed out once a week on "parole," but, though no prisoners escaped, this custom has been suppressed.

Of all the Swiss prisons perhaps the jolliest is that of Kreuzlingen, in the Canton of Thurgau. The inmates have weekly smoking concerts, when the latest music hall songs can be heard, and good music, with the result that at evenings the townspeople—Kreuzlingen has nearly 8,000 inhabitants—gather enviously under the prison walls and promenade in the street enjoying the free entertainment, especially as some of the convicts have good voices. On these occasions there is no warden to prevent a conversation between the prisoners and their visitors across the wall, and thus the former learn the latest news.

It is noticed that the prisoners are very polite when young women are present. Packets of cigarettes and other small luxuries—not on the regular menu—find their way over the walls, and this custom, though strictly forbidden, is winked at. These pleasant little "soirées musicales" are now threatened with extinction.

It is only fair to the authorities to say that crime is decreasing, as the population increases, in the country.

Serves Double Purpose

The handle of a new shoe buttoner terminates in a device to unbutton footwear.

For pinhole photography, any rectangular box that is absolutely light-tight will answer. In one end insert a very thin piece of metal, in which a minute hole has been made with the point of a needle, and at the other end place the sensitive plate. If you possess an ordinary camera you may remove the lens and replace it with the pinhole. A prolonged exposure is required, about twenty or thirty times the ordinary one for any given subject. No focussing is required, as the image is always fairly sharp, no matter what distance the plate is from the hole. The larger the plate the wider the angle, and the greater the distance between pinhole and plate the larger the image. Pleasingly soft effects of landscape subjects in particular may be obtained by means of the pinhole.

The local police should get after that small section of auto drivers who might be classed as — idiots. It is such idiots that bring discredit upon automobile owners. This particular idiot came within a foot of running over a pedestrian. As he had no rear lights his number could not be seen.

French Army Driving Germans out of Alsace-Lorraine Big Battle--German Casualties 30,000, French 15,000

LIEGE ATTACK BUT OPENING MOVEMENT IN CAMPAIGN OF GERMANY AGAINST THE WORLD

Several Hundred Thousand Men Will Be Involved In Any Decisive Battle---Movements of Main Armies Is Unknown---Germans Resort to Unfair Mining of Neutral Waters.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—All eyes were turned to-day toward Belgium, where the unexpected stand made by the Belgian Army against a German advance guard has earned praise in all quarters.

The authorities here have taken the greatest precautions to prevent the leakage of information as to military and naval movemente, but indications were seen in the commandeering of large liners and the stoppage of the cross channel passenger traffic that the departure of a British expeditionary force would probably soon take place The possible destination of this expedition could not be ascertained, and the report from Paris announcing that the landing of British troops had evoked enthusiasm carefully hid the place of their debarkation.

President Poincare also gave out the news in his message to King Albert of Belgium that French troops were "shedding their blood with the Belgians on the battlefiild to-day."

The fighting around Liege, although regarded in military circles as important, is considered as merely an opening movement in the campaign, the plan of which has been kept admirably hidden by both the German and French commanders-in-chief.

No hint has yet been given as to the position of the bulk of the 24 German army corps, or of the 21 French army corps. It is known that several of the German army corps are near the Russian frontier. The organization of other corps from the immense body of reserves must have occurred since the mobilization. These have probably taken the places in interior fortified cities of the active army who are, it is assumed, now preparing to make their first dash at the opposing armies.

It is pointed out by military men that any decisive offensive movement by the German or French army will involve several hundred thousands of men on each side, whose contact will completely throw into the shadow the fight which has just taken place at Liege.

Reports from many quarters record further captures of merchant vessels sailing under the German flag, while the presence of contact mines even in neutral waters was shown in to-day's wreck of a Norwegian steamer in the Zuider Zee, in the Netherlands.

What is happening in the African colonies of Germany, France, Belgium and Great Britain is not known, as news from those places appears to have been suppressed, probably owing to the occupation of the cables by government communications.

A SIMPLE WAY TO REDUCE WRINKLES.

Remember that wrinkles and bagginess of cheek or chin are due to the muscular tissue losing its strength shrinking. The skin is then too large in area to fit such tissue smoothly. It wrinkles or sags.

To remedy this condition, there's nothing so effective, so quick acting, as a simple and harmless wash lotion easily made at home. Get an ounce of powdered saxolite at your druggist's, and a half pint witch hazel, mix the two and bathe your face in the liquid. This at once tightens the skin and solidifies the underlying tissue—which, of course smooths out the lines and draws in the sagging skin. It also stimulates circulation, bringing a feeling of freshness and snugness to a tired face.

GREAT HONOR TO LOCAL LABOR COUNCIL

Mr. Burnham has received an immediate answer from the Prime Minister, thanking him for forwarding the resolution of the Peterborough Trades and Labour Council with regard to the supply of food by Canada to those on the fighting line. The Prime Minister states that the Government is giving its earnest attention to the suggestion and he expressed his gratification for it. This patriotic and excellent suggestion coming from the Peterborough Trades and Labour Council, received as it has been evidently — eagerly and gratefully by the Prime Minister—shows that people may well have ideas and present them. Sometimes ideas may have already been provided for. Sometimes they may not be possible. Sometimes, as in this case, they may be amongst the gems of the occasion. It is a great honour to the Peterborough Trades and Labour Council, both to have made the suggestion and to have had it received in the prompt and grateful manner indicated.

May Affect Local Troops.

It is rumored that an entirely new system of company drill will be instituted in the Dominion in accord with the drill system that has been followed by the British regular army since Oct. 1, 1913. This is called the double company system, by which instead of having eight separate companies drilling in one battalion, two companies will be thrown together, making four.

As to-day is Civic Holiday The Times will not be issued to-morrow.

Recruiting will continue at the Armouries to-day and to-morrow.

French Capture City in Alsace-Lorraine of Vast Stragetic Importance in the Big European War--French Welcomed Into Mulhausen With Open Arms by Inhabitants

Yesterday's dispatches reported the French army as winning a victory in its invasion of Alsace-Lorraine, the territory taken by Germany from France at the conclusion of the Franco-Prussian war. The French have pushed on from Alkirch, and have captured the strongly fortified German city, Mulhausen, thus gaining control of the Alsatian valley. The battle was a bitter one, in which the Germans suffered crushing defeat, losing 30,000 men; the French casualties were 15,000.

Welcomed With Open Arms.

When the French troops poured into Mulhausen they were welcomed by its inhabitants with frenzied delight, the people cheering exultantly. This clearly indicates with whom the sympathy of the population of these fair provinces—once French—lies, and shows that Germany's effort to stamp out all French characteristics and traditions since its acquisition thereof has not been successful. [redacted]

Of Stragetic Importance.

The French forces drove the German cavalry through the streets in what is characterized as nothing short of a terrible route. The Germans retreated towards Neu Breisuch.

French Routed Germans.

Mulhausen is a fort of great stragetic importance at the southern end of Alsace Lorraine. The city itself, with a population of 100,000, is the largest manufacturing centre in the province. It is fifteen miles from the French frontier, showing how far the French have been able to penetrate into a country vigorously defended by the Germans.

FRENCH SOLDIERS ENTHUSIASTIC AND CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

They Go Laughing, Singing and Shouting on Their March to the Frontier —Expect to Wipe Out Defeats of 1870.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—I have just returned from the French frontier town of Nancy after an endeavor to obtain authorization to follow the operations of the twentieth army corps. Up to the present, however, no passes have been given to any war correspondent. Nancy is full of stirring scenes. An enormous number of troops is passing thru or reinforcing the garrison.

Four hundred thousand men were concentrated along the French-German frontier when I left, on Monday. These numbers will be increased heavily by army reservists for the second line of defense.

Nancy is unfortified and in the event of a German invasion will be abandoned, the troops falling back upon Toul and Belfort, both of which are strong and considered impregnable.

I saw thousands of French troops, not only at Nancy, but also at Toul, Chalons and Epernay. Officers with whom I chatted expressed admiration at the magnificent spirit of the men and the marvelous rapidity with which the mobilization had been effected. Certainly I have never seen such enthusiasm, such gaiety and such confidence as that of the French soldiers on the way to the front. During the campaign in the Balkans I saw the Bulgarians marching to war, sullenly and silently, as if they had no heart in the dreadful business, although they fought afterwards with wonderful courage.

But the French soldiers go laughing, singing and shouting towards the German frontier, never tired of crying "A Berlin, A Berlin" and as the troops trains pass one hears the "Marseillaise" wafted from the carriage windows. They are so supremely confident of the perfect organization and the ardent courage of the French army that they have no doubt of wiping out the defeats of 1870 by a series of victories which will leave Germany crushed and bleeding at their feet.

"Even if she asks for peace now," said one of the French officers with whom I chatted, "we will grant it after the surrender of Alsace Lorraine and full payment of our mobilization."

Another officer told me that the troops on the frontier were so excited that it would be impossible to hold them back, even if Germany tried at the last moment to arrange terms of peace.

MRS. HERRICK TO BE WAR NURSE

Paris, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Myron T. Herrick, of Cleveland, wife of the American ambassador, yesterday announced her decision to organize an American hospital in Paris. She will act as nurse for French soldiers wounded in battle.

Mrs. Herrick, Mrs. George Carroll and Mrs. H. H. Harjes are working for the plan for an American hospital and will invite American women in Paris to join their forces as nurses. It is their belief that whether these women are certified nurses or not they can be of great assistance in caring for the wounded.

Authorities to Pass Americans.

Ambassador Herrick, who was up most of last night attending to American and German affairs, has arranged with Premier Viviani that Americans leaving France today would not be required to show passports or otherwise identify themselves, the simple declaration that they are from the United States being sufficient to pass them.

While Ambassador Herrick was talking to the committee of Americans meeting at his residence this morning, one of his men servants asked if he might speak to him.

PORTUGAL "UNCONDITIONALLY" ON THE SIDE OF ENGLAND

London, Aug. 8.—A despatch to The Exchange Telegraph from Lisbon says that at a special meeting of Parliament to-day the declaration was made that Portugal would place herself unconditionally on the side of England, according to the terms of her ancient treaty. The declaration was received with enthusiastic cheering for France and England.

PETERBORO MOVIES WILL CONTRIBUTE TO HOSPITAL SHIP

Mr. Clayton, Proprietor of the Royal, the Red Mill and Princess Theatres, Will Give Wednesday's Proceeds For the Scheme

The Times is authorised to announce that the proceeds of Wednesday's performances, day and night, at the Royal, Princess and Red Mill, will be contributed towards the funds needed for equipping a hospital ship to be presented to the British admiralty for service during the war. The women of Canada have undertaken to raise $100,000 for this purpose, and our local Trades and Labour Council proposed to Mr. Clayton, proprietor of the above named places of amusement that he cooperate with them in their commendable project. To this Mr. Clayton readily agreed, and it is to be hoped that the Peterborough public will support his loyal attitude by generously patronising the Royal, Princess and the Red Mill next Wednesday, when at least a couple of hundred of the $100,000 needed should be realised in by this means in patriotic Peterborough.

Mass Meeting at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—A mass meeting of the women of Ottawa, will be held at Government House on Monday afternoon, when plans will be made to provide funds for a hospital ship to be presented to the British Admiralty. Lady Borden, wife of the Premier, will preside. The Dutchess of Connaught will also attend.

8000 BELGIANS 30,000 GERMANS FALL AT LIEGE

After Two-Hour Armistice, Germans Threw Entire Army Against the Fort—200,000 French Join Defenders.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 8.—The Germans who entered Liege between the forts yesterday have been driven back to their main army. Gov. Emmich is leading in person to-day's grand assault on Liege, the seventh, the ninth and tenth army corps are in the attack, which is said to be of the most desperate character. A body of French cavalry is reported rapidly approaching Liege.

Gen. Goudneur granted the Germans only a two-hour truce to remove their wounded. The request for a 24 hours' delay was to permit the Germans to bring up two more army corps. It was in rage at the refusal that Gen. Emmich ordered the entire army under him to to-day's assault. The battle engages the entire line of Liege forts. Gen. Goudneur reports the Belgian losses thus far as 8000 killed and wounded, as against 30,000 Germans. To-day's advance is being made en masse, as were the previous ones, which accounts for the terrific slaughter. The advance is being over spaces which had been carefully mapped, and of which the Belgian gunners have the exact range. There is a report here that 20,000 French have effected a junction with the Liege defenders.

CITY IN PARAGRAPH

Bobcaygeon Independent.—There is a bad bush fire raging on the Roger Limits and owing to the very dry weather it has already burned over considerable of them. It is supposed to have originated by berry pickers starting a fire to cook their meals.

The general consensus of Peterboro opinion is that "Hoch der Kaiser!" should be translated "To hell with the Kaiser!"

Last week Mr. R. Tivey of East City had a very successful fishing trip down the river near Hales bridge. He brought back 37 good bass.

It is understood that the Douro Dragoons are to patrol the Trent Canal. This however is not yet confirmed.

No Evangeline, those reports you heard in East City on Saturday morning were not German guns firing. The noise was made whilst a cellar was being opened up by aid of dynamite.

Loyal Canadian Writes.

Yesterday a Times representative heard from Mr. John Fallahee, who was here for some weeks at the Oriental Hotel in the interests of the Warren Bituminous Paving Co., of Toronto. Writing from the Iroquois Hotel, Buffalo, Mr. Fallahee says, in part: "By the way what do you think of that crazy Dutchman that is creating so much trouble and destruction in Europe? 'Hock, D. F. Kaiser, Me and Gott.' He belong to the Bathouse."

FIRST EXPEDITIONARY FORCE BEING HURRIED TO NAMUR FOR SECOND BELGIAN STAND

Convoyed by Two Battleships and Three Cruisers, Some of England's Crack Regiments Land in France---Expedition Planned Wednesday, But News Was Regidly Suppressed--France Wild With Enthusiasm.

PARIS, August 8.—British troops were landed at Ostend, Calais and Dunkirk to-day. The force numbered 22,000 men. The news that the English soldiers are actually on French soil has roused the wildest enthusiasm here.

A fleet of British transports, convoyed by two battleships and three armored cruisers, landed the British regulars. The first British expeditionary force numbered 22,000 men and comprised some of the crack regiments of the British army.

The troops were landed under the direction of the French officers who had been sent by the war office for that purpose. They are being hurried to Namur, where they are to aid the Belgians in making their second stand where Liege proves untenable.

The British expedition was planned by the English and French war offices at a conference held in London on Wednesday, but the news that the troops were coming was rigidly suppressed.

It is admitted at the war office here that these troops are only the advance guard and that England already has commandeered enough ships to rush an army of 100,000 men across the channel.

It is stated that in addition to the escorting war fleet, which accompanied the transports, British reserve cruisers are strung almost directly across the channel, thus insuring safe passage for all British troop ships.

The announcement that these British forces are actually on French soil has aroused the greatest enthusiasm here. That French, Belgian and French soldiers are to fight shoulder to shoulder against the invading Germans means much to the French.

Ostend, where one of the British parties landed, is the nearest Belgian port to the English coast, being 80 miles from Dover. Dunkirk is just across the French boundary from Belgium, and is 60 miles from Dover. Calais, further south, is about 20 miles from Dover.

The fact that these three ports are being used shows that it is planned to take every advantage possible by the British forces. To have landed them at one point would have retarded speedy landing so the expedition was split up, and it is expected that similar action will be taken in the other expeditions now believed to be en route.

Following a morning victory at Belfort, the French army of invasion is now attacking the German fortifications of Muelhausen, 61 miles southwest of Strassburg.

"WORLD IS FULL OF DEVILS, BUT GERMANY IS HEAVEN."

BERLIN, Aug. 8, (via Amsterdam and London).—Prince Buelow, former German imperial chancellor, in a patriotic appeal to the German nation, made in the columns of The Hamburger Nachrichten to-day, concludes with the striking phrase: "Even if the world be filled with devils, the German people will defend and maintain its place in the sun."

BRITISH GOVERNMENT TAKES POWER TO SEIZE ALL FOOD.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Walter Runciman, secretary of agriculture, introduced a bill into the house today giving the British Government power to seize all foodstuffs. The bill passed through all its stages.

Mr. Runciman said his reason for introducing the bill was what he termed the "greed of wealthy people who with a long line of automobiles had disgraced themselves by cornering the large stocks of provisions and causing great hardships among the poorer classes."

He said he believed the panic was now over but the government wished to be prepared in case of necessity.

AUSTRIANS REPORTED TO HAVE REFUSED AID TO GERMANS.

ROME, Aug. 8.—The sensational statement is made here by British officers that Austrian ships, appealed to by wireless to come to the aid of the Goeben and Breslau, expelled from Messina, refused on the ground that Austria was not at war with England. A combined French and English fleet is between the German cruisers and the Austrian naval base near Trieste. Austria has not declared war on France either and her ambassador is still in Paris.

DO LONG BREATHS HURT?

DANGEROUS PLEURISY ALWAYS BEGINS THIS WAY.
Speediest Cure is Nerviline.

Ouch, that stab-like pain in the side is like a hot knife blade in the ribs!

Probably got overheated—cooled too fast—now there is congestion, tightness, such soreness you can't draw a long breath.

This is the beginning of Pleurisy.

Pleurisy is far too serious to neglect a single instant.

Quickest relief will come from a vigorous rubbing with Nerviline. This trusty old pain reliever will fix you up in no time—will take away the congestion—make you well just as it did Mr. Samuel St. Johns, of Stamford, who says:—"In running to catch a train last week I became much overheated. I put up the train window and rode that way in order to get cooled off. In an hour my side was so full of pain and my breathing hurt so much that I thought I had pneumonia. I always carry Nerviline in my grip and at destination I rubbed my side thoroughly three times. The warm penetrating effect was soon noticeable and I quickly got relief. Nerviline I consider saved me from a serious illness."

Any sort of a cold can be quickly broken up with Nerviline which is a marvel for reducing inflammation, for relieving congestion in the throat and chest, for curing stitch in the side, lumbago, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Nothing more soothing or powerful. The 50c large family size is the most economical. Small trial size 25c. at dealers everywhere.

A YOUNG MAN'S SWEETHEART

Text: "And Ruth said, Entreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge: thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God.

"Where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried: the Lord do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me."—Ruth 1: 16, 17.

The story of Ruth makes lovers listen, the world over. Longfellow's swain pays his betrothed the highest compliment when he says to her:

"Long was the good man's sermon;
But it seemed not so to me,
For he spoke of Ruth, the beautiful,
And then I thought of thee."

This Bible love-tale could be dramatized. It would make a play without a villain. We might divide it into four pretty scenes with a wedding for a climax.

Scene the First. Four people trudge across the stage with heavy bundles on their backs. There are the husband and the wife, both careworn and poorly clad, and two stalwart though pinchfaced youth. But a gleam of hope is still in their eyes, for they have heard that beyond the bare glens about them, there is a land that the awful famine has not visited. The man is Elimelech; the woman, his wife Naomi; the boys, Chilion and Mahlon. They are poor emigrants staggering from a hard-times country to one where, at any rate, distance lends enchantment to the view. There is no bread in Israel, so they are moving to Moab.

An English evangelist of some reputation for fitting all Scripture into revival themes deals quite harshly with Elimelech and Naomi. He likens their journey to that of the Prodigal Son. In going into Moab, these people backslide. They show a rebellious spirit, a lack of faith and a spiritual decline. Now, I submit that this habit of perverting Scripture to fit the transient needs of our exhortations is both foolish and baneful. In this case it puts four brave people in a very false light, and deprives us of a fine example of ancient courage.

Emigrants are usually heroes; to wit, your forefathers and mine. "Wife, times are hard, men are out of work. Europe is overcrowded; let us try our fortunes in America." Bundles are shouldered, the tramp to the ship is commenced, the steerage passage is secured, the ocean is crossed, America is reached: Don't blush, but the couple I am talking about were your grandparents. They didn't possess very much of anything except the courage to cross the sea. But that was a deal more than some of their neighbors had. The neighbors timidly stayed in England, Scotland or Ireland; your grandparents came away. Now, after fifty or seventy-five years, you see grandchildren of those neighbors of your forebears emerge from quarantine with their oilcloth satchels, and you turn up your nose at the sight of their anxious hungry faces, and you mock their provincial twang, and thank God that you are a Canadian, and lament the fact that so many of these cheap Englishmen are coming over. Oh, that the kodak and the phonograph had been in use two generations ago. If you could see how your grandsire looked and how he was dressed, if you could hear him chatter his dialect the day after he arrived, you would—well, you would shake hands with those newly-arrived third cousins of yours and treat them a little more considerately than you do. Do not get angry, please. Do not say that your grandfather didn't look so frail and debilitated and poor and shabby. You did not see the old gentleman as he looked then. But he had the courage to come across, and that was enough. Do not sneer at shacktown. The immigrant who buys a twenty-foot lot and builds a home, even if it is, at first, no larger than a freight car, has all the pluck necessary to "make good."

We cannot all stay in the cozy Bethlehem of our childhood. Some of us find ourselves uprooted by force of circumstances, and transplanted on strange shores. Ties which it took years to knit must be severed. But there are joys which we can take with us even to Moab. Home is home anyway. Unpack the trunks, hang up the few pictures, arrange the little shelf of books, put a mat on the floor, set up a bed, start a cheerful fire, get the tea kettle a-singing, lift the voice, all hands, in the old-time song, "Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

Scene the Second. In the distance flows the lazy Jordan. Closer, in the foreground, is a highway leading to a ford. Beyond the river is Israel; here is Moab. On the highway stand three women. The first we know, even though she is bent with the burdens of the intervening ten years; she is Naomi, widow of Elimelech. The other two are dark-hued young women, Orpah and Ruth, the Moabitish wives that Mahlon and Chilion married in the foreign land. But poor Naomi's two sons have followed their father to the grave, so her daughters-in-law are widows too.

As the three are standing there Naomi speaks. Scripture gives her words in such exquisite fashion, it would be vandalism to paraphrase the sentences:

"And Naomi said unto her two daughters in law, Go, return each to her mother's house: the Lord deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with the dead, and with me.

"The Lord grant you that ye may find rest, each of you in the house of her husband. Then she kissed them; and they lifted up their voice and wept."

CHOCOLATE KING RULED ANTICOSTI

Henri Menier Accomplished Wonders in Developing His Island Kingdom

When Henri Menier, the French chocolate king died in Paris, there passed away a man who was more of an absolute sovereign over a large territory than eighteen or twenty of the rulers of Europe. Yet he was never crowned as king nor elected as chief executive. He simply owned the beautiful island of Anticosti in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, 140 miles long and 37 miles wide, which he bought outright in 1896 from the Island of Anticosti Company, Limited, of London. Clean pots and pans with GOLD DUST

Germs of decay accumulate on oft-used pots and pans, and ordinary soap and water only clean off the surface.

Gold Dust does the work—and does it right. It digs deep after germs, cleans like a new whistle and leaves your pots and pans as new, as bright as the day they were new—and sanitarily safe.

Gold Dust does this work in just half the time required by soap or any other cleanser. Does it better, too.

Gold Dust cleans everything like magic.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

BOTTOM OF LAKE PAVED WITH IRON ORE

Sawtooth Reef in Stormy Superior Strewn With Many Thousands of Tons of the Mineral

A veritable open pit iron mine of immense richness lies off the shores of Keweenaw Point, which juts out into Lake Superior from the southern shore a distance of fifty miles. Sawtooth Reef, off Keweenaw Point a mile, and throwing its cruel points up from a hundred fathoms of water to within twenty feet of the surface, has caught and held many ships that have lost their course in thick fogs on dark nights or have gone ashore because of deviations of the compass. The steamer George S. Baker of the Steel Trust fleet, which was picked up by Sawtooth Reef during a dense fog recently, went on the rocks because of the compass "running away." The same was true in the case of the Moreland, which was destroyed on Sawtooth Reef three years ago, although the Moreland went on the rocks during a clear, cloudless, and fogless night, according to residents of Eagle River, who sat on the porches of their homes and watched the big ship swing in onto the reef. Whether it is the jettisoned cargoes of iron ore that cause this deviation of the compass cannot be said.

From the ill-fated Moreland, which was just off Eagle River on her maiden trip, nearly 12,000 tons of ore were jettisoned. A cargo of 10,500 tons was thrown overboard from the holds of the George S. Baker. A half-dozen other ships which have stranded along the Keweenaw west and north shore have contributed large cargoes. The steamer Waldo gave 8,000 tons of ore toward this "under the lake" mine at Gull Rock, ten miles off the point. A score of wooden ships which have gone down around the point in twenty years or so have lost their cargoes there. It is estimated that lying loose in the waters of Superior about the shores of Keweenaw are from 100,000 to 150,000 tons of perfectly good iron ore, all to be had for the taking. The copper peninsula is rusted, along its shores, from the wastings of the jettisoned cargoes of iron ore.

ONE MAN'S LIFE OUTLAYS

Frenchman Spent $10,290 on Cigars and $6,765 For Drinks

What the average man spends, during his lifetime, on little luxuries and trivial necessities, may seem to him but a matter of small moment. As Canadians, we have been trained to spend judiciously, nevertheless if we were to realise the colossal figures into which our little expenditures run during the course of our respective lives, we might be appalled.

An eccentric personage has just died in a town in the west of France at the age of 77. When he was 16 years of age he began to keep a book of personal expenses. For fifty-two years he jotted down every item.

During this period he smoked 628,713 cigars. Of this number 42,692 were presented to him by friends. For the remaining 581,021 he spent the sum of $10,290.

He had bought 86 pairs of trousers, which cost him $400; 75 jackets and waistcoats, for $320, and 63 pairs of shoes, for $230. He used 300 shirts and 354 collars, for which he paid $365. His omnibus and train fares came to $260. In fifteen years he drank 28,875 bocks and 40,303 small glasses of liqueur, and spent on them $5,520, plus $1,245 in tips.

HEIGHT OF HIGHLANDERS

Gordon Regiment's History is of Much Interest

In a new book on the origin of the Gordon Highlanders, Mr. J. M. Bulloch, who devoted much labor to investigating the records of the Gordons, reproduces the particulars of the first muster of the Gordon Highlanders.

This famous regiment as is well known, was raised by the Duke of Gordon in the latter part of the eighteenth century, and Mr. Bulloch is inclined to shatter one of the most pleasant romances connected with it. He throws doubt on the authenticity of the story that the Duchess of Gordon secured many recruits by giving them a kiss as well as a guinea. She visited the country fairs wearing a Highland bonnet and a regimenta

The complete record of the first list of the Gordon Highlanders has been preserved, with full particulars, and it is interesting in these days, when there is so much said about the deterioration of the race, to note that the height of the first Gordon Highlanders drawn from the healthiest section of the people in Scotland, was less than the height of the average "Tommy" of to-day. Mr. Bulloch says the average height of the Gordon recruits was 5 feet 3 2-3 inches. In the British army to-day the average height of the recruit excluding those under 18 years of age, is 5 feet 6.2 inches. Only five men in the whole list of the original Gordon Highlanders exceeded 6 feet in height.

Little Old Luxemburg

The first German step in the pending European war that aroused Great Britain was Germany's occupation of the grand duchy of Luxemburg, whose neutrality had been guaranteed by Germany, Great Britain and other European powers in May, 1867.

Two years ago the Grand Duchess Marie Adelaide succeeded her father, the late Grand Duke Wilhelm, as the head of the independent neutral state. The grand duchess is only twenty years of age and is the youngest ruler in Europe. Her abode, the grand ducal palace, is nearly 400 years old and she has a castle, a wonderful medieval relic, that was built in 1236.

Luxemburg has an area of only 1,000 square miles and a population of only 250,000, about one-half the population of Buffalo. It is governed by a council of fifteen members and a chamber of deputies for forty-eight members. In addition to its magnificent architectural remains and picturesque scenery and medieval flavor Luxemburg is distinguished in having one of the richest iron ore fields in the world.

OIL THE GREAT WEALTHMAKER

We hold over 3,000 acres, more or less, of oil leases North and South of Monarch and several of our leases are in the same range as the Monarch well.

Many companies claim to be close to Monarch but we are one of the very few who are in Range Six upon which the Monarch Well is situated. Therefore, we must be on the same anti-cline and as it is a foregone conclusion Monarch will get oil, so will we.

Fifty-Seven Feet of Oil Bearing Sands Passed Through in Monarch Well

OFFICIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN OUT BY PRESIDENT GEORGESON—WELL IS NOW DOWN OVER 1,800 FEET AND FLOW OF WET GAS HAS BEEN STRUCK IN LOWER LEVELS—GEOLOGIST DUNN IS AWAY AT PRESENT

Heavy oil showings are being found in the Monarch well, west of Olds, although the oil has not yet come in in commercial quantities.

To put the exact facts before the public, President William Georgeson and Treasurer G. W. Morfitt, of the company, this morning issued an official statement from the drillers setting forth the results.

The heaviest oil seepage has been encountered through a stratum 57 feet thick, and the well is now 1850 feet deep.

A sample of this oil baled out at 1,775 feet was brought to the city this morning and is in the office of Mr. Morfitt, Grain Exchange Building. The oil is a heavy black petroleum with the characteristic petroleum odor.

The statement issued by the officers is as follows: In the absence of Mr. Dunn, Mr. Van Alst, the head driller, reports that from the depth of 1,775 feet to 1,832 feet he went through oil bearing sands for 57 feet. Throughout there was a heavy showing of black oil in the bailer. Two further showing of black wet gas were met at 1,805 feet and 1,915 feet.

The well is now down 1,950 feet. Wet gas has shown at 683 feet, 1,430 feet, 1,805 feet and 1,815 feet.

Oil sands have shown at 393 feet, (48 feet), 1,430 feet (40 feet), 1,740 feet (14 feet), and 1,775 feet (57 feet).

The well is now down 1,850 feet, and while there are good oil showings there is not as yet oil in commercial quantities.

Our stock is on the market at 50 cents a share, a Dollar par, and will be advanced without notice any day pending Monarch Well developments. It is practically a certainty that Monarch will be in oil in commercial quantities within two weeks, Our stock will jump away above par and you had better hurry if you wish to share our prosperity.

Montreal Amusement Company, Limited

The Company is being formed for the purpose of erecting a high-class Vaudeville and Moving Picture House at Nos. 582-604 St. Catherine Street West, between Drummond and Mountain Streets, a one minute walk from the corner of Peel and St. Catherine Streets.

CAPITALIZATION :

	PAR VALUE
20,000 Shares of 7 P. C. Cumulative Preferred Stock,	$10.	$200,000
30,000 Shares of Common Stock :: ::	$10.	$300,000

DIRECTORS: Dr. A. P. Ship, Mr. Geo. A. Robinson, Mr. Maurice Wolf, Mr. J. R. Henshaw

ATTORNEYS: ...... Duff and Merrill

CHARTERED ACCOUNTANTS: ......Geo. C. McDonald & Co.

The Company is being formed for the purpose of supplying Montreal with a high-class Vaudeville and Moving Picture House in the West end of the City. For some years past the need of such a house has been strongly felt, and on this account an exceptional opportunity presents itself, more especially as one of the most attractive locations in the whole City has been obtained, close to the main transfer centre in the West end of the City.

The Company obtains from the Stephens' Estate a thirty year lease of the property situated on the south side of St. Catherine Street, from No. 582 to No. 604, and by the terms of agreement it is called upon to erect a theatre immediately in the rear, with entrance on St. Catherine Street, at a cost of not less than $150,000. The Company in this way, in addition to operating its own theatre, will have very valuable stores on St. Catherine Street frontage, from which a steady revenue will be obtained. The theatre will have a main entrance from St. Catherine Street, and it is the intention to construct it along most modern lines, so that it will cater to the requirements of the growing demand for a high-class Vaudeville and Moving Picture House, which has been in evidence in the West end of the City for some years past.

Under the agreement with the Stephens' Estate, the Company undertakes that before beginning any work or making any changes to the present premises, an amount equal to at least sixty (60) per cent. ($90,000) of the minimum cost of construction, viz., $150,000, must be deposited with the Prudential Trust Company who will act as Trustees.

In order to ensure the carrying out of this provision, it has been agreed that all proceeds from the sale of stock shall be deposited with the Prudential Trust Company, in trust, who will make payments to Contractors.

It is further stipulated that before any part of the said 60 per cent. can be withdrawn or taken out, the balance of the cost must be paid by the Company. In this way the final completion of the undertaking will be assured, and all money so deposited is to be paid out by the Trust Company with which the money is put in escrow, only on the certificate of the Architect in charge, as the work progresses. Therefore, every dollar of the preferred capitalization will be invested in the new properties, and the shareholders will obtain the full benefits of all the expenditures made. The Prudential Trust Company has been appointed as Fiscal Agent of the Company and Registrars of the Stock, and all monies are to be paid to them on behalf of the Company.

Important Features of the Vaudeville and Moving Picture Business

The business is a cash business. Every class in the land contributes. This applies most strongly to the working classes, as this particular form of amusement is the only thing, outside the necessities of life, on which practically all of those comprising the masses regularly spend their earnings.

We take the following extract from Munsey's Magazine:—

"With the possible exception of the automobile "no other product of human invention has advanced with such extraordinary strides, or risen "with such amazing swiftness from a toy to a "necessity. It has provided a college for the masses; a real first aid to science, a distinct aid to "education.

"But the Motion Picture has done even more "than to imprison, the rainbow, vivify history, "and bring the march of world events and the "kindling of world's literature to the very doors of "the people. It has created a whole new line of "millionaires-"

Estimated Earnings

Upon this valuable site at the present time there are two large buildings—the Laurie Block, Nos. 582-586 and 588 St. Catherine Street West, and the Empire Block, Nos. 590 to 604 St. Catherine Street West. The Laurie Block upon the present actual rentals is drawing over $14,000 per year; the balance of the Laurie and the entire Empire Block adjoining is immediately available for demolition or reconstruction for the proposed Theatre, leaving the income of the Laurie Block (which amounts to over $14,000), intact, and still retaining the necessary ground to build the Theatre upon.

In addition to the revenue derived from the Laurie Block, Nos. 582-588, there will be about four more stores on either side of this new building, which will rent for about $3,000 per year, and approximately forty-two offices above, which will bring a rental of about $25 per month each.

The grand total from these estimated receipts from the fixed rentals will be about $38,600.00 per year. As the fixed rental and taxes for the entire block is $35,000.00 annually for the first five years, the investor can readily see what a fine proposition we have to start off with.

To make sure that the fixed income from the rental of stores is reasonable, we will allow 50 per cent. of the income from stores rental.

As it is proposed to erect a building to seat about 2500 people, we have estimated the seating capacity to bring the following returns:

MATINEE

2500 seats at 10c	$250.00	$250.00

EVENING

800 seats at 25c	$200.00
700 seats at 15c......	105.00
1000 seats at 10c	100.00
Two evening performances at $405.00		810.00
		$1060.00

The Estimated Weekly Expenses are made up as follows:

1 Act	$ 300
1 Act	200
10 Piece Orchestra......	250
Two Acts at $100 each	200
One First Picture	250
Two Pictures at $75	150
2 Box Office Employees at $15	30
1 Ticket Taker	15
6 Ushers at $10	60
2 Moving Picture Operators	50
1 Janitor......	25
1 Electrician	25
1 Stage Carpenter	25
1 Press Man	50
1 Stenographer	12
Manager......	125
4 Scrub Women at $10......	40
Advertising	193
Total	$2,000

NOTE—This is decidedly more than any other Theatre playing to these prices of admission.

Three hundred and sixty-five days at $1060 per day equals $386,900.00. Presuming that $386,900.00 is the gross revenue if all the seats were filled, we will allow two-thirds capacity as a safe conservative estimate, viz., $257.933.00.

*This Sinking Fund is set aside firstly for the purpose of redeeming the preferred stock.

It is estimated that the expenses of operating a good vaudeville bill and first run pictures, including orchestra of ten musicians, with management, advertising, and all necessary help required in a first-class house is $2,000 per week, therefore, the gross expenses of the proposed theatre would be		104,000.00
Gross Running and Fixed Charges....		$189,000.00
With a fair estimated average of gross profits of (257,933)	$257,933
From which deduct gross running and fixed charges of..	189,000
The net profits per annum would be		$68,933.00
To this must be added the revenue derived from the rental of the stores (38,690), 50 per cent. of which is.....		19,300.00
Making the Net Profits per Year.....		$88,233.00

After allowing for all overhead and other fixed charges, these earnings of $88,233.00 on a $300,000.00 common stock issue, will be in the neighborhood of 25 per cent.

It is proposed to issue $200,000 7 per cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock at par, and to allow the subscriber to receive as a bonus 50 per cent. (fifty per cent.) of common stock. The Cumulative Preferred Stock will be preferred both as to the Company's lease and entire assets.

All the common Stock of the Company will become the property of the Promoters, as fully paid up and non-assessable, in consideration of their services in obtaining the option from the Stephens Estate and organization of the Company, and disposal of stock. Of this amount of Three Hundred Thousand Dollars (300,000) Common Stock which the promoters will acquire, One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000) will be transferred by them to the Purchasers of Preferred Stock, as per 50 per cent. bonus, in accordance with the terms mentioned elsewhere in this Prospectus.

It is absolutely necessary to prove to the Stephens' Estate that $150,000 has been subscribed and 60 per cent. has been deposited with the Prudential Trust Company before the demolition of the present buildings can be commenced. After subscriptions up to at least $150,000 have been secured, subscribers will be notified to deposit the amount of subscription with the Prudential Trust Company. Unless $150,000 is subscribed for, no subscribers will be called upon to make payments.

Judging from the large business that is being carried on by the Orpheum Theatre, the Imperial Theatre, (which played to capacity all last winter), and the Strand Theatre, which has been paying 20 per cent. per annum dividend, and is a small house, having a seating capacity of only about 800, there is no question but the estimated receipts, as outlined above, are averaged very low. The property is surrounded for blocks in all directions by rooming houses, and on the west by Westmount; on the south-west by Point St. Charles, St. Henri and St. Cunegonde, and other densely populated districts, and the C. P. R., pouring out its thousands of newcomers daily; the C. N. R. on the east, with its new terminal within a few blocks, this site cannot be surpassed for its ideal location,

Comparing values of various properties on St. Catherine Street West, it might be of interest to note that the corner of St. Catherine and Peel Streets, in the new Drummond Building, which is about 500 feet east of our property, has been leased for a term of years at a rental of $6.00 per square foot, or, in other words, 13,750 feet has been leased at a figure of $82,500 a year, whereas we have 19,350 square feet for $35,000 per annum for the first five years, or $2 00 per square foot.

Further information will be supplied to any one desirous of becoming interested in the new Company. Copies of plans and agreements, together with the description of the properties, are on file at the offices of the Prudential Trust Company, and by addressing Mr. Maurice Wolff, care of the property, 600 St. Catherine Street W.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 30 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $90,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any stock to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

Shares are selling at $25.00 each; 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produce a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

CALGARY, July 23rd.—An official statement just issued by the Monarch Oil Company states that the drill has just passed through a 57-foot strata of oil bearing sand, at a depth of between 1775 and 1832 feet. A sample of the oil from this oil sand is on exhibition at the Company's office in Calgary. This is the fourth oil sand encountered in the well, and indicates that a good producing well should be obtained before going much deeper. The Hole-Woollard Oil Company is making preparations to drill on its property in the Monarch district, which adjoins the property of the Monarch Oil Company, and we are advised that the price of shares will be advanced as soon as drilling operations are started. The time to invest in the shares of the Hole-Woollard Company is NOW, before the advance in price.

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascertained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. A Kaiser's Strange Memorial

An extraordinary object is to be seen in Wurtemburg in a 12 foot petrified fish, which was erected as a memorial to William I., German Emperor and King of Prussia. This petrified fish dates from prehistoric times. It is twelve feet long without its head, which was not found. The diameter of its throat is six and a half feet.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

Copper is one of the world's chief necessities, and the demand for it is constantly increasing. Growth of the electrical industry largely accounts for this. Telegraph and Telephone Wire—Trolley Wire—Trolley Wheels and the multitude of other Electrical Machines and Parts—Power Transmission Wire and the use of the metal in various valuable Alloys—these are some of the places where copper is consumed, and while its production is enormous it is used about as rapidly as it can be mined and made ready. THIS IS WHY OWNERSHIP IN A COPPER MINE IS ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY SOURCES OF INCOME POSSIBLE TO IMAGINE.

TIME TO START

Naturally the time to secure an interest in any sort of enterprise is at the start, because it is then that money for development and equipment is needed and this is, of course, the reason why shares in the project are released. When these necessities are provided for the Opportunity passes.

For years we have been spending time, effort and money in getting together one of the largest known copper deposits, and we now own and control thousands of acres of land, covering veins of copper, ore carrying gold and silver values, extensive veins of coal, iron and lime.

The geology is so well defined as to make identifications of size and location of the copper bearing veins a perfect definite matter. In addition to this the estate has been thoroughly prospected by some 4,000 feet of work, there being more than 100 shafts, pits, cuts and tunnels, every one of which shows copper in paying quantities. The dumps of these openings run from 2 to 8 per cent in copper metal.

Facilities for economically winning the copper from its ores are remarkably fine. In the company's own ground are five known coal beds, insuring a perpetual supply of cheap fuel, easily accessible and located within a very short distance of the site chosen for its furnaces. Water and timber are also abundant and easy of access.

One of Colorado's most eminent mining engineers, after thoroughly examining this property, states in his report that the net profits resulting from operation of this property should range from $250,000 to $1,000,000 each year.

There is no uncertainty, no guesswork, about this project. Applied to it, a definite cause will inevitably produce an equally definite effect. Equipment for mining these immense bodies of ore and reducing the metal in them to bullion means dividends—it can't mean anything else—and it is to provide this equipment and the funds required for its installation and the preliminary operating expenses of the estate that an interest in the project is offered to you.

It is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to join in a well planned, conservative, and exceptionally profitable business undertaking. The foundations are laid, the property is acquired and the next step—providing the equipment—is now being taken. So soon as this is accomplished your chance to secure a share in the enterprise will be gone.

The known quality of high-grade springs proves the standard efficiency of the Temco — long double coil sensitive to the least jar— tough and tested quality to outlast any car. This is a new element in shock absorber construction, based upon scientific mechanical principles, not the production of a "cold blacksmith" or experimenter. The special creation of a master designer, whose work has won him great reputation. No friction whatever. Design and construction covered by our original patents (Sept. 9, 1913) and patents now pending covering double spiral spring and other improvements as here illustrated in sectional cut. All infringements will be vigorously prosecuted.

Observe the simplicity of mechanical construction —load is entirely suspended from warranted hanger bolts, yet neither bolts nor springs touch surfaces of polished steel—mud proof—ice proof—dirt proof again!

WHY A FISH LAPS WHEN IT FEELS THE HOOK

You may have been a fisherman all your life and never stopped to consider why a fish leaps in air when it feels the hook. Naturally you might think that it is the frenzy of terror, born of feeling himself fast that makes him leave his element and, by a convulsive movement of his body, strive to shake the deadly hook from his jaw, and in this you would be right, but only in a measure so.

A fish, particularly those of the game variety, such as the trout and bass, are never beaten until they are drawn breathless and spent on the grass or into the landing net, and even then they will fight until the merciful angler administers the quietus. Surprise would be the better qualification of the feeling a fish experiences when first he feels the sharp bite of the hook; terror later, perhaps—in his second or third rush.

Very often a fish will leap, when feeding, if he, by mistake, grasps something which tastes unpalatable to him; or he will leap in quest of some juicy morsel, or out of chagrin if he misses the fat leader of a minnow shoal. Very often, too, he will leap out of pure exuberance of spirits, for all fish love play.

When you strike a bass and he leaps, it is because he has made, ac- [illegible] take. He hasn't the slightest doubt in the world but that he can throw the unwelcome mouthful from him by a twist of his muscular body and a shake of his head. Then, when he feels his native element again and the stinging thing which he has grasped refuses to be dislodged, anger takes possession of him. He will run away from it, he tells himself, and then comes his first mad run, called by anglers "the rush."

It is when you snub your reel and he feels the force of an hitherto unknown resisting element that terror wakes within him, and the fight flames up in him, and he proceeds to give you battle which those amongst us who have fished with light tackle consider the best of sport.

Perhaps the great terror does not find him until you have reeled him close in beside your boat and he catches a glimpse of you from his opal eyes. Then indeed is it terror, and the rush which follows makes all previous ones seem trivial indeed. It is a critical moment for both angler and fish, this swift, frenzied rush for freedom through the blue-green depths where dangerous snags and twisted lily-roots reinforce the fish's chance of escape.

It is in this last rush that the hooked fish entirely loses his head; it is this last rush where the angler must certainly keep his if he is to win the battle.—Archie P. McKishnie.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a basin of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery how to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4880, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

WANT SAFE VESSEL FOR HERRING CARGO

Increasing Battles With Death Amid the Worst Weather of the Year

For nearly sixty years the New England fishermen have been prosecuting the herring industry in Newfoundland waters—in Placentia and Fortune Bays on the south, in Bay of Islands and Bonne Bay on the west, and in White and Green Bays on the east coast. The fish are cured in two ways: By salting until the frost sets in, and then by freezing. About sixty American and many Canadian and Newfoundland vessels engage in it, but the former, because of their long voyages, experience the most fatalities. The vessels, though averaging only one hundred tons burden, are of the very finest and staunchest in rigging and equipment, for no others could stand the dangers they have to face; and neither skippers nor crews will take any smack for a herring cargo which they are not satisfied with. Indeed, they will frequently test a vessel's gear in a preliminary cruise, and if found faulty will "chuck her up." This is not surprising when it is remembered that six or eight men have to handle these craft during trips that represent constant, unceasing battles with death, amid weather the worst in the year, with frost and floes to add new hazard to the navigation of waters dangerous enough at any time.

The rigors of a Newfoundland winter are but poorly imagined by those unfamiliar with its climate and coastline. Yet it is only in this season that the herring are to be found in these waters—the one part of the Atlantic seaboard where they resort then; and since they are used as bait for the American vessels which fish off the Nahant Peninsula, as well as for food purposes in all the eastern cities, they must be had, no matter at what cost to ships and men, because only at this season can they be frozen by exposure to the bitter night air, and carried to the American and Canadian ports in the vessels' holds without refrigerators or other artificial accessories to retain them in this state.

A BIRD OF GREAT PRICE

Fur-farming in Canada has become a recognized industry, and one that yields large remuneration derived from the pockets of the rich. In southern countries, particularly in Africa, the ostrich is being confined, and the production of plumes commercialized. Prime ostrich feathers realize from $150 to $300 a piece, and when one bird supplies several plumes it may be realized that society will contribute a handsome revenue to the enterprise. The British South Africa Company have set apart 12,000 acres of selected land as an ostrich ranch, 400 acres of which is fertile land well adapted for profitable agriculture. The birds desire solitude, and large enclosures are made on these farms whereby they may secure retreat from man and from their own kind. Naturally they live in flocks of four or five. One male and the remainder females. They all lay their eggs in the same nest, which is brooded by the male at night and by the females during the day. This practice enhances the protection of the nest more than it hastens incubation, for they will hatch if left in the warm sand. About thirty eggs are laid in the nest, and as many more are scattered around outside, which are broken to feed the young. At regular intervals the adults are deprived of their plumes. With judicious management the establishments yield considerable profit.

This Road When Completed Will be 7,074 Miles Long

The announcement that the Belgian Government has ceded Great Britain a strip of land in the Congo marks an important step towards the completion of the Cape-to-Cairo Railway. This strip will make it possible for the railway to traverse British territory over the whole of its length of 6,944 miles, that being the distance from Cape Town to Cairo, or 7,074 miles, if we include the journey to the sea at Alexandria. The astonishing progress which is being made with this scheme for opening up "darkest Africa" to civilization and commerce may be gauged from the fact that rails have already been laid to Bukama, right in the heart of the Congo, though at present passengers can only travel as far as Elizabethville, some 2,225 miles north of Cape Town.

STRANGE DREAMS AND THEIR PORTENTS

Do People of the Present Age Still Believe in the Supernatural? —It Would Seem So

Most people have, deep down in their nature, a private and unconfessed faith in dreams, premonitions, forebodings, says the Toronto Star. Some hard-headed business men will not start on an important journey nor embark on a big business venture on a Friday, although they do not actually say so, and you may do business with them for years without finding it out. They contrive matters so that it is never necessary to admit that they have a fear of Friday. It would be too absurd a thing to admit, and they do not actually confess it to themselves. Or if they ever admit it to themselves or to their closest friends they speak of it, not as a real superstition, but as a humorous little oddity which interests and amuses them. The present age is one of levity, but the truth is that mankind is strongly predisposed towards superstition and to a belief in the supernatural.

Strange stories are told in connection with the loss of the Empress of Ireland. People had dreams, premonitions, and forebodings. We have no wish to express a doubt as to the truthfulness of anybody who relates an experience of this kind. In fact we see no reason for doubting the truth of all the evidence produced, but we see no reason for assuming that these dreams and forebodings were a bit different from what they would have been if the Empress of Ireland had enjoyed a prosperous voyage. What we mean to say is this: when a thousand people are about to make a journey by sea, there will be among them, and among their relatives, many who will have dreams and forebodings, which will possess significance if a shipwreck occurs, but which will possess no significance at all and will never be heard of if the journey is a happy one.

There is the story of the ship's cat, which, although it had kittens on board, ran away, and although brought back, escaped again and did not sail on the Empress. This story will pass into tradition. About it we would say that it needs to be verified. Even if verified, we would expect to find the explanation in the life and affairs of the cat, rather than in any mysterious fore-knowledge or foreboding of the animal that in a future fog at sea the captains of two ships would misunderstand each other and cause a disaster.

WHO ARE THE JAPS?

Ferrero Believes They Are Fellow Race of South American Indians

Guglielmo Ferrero, the famous Roman historian, believes with many eminent ethnologists that the South American Indians and the Japanese are kindred races, and he looks forward to their eventual alliance, if not amalgamation. He tells how Porfirio Diaz, when President of Mexico, received from the Mikado a dispatch, in which the latter saluted the President as "the ruler of a brother state"—a land populated by the same race. He tells us that he found in Chile, Brazil and Mexico most of the population belonging to the native races while the Europeans formed an aristocratic minority. He asks:

"To what race do these native populations actually belong, populations which have resisted with such vigor the influences of European conquest and immigration? Anyone, without being a professional anthropologist can discern in them a certain resemblance to the Japanese. I shall never forget, for instance, an impression produced on my mind at Uspallata, in the Andes, by the men who arrived to carry the mail from Argentina to Chile. At that time the trains did not stop at Uspallata in winter. 'But aren't these men Japanese?' I inquired of my companion. 'They might well be Japanese,' was the reply. 'There are a number of Japanese in Chile. But they might also be Chileans.'"

Three Hundred Thousand Russians Invade Austria. Terrible Carnage Continues at Liege. French Repulse Horde of Germans at Spincourt, France

ANOTHER GERMAN DEFEAT AT SPINCOURT, ON FRENCH GROUND

Engagement Reveals Big German Army--No Details of Losses--Germans in Retreat--French Aviators at Work--Brilliant Work of French Forces

PARIS, August 11.—French troops have defeated the Germans in a battle at Spincourt, in the Department of the Meuse. This is the first battle on French territory.

PARIS, August 11.—The German forces that invaded France from the East have been defeated anh forced to retreat, the War Office announced to-day. The German cavalry supported by artillery, came into contact at Spincourt in the Department of Meuse, with the French defenders, and were routed after a sharp battle. No information was given as to the losses. This was the first battle on French soil since the war began. The war ministry announced also that French aviators flew over the territory occupied by the Germans and learned that the work of fortifying Luxemberg and South Metz had been completed by the Germans, who are unloading thousands of troops about Gerolstein, Metz and Thionville

Germans Are Repulsed

A despatch from Maestricht, Holland, saying that the Germans had captured Tongres, the Belgian town where the Franco-Belgian forces had been reported concentrating, was explained at the war office by a statement that the Belgian troops in the town had fallen back up to their main body.

The war office also announced that the Germans on Sunday night, attempted to recapture Muelhausen, Germany, from the French forces, but were repulsed, though superior in numbers.

"The action of the French troops were brilliant," said the war office, "and they remain in complete control in Northern Alsace."

Reveals Big German Force

German troops are active in the vicinity of Blamont, in Meurthe-Moselle. They also attempted to capture two posts in the neighborhood of Manson-Villers, but cannon sent from the latter point repulsed them.

The first encounter of French and German forces on French soil near the western border of the Grand Duchy of Luxemberg, proved unimportant as an engagement, but it did derive importance from the fact that it revealed the presence of a stronger German army than was known to be in that district.

Germans Suffer Severely at the Battle of Fort Seraing

Adds Another Bloody Conflict to Fighting in Belgium--800 German Dead in Half a Square Mile--Germans Occupy Tongres, North of Liege

LONDON, August 11.—A news despatch from Brussels says that it is officially announced there that the German loss in Belgium in the recent fighting was 2,000 dead, 20,000 wounded, and 9,700 prisoners.

BRUSSELS (via London), August 11.—The Germans made a desperate attack on Fort Seraing, south of Liege, Sunday night, and were repulsed with heavy loss. It is estimated that 800 Germans were killed within an area of half a square mile.

A bridge which the Germans were crossing was shattered by the fire of the fort, which had an exact range. The Germans attempted the assault with great courage. Some of their dead were found directly in front of the barb wire fencing that surrounds the fort. It is reported that Prince William of Lippe and his son, who were killed, were charging with the aid of 100 German soldiers. Their bodies were buried near the fort.

BARBED WIRE STOPPED GERMANS

Belgium wounded arriving here tell stories of German daring of the most courageous sort in the Seraing attack; which is only hinted at in the precise language of the official reports. They say that the assault began only after a continued shelling of Fort Seraing by the German artillery. The assaulting party was made up of several regiments of German infantry. Moving forward with remarkable precision, the German soldiers rushed across the open fields at top speed in massed formation despite the heavy fire from the fort. The shells from the fort tore great gaps in their lines, but the survivors promptly closed up and kept on until the first line of entanglements was reached. This was made up of felled brush and small trees entwined with barbed wire waist high. The German infantry cut and dragged at the entanglement, but it had been carefully set, and proved almost impossible to penetrate.

The rearguard of the German attacking forces could not be checked, and rushed against the advance, which was trying to demolish the entanglements. From the fort a rain of fire was directed at the struggling mass from the rapid-fire guns that had been held in reserve for just this contingency. The slaughter was enormous. The attacking column could not break through, and no signal to fall back was given. The soldiers were forced to hold their position while being decimated by the rain of fire from the fort.

800 DEAD AND 3,000 WOUNDED

It was not until half the attacking force had been killed or wounded that the signal for the recall was blown. Eight hundred dead and nearly 3,000 wounded was the cost of the German army in this vain attempt, according to the estimates made public here.

The French artillery sent to reinforce the Belgian and French column which has been designed to prevent a German movement towards Waterloo and Brussels, is being rushed thru' this city, having been brought up from Lille. It is announced here that the Germans have been moving large bodies of infantry with supporting artillery through Tongres, and they are believed to be moving toward Waterloo and Brussels. Tongres is said to be the headquarters of the main German army from Cologne, but this is not confirmed, the only announcement at the War Office being that the town is held by the Germans.

The advance of the allied Belgian and French is very rapid, as an attempt is to be made to cut off the German reinforcements being sent to Liege. The Germans have been using their heaviest siege artillery on the forts since Sunday, but, according to the reports from the War Office, they are still holding out, and have only been slightly damaged.

CIVILIAN HOSTAGES RELEASED AT LIEGE

King Albert arrived during the night from the general headquarters of the Belgian army at Louvain, to the northwest of Liege. His Majesty passed several hours in conference with the Belgian Minister of War, after which a Cabinet Council was held.

It was reported here that all civilian hostages held by the Germans in the town of Liege have been released on giving their parole to remain at the disposition of the German military authorities.

RUSSIAN INVASION OF AUSTRIA THROUGH STYR RIVER VALLEY

Vast Army of 300,000 Troops Moving--Every Branch of Russian Service Represented--Why the Austrians Withdrew Their Army From Servian Frontier

LONDON, August 11.—The War Office press bureau to-day confirmed the report that the Russian invasion of Austria was in progress. It states that a Russian army is advancing through Styr River valley towards Lemberg.

Despatches to the United States yesterday from Paris and St. Petersburg in discussing this movement, said that the force comprises more than 300,000 Russian troops, with every branch of the service represented. It was because of this movement by Russia that Austria withdrew her army which was attacking the Servians.

Russians Capture Germans

St. Petersburg, August 11.—A telegram received here to-day from Villna says six car loads of German prisoners passed through that city this morning on their way to the interior of Russia. Four wounded German officers were taken to the Villna hospital.

Cossacks Lost 400.

London, August 11.—4.05 p.m.—A Central News despatch from Vienna by way of Amsterdam says the Austrian troops have occupied Miechow in Russian Poland, ten miles within the border, after defeating a body of Cossacks, whose losses are given as 400 killed and wounded, while those of the Austrians are said to 140 wounded.

Austrian's Heavy Losses.

Nish, August 11.—The War Office announces that the combined Servian and Montenegria armies are rapidly pushing forward through Bosnia. They have defeated the Austrians with very heavy losses everywhere that they encountered them and have taken possession of a number of towns. The Bosnians are reported as rising in behalf of the invaders whom they are welcoming with open arms.

Shanghai, August 11.—The capture of a Japanese vessel which arrived here to-day reported that 45,000 Japanese soldiers had embarked on transports and were awaiting orders. He said he believed their destination was Tsing-Tau, the German possession.

U. S. PUTS CENSORS AT ALL RADIO STATIONS

WASHINGTON, August 11.—(Special).—Naval officers were under orders to leave here to-day for Sayville, L. I., to supervise the sending of wireless messages at the station there, pursuant to President Wilson's order, prohibiting radio stations within the jurisdiction of the United States from receiving or transmitting messages of an "unneutral nature" from any of the warring European nations. Enforcement of the order has been delegated to Secretary Daniels of the Navy Department, who decided to place navy officers at all radio stations to act as censors.

The order was issued as a precautionary measure to ensure enforcement of the President's proclamation of neutrality of the United States in the European war with respect to the use of wireless communication. The order also prohibits the various radio stations from "in any way rendering to any one of the belligerents any unneutral service during the continuance of the hostilities." It applies to all stations, foreign and American, within the jurisdiction of the United States.

"WAR TO BLAME," SAYS LIL' ARTHUR OF BOND

Chicago, August 11.—That he was unable to leave France because he was forced to serve in the French army was the plea made to-day in behalf of Jack Johnson, the prizefighter, when forfeiture of his $16,000 bond was asked.

Johnson, convicted of the violation of the white slave act, was at liberty under bond pending appeal when he fled to France. The court ruled that unless a new bond is furnished within twenty days the old one will be forfeited.

Buffalo, August 11.—Belle Zilch, who was taken by the police in a raid at No. [illegible] Michigan street Thursday afternoon, was arraigned in city court yesterday and remanded to jail until [illegible] for trial.

Belle Beatty, the nineteen-year-old [illegible] girl, who was alleged to have been [illegible] at the Michigan street address, was also taken to jail as a witness. An effort is being made to locate her family.

FIGHT OVER CANCER VICTIM'S FORTUNE

New Orleans, Auf. 12.—Alleging that his mentality has been destroyed by cancer, originating in the back of his neck, three children of Henry William Hullinghorst filed a petition in the Civil Court asking that he be declared an interdict, that a curator be appointed, and that one of his daughters-in-law be forced to return $1,001.90 she obtained through the sale of a piece of property alleged to have been illegally transferred to her. The plaintiffs are Charles A. Hullinghorst, Frank R. Hullinghorst and Mrs. Henrietta Hullinghorst Mathieu.

Hullinghorst now is in Hotel [illegible] July 11, when Hullinghorst was in a state of imbecility, Mrs. H. W. Hullinghorst, Sr., a daughter-in-law, obtained his consent to the sale of his stock in the Dixie Homestead Association, sold the stock and deposited the proceeds, $1,001.94, in the Citizens' Bank and Trust Company to her credit.

On the same date, it is averred H. W. Hullinghorst, Jr., who, with her two sons had been supported for a long time of the ill Hollinghorst, sent for Lawyer Charbonnet and had the parent make a nuncupative will by private act, which will, it is held, is a nullity, because of the mental condition of Henry William Hullinghorst, Sr., at the time of the making.

New York wholesale houses are reported to be hoarding their merchandise as a result of the war.

Powder mills at Pompton Lakes, N. J., are working double staff night and day as a result of the European hostilities.

CONGENIAL WORK
And Strength To Perform It

A person in good health is likely to have a genial disposition, ambition, and enjoy work.

On the other hand if the digestive organs have been upset by wrong food work becomes drudgery.

"Until recently," writes a Western girl, "I was a railroad stenographer, which means full work every day.

"Like many other girls alone in a large city, I lived at a boarding house. For breakfast it was mush, greasy meat, soggy cakes, black coffee, etc.

"After a few months of this diet I used to feel sleepy and heavy in the mornings. My work seemed a terrible effort, and I thought the work was to blame—too arduous.

"At home I heard my father speak of a young fellow who went long distances in the cold on Grape-Nuts and cream, and nothing more, for breakfast.

"I concluded if it would take him over a heavy morning's work it might help me, so on my way home one night I bought a package and next morning I had Grape-Nuts and milk for breakfast.

"I stuck to Grape-Nuts and in less than two weeks I noticed improvement. I remember I used to walk the 12 blocks to business and knew how good it was simply to live.

"As to my work—well, did you ever feel the delight of having congenial work and the strength to perform it? That's how I felt. I truly believe there's life and vigor in every grain of Grape-Nuts."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co Windsor, Ont. Read "The Road to Wellville" in packages. There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

French Forces Compelled to Evacuate Mulhausen

Overwhelming German Army Pushed the Attack Back Upon the Town, the French Retiring to the Outskirts, Where They are Now Making a Stand--General Battle Is Now in Progress

PARIS, August 11.—The War Office this afternoon issued an official statement announcing that the French have been compelled to evacuate Mulhausen in Alsace.

The announcement states that the army operating against Neu Briesach was driven back and that an overwhelming German army pushed the attack back upon Mulhausen, the French retiring to the outskirts, where they are making a stand.

A general battle is now believed in progress.

This is the first news received of a German victory. When Mulhausen was taken by the French it was claimed by the Germans that they retired because the city was not fortified. To-day the United Press received a despatch from Rome telling of the situation in Germany. It announced that the retirement was in pursuance of pre-arranged plans of the German general staff, and indicated that another forward movement was about to commence. The admission in Paris that the French evacuated Mulhausen indicates that this movement was successful.

POINCARE REGRETS CAN'T LEAD RIFLES

PARIS, Aug. 11.—President Poincare yesterday said his only regret was that his high office would prevent him from leading his company of Alpine Riflemen in case France became engaged in war.

Andre Magino, a deputy, has taken his place as a private in a regiment in his constituency, Mr. Magino was formerly under-secretary of state for war, and as such has a seat in the cabinet.

The organization already has begun in Paris of battalions of foreign volunteers, notably Belgians, Slavs, and Servians. Several hundred Italians last night paraded through the down town section.

The mobilization order of fateful brevity read as follows:

"Ministry of War, Order of general mobilization. Extreme urgency. First day of mobilization, Sunday, August 2."

From all parts of France news came to-day that the mobilization order had been received with relief. It put an end to the strain and uncertainty of the last few days. There were patriotic manifestations throughout the night in almost all provincial towns and cities.

There has been formed in Paris a committee of influential Americans to take care of their countrymen in France who need assistance. Ambassador Herrick is taking active part in this work. Every American who needs advice or aid will be accommodated and, it is probable travellers will be helped in cashing their checks and Mr. Herrick has placed his residence at the disposal of Americans in Paris.

OLMSTED MYSTERY PUZZLES POLICE

Lockport, Aug. 12.—The Olmsted mystery is deeper than at any time since the two burglaries and incendiary fire at the home of W. C. Olmsted, the well known civil engineer, at No. 56 High Street. Yesterday the police found the valuable papers stolen from the house in a package in the mail box at the Ashley flats, corner of Genese and Cottage streets. The flats are occupied by well-to-do people and the police do not suspect any of them.

It is believed that the thieves threw the papers into the box Saturday, as the package containing them was noticed there then. It was crudely done up and addressed to the chief of police at Buffalo. Chief Smith was advised and suspected it contained the papers missing from the Olmsted home. He got Chief Regan of Buffalo on the 'phone and the latter gave Postmaster Roberts the right to open the bundle. It showed the Olmsted papers and they were returned to the rightful owners.

The police are at sea on the burglaries and fire. Mrs. Olmsted has been made ill because of fear that someone may be plotting against the family.

BLACK BEAR ATTACKS TRAINER AT LOCKPORT

Lockport, August 11.—Harry Demar, thirty-eight years old, of New York City, strong man with Dion's Animal Show, feature of the South End A. C. carnival, had his right arm badly torn by a black bear he was training late to-day.

Demar was taken to the City Hospital for treatment. His condition is not serious.

WAR AFFECTS MAKERS OF HEAVY MACHINERY

BOSTON, August 11.—(Special.)—At the Sturtevant Mills, Dorchester, Mass., where heavy machinery, such as cement grinders, stone crushers, etc., is manufactured, the manager said that the war undoubtedly will have a bad effect on the business of the concern, though to what extent he did not care to speculate. "We cannot tell until later just how seriously we shall be affected, and therefore cannot predict what we may have to do in the way of curtailment," he said.

At the Mason Regular Company's plant at Dorchester, it was said the firm's business with foreign countries, is such that the war certainly will affect it. More than half of this firm's export business is with England and consequently the course of that country is a matter of anxiety to the concern.

The general manager of the Coffin Valve Company, Dorchester, said that while that company might be somewhat affected by the situation abroad, such an effect will not be a serious matter, as most of the firm's foreign business is with Mexico and South American countries.

JOHNSON TO BE DRAFTED BY THE FRENCH ARMY

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The Jack Johnson problem which sport lovers in the United States have been trying to solve may be solid offhand here in a few days.

Johnson, having switched his citizenship to France, may be drafted by the French army. Johnson has been informed of this fact and it is said that he, with a veritable army of other American fighters, is trying vainly to get home.

Georges Carpentier, the French heavyweight, who recently won a decision over Gunboat Smith on a foul in London, and Ledoux, the other noted French boxer, are said to be with the American fighters. Carpentier and Ledoux, it is said, will decamp for the United States with their brother fighters.

CRUISER IN ST. LAWRENCE

Quebec, Aug. 11.—News of the presence in the lower gulf of a strange vessel caused the Federal authorities yesterday to order all ships that were on their way down to stop. Some were held at Quebec, Some at Father point, but to-day the order was cancelled, the nationality of the supposedly hostile ship having been established, it was found to be a British cruiser.

EXPLORERS PRAISED

Perilous Trip to Polar Regions Necessary From Scientific Standpoint

In the course of an address before the Royal Geographical Society at London, Lord Curzon described Sir Ernest Shackleton's Antarctic expedition as "the most adventurous and the farthest advanced both in scale and equipment." The opinion was expressed by Lord Curzon that the curve of Polar activity might be expected to be an ascending one for many years to come.

"Daring breeds daring; a spirit of honorable rivalry, appealing not merely to individuals but to nations, is engendered; each fresh reclamation from the unknown reveals fresh ground to be won that is worth the winning; every sacrifice entailed is the parent of future sacrifice.

"It is the business of geographical societies, while Polar activity is on the upward grade, to lend such assistance and guidance to the tendency as they may; to bear in mind that addition to knowledge rather than the mere pursuit of adventure is their province; and to ensure the successful garnering and adequate publication of the results."

Speaking of the Scott expedition, he declared that they did triumph, even in death and disaster. For they left to their countrymen, not merely the record of great work accomplished—how great would be seen when the scientific records were published—but the inspiration of an example that would live in the annals of the human race.

He congratulated Dr. Mawson on the spirit, resourcefulness, and amazing fortitude that enabled him to escape the fate of his two brave companions, Ninnis and Mertz. He thought that the scientific results of Dr. Mawson's expedition would compare favorably with those of any party that had ever attempted to explore the Antarctic continent.

Evolving the Golf Ball

The evolution of the golf ball has been slow and laborious. The first balls were made of untanned bull's hide, two rounds forming the ends, another the middle. These pieces were softened, shaped, and firmly sewed together, a small hole being left through which feathers could later be stuffed—a difficult process accomplished with the aid of a steel rod.

The rubber core ball has been in use since 1848. The early experiments with rubber, however, were far from successful. It was found that the first balls as fashioned would travel a very short distance after leaving the club that their inventor almost decided to abandon experiments. In fact, he gave the discarded balls to some caddies, who proceeded to amuse themselves vigorously—so vigorously that the balls were soon covered with cuts.

It was then seen that in this state they carried much farther than when new. So the next mould was nicked in order to give the rubber a shape similar to that of the damaged balls. The result was successful; and from that, after countless improvements, evolved the ball of to-day.

Oil and Gas From Bricks

Recent experimenting in English brickyards with a patented process for extracting oil, ammonia, and gas from burning bricks is likely to have an important commercial significance. All bricks made from the Oxford clay in the neighborhood of Peterborough burn of themselves in the kiln, because of the bituminous matter they contain, and that bituminous matter yields oil, gas, and ammonia in a retort out of contact with the air.

Patents have been granted to Mr. G. P. Crowden, who has invented an apparatus to modify the present brick kilns, so that the waste heat from the burning bricks may be used for heating the retorts, and further, that the green bricks themselves may be retorted, and the oil, gas, and the ammonia recovered from them. The results are said to be most astonishing.

Courtship in Jail

BUT BETTER FOR YOU

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser made, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress. Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale [illegible], or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. (Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.)

Extraordinary Names For Everyday Habits

Here are a few of the new names that alienists have introduced to describe certain aberrations of the mind that are not insanity but that are classified as psychoses, being indications of a condition that is not exactly normal. Most of us have some one or more of them. Most of them are merely bad habits, expressive of the nervous strain of modern life.

The following, taken from an account in a scientific magazine of a recent congress of neurologists and nerve specialists, are a few of the more novel terms they used in their addresses and in their debates:

Mistaloschopsomania—The common habit that young men have of pulling their budding moustaches.

Otodactylomania—The habit of putting the little finger into the ear and agitating it violently.

Strebsorhabdomania—Twirling the umbrella as one walks.

Onipragomania—Biting the nails.

Stomadactylomania—The habit, as common among babies, but by no means uncommon among adults, of keeping a finger in the mouth.

Harmosiolomania—Beating a tattoo with the finger tips upon the window, the table or other furniture.

Trepodomania—Moving the legs nervously.

Kratypomania—Crossing the legs one over the other and pulling up the trouser leg to reveal the socks.

To these curiosities may be added those more serious psychoses which are signs of real though perhaps only slight mental derangement, namely, "agoraphobia or dread of open places; and kleistophobia," or dread of enclosed places.

WORLD'S CHAMPION HEN

Laid 291 Eggs in 365 Days Breaking Record Held in Canada

Will poultry breeders ultimately succeed in producing a hen which will lay an egg every day? Such an accomplishment seems quite within the bounds of possibility, judging by the wonderful record established by Professor James Dryden, who succeeded in rearing a hen that laid no fewer than 291 eggs in a year. Before this American accomplishment the world's record was held by Canada, with a pure-bred hen that had laid 282 eggs in 365 days.

The hen in question began to lay when only five and a half months old. Not only is she a cross-bred bird herself, but the parent birds also were cross-bred. There was nothing extraordinary in either of these, excepting the fact that the mother hen was a prolific layer of eggs, a trait that emphasized itself to an extraordinary degree in her offspring.

No special care or attention was bestowed upon this abnormal egg producer. She was reared and fed with fifty others, with whom she took pot-luck, and beyond the fact that she ate heartily and resorted frequently to the beef-scrap tub, to the mash, and to the water dish, there was nothing to distinguish her from other hens, in her feeding and up-

Fruit Diet to Stop Strikes

Dr. J. Oldfield, the advocate of a fruitarian diet, lecturing in London, said that labor unrest was really a dietetic trouble. "Feed men," said the doctor, "on meat diet and they develop mental as well as physical uneasiness. The solution of the whole labor trouble is a dietetic one." Dr. Oldfield's argument was that every set of animals has its diet—there are herbivores, carnivores, and so on. Every sub-class has its individual diet—for instance, acorns are poisonous to cattle, and not to pigs; and again, each species has its particular fancy in food. The human race, by all the evidence, is closely allied to the anthropoid apes, and therefore a fruitivorous diet is indicated for us, for the apes are fruitarians.

Marriages of the Deaf

An examination has been made of the records of 4,500 marriages of the deaf, and it has been found that, while taking the marriages of deaf persons as a whole, nearly 9 per cent. of the offspring are deaf, and contrasted with less than one-tenth of 1 per cent. of deaf children as a result of the marriages of normal persons; a very favorable result is obtained if it be found that the deaf parents had no trace of previous deafness in their families. Marriages of deaf persons without deaf relatives is no more likely to result in deaf children than any marriage in the community at large, while marriages of hearing persons who have deaf relatives is just as likely to result in deaf children as the marriage of the deaf.

CAN FLY WITHOUT BRAINS

Birds' Balance Purely Mechanical, Scientist Demonstrates

One of the most striking features of the meeting at Dresden of the German Scientific Society for Aeronautics and Aviation was a lecture by Prof. Conheim on balance in the air.

Prof. Conheim drew a bold parallel between birds and aeroplanes. He gave a demonstration with living doves and seagulls from which the cerebrum magnum had been extracted, and showed that balance with these birds was purely mechanical. Having been deprived of their brain, the birds could exert no will power and maintained their balance simply by reflex movements of the head, tail and wings. Prof. Conheim argued from this analogy that it might be possible in time to invent automatic machinery which would keep an aeroplane stable without requiring any attention from the airman.

Leaders in Scientific Theory

According to a writer in Engineering Magazine mention can be made of but a few names among the many which hold an honorable place in the history of scientific system-making. A man of the very highest genius was Laplace, who enunciated the nebular hypothesis. In geology, Hutton first arranged scattered facts into a coherent account of the geological process by which rocks are worn down and built up. Turning to the biological sciences, we find fine systematisers whose work is closely linked together. The first of these was Linnaeus, who classified living forms on the basis of the conception of a simple scale of of ascending complexity. Lamark rearranged the classification by giving chief weight to differences of organic structure. Cuvier showed that organisms must be conceived as diverging from certain primitive types, as the branches of a tree spread out from the trunk. Darwin overthrew an hypothesis of Lamark that acquired characteristics are inherited, and showed that evolution proceeds by means of spontaneous variation, and a life struggle in which the unfit are eliminated. And, finally, Herbert Spencer applied the theory of evolution to the institutions of society.

Our Point of View

Alfred Noyes, the peace poet, has suddenly seen the light and published a war poem. Next?

—o—

Andrew Carnegie approves of Britain's course in the present war. That just about makes it unanimous.

—o—

Principal Peterson, of McGill points out that the present war will do more to consolidate the Empire than years of Imperialistic talk. Correct.

Joints Quit Aching. Soreness beats it Away

NO MORE STIFFNESS, PAIN OR MISERY IN YOUR BACK OR SIDE OR LIMBS !

"Wonderful Nerviline" is the remedy

A marvellous pain reliever!

Not an ordinary liniment — just about five times more powerful, more penetrating, more pain-subduing than any thick, oily ammonia liniment. Nerviline fairly eats up the pain and stiffness in chronic rheumatic joints, gives quick relief to those throbbing pains and never burns or even stains the skin.

"Rheumatism kept my joints swollen and sore for ten years. My right knee joint was often too painful to allow me to walk. In this crippled tortured condition I found Nerviline a blessing. Its warm soothing action brought relief I had given up hoping for. I rubbed on quantities of Nerviline and improved steadily. I also took Ferrozone at mealtime. In order to purify and enrich my blood. I am to-day well and can recommend my treatment most conscientiously.

(Signed) C. PARKS,
Prince Albert.

Not an ache or pain in the muscles or joint that Nerviline won't cure. It's wonderful for lumbago and sciatica; for neuralgia, stiff neck, earache and toothache. Nerviline is simply a wonder. Best family liniment known and largely used for the past forty years. Sold by dealers everywhere, large family size bottle 50c., small trial size 25c. Refuse a substitute, take only "Nerviline."

Italians in Canada have asked the King of Italy to join Britain and France. Their countrymen at home, most likely, share their wishes.

—o—

The sentencing of a reckless chaffeur to three months in jail or a fine of $148 is all right so far as it goes. But why the option of a fine in these cases?

—o—

The Kaiser invokes that "powerful, warlike spirit which attacks the enemy wherever it finds him, regardless of cost." In this case, part of the cost is the national honor.

—o—

By printing repeated attacks on Rudyard Kipling, the poet who has done more than any other man to keep the proper British spirit alive, the Ottawa Citizen is exhibiting its claim to some of the Kaiser's money.

—o—

Senator Davis will introduce his anti-tipping bill again next session. And he says he will provide drastic penalties both for the tipper and the tipped. The Saskatchewan senator is a statesman with a mission.

—o—

The Servian Parliament humiliated itself to Austria in vain. And yet perhaps not altogether in vain, for its compliance with all the Austrian demands has served to put Austria in the wrong by showing conclusively that the Austrian government had determined upon a war of aggression.

What The U. S. Press Think

(Buffalo Courier)

Vast as is the theatre of the war in which so many of the nations of Europe are involved, its scenes are nearly shut away from outside view, the people generally have scant information of what is going on. Of reports that come the reliability is frequently in doubt. False stories have been circulated—either deliberately invented, or the imaginings of the hysterical or otherwise irresponsible. The intelligent public will withhold credence of rumors of important events until confirmed. Russia assuredly will undertake to invade Germany and Austria-Hungary, and the British fleet will strive with all its might to annihilate the German sea power; but the war has been in existence only a few days, and some amount of time is required for the movement of ships and armies. Meager as are the news sources on account of closed lines of communication and strict censorship the world knows in a general way about the chief feature of the conflict thus far, namely the invasion of Belgium and the effectiveness of the unexpected resistance the German army has encountered in the vicinity of Liege, in the province of that name.

What seems verified is that at this first line of obstruction the German army corps, which counted upon a swift passage through Belgian territory to the French border, has been checked with relatively great loss. Germany was prepared in every detail and calculated closely upon the value of quick action. The neutrality of Belgium was violated and Great Britain made a certain opponent because the German military experts thought this the speediest, safest surest way of striking the old enemy before the French could be ready. The obstruction at Liege apparently disappoints this purpose, and the moral effect of the defeat experienced is of itself a matter of serious importance. So far as known the Germans have not yet taken the Liege forts.

It Could Be Worse, But—

The scenes at Riverside Park on the holiday, when the Ottawa ball team played two games with the local Canadian Leaguers, are deeply to be regretted. Nothing will knock our national pastime to such an extent as the actions of the umpire at both the games here Monday. At the morning fixture his decisions called forth all kinds of unfavorable comment from the fans, and at the end of the game he was obliged to retire to the store room back of the stand to save maltreatment from the angry crowd. In the afternoon, with an attendance double that of the morning, his umps continued his "good" work, with the result that before the game was half over the police were called upon to drive back the disgusted, angry spectators who surged out on the field in protest. As one spectator was heard to remark, "We paid our money to see a ball game, and we want to see one—and see a fair deal handed out to everyone." It is to be hoped the local authorities in charge of the team will use every effort to prevent a repetition of the scenes enacted on Civic Holiday.

The rumor that the Panama-Pacific Exposition would be postponed because of the present unrest in Europe has been officially denied.

Worse Taxes Than Here

A correspondent writes The Lindsay Warder in part as follows: "To the Editor.: Dear Sir.—I paid my taxes a few days ago and they just amounted to 48 mills on the dollar. Now for fear anyone would dispute my figuring, I will give you the amount of my assessment and the amount of my taxes for this year. Then any school boy can figure it up. The assessed value of my property is $4,800.00 and my taxes were $230.40. This means just 48 mills on the dollar."

OIL THE GREAT WEALTHMAKER

We hold over 3,000 acres, more or less, of oil leases North and South of Monarch and several of our leases are in the same range as the Monarch well.

Many companies claim to be close to Monarch but we are one of the very few who are in Range Six upon which the Monarch Well is situated. Therefore, we must be on the same anti-cline and as it is a foregone conclusion Monarch will get oil, so will we.

Fifty-Seven Feet of Oil Bearing Sands Passed Through in Monarch Well

OFFICIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN OUT BY PRESIDENT GEORGESON—WELL IS NOW DOWN OVER 1,800 FEET AND FLOW OF WET GAS HAS BEEN STRUCK IN LOWER LEVELS—GEOLOGIST DUNN IS AWAY AT PRESENT

Heavy oil showings are being found in the Monarch well, west of Olds, although the oil has not yet come in in commercial quantities.

To put the exact facts before the public, President William Georgeson and Treasurer G. W. Morfitt, of the company, this morning issued an official statement from the drillers setting forth the results.

The heaviest oil seepage has been encountered through a stratum 57 feet thick, and the well is now 1850 feet deep.

A sample of this oil baled out at 1,775 feet was brought to the city this morning and is in the office of Mr. Morfitt, Grain Exchange Building. The oil is a heavy black petroleum with the characteristic petroleum odor.

The statement issued by the officers is as follows:

In the absence of Mr. Dunn, Mr. Van Alst, the head driller, reports that from the depth of 1,775 feet to 1,832 feet he went through oil bearing sands for 57 feet. Throughout there was a heavy showing of black oil in the baler. Two further showing of black wet gas were met at 1,895 feet and 1,915 feet.

The well is now down 1,950 feet. Wet gas has shown at 633 feet, 1,430 feet, 1,895 feet and 1,815 feet.

Oil sands have shown at 808 feet, (48 feet), 1,430 feet (40 feet), 1,740 feet (14 feet), and 1,775 feet (57 feet).

The well is now down 1,950 feet, and while there are good oil showings there is not as yet oil in commercial quantities.

Our stock is on the market at 50 cents a share, a Dollar par, and will be advanced without notice any day pending Monarch Well developments. It is practically a certainty that Monarch will be in oil in commercial quantities within two weeks, Our stock will jump away above par and you had better hurry if you wish to share our prosperity.

EFFECTS OF ALCOHOL

Physician Describes Its Action on Various Organs of Body

It is difficult, if not impossible, to draw a definite line and say what would be a moderate and what an immoderate use, for the quantities taken by temperate drinkers vary so much. The body is able to destroy but a very small quantity of alcohol, and the balance is eliminated from the system as speedily as possible, showing plainly that the living organs have no use for the poison. Even the small amount of alcohol contained in a glass of light beer is soon perceptible in the breath. When larger quantities are taken, the alcohol is also eliminated through the skin and the kidneys. Alcohol even in strictly moderate quantities on account of its preservative properties renders the food more difficult of digestion. Furthermore, the presence of alcohol in the gastric juice inhibits or retards the work of the digestive ferments. It also causes an increased secretion of mucus, a viscid slimy substance which is poured out of the gastric glands as a protective against the irritant effects of alcohol. The habitual use of alcohol gradually, but none the less surely, injures the glands lining the stomach wall, and causes an increased growth of fibrous tissue. Ultimately these changes lead to a very obstinate form of chronic dyspepsia. There is also reason to believe that the habitual use of alcoholic drinks sets up an irritation which may produce gastric ulcers, or even cancer of the stomach. The characteristic hardening and shrivelling effect of alcohol is well seen in the changes set up in both liver and kidneys. The fibrous framework of these organs is slowly but steadily increased in quantity, and in proportion as this takes place the active glandular functioning substance is gradually encroached upon, and finally destroyed. The hardening of the liver is known as cirrhosis, a not uncommon disorder of moderate drinkers. In the case of the kidneys, chronic Bright's disease is the ultimate goal of many moderate drinkers, a disease that is incurable.—A. B. Olsen, M.D., D.P.H., in "Good Health."

Japan Has No Birthdays

In Japan no notice is taken of the actual anniversary of a birth, but every one adds a year to his or her age on the Setsubun, a movable festival which occurs either late in January or at the beginning of February. Thus a child is said to be a year old, that is in its first year, directly it is born, and on the following Setsubun it will be two, although in fact, it may be only a few days old. The feast is not kept in any marked manner, except that akameshi (rice boiled with small red beans which give it a red color) is eaten, and in the evening parched beans are scattered about the room from a square rice measure, to the cry "Fuku ga ouchi. One ga soto!"—"Good fortune within. Out with the demons!" Every one is supposed to eat the number of beans corresponding with his age, and one over, for luck.

New Moving Targets

Targets of various kinds mounted on trucks and drawn over the field by cables on electrically-driven drums give German soldiers a very realistic dummy enemy for gun practice. The imitations of infantry and cavalry are simple silhouettes, and these are made to carry out various manoeuvres, under perfect electric control. The infantry, for instance, march slowly at first, break into a run at the first fire, and drop automatically into the first trench, with only the heads visible.

Preserved For Ever

A German professor has invented a process of silver-plating dead bodies, so as to convert them into metallic images of the individuals as they were when in life. Gold-plate can be used if the relatives can afford it. But as the expense of silver-plating a body is $12,500, there are probably few relatives who would deem themselves justified in squandering the deceased's estate on such a memorial.

Co-operative Incubation

It is not every poultry-keeper who is able to hatch artificially. Some, maybe, do not possess the necessary capital; others have not the time to run an incubator. A plan which has long been carried out in Europe and which has also been attempted at one or two centres in Great Britain, is to hatch on the co-operative method. A suitable place is chosen, centrally situated, where an incubation plant is laid down. The poultry keepers in the neighborhood bring their eggs to be hatched, calling in three weeks' time for the chickens. Payment can be made in cash or value, the plan generally adopted in Europe being to pay one chicken for every three hatched.

VETERAN WANTS WIFE

He Fought With the British Troops and Canadian Volunteers

James Fraser, who fought with the Canadian volunteers at Fort Erie during the Fenian uprising, recently celebrated his eightieth birthday in the Soldiers' Home at Milwaukee.

"I have fought under four flags, including Canada's and France's and I am ready to fight again before I die," he said.

"When the Civil War broke out in 1861, between the States I enlisted and fought till 1865 in the Seventeenth Vermont. Then I was discharged. Later the Fenian uprising broke out. So I joined the Canadian volunteers and fought at Fort Erie. After the war I went to Manitoba with the Canadian troops and helped put down the Indian rebel, Louis Riel.

"In 1870 I joined a party of Canadians and enlisted in the British Army that went to relieve Kartoum. There I helped shove a bayonet into the brother of the Mad Mullah. We used to sing this ditty: 'Mad Mullah on a summer's day burned Khartoum in Africay.'

"After that war we returned to Canada. Then we heard the French were having trouble in Morocco a group of us enlisted as a special company of expert sappers. We were in commission about three months, after which we returned to Vermont. Later I went to Manitowoc, where I was employed on the streets."

Fraser is very spry, for all his years. "I can dance the tango, too," he remarked, going through several glides and dips. His one yearning is to marry, and he declared that within a year he would have a better half to take care of him.

"I was to have been married once," he said, "but my bride was taken from me—she died."

SKYSCRAPER OF GLASS

Wonderful Buildings With Good Air But no Windows to Open

The latest wonder in New York is a sealed skyscraper which, when completed, will be 78 per cent. glass, yet in the building there will be no windows that may be opened. The entire twelve storeys will be tight as a drum, the glass walls being set in steel framework. There will be plenty of ventilation, however, and abundance of fresh air the year round supplied at an even temperature by a new ventilating system.

In cold weather the fresh atmosphere sucked in from without will be heated; when the summer comes it will be cooled. At all seasons of the year it will be free from disease-breeding germs, being carefully purified. The ventilating system is unique in its thoroughness. Air is sucked in through a special duct on the second floor, because air at this latitude has been found to be less impure than at greater heights. The air passes through "shower" chambers, where the impurities are washed out of it after the manner of a rain shower. At each floor there are inlets with ducts which guide the fresh air into the interior under regulated pressure, whereas the foul air is sucked out under the ceiling through ducts connecting with the main flue. This system obviates the use of windows, which only let in draught and noise and dirt.

Independent of the air supply, there will be a hot water heating system ensuring in the coldest days of winter a constant, healthful temperature and no humidity. The power plant will be all that an engineer could possibly wish for. More than $300,000 will be expended on it. This "loft building de luxe" will cost $1,500,000, and it will be the only building in New York built entirely of steel and glass. On the roof will be a sun parlor for the women employes, where they may take their noon rest amid the most cheerful and attractive surroundings.

The King of Bulgaria Passes Spare Hours Training Elephants

The Sovereigns of Europe have, and have had, some curious hobbies. The Kaiser has a distinct penchant for carpentry, while what King Christian does not know about the printer's craft is not worth knowing.

It has remained, however, for King Ferdinand of Bulgaria to take up the strangest pastime of all—animal training. A little while ago the King, tiring of the ordinary methods of relieving his mind from the cares of State, invested in four elephants. And now he spends all his spare time teaching his giant pets all that an educated elephant is required to know. The four beasts are housed at a farm on the outskirts of Sofia, and every day King Ferdinand spends an hour or so with them, superintending their toilet and training them.

The King has brought his usual zeal and enthusiasm to bear on his hobby, and the consequence is that his elephants would do credit to a professional trainer. Not only do the pachyderms recognize their Royal master when he visits them, but they can do several simple tricks at his bidding. The King is very proud of his pets, and whenever his Court is visited by anyone of distinction the Royal guest is sure to be taken to the farm to admire the great beasts at their work and play.

TWO GUNS WHITE CALF

Shooting the rapids in a canoe, or shimming the prairie on the back of a wild antelope will be tame and unexciting adventures now to Two Guns White Calf, "big injun" from Glasier National Park. Two Guns took a flight in an aeroplane at Dobbs Ferry, N.Y. "Heap big bird, fly like eagle; Two Guns give his gun for bird like that," was his comment on the flying machine that took him 1,200 feet in the air.

Lockless Wooden Safe

Mr. I. Shenker, a curio dealer, London, has invented a light wooden safe, which has no locks, bolts, or bars of any description, and yet is as safe as, if not safer than, the steel article.

Mr. Shenker offers to put a bank note in his safe and give it to anyone, professional cracksman or otherwise, who can get it out without alarming the household. The safe consists of a mahogany cupboard that can be inlaid and made to look like a piece of drawing room furniture if required. By an ingenious electrical contrivance an electric bell rings immediately it is tampered with, and a light appears. The only thing to distinguish the safe from an ordinary cupboard is an electric wire running into the back. Should the burglar cut this, the alarm will ring just the same.

Utopia Sold For $4,500

The "Model Town" on the Kentucky side of the Ohio River, opposite Evansville, Ind., consisting of ten acres of land, a city hall, and electric light and power plant, was sold at auction for back taxes to the only bidder for $4,500.

The property was valued at over $30,000. The town was laid out four or five years ago by a man named Brown, who announced that the town would be run on the Utopian plan. Stores, factories, and all other businesses were to be operated by the people, and all city ordinances were to be framed by the citizens in town meetings. After Brown disappeared the inhabitants left the town.

SPLENDID SPORT IN FLYING BOATS

All the Thrills of the Automobile, Aeroplane and the Motorboat But Not Nearly So Much Danger

Year by year, almost day by day, flying is becoming to the regarded more as a sport than what was once called "the art." Although flying is yet in its infancy, it is not too much to predict that the flying machine will automobile and [illegible], if not more so, the flying boat, to any other kind of small pleasure craft. The landings from the aeroplane have not always been successful, but to alight with a flying boat after a flight is as easy as to guide a motor car to a standstill.

In the first recorded race of these craft, held on Long Island, the sight of three machines jockeying for position was inspiring, while the close finish of the return trip from the outer buoy would stir the blood of any sportsman.

Water flying is safe mainly because there is always a good place to alight. It is not necessary to guide the machine along a narrow course for starting or to pick one's ground in landing. The surface is smooth and level, and one may head in any direction with safety. Winds over the water are invariably much steadier than over land, and if, through carelessness or inexperience, the operator does make a bad landing, or plunges the boat at too steep an angle into the water, or strikes a wing too hard, the accident cannot be grave. The machine is not seriously damaged and the operator is none the worse, except for his "ducking."

The first development in water flying, the hydro-aeroplane, has these advantages, but the later flying boat with its large surplus of buoyancy has all the advantages of a motor boat and a flying machine combined. It is as seaworthy as any motor boat of its size, and flies as well as any aeroplane of equal proportions.

Now that we have a safe system of flying, the development of aviation is sure and unlimited. For racing nothing can compare with the flying boat. There is the same chance to struggle for position as in yacht racing, and every opportunity for the airman to exhibit his skill in rounding the buoys and making his starts and landings. No prettier or more impressive sight can be seen than a fleet of flying boats rising from the water at the start of a race, or coming down the course "neck and neck" at the finish.

On the water, the flying boat is handled like an ordinary motor boat, although the controls resemble those of an automobile. The rudder is operated by a steering wheel, which also operates the device for elevating.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

CALGARY, July 23rd.—An official statement just issued by the Monarch Oil Company states that the drill has just passed through a 57-foot strata of oil bearing sand, at a depth of between 1776 and 1832 feet. A sample of the oil from this oil sand is on exhibition at the Company's office in Calgary. This is the fourth oil sand encountered in the well, and indicates that a good producing well should be obtained before going much deeper. The Hole-Woollard Oil Company is making preparations to drill on its property in the Monarch district, which adjoins the property of the Monarch Oil Company, and we are advised that the price of shares will be advanced as soon as drilling operations are started. The time to invest in the shares of the Hole-Woollard Company is NOW, before the advance in price.

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascertained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). cf a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1380 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

Copper is one of the world's chief necessities, and the demand for it is constantly increasing. Growth of the electrical industry largely accounts for this. Telegraph and Telephone Wire—Trolley Wire—Trolley Wheels and the multitude of other Electrical Machines and Parts—Power Transmission Wire and the use of the metal in various valuable Alloys—these are some of the places where copper is consumed, and while its production is enormous it is used about as rapidly as it can be mined and made ready. THIS IS WHY OWNERSHIP IN A COPPER MINE IS ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY SOURCES OF INCOME POSSIBLE TO IMAGINE.

TIME TO START

Naturally the time to secure an interest in any sort of enterprise is at the start, because it is then that money for development and equipment is needed and this is, of course, the reason why shares in the project are released! When these necessities are provided for the Opportunity passes.

For years we have been spending time, effort and money in getting together one of the largest known copper deposits, and we now own and control thousands of acres of land, covering veins of copper, ore carrying gold and silver values, extensive veins of coal, iron and lime.

The geology is so well defined as to make identifications of size and location of the copper bearing veins a perfect definite matter. In addition to this the estate has been thoroughly prospected by some 4,000 feet of work, there being more than 100 shafts, pits, cuts and tunnels, every one of which shows copper in paying quantities. The dumps of these openings run from 2 to 8 per cent in copper metal.

Facilities for economically winning the copper from its ores are remarkably fine. In the company's own ground are five known coal beds, insuring a perpetual supply of cheap fuel, easily accessible and located within a very short distance of the site chosen for its furnaces. Water and timber are also abundant and easy of access.

One of Colorado's most eminent mining engineers, after thoroughly examining this property, states in his report that the net profits resulting from operation of this property should range from $250,000 to $1,000,000 each year.

There is no uncertainty, no guesswork, about this project. Applied to it, a definite cause will inevitably produce an equally definite effect. Equipment for mining these immense bodies of ore and reducing the metal in them to bullion means dividends—it can't mean anything else—and it is to provide this equipment and the funds required for its installation and the preliminary operating expenses of the estate that an interest in the project is offered to you.

It is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to join in a well planned, conservative, and exceptionally profitable business undertaking. The foundations are laid, the property is acquired and the next step—providing the equipment—is now being taken. So soon as this is accomplished your chance to secure a share in the enterprise will be gone.

Soldier Creates Trouble

William Stuart was charged with having been drunk and disorderly. He was also charged with having struck a policeman. P. C. Cookman, in the witness box, said prisoner struck him. Cookman said prisoner put his shoulder out of joint. Cookman said he is an old soldier, and added, "Upon my soul I'm sorry and I won't do it again. Give me a chance and I" bet you 40 to 1 you won't see me here again." He was fined, in all, $5.75, and given ten days to pay up.

Put One Over the Kid

A family living on Brock street includes a ten-year-old daughter, and, incidentally, a canary bird. The ten-year-old girl is, for her age, intensely patriotic, and a few days ago she brought home a cat for adoption. Her mother remarked "You can't keep that cat, it would kill the canary." Tears galore by the kid. On Saturday afternoon the child went to the movies. On her return at tea time all the other members of the family asked "Where is Hoch der Kaiser?" At last the child enquired "What do you mean by Hoch der Kaiser? Who or what is Hoch der Kaiser?" She was informed that the kitten was a German cat named Hoch der Kaiser. Without a word the child put the cat in a basket and returned it to its former home, saying, "I don't want any German cat in this house."

A Cobourg Tax Case

Mrs. Susan Smith, of the Arlington Hotel, Cobourg, was recently summoned to Division Court for neglecting to pay her taxes. Mrs. Smith had been confined to her room through illness for some time, but the Council or the officer who was acting did not even call at the office of the hotel. Had he done so the Clerk would have paid the same. In a letter to the Cobourg Council, Mrs. Smith closes it thus: "Whatever your reasons and motives may have been, I hope that they have been fully gratified and that you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you have done one of the lowest, meanest, most contemptible and inhuman acts that I can conceive of being perpetrated by any public body."

Another Soldier in Trouble

At yesterday's police court Leo Flynn, of Downeyville, was charged with having been drunk. He belongs to the 45th Regiment of Lindsay. Leo was allowed to go as he intends to serve his country. Leo ran amuck and wandered into the police station Here he thought he was in a Charlotte street hotel, and asked for his valise. Detective Newhall said, "just go through that door back there and you will find the office." Leo wandered into the cell room and was very promptly locked up. He told the officers he was a German spy. He produced a map of Peterborough County and pointing at Buckhorn, intimated that he might blow up the lock there. He told the cops he came from Chicago, St. Louis, Cobourg, and several other places. Truly the whiskey of this place must be strong!

Local Man's Nephew Killed

The many friends of Mr. Alex. Spence of the Trent Canal Engineering staff, will sympathize with him over the death of his nephew, Mr. Bruce Ketchum, aged 20, at Ottawa, on Monday. It seems that Monday morning, Mr. Ketchum, with others, was diving from a tower owned by the Ottawa Electric Company at Britannia, near Ottawa. As he dived the tower fell over, for the fourth time this year, from lack of proper ballast. As it fell, part of the structure hit Mr. Ketchum on the shoulders and neck. He became unconscious, as one of the vertebrae was pressed against the spinal nerve. He was removed to the General Hospital and a specialist was sent for at Montreal. However, he never regained consciousness and died during the day. All the others who were diving from the tower escaped without injury. Mr. Speare left yesterday for Ottawa.

Bad Team Work

The well dressed, portly man stood for several moments watching the brawny drayman, who was laboriously tugging at a large, heavily laden box which seemed almost as wide as the doorway through which he was trying to move it. Presently the kindly-disposed onlooker approached the perspiring drayman and said, with a patronising air, "Like to have a lift?" "Bet yer life," the other replied, and for the next two minutes the two men on opposite sides of the box, worked, lifted, puffed, and wheezed, but it did not move an inch. Finally the portly man straightened up, and between puffs said: "I don't believe we can get it in there." "Get it in there?" the drayman almost shouted, "Why you blamed muttonhead, I'm trying to get it out!"

TERRIFIC BATTLE BEGINS AS RIVAL ARMIES MEET IN HEART OF BELGIUM

German Invaders in Force Meet Vanguard of Allies and Fighting Takes Place, Over a Wide Area --- Six Hundred and Fifty Thousand Men Involved.

BRUSSELS, August 12.—The greatest battle of modern times, between 300,000 German troops and 350,000 British, French and Belgium allies, began on Belgium soil last night.

When the German army of the Meuse advanced from Liege toward the heart of Belgium to invade France, it was met by the vanguard of the allies. A terrific battle is in progress near Tongres. A fierce infantry engagement is in progress there and it also progresses between the Germans and the Belgians at Tirlemont. The Germans destroyed the railroad station at Landenhut, but the Belgians drove them out. The German commander threatened to burn Liege if the forts there continued to resist.

AMSTERDAM, AUGUST 12.—(via LONDON, 6.33 p.m.)—A DESPATCH FROM MAESTRICHT TO "THE TELEGRAAF" SAYS TERRIFIC ARTILLERY FIRING WAS HEARD THROUGHOUT THE MORNING, COMING FROM THE DIRECTION OF TONGRES, TO THE NORTH OF LIEGE. THE CONCUSSION WAS FELT IN MAESTRICHT.

BRUSSELS, AUG. 12.—THE FRONTIER OF FRANCE, FROM HOLLAND TO SWITZERLAND, TWO HUNDRED MILES OR MORE IN EXTENT, IS PRACTICALLY ONE BATTLE LINE TO-DAY AND ENGAGEMENTS ARE REPORTED ALONG THE WHOLE FRONTIER FROM BELFORT, IN FRANCE, TO BELGIUM. THE FORTS AT LIEGE REMAIN IN POSSESSION OF THE BELGIAN DEFENDERS.

Paris, Aug. 12.—The Germans and French are in contact over the entire length of the eastern frontier. German cavalry having made bold dashes into French territory, the German infantry advanced a considerable distance from the Belgium frontier along the upper reaches of the Aisne River. They have thrown up entrenchments.

Basle, Aug. 12.—The Germans suffered enormous losses to-day in an effort to dislodge the French from Mulhausen. The 169th and 112th regiments were almost annihilated and many prominent German officers fell.

Paris, Aug. 12.—The Germans attacked Givet, thirty miles north of Sedam, to-day, and were repulsed by the French. This indicates that the German army of the Moselle is still moving westward along the Belgian-French border.

Brussels, Aug. 12., via London, 4.30 p.m.—It was officially announced here to-day that the German retirement reported yesterday, is becoming more marked. No other news from the front has been made public.

Germans Move on Allies

Brussels, Aug. 12.—The German army moved to-day to attack the Belgium, British and French forces, and to clear a road through Belgium to France. The German army before Liege is being moved from that point and has begun an advance through the heart of Belgium.

Brussels, Aug. 12.—The allied forces to-day blew up bridges which lie in the line of the German advance. The first big battle of the war is expected to begin within a few hours.

Bayonet Charge Helped

Brussels, Aug. 12.—The War Office reports a strong German force repulsed at Maugiennes, near Verdun, with heavy loss. The French outposts at Moncel, near Chateau, drove back a German battalion which was supported by artillery. The German force in Legarde, near Avricourt, was dislodged by a brilliant bayonet charge.

THE WEATHER

Fine and cool to-day, a little warmer towards evening and very warm on Friday.

FRENCH CHECK GERMANS NI ALSACE: BATTLE LINE ONE HUNDRED MILLES LONG

PARIS, August 12.—The French War Office issued an official announcement to-day stating that the troops of the Republic have been victorious in an engagement with the Germans. This statement relates to the fighting in Alsace and along the frontier, where the opposing forces are spread out in a battle line nearly one hundred miles long. It was further officially stated that all the German soldiers who penetrated France, in the department of the Meuse and Meurth et Moselle, have been driven back across the line.

AUSTRIANS ENTER ALSACE

It is expected that the French army that invaded Alsace, capturing Althirch and Mulhausen, will soon be engaged in battle with Austrian soldiers. Definite information reached the War Office to-day that the Fourteenth Austrian Army Corps, consisting of 80,000, under command of the Grand Duke of Tuscany, has entered Alsace from the direction of the Swiss frontier, and was moving rapidls to as junction with the German forces.

French Claim Victory

The French are in contact with the German troops all along the frontier. Despatches from the front say that there is a heavy body of German soldiers manoeuvring over a line about sixty-five miles in length, between Chambley and Messampre, with the possible intention of trying to outflank the French. At Mangiennes, to the north-east of Verdun, a sharp engagement took place, in which the French claim to have repulsed the Germans with heavy loss.

Guns Taken by French

Six guns, three heavy pieces of artillery and three rapid-fire guns, fell into the hands of the soldiers of the Republic. A battery of German artillery was disabled. German troops attacked the French advance posts in the vicinity of Chateau Salina, 18 miles northeast of Nancy, but suffered heavy losses and had to retire, according to the War Office's official statement.

200,000 Men in Battle

Brussels, Aug. 12.—Two armies of about one million men each are in touch to-day with one another in the theatre of war in Belgium, and at any moment may begin the battle which will decide the fate of the German army seeking to invade France and reach Paris through Belgium. The Germans appear to-day to be making a general advance on Liege from the north of the Meuse.

Reserves Turned the Tide

In the fighting at Mangiennes the French artillery wrought great havoc among the German cavalry which was sent in an attempt to take the guns. The fighting at Mangiennes was opened by the Germans who moved forward against the French troops that were massed at the point. The French column was strongly supported by artillery.

During the earlier stages of the battle the Germans fought with such fierceness and stubbornness that the French lines were on the point of wavering when reserves were thrown forward to support the French front. This turned the tide, according to the French war despatches, and French troops then began a counter attack.

Hand to Hand Fighting

The French moved forward against the German batteries, which had been making unsuccessful attempts to silence the French artillery. Hand to hand fighting around the German guns ensued. In the face of a deadly incessant fire from the German gattling guns, the French soldiers swpt forward, bayonetting and sabring the gunners. Although the Germans were fighting gallantly they could not withstand the charge and the guns were taken, along with a quantity of ammunition.

ALLIED FORCES IN AN AWKWARD POSITION

Hostile Cavalry Has Advanced Far Into French Territory

London, Aug. 12.—The situation today is fraught with considerable danger to the allies armies. The official announcement from Brdssels that the French cavalry have now reached the Belgian army at what point is kept secret, is believed to indicate that the vanguard only of the French reinforcing army is in Belgium and if this be the case, the main body may find itself compelled to drive back the right flank of the army of the Moselle and the centre of thearmy of the Meuse before it can effect a junction with the main Belgium army.

In the meantime the latter is itself in great danger of being overwhelmed by sheer weight of numbers, as the German forces are advancing in a solid mass with the movement of a steam roller towards Brussels. That the war office at Brussels realizes the danger may be concluded from the following statement officially given out this afternoon:—

The situation is slowly becoming clearer. The German armies are being detached from Liege and are advancing into the heart of the country but it is difficult ti indicate in what direction.

The main body of the hostile cavalry is advancing all along the front of the allied armies. French cavalry have now entered seriously into action and a rather hot engagement is proceeding at the present moment.

Part of this despatch was eliminated by the censor. The point where the engagement is going on is not told. The Belgian patrols state that perfect agreement exists between the allied armies, and adds :—

"The situation continues good for our army. The Germans appear to have retreated and certain points seized by them nave been evacuated."

TWO AMERICAN WOMEN TRAPPED WHEN FRENCH TAKE ALSATIAN TOWN

Detroit, Aug. 12.—At least two American women were trapped in the city of Muelhausen, Alsace-Lorraine, when that town was captured by the French.

They are Mrs. Harrison Geers, of Detroit, wife of the consul general of the Grand Trunk railroad, and her daughter, Baroness Adolph Von Urff, wife of Baron Von Urff, second in command of the German forces which retreated the city.

Mrs. Geers arrived in Muelhausen, July 29th, to visit her daughter. Since the capture of the city and the retreat of the German forces, Geers has been unable to learn anything of the fate of the relatives. He sent an appeal today to United States Consul General Jay White at Naples, Italy, a brother of Mrs. Geers, asking him to make inquiry.

WHY?

Washington, Aug. 12.—All the big ships of the Atlantic fleet will be withdrawn from Vera Cruz and will be brought north by Sept. 1.

ROUMANIA JOINS AUSTRIA AND WILL INVADE SERVIA ANOTHER WAR IS FEARED

Cologne, Aug. 12.—The Koelnische Zeitung says Roumania has joined the Triple Alliance and will invade Servia.

Roumania stayed out of the first recent Balkan War, although she threatened if Austria became involved in the conflict to join with Austria, against Bulgaria, her own old enemy, and Servia, and the latter's allies, Greece and Montenegro.

In the second Balkan War, when the victorious allies were fighting over the spoils which they wrested from Turkey, Roumania saw an opportunity, as soon as Bulgaria was seen to be getting the worst of the fighting, to get a piece of territory south of the Danube, and on the Black Sea, which she has been trying to get from Bulgaria for years. She, therefore, mobilized an army and sent it towards Sofia. It was unresisted, for the Bulgarians at the time were engaged in fighting the Servians, the Montenegrins and Greeks on her southern and western frontiers.

The Roumanian army did not get to Sofia, for the Bulgarians ceded the desired strip of territory to appease her.

Roumania's action in joining with her old friend Austria and the latter's ally in the European struggle may easily lead to another general war in the Balkan states, which has not yet recovered from their two recent wars. Bulgaria has announced her neutrality, but she is mobilized to defend it, and a change to participation in the war would be an easy and quickly affected matter. Bulgarians would like to get back some of the territory they lost to Servia and her allies in the second Balkan war. They also are not satisfied that Roumania should have got the concession she did when Bulgaria was hard pressed. The natural Bulgarian position, therefore, would be against both Servia and Roumania unless her hatred for the former should bring about a temporary alliance with the latter.

When Roumania attacks Servia, Greece can no longer remain out of the conflict, but will have to come to the aid of her Servian allies, and she can send 200,000 men for the purpose. Montenegro, the remaining Balkan State, alregdy is at war in co-operation with Servia.

CANADIAN CRUISER RAINBOW HAS NOT BEEN LOCATED

Ottawa, August 12.—The report in circulation that the Canadian cruiser "Rainbow" had probably been sunk by a German cruiser off the California coast because of the fact that wreckage from the warship had been cast up on the shore near the San Francisco life-saving station is easily explained. It is the custom of battleships to discard all unnecessary works when they clear for action, and the authorities have received word from Commander Rose, of the Rainbow, that the ship had been stripped for action, and all her unnecessary outer works thrown overboard.

This accounts for the wreckage found on the Californian beach. The San Francisco despatch read :

"Wreckage from a British vessel which to-day is established to have been a man-of-war, was cast up by the early flood tide in the neighborhood of the south shore life-saving station. Two white wooden cabin doors, bearing on bright brass plates one the legend "Navigating Officer," and the other "Gunner." This followed the finding last night by Capt. Brombeck, of the south shore life-saving station, wreckage consisting of a door which bore a brass plate, with the inscription, 'Ships' Library.'

Vancouver advises say that the Canadian cruiser Rainbow was only a few hours' sale outside of Cape Flattery this afternoon. It is not known yet whether she will come in immediately or cruise off the cape.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—(Later).—If the Rainbow is safe off Vancouver, Ottawa is not aware of the fact. The Naval authorities at the Capital are to-day without any direct news from the Rainbow and are frankly worried over the safety of the Canadian cruiser with its crew of 450 men, one hundred of which are naval voluntеers from Vancouver and Victoria.

The Rainbow was reported safe last night, but apparently it was another vessel. It is felt that if the Rainbow were near Vancouver it would be communicated direct with the naval authorities for further orders. Frantic efforts are being made to-day to get into touch with the Rainbow by wireless and so far without avail.

It is feared that the Rainbow has been sunk by the German cruisers Leipsic and Nuremburg, which are known to be in the Pacific. The last heard of the Rainbow she was off San Francisco and reported to be clearing for avtion

U. S. WHEAT COMING INTO CANADA NOW

That there is an abundant supply of wheat at hand, that it is coming from the United States, that the Canadian farmer is in danger of losing his local market, is the conclusion that can be drawn from a statement made by L. Coffee and Co., Toronto, grain dealers. They report that one firm in the United States has sold over 50,000 bushels of wheat in Toronto within the past few days.

They sal, "a firm in Detroit writes us saying they had shipped over 50,000 bushels of American wheat to Canada. The price is $1.10 per bushel, duty paid. It is delivered right to the mills for that sum." This comes at a very important time. Being unable to ship their wheat abroad the United States farmers have found a market here.

For Freckled, Tanned, Red or Wrinkled Skin.

Just beneath that freckled, tanned or reddened complexion there's an exquisitely beautiful skin of youthful tint and delicacy. If you could only bring this complexion to the surface, discarding the discolored one! You can—in the easiest, simplest, most natural manner imaginable. Just get at any drugstore an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax, apply nightly like cold cream, removing it mornings with warm water. The wax assists Nature by gradually peeling off the lingering particles of scorched and half-dead surface skin, causing no discomfort whatever. Cutaneous defects like pimples, blotches, liver spots, moth patches, freckles, of course disappear with the old skin. Nothing else will accomplish such wonderful results in so short a time.

Fine lines and even deeper wrinkles often appear at this season. In such cases nothing is better than a face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. This is remarkably effective.

Breakdown Caused by Tea and Coffee

"I am satisfied," says a prominent physician, that coffee is responsible in a great degree for the premature breakdown of our active men and women.

"They suffer from caffeine poisoning.

"Of the truth of this, there is not the shadow of a doubt. Our common sense tells us that the daily swallowing of caffeine" (the alkaloid in tea and coffee), "powerfully affecting heart and brain—is followed by nervous depression, and finally by more or less disastrous results.

"I believe if people in general would use a harmless, nutritious drink like Postum as a beverage in place of tea and coffee, their physical and mental condition would be much improved."

Thousands, troubled with nervousness, biliousness, sleeplessness, headache and heart flutter, have done precisely what this physician advises given up tea and coffee and adopted —

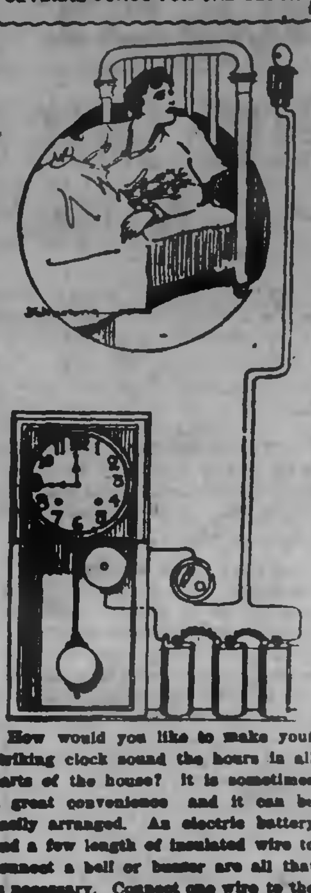
CONQUERS AIR POCKETS

French Aviator Brought Model of New Machine to Canada

Romin Garros, brother of Paul Garros, the famous French airman, exhibited an interesting object to some Montreal newspapermen. It was the model of his brother's new aeroplane said to be able to defy air pockets one of the most fatal dangers to airmen. Garros explained the technical points of the machine.

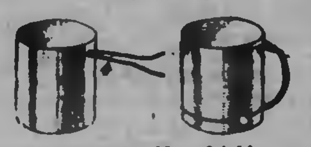
"I am on my way to visit at the Bleriot farm in the west," said he, "and I take with me this little model. It does not look much, but it may prove the means of saving thousands of airmen's lives. It does what we call increasing the inherent stability of the plane, and this little apparatus which you see on the sides acts as a defence against sudden air currents, that is, they enable the airman to regain his balance after being tipped over. We are experimenting with this new plane in France, and are working it to a high stage of perfection. We are not saying much about it until we perfect it, but since you saw the model under my arm I have told you something about it."

SEVERAL GONGS FOR ONE CLOCK



How would you like to make your striking clock sound the hours in all parts of the house? It is sometimes a great convenience and it can be easily arranged. An electric battery and a few length of insulated wire to connect a bell or buzzer are all that is necessary. Connect one wire to the hammer and one to the gong on the striking clock. Then set up your bell or buzzer where you want the strike to be repeated and connect the wires with the battery. The hammer falling on the gong will close the circuit and the extra bell will ring every time the hammer falls. A single stroke bell is best for the purpose, but a vibrating bell or buzzer can be used.

Campers' Cup



A very serviceable drinking cup can be made from an empty baking powder can. A length of good stout wire is all that is necessary. Two holes are made side by side near the top of the can and the wire passed through them, with an even length on either side. The strands are then brought together and twisted to form the handle and then passed around the bottom of the can on opposite sides, being twisted firmly together when the ends meet. This twist about the bottom of the can should be made as tight as possible to prevent the handle from slipping off.

LOCOMOTIVES TOW SHIPS

Forty "Electric Mules" Will Operate at Panama Canal

The forty towing locomotives for hauling vessels through the locks of the Panama Canal weigh 83,501 pounds; measure 32 feet 9½ inches long by 8 feet wide by 9 feet 3 inches the greatest height over the cabs, have an available tractive effort as high as 47,500 pounds, and a windlass rope pull of 25,000 pounds, and four of them, two on each side, will ordinarily propel steamships through the locks. Sometimes six engines will be needed to handle extra large vessels; in every case two astern, acting as a brake on the ship's movements will give direction to her course. No vessel will be allowed to enter the locks and go through on her own power. The locomotive is propelled by means of a rack rail while towing and while going up or down the steep grades from one level to another at a speed of two miles per hour. While running idle or on return tracks the speed is changed to five miles per hour, and the machine is propelled by the regular traction method, the track station being entirely released. This change is effected by manually operated clutches located in the gear mechanism in connection with a lever in each cab similar to a steam locomotive. The locomotive is driven by two 75 horse-power totally inclosed motors of the mill type, one being direct connected through reduction to each axle.

HOW DO YOU SLEEP

Most people sleep on their sides, with the knees drawn up.

Elephants always, and horses commonly, sleep standing up.

Birds, with the exception of owls and the hanging parrots of India, sleep with their heads turned tailward over the back and the beak thrust among the feathers between the wing and body.

Storks, gulls, and other long-legged birds sleep standing on one leg.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ¼ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4530, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

LIGHT AND BELL ON SIGNAL GLOVE

Traffic management is becoming a more serious problem every day in large cities and the matter of keeping things straightened out after nightfall is even more serious than in the daytime. A new device has been invented for the crossing policeman for use in the night time that will take the place of the whistle, it is claimed, and give the people who drive vehicles a better opportunity to understand the signals. This is nothing more or less than a gauntlet fitted with a light and a bell. There are two electric contacts placed on the first finger and one on the thumb of the gauntlet. One of these contacts on the first finger connects with the light, which is set in the back of the gauntlet, and the other connects with the bell. The traffic policeman holds up his hand with the lamp lighted and all coming can see and stop. When he desires the stopped vehicles to move on he moves his thumb to the second contact and the lamp goes out and the bell begins to ring. The bell is a loud tone affair that can be heard above the ordinary roar of the street.

Royal Ladies Dispose of Dresses Which They Need no Longer

There is a custom existing among most royal ladies, as well as among others who spend large sums on dresses, of disposing of the dresses and gowns that are put out of their wardrobes to certain dress agencies, and the money so realized is used to defray part of their dress bills. Two large dress agencies in Paris have the handling of most of the cast-off dresses of European royalties. These transactions are conducted by the chief dressers of the various royal ladies, and the former are allowed to take a certain commission on the sales.

Neither Queen Mary nor the German Empress, however, ever sell their cast-off dresses. Queen Mary's cast-off gowns are given away to the poorer dependents of royalty, or are distributed through certain charitable agencies to poor gentlefolk. The German Empress disposes of her cast-off dresses in much the same way, except that they are practically all given to people in some way or other connected with the Court.

The history of many royal dresses would, no doubt, make curious reading if they could be gathered together. The manager of a celebrated firm of modistes once said that an English lady's-maid came to his establishment on her mistress's business in a gown that he had made for the Czarina of Russia, which he recognized at once, in spite of certain alterations that had been made in it. The modiste could not refrain from seeking to ascertain where the maid had obtained the gown, and learned, after much questioning, that the maid had bought it for $2.50 from an English actress's maid, whose mistress had given it to her.

SEWING SUGGESTIONS

A spool-board will be found a great convenience in the sewing room. Cover a light wooden board with cambric, cretonne, or any suitable material, or paint it. Drive into the board plenty of those long wire nails which are slender and have small heads. Hammer them only enough to hold firmly, leaving them protruding a good distance. Make holes with a gimlet through the upper two corners, to attach a cord or wire for hanging the board in the sewing room. Fill the spikes with spools of cotton and sewing silk. They will be out of the way and at a glance you can tell which one you want.

To make strong buttonholes, place a fine piece of muslin or lawn underneath the buttonhole and work it the same as usual. When it is all finished cut away the muslin close to the stitch.

When putting hooks and eyes on a waist, try this quick way of doing it without measuring: Sew the eyes on the left front, the desired distance apart, with the loops out far enough

BEAUTIFY THE FARM

Shrubs and Climbing Vines and a New Coat of Paint Works Wonders

Bare ground, free from grass, free, even from the weeds of unfailing promise, show up the farm premises at their ugliest and their worst. But it is a good time to stop and take a look at them, and to study the situation out in detail, says Canadian Countryman.

Recently the writer visited a beautiful and, in a general way, a well kept farm. Its owner was prosperous, and prided himself upon his fertile and well tilled fields. Years before he had erected fine buildings. But, with the lapse of time other things had lapsed as well. As agricultural implements and old wagons lapsed, they were "parked" about the barnyard. Scattered about amongst these were piles and odds and ends of lumber, boards, and scrap of all kinds.

It would make a long and doleful list to tell of all that had gathered there and remained undisturbed. It would have made a good bonfire and the basis of some satisfactory business with the first available rag and metal merchant. What it actually did make was a series of highly dangerous traps for live stock of all kinds and an eyesore to everyone except the owner, who had become so accustomed to its presence there that he did not even notice it.

This story is told because there is a tendency for everyone to overlook the objectionable features of a lot that they are surrounded with every day. It is told because there is more or less of a necessity for a real good clean-up on every farm at least once a year. It is told at the present time because the present time is a good one to go at it, when the snow is gone and the grass as yet covers nothing from sight. Take a good look at it and be sure that there is nothing left that others will see more readily than you do yourself.

Take a good look at the house while the ground is still bare. Bare foundations are not attractive. Nobody can really afford to have his home look mean and unattractive. Ten dollars' worth of ornamental shrubs and climbing vines, such as clematis and Boston ivy, would add one hundred dollars' worth of beauty to the appearance of any home which has not got it, as well as of real selling value. But when we speak in terms of sentiment, which one ought to feel for his home, the value is still greater. Next in the way of ornamental decoration, perhaps a concrete walk from stable to house, from house to driveway, perhaps even a new coat of paint might go well with a few ornamental shrubs and climbing vines. If it is needed for appearance, paint is also needed much more as a preservative to the wood. It really costs more to have the house remain ugly than it does to make it a beautiful and attractive home.

AUSTRALIA'S WEALTH

Huge Areas of Island Continent Awaiting Development

Australia has a population of less than five millions, and an area of nearly three million square miles. In that area suitable soil with suitable climate may be found for the cultivation of almost any kind of crop, while the actual wealth of the mineral resources is not yet known, although minerals and precious metals worth over $[illegible] have already been taken from the country. Yet the great bulk of the population is to be found within a comparatively limited distance of the eastern and southern coastline. In other words [illegible] millions of acres of fertile [illegible] great stretches of [illegible] country that have not yet been touched and that only need to be [illegible] up to add very materially to the productive powers of the [illegible] "The thing," said Earl Grey, "that most impressed me in Australia, was the enormous wealth waiting development in every State by the primary producers."

Knee Joint Stiff Three Years

CURED BY NERVILINE.

Anyone would marvel at my recovery, writes Mr. Leonard Lotham, a young man well known about Chatham. I had inherited a rheumatic tendency through my mother's family, and in my early days suffered frightfully. About three years ago the pain and stiffness settled in my left knee joint. I was lame and walked with a very distinct limp. Nerviline was brought to my notice and I rubbed it into the stiff joint four or five times a day. It dispelled every vestige of pain, reducing the swelling, took out the stiffness and gave me the full use of my limb again. I don't believe there is a pain-relieving remedy, not a single liniment that can compare with Nerviline. I hope every person with pains, with sore back, with lameness, with lumbago, with neuralgia I do hope they will try out Nerviline which I am convinced will quickly and permanently cure them."

If Nerviline wasn't a wonderful painless remedy, if Nerviline didn't quickly relieve, if Nerviline wasn't known to be a grand cure for all rheumatic conditions, it wouldn't have been so largely used as a family remedy for the past forty years. No better stronger, or more soothing liniment made. Get the large 50c. family size bottle, small trial size 25c.; sold by any dealer, anywhere.

A good many in Germany would gladly hock der Kaiser, if any pawnbroker would take a chance.

A great many people are to be noticed reading "extras" on the street. With motor cycles and automobiles belching on all sides, it is an easy matter to get into the real war atmosphere here.

On the Other Side of the Hill

It is told of the Duke of Wellington that a friend of his expressed surprise at the Duke's accurate guesses at the topography of an unfamiliar country through which the two were traveling. To which the Iron Duke replied something in this fashion:

"It is a knack I have gained by practice. I have spent a good share of my life trying to guess what was on the other side of the hill."

Whether true or apocryphal, the story aptly illustrates a difficulty which has beset military commanders in all ages up to the present one. It can hardly be doubted that the results of battles would have been changed, and the destinies of nations altered, if generals had been able to know just what was going on beyond the verge of the horizon.

If Marshal Ney had had a flock of aeroplanes at his service, he would not have sacrificed Napoleon's cavalry by hurling them into the sunken road at Waterloo. If Gen. Pope had been supplied with Zeppelin airships or Curtiss flying machines, the Confederate maneuvers which led up to the Federal defeat at the Second Bull Run, could in all probability have been baffled. Scores of instances of the kind could be cited.

The general of today knows what is going on "on the other side of the hill." That is in some respects an advantage, in others, a disadvantage to him. It will be difficult to catch him off his guard. But on the other hand, he cannot emulate some of those daring and original operations which form the most brilliant pages in the war classics of history.

War, without the flying-machine, was like a game of cards, wherein each player knows his own hand, but not the hand of his antagonist and which is a mingled game of chance and skill. But war, with the flying machine, is more like a game of checkers or chess, in which the element of chance is eliminated, each player sees what the other is doing, and mind is matched against mind in a conflict of pure skill.

TWO MORE LYNCHED AT MUNROE AS MURDERERS

Monroe, La., Aug. 12.—Two negroes, Preston Griffith and Charles Hall, were taken from the city hall tower early today and hanged to trees in the jail yard by a mob.

Less than twenty-four hours before Henry Holmes was lynched near here, being implicated in the same crime.

Wednesday night A. J. Madden, an aged man, who conducts a small grocery near the town limits, was hacked to pieces by robbers.

Holmes was caught by a mob early Thursday, confessed that he was the instigator of the attack, implicated Griffith and Hall, and was lynched. The other two were caught yesterday and placed in jail here.

Fearing trouble the sheriff moved them to the city hall tower. The mob ascertained the negroes were in the tower when one of them lighted a cigarette.

Bay Springs, Miss., Aug. 12.— The hanging Sept. 2 of Mose Johnson, self-confessed slayer of Paymaster Reese Fitzpatrick, in the Laurel hold-up will be public.

An order to this effect was passed by the board of supervisors of Jasper county Thursday.

The execution will be directly in front of the courthouse and the gallows will be in open view of all spectators.

TO CREMATE DEAD ON BATTLEFIELD

New York, Aug. 12.—Portable incinerators to be used for the cremation of the dead on the battlefield, are to be used by the Germany army in the present war, according to advices just received by Dr. Hugo Erichsen of Detroit, president of the Cremation Society of America, it becomes known here today.

"Cremation as practised in the conflicts of the past has been the crudest possible description," said Dr. Erichsen. "The general staff of the German army, however, has adopted a portable crematory that will be used on the battlefield and is capable of incinerating 25 bodies an hour. The ashes, whenever possible, will be returned to Germany for burial."

OIL THE GREAT WEALTHMAKER

We hold over 3,000 acres, more or less, of oil leases North and South of Monarch and several of our leases are in the same range as the Monarch well.

Many companies claim to be close to Monarch but we are one of the very few who are in Range Six upon which the Monarch Well is situated. Therefore, we must be on the same anti-cline and as it is a foregone conclusion Monarch will get oil, so will we.

Fifty-Seven Feet of Oil Bearing Sands Passed Through in Monarch Well

OFFICIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN OUT BY PRESIDENT GEORGESON—WELL IS NOW DOWN OVER 1,800 FEET AND FLOW OF WET GAS HAS BEEN STRUCK IN LOWER LEVELS—GEOLOGIST DUNN IS AWAY AT PRESENT

Heavy oil showings are being found in the Monarch well, west of Olds, although the oil has not yet come in in commercial quantities.

To put the exact facts before the public, President William Georgeson and Treasurer G. W. Morfitt, of the company, this morning issued an official statement from the drillers setting forth the results.

The heaviest oil seepage has been encountered through a stratum 57 feet thick, and the well is now 1850 feet deep.

A sample of this oil baled out at 1,775 feet was brought to the city this morning and is in the office of Mr. Morfitt, Grain Exchange Building. The oil is a heavy black petroleum with the characteristic petroleum odor.

The statement issued by the officers is as follows: In the absence of Mr. Dunn, Mr. Van Alst, the head driller, reports that from the depth of 1,775 feet to 1,832 feet he went through oil bearing sands for 57 feet. Throughout there was a heavy showing of black oil in the baler. Two further showing of black wet gas were met at 1,805 feet and 1,815 feet.

The well is now down 1,850 feet. Wet gas has shown at 623 feet, 1,430 feet, 1,805 feet and 1,815 feet.

Oil sands have shown at 808 feet, (18 feet), 1,430 feet (40 feet), 1,740 feet (14 feet), and 1,775 feet (57 feet).

The well is now down 1,850 feet, and while there are good oil showings there is not as yet oil in commercial quantities.

Our stock is on the market at 50 cents a share, a Dollar par, and will be advanced without notice any day pending Monarch Well developments. It is practically a certainty that Monarch will be in oil in commercial quantities within two weeks, Our stock will jump away above par and you had better hurry if you wish to share our prosperity.

FIVE YEAR OLD GIRL ACCUSSES MAN OF CUTTING HER WITH A WHIP---CHILD BADLY CUT

New Orleans, Aug. 12.—"Hurry down to 930 Frenchmen street; a man is beating a child unmercifully," said a nervous woman's voice over the telephone to Superintendent Thomas H. Agnew of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, late Friday evening.

Special Officer H. A. Rhodes and Patrolman Albertos hustled over to the address and rapped on the door. It was the second-hand furniture shop of Edward Hynes.

Six feet of brawn lumbered to the door and said: "Yes, my name's Hynes. Wha' d'ye want?"

"Where is the child that somebody was beating up in here?" demanded Officer Rhodes.

CHILD'S LEGS BLEED; BACK BADLY MARKED.

"Come 'ere, you!" shouted Hynes over his shoulder, according to Officer Rhodes.

And from a corner in the yard a trembling little girl, sobbing and cringing at the man's look, limped to the door. Her legs were cut and bleeding; her back was red and bruised; her face was swollen from the blows of a heavy fist. Her name is Helma Selles, and she is five years old.

Officer Rhodes took the child aside.

"He beat me"—she whispered, pointing at the giant Hynes—"he beat me 'cause I wasn't sweeping the yard fast enough to suit him. He beat me with that whip."

And she limped over to a corner of the room and brought back a stunted buggy whip. She bared her back. A lattice-work of cuts and welts covered it.

MOTHER HOUSEKEEPER OF ALLEGED BRUTE.

The child's mother, Bertha Selles, has been Hynes' housekeeper for some time. Little Helma lived with the mother, Rhodes and Alberts learned, and she said that Hynes was always beating her.

The condition of the child was serious enough to warrant her being taken immediately to the Charity Hospital, where the sisters and doctors worked on her cuts and bruises all night.

In the Juvenile court Saturday morning she could barely walk. Her legs are circled with cuts.

Hynes, when arrested was charged in the Fifth Precinct with assault and battery. Affidavit was filed in the Second Recorder's Court Saturday morning.

CHILD TO BE PUT IN ORPHAN ASYLUM.

About three years ago Bertha Selles and her two children were brought from St. Bernard parish by Officer Rhodes and put in the St. Vincent Orphan Asylum. The woman stayed there for some time, but left to take the job as housekeeper for Hynes. She took Helma with her, but the older girl, Genevieve was placed in another orphan asylum.

Superintendent Agnew has taken the child from the mother and will put it in an asylum.

Hynes is a giant. He stands over six feet, and his arms, bared to the elbow, are enormous.

"It is the most horrible case I have ever heard of," said Superintendent Agnew. "I think Hynes should be punished with the whip that he used so terribly on this infant."

CAUSE OF FLOODS SHOWN BY SCIENCE

Some Results of Deforestation in Canada as Viewed by Forestry Branch at Ottawa

Science and general experience agree in saying that when country is covered by forests the water runs off it more slowly and regularly than it does after the forest has been removed. This is due principally to the fact that the forest stems and ground cover offer a mechanical obstacle to the surface run-off, while the roots of the trees keep the soil open, thus permitting the surface water to percolate into the subsoil.

In Western Canada, forest surveys conducted by the Dominion Forestry Branch furnished considerable evidence of the evil results attending forest destruction by repeated fires. The forester in charge of a recent survey made of the Swan Hills in Northern Alberta states: "Of the 7,33 square miles examined only about 2 per cent. have been preserved from fire during the last hundred years, and only 250 square miles could be considered as bearing a mature growth. No one will ever know how many million dollars worth of the national wealth in virgin forest was turned into ashes, now being washed away, with the best of the soil, by the rapid current of the Athabaska river." This area has since been included in the Lesser Slave forest reserve, and, like other Dominion reserves in the West will be administered with the double object of providing timber for the settlers' needs and of regulating the flow of the great rivers of Central Canada, so that navigation may not be hindered by the filling up of the river-bed with eroded soil and debris, and so that an even flow of water may be insured for power-developing plants.

In the older settled regions of Eastern Canada the relation between floods and indiscriminate deforestation is even more clearly evident. Mr. W. H. Breithaupt, M. Inst. C.E., says. "With deforestation stream-flow in the Ontario Peninsula has greatly changed. Spring floods are very much higher and there are floods on heavy rains, while during the season of minimum flow many streams which were formerly considerable throughout the year practically disappear. The discharge of the Grand River at a point above the outlet of the Speed is now only 80 to 100 feet per second at low water and 10,000 to 20,000 feet per second at flood."

Similar deforested conditions likewise prevail on many of the watersheds in Quebec, and the Martime Provinces, and, by causing extremes of high and low water, have a detrimental influence on navigation and the development of electric power. It has frequently been urged that the Dominion Government should assist the provinces in the reforestation of these areas or in their protection from forest fires.

The Commission of Conservation, in a report on forest conditions in the Trent River Valley, urged that on the 150,000 acres of practically desert land on this water-shed, the result of repeated fires, a policy of conservation be carried out under Dominion, provincial or municipal control, in order to regulate the water-supply of the Trent Canal, on which upwards of $10,000,000 has been expended by the Dominion Government.

Living Without Brain

Before the Academy of Sciences, Prof. Edmond Perrier cited the case of a man who lived a year with practically no brain. He was 62 years old and had slight visual trouble, but no alarming symptom, neither paralysis nor convulsions, all his senses remaining normal. After he had died from a sudden attack of epilepsy an autopsy was held, and the doctors found that his brain was simply a thin shell. Dr. Perrier stated that the case seemed to disprove the theory that special parts of the brain control all the functions of the body.

Huge Canadian Park

Canada's new park of ninety-five square miles in British Columbia is big to our ideas, but is really small compared with other American "playgrounds." Until recently the Yellowstone reservation, Wyoming, comprising nearly 4,000 square miles, was the largest park in the world, but its glory has been eclipsed during the last five years by the reservation of Jasper Park, Saskatchewan, which boasts 5,000 square miles—almost as large an area as Yorkshire.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Eggs For Hatching

Eggs that are washed do not always hatch as well as those which are clean when taken from the nest, which shows that it pays to keep clean henhouses and clean nests.

Developing Australia

The Australian states concerned and the commonwealth have agreed on a locking and storage system for the Murray river that will open a navigable waterway 1,000 miles into the heart of producing Australia.

Protecting the Roads

Italy is drafting and will enforce a series of regulations covering the width of wheel rims to be allowed on highways.

Dentists Cannot Advertise

In Tasmania dentists are forbidden by law from any form of advertising.

New Shoe Device

Ball and socket fasteners have been patented to hold tongues of shoes in place.

Telephones in Canada

There is a telephone for every 15.2 persons in Canada, according to official figures.

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Wire "Dish-cloth"

Use a wire dish-cloth, which may be bought for a trifle, for cleaning pots. It will save much time.

Stamps Stuck Together

If stamps have become glued together, lay a thin paper over them and run a hot iron over it. Take stamps apart at once.

Making Eyelets

When punching eyelet, place the material over [illegible] of white soap. This makes a [illegible] edge, which is easily worked over.

Chopped Cheese

When preparing macaroni and cheese, put the cheese through the food-chopper instead of grating it. Much less time will be required.

To Remove Ink Spots

To remove ink spots from wash materials soak the spot with kerosene. Finally rinse with kerosene, then wash as usual.

Keeping Bread Warm

A good way to keep a pan of bread dough warm over night is to set it on a warm soapstone wrapped in a clean flannel.

Darning Hint

Sew bit of netting over the hole in stockings and darn in the usual way, but through the meshes, skipping every other one. The result will be a firm, neat darn. If white netting be used, the same idea may be used for knitted underwear.

To Clean a Steel Buckle

Steel buckles and ornaments that have become slightly rusted, may be cleaned as follows: Rub well with sweet oil; let stand for a couple of days, then rub with powdered, unslaked lime, and polish with chamois.

To Test a Broom

When buying a broom, test it by pressing the edge against the floor. If the straws bristle out and bend, the broom is a poor one. They should remain in a solid, firm mass.

To Run Ribbon

To run ribbon through beading, or through a hem, fasten a small safety pin to one end of the ribbon and use as though it were a tape-needle, which is seldom to be found when wanted.

Loose Knife Handles

When knife handles loosen, fill the cavity in the handle two-thirds full of mixed resin and brickdust, then heat the shaft of the knife and press it into its place. Hold it till firmly set.

THAT is the motto of the modern merchant. He knows his business will grow exactly in the proportion of his ability to make it useful to the public.

The better he can make himself known for character, for courtesy, for fairness in price, the larger will be the measure of his success.

The modern merchant believes in taking the public into his confidence.

He believes people are interested in the sources of merchandise, its purposes, its character, as well as its fineness and price.

He classes these things as legitimate news of his store.

He tells this new through the advertising of live daily newspapers, like "THE TIMES."

He feels it is part of his servic to keep the public informed.

PLAN TO ENFORCE VACCINATION LAW

North Tonawanda, Aug. 12.— Will the vaccination law be enforced in the public schools of Tonawanda and North Tonawanda at the opening of the school year next month?

This is a question local residents, who are opposed to the inoculation of children, are now endeavoring to have answered since the highest court in this state has held that children may be forced to be vaccinated and return to school under the provisions of the state law.

Asked whether the vaccination edict would be enforced in North Tonawanda this year, a member of the school board this morning said; "I wouldn't be surprised, inasmuch as the state department has a ruling on the subject. As far as I can learn, no order has yet been received from the state department of education in relation to the subject. I have been informed that some school districts have already received orders strictly to enforce the vaccination law in September." It was decided last spring the vaccination law would be enforced in Ton-

From what can be learned the Tonawanda schools will enforce vaccination at the opening of the school this fall. Asked this morning as to whether the report that school children in Tonawanda will be excluded if not vaccinated ten days after the opening of the public school Edward Betts, secretary of the school board, said: "Yes; that is my understanding. It was decided last spring the vaccination law would be enforced in Tonawanda during the next school year, and children would be given an opportunity to be vaccinated during the summer months. Supt. Sutley is away this week. I believe that he understands children must be vaccinated before September 21."

THE WEED PROBLEM

A proper rotation and cultivation will do much to eliminate weeds, but the thrashing machine problem is not so easily solved. It is almost impossible to clean the machine of weed seeds. They stick to the screens and in every crack and corner, and will sift out all day long.

One solution of this problem is the private outfit. A small machine may be bought for $150 to $250 that will thrash from 30 to 60 bushels per hour. If electric power is available this makes an ideal outfit; even a gasoline or horsepower engine may be used with satisfactory results. But many farmers do not care to invest so much money, so we must look for some cheaper way of thrashing our seed grain. If ten or fifteen farmers in a district would club and buy a regular outfit and hire a good man to run it and do only the thrashing of those who have a share in the output, it would pay them. If these men would grow the same varieties, and keep their fields free of weeds, then the machine could go from farm to farm and grain would not be mixed with other varieties or full of weed seeds.

RARE PLANT AT OTTAWA

Only One of its Kind in Canada—Blooms Once in 150 Years

To have been in existence for over half a century, to bloom once and then wither away, is likely to be the fate of the "Agave Attenuate," in the Government greenhouse at Ottawa. The Agave is one of the rarest flowers known, and the one at Ottawa is the only one in Canada. About forty years ago, when the present greenhouses were erected on Parliament Hill, the plant was moved there. Very little was known about it, and it was tenderly cared for and curiously watched to see what it would do. The plant at last assumed its maturity, and this is likely to cause its death. The only other known specimens are in the botanical gardens in Washington, D.C. The only times that they are known to have bloomed were in 1897 and 1898.

The plant is a native of Mexico, and was discovered by plant hunters there in 1834. It is not known how the specimen came to Canada, but it is thought that it was through the agency of some of the United States plant collectors. However, it was placed in the Government greenhouses some time before 1873.

Lettuce Induces Sleep

The lettuce plant has had a reputation as a sedative from very ancient times, says "Science Siftings." The Romans were in the habit of partaking of it at the evening meal to insure peaceful slumbers. In later days many celebrated physicians prescribed it as a soothing herb, but it was not until the end of the seventeenth century that a Dr. Cox experimented extensively with the latex, or milky juice obtained by making incisions in the stem. This crude juice, when dried into a solid mass, he named lactucarium, and he, as well as other doctors, proclaimed its virtues as a substitute for opium.

Finding Metals by Spectroscope

Mineral waters are usually analyzed by means of the spectroscope, as shown by M. Jacques Bardet, and this is likely to prove one of the best methods for this work. He sends a beam of light through the water to be analyzed and thence through the spectroscope prism, in order to permit of examining the spectrum, this method revealing very minute traces of metals. He finds [illegible] metals in different samples of mineral water, and even the rarest metals, such as germanium and gallium, which are very rarely found in nature.

DREAMS AND DISEASE

Troubled Sleep Frequently Traceable to Bodily Ailments

What is a dream? Many have tried to pierce the mystic veil that divides sleeping and waking life. Dreams and their portents have formed the study of numerous scientists; but strangely enough, little progress has been made in the scientific understanding of dreams. Professor [illegible] a well known scholar and investigator voices some remarkable facts regarding the relation of disease to dreams.

"Dreams of patients suffering with organic disease of the heart and kidneys are sometimes greatly troubled by terrors and wild phantasies. This I have often seen in fevers and in the acute infectious diseases generally. Such a symptom," says the professor, "is evidence of a disordered bodily state, in which the nervous system is reacting to some toxic or mechanical stimulus of considerable intensity. One patient used to dream again and again that a cat had him by the throat, and was slowly choking him to death. This mental agony would continue until he awakened spontaneously with a sensation of great tenseness and fullness in the throat. He developed finally a cancer of the throat.

"Where such dreams occur again and again we should seek for the cause of the stimulus in some localised region of the body."

Mail Order Firms Sell Lists of Customers' Names

When a man in St. John, N.B., or New Westminster, B.C., receives a courteous letter from a Toronto or Winnipeg business house about which he has never heard, he may wonder how in the world his name ever became known to such a concern. It probably does not occur to him that by buying something by mail he has made his name a commodity in itself and become a target for commercial correspondents as long as he lives and probably long after a tombstone has been erected to him on some grassy hillside. His name and address may be used by perfectly respectable enterprises or by fakers, depending usually upon the kind of a concern he first tries to do business with.

If you have ever answered the advertisement of a medical concern your name and address is worth anywhere from two cents to ten cents. But if you have actually bought medicine by mail it is worth more.

If you have ever been so unwise as to buy treatment from any of the hundreds of quacks that advertise, your name is worth anywhere from twenty-five cents to $5. It all depends, in that case, on how susceptible a "sucker" you have been. Quack doctors have been known to pay as high as $5 a name for men who were good "producers," that is, who have paid money for long periods for medical treatment.

There are firms that make a business of dealing in names of mail-order customers. This firm writes to a house in the mail-order business

IMPORTANT NOTICE

CALGARY, July 23rd.—An official statement just issued by the Monarch Oil Company states that the drill has just passed through a 57-foot strata of oil bearing sand, at a depth of between 1775 and 1832 feet. A sample of the oil from this oil sand is on exhibition at the Company's office in Calgary. This is the fourth oil sand encountered in the well, and indicates that a good producing well should be obtained before going much deeper. The Hole-Woollard Oil Company is making preparations to drill on its property in the Monarch district, which adjoins the property of the Monarch Oil Company, and we are advised that the price of shares will be advanced as soon as drilling operations are started. The time to invest in the shares of the Hole-Woollard Company is NOW, before the advance in price.

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascertained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1380 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

INSTRUMENTS IN WOUNDS

Surgeons Sometimes Leave Articles in Patients' Wounds

Hardly a week goes by that some patient who has undergone an operation does not find that he has been enriched by a pair of scissors, a lancet, a piece of gauze, a finger ring or some similar foreign body, which, through the negligence of the surgeon or his assistants, has been sewn up in the wound.

In up-to-the-minute hospitals no operation, however simple, is performed by a surgeon single-handed. Usually the operating surgeon is assisted by at least two or three other doctors, three nurses and an anaesthetist, besides an orderly who carries the various articles needed back and forth. After the incision has been made the busy assistants and nurses adeptly and in a flash stitch up each bleeding spot. So quickly is this accomplished nowadays that even in a tedious operation on the kidneys or appendix lasting several hours it is rarely that the patient loses more than a thimbleful of blood.

Between the skilful moves of the chief surgeon the others staunch the drops of blood with pincers, forceps, needles and sterile gauze. Everything that reaches the wound is thoroughly sterilized and perfectly free of germs.

But with 20 busy hands, 20 busy fingers and thumbs, all at work at the same time over a gaping wound and handling many hundreds of small instruments, such as lancets, scalpels, forceps, scissors, needle holders, bits of gauze and silk, it is hardly any wonder that every now and then one of the instruments or a piece of gauze is stitched up in the wound.

According to the doctors, none of these "foreign bodies," if free of germ life can do any harm. Human tissues, they point out, cannot be injured by steel, iron, gold, nickle-plated or linen materials. Instruments, gauze, or even rubber, may be allowed to remain in a clean-cut wound for years with ay kind resulting.

Mastication of Bread

The importance of mastication, so much and so rightly insisted upon by many contributors to the subject of diet, is very marked in the case of bread, says Dr. C. W. Saleeby, in "Health, Strength, and Happiness." Digestion begins in the mouth, and the teeth are of great value in making bread practically useful. It is a mistake to eat new bread just because its consistence protects it from the teeth. It is so moist that it can scarcely be chewed, and cannot suck up the digestive juices of the saliva. It is largely because toast, and biscuits and stale bread and crusts are dry that they are so useful. In the first place, the teeth can work upon them, and, in the second place, they soak up the saliva. Biscuits are much more digestible than ordinary bread in the stomach, and stale bread is much more digestible than new bread. On the whole, and as compared with other vegetable foods, white bread is extremely well absorbed—best of all when it is taken with other kinds of food.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

Copper is one of the world's chief necessities, and the demand for it is constantly increasing. Growth of the electrical industry largely accounts for this. Telegraph and Telephone Wire—Trolley Wire—Trolley Wheels and the multitude of other Electrical Machines and Parts—Power Transmission Wire and the use of the metal in various valuable Alloys—these are some of the places where copper is consumed, and while its production is enormous it is used about as rapidly as it can be mined and made ready. THIS IS WHY OWNERSHIP IN A COPPER MINE IS ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY SOURCES OF INCOME POSSIBLE TO IMAGINE.

TIME TO START

Naturally the time to secure an interest in any sort of enterprise is at the start, because it is then that money for development and equipment is needed and this is, of course, the reason why shares in the project are released! When these necessities are provided for the Opportunity passes.

For years we have been spending time, effort and money in getting together one of the largest known copper deposits, and we now own and control thousands of acres of land, covering veins of copper, ore carrying gold and silver values, extensive veins of coal, iron and lime.

The geology is so well defined as to make identifications of size and location of the copper bearing veins a perfect definite matter. In addition to this the estate has been thoroughly prospected by some 4,000 feet of work, there being more than 100 shafts, pits, cuts and tunnels, every one of which shows copper in paying quantities. The dumps of these openings run from 2 to 8 per cent in copper metal.

Facilities for economically winning the copper from its ores are remarkably fine. In the company's own ground are five known coal beds, insuring a perpetual supply of cheap fuel, easily accessible and located within a very short distance of the site chosen for its furnaces. Water and timber are also abundant and easy of access.

One of Colorado's most eminent mining engineers, after thoroughly examining this property, states in his report that the net profits resulting from operation of this property should range from $250,000 to $1,000,000 each year.

There is no uncertainty, no guesswork, about this project. Applied to it, a definite cause will inevitably produce an equally definite effect. Equipment for mining these immense bodies of ore and reducing the metal in them to bullion means dividends—it can't mean anything else—and it is to provide this equipment and the funds required for its installation and the preliminary operating expenses of the estate that an interest in the project is offered to you.

It is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to join in a well planned, conservative, and exceptionally profitable business undertaking. The foundations are laid, the property is acquired and the next step—providing the equipment—is now being taken. So soon as this is accomplished your chance to secure a share in the enterprise will be gone.

"IT IS BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN SORRY"—ACT NOW!

A Local Orphelia ?

A sad case was tried "in camera" at yesterday's police court when an 18-year-old girl named Kelly, from Havelock, was charged with vagrancy. It seems that the girl had been working during the past two weeks at a hotel in Norwood, and, being discharged came to the city. She was seen at midnight with a young man, at the driving park, and was later arrested at the C.P.R. station, where a man had offered to pay her fare to Havelock. She refused to go, saying she had "other business on." Mrs. Adjt. McIlhenny took charge of the girl's case. In court she showed what looked like the symptoms of Shakespear's character "Orphelia." She kept pulling single hairs from her head and drew them through her fingers. She was remanded for a week.

BATTLE OHAELEN A GERMAN DEFT, 5,000 ARE ROUTED

Despatches Call Engment the "First Considerable Battle of War"

Brussels (via London), 13.—The fighting yesterday b the Belgian and German armi the vicinity of Diest lasted the day and constituted the first able battle of the war. It will own as the battle of Haelen.

The battle centred around len in the Belgian Province of rg, extending to Diest in the ol the Province of Brabant al ing round Zeelhem.

Hasselt was thrice taken man troops and thrice recapt Belgians, who still hold it.

Diest is a fortified manuf town of Belgium, on the Demer, 37 miles north-east of Louvain len is a village 11 miles west d selt, the capital of Limburg, on the Demer. Diest and Haelen half a dozen miles apart. The e ment took place north of a st line between Liege and Brussels, half way between the two points. Hall at Diest. Many horses also were captured.

The strength of the German column was about 5,000 men, though one report said that 1,000 cavalry were engaged on both sides in one of the encounters. The German force comprised the second cavalry division, 2,500 strong, supported by infantry and artillery.

Country Cleared of Germans

At seven o'clock last evening the country between the three to mentioned had been cleared of man troops except the dead a wounded, who were thickly strew about the fie? cone, but shells we still reported falling on the road around Diest. The Belgians claim t have repulsed the flanking movement completely.

Upwards of 200 dead German soldiers were counted in a space of fifty yards square.

WIDOW GETS $4,000 LESS $780 UNPAID BY DEAD HUSBAND

Buffalo, Aug. 13.—By the terms of a decision returned yesterday by Judge Hazel in the United States district court, Mrs. Carrie E. Stockwell, of Attica, N.Y., is awarded the full amount due her from two certificates of membership held by her husband in the Independent Order of Foresters, less $780, the valid assessment on the certificates alleged never to have been paid by Mr. Stockwell.

Mrs. Stockwell brought action against Supreme court, Independent Order of Foresters, to cover $4,000 which she asserted was due her on two certificates of membership held by her husband. Judge Hazel in his decision declares that the plaintiffs husband joined this order at Attica, and was in good standing when he died, except that he had not paid a special assessment of $780 on the two certificates.

The Foresters adduced this fact as their defense. Judge Hazel holds the special assessment valid, but declares it is no reason for depriving the widow of her benefits.

IMPORTANT MOVEMENTS ARE IN PROGRESS

News of Southern French Advance is Rigidly Suppressed

London, Aug. 13.—The strict censorship and consequent dearth of despatches from Southern Alsace seems to indicate that movements of the utmost importance are in progress there. A Basle despatch says the Germans are reported to have sustained terrific losses in the attempt to dislodge the French from their position back of Muhlhausen. The 112th and 169th Regiments are reported to have been annihilated and several prominent officers also fell.

A Berlin despatch declares that the German troops near Muhlhausen have captured ten French officers, five hundred men, four guns, ten wagons and many rifles.

According to the report German territory has been cleared of the French. It is also stated that at Lagarde the German troops made more than one thousand prisoners, about one-sixth of the two defeated French regiments.

The French Minister of War explains that the engagements on the Franco-German frontier are no more than outpost skirmishes.

"The best denial that can be given to the report that the French lost 20,000 men at Altkirch," says the Minister, "is that the total effective French troops did not reach that number."

It is further explained that the advance of the French infantry on Muhlhausen was to cut the centre of German communication, and it is added that this was successfully carried out.

The communication concludes:

"We are placing in upper Alsace a considerable number of troops."

Several hundred German prisoners passed through the Champigny station, near Paris, where they will be interned. The soldiers are quite unconcerned as to their fate. The German officers in the party, however, were sulky.

Combined for Immediate Attack

Nish, Servia, Aug. 13.—The imminence of a big battle between Austrians and the combined forces of Servia and Montenegro, at Visegrad, in Bosnia, is indicated in an official statement given out yesterday by the Servian War Office. The statements says that the Austrians have entrenched their positions at Visegrad, and that the Servian and Montenegrin forces have combined for immediate attack in force.

Italy To Be Neutral.

Paris, Aug. 13.—Tommaso Tittoni, Italian Ambassador to France, issued and had posted at the Italian Embassy and in the Italian quarters of Paris yesterday a signed notice stating that: "Italy has proclaimed and will maintain the strictest neutrality. Therefore there is no need for Italians to be alarmed. They may continue to reside in France in full security."

Austrian Ambassador to Leave

London, Aug. 13. — Arrangements have been made for the departure today, of the Austrian-Hungarian Ambassador, Count Amensdorff-Pouily-Dietrichstein, who has been in England for 18 years as secretary, Minister and Ambassador respectively, and who is one of the most intimate friends of the British Royal family.

GREAT FLEETS OF OLD WORLD ARE COMPARED

Expert Considers the Strength of Germany as Revealed by Figures

The present situation in Europe inevitably suggests consideration being turned to the relative standing of the fleets of the great Powers, writes the naval correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph. He goes on: Naval and military force is intimately related, and though Servia has no fleet, Austria-Hungary not only wields one of the most formidable armies on the Continent, but possesses a navy which in the past few years has shown considerable expansion. By slow steps she has ranged herself beside Italy and France, her two neighbors in southern waters, as a country with sea aspirations and sea power which cannot be ignored. Though at present it seems unlikely that the Austro-Hungarian fleet—or any other fleet for that matter, it may be hoped—will become involved in the existing trouble (the article was written before the war became general), the relative position of the principal navies of Europe must in the circumstances be a subject of some immediate interest.

It may be remarked at the outset that since the Agadir crisis the predominance of Germany on the seas has become less pronounced than it was. After a long period of comparative inaction, France has begun to make up the leeway which she lost owing to mistakes on the part of her politicians and naval advisers—but chiefly of the former—and Russia has spent lavishly in pursuit of the task of rehabilitating the naval organizations which suffered so severely at the hand of Japan during the war in the far East. But in spite of these movements Germany remains the second greatest naval power not only of Europe but of the world; having outmanoeuvred France she has now definitely outdistanced the United States.

It is desirable always to avoid committing the error of assuming that the standing of the fleets depends on the number of Dreadnoughts which they contain. Dreadnoughts are excellent battleships, but it would be absurd to ignore that value of older battleships merely because they do not happen to mount more than four big guns. Nor is it even safe to base a final judgment on statistics as to the relative strength in effective battleships—dreadnoughts and pre-dreadnoughts. A navy is a delicately organized machine, and with its battle fleets must be associated squadrons of cruisers and flotillas of destroyers and submarines.

Even when all these facts and figures have been mastered, no conclusion can be formed, because ships without crews are useless, and crews without long and persistent training are more dangerous to themselves than to an enemy if he be efficient. Consequently, in the light of all these considerations, it is no easy matter to assess the fighting weight of the great fleets; estimates must be based on a variety of considerations, such as the numbers and types of ships, the strength and character of the personnel, the strategical and tactical ability of the admirals, and the efficiency of the central organisations and all the supply service.

But, although this is not the occasion, perhaps, nor is space available for a complete study of all the several factors which have been suggested, it is, nevertheless, possible to reach a rough and approximate estimate of the standing of the great fleets of Europe.

If the figures as to the number of completed battleships and cruisers less than 20 years old are examined in association with the number of officers and men on active service, a basis for judgment can be reached. If, furthermore, the battleships be classified in classes—first, second and third—the last named being the oldest and weakest—we secure a conspectus which is at once simple and fairly reliable:—

Navy—	Battleships: 1st	2nd	3rd	Ttl.	Cruisers.
Germany	13	4	20	—37	48
Italy	3		8	—11	16
Austria	2		9	—11	7
Totals	18	4	37	—59	71
Britain	21	9	34	—64	110
France	8		13	—21	30
Russia	2		6	— 8	14
Totals	31	9	57	—97	154

The personnel of the above fleets is as follows:

Germany 74,000; Italy 37,500; Austria 19,000. Total—130,500.

Britain 146,000; France 64,500; Russia 53,500. Total—264,000.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT AT THE ARMOURIES

Yesterday morning at 9.30 the Fire Brigade was given a run, promptly responded to, to the Armouries. There was more steam than smoke found on their arrival. It seems that a plumber named Robert Northcote, of East City, whose mother resides on Murray street, started a fire in the borth boiler of three in the Armouries' basement, and was getting up steam for the purpose of discovering a leak in the boiler, when the boiler burst, blowing every window out of the east side of adjacent cellar and flooding the place with water. Northcote, who was standing near the boiler, received a fragment of metal full on the side of the face and was in addition badly scalded on the back and chest. He was taken to Dr. McPherson's Surgery and treated, and subsequently conveyed to the Nicholls Hospital, where he now lies in a somewhat critical condition. The furnace, some eight feet high, by five feet in diameter had the top blown completely off. It is thought that water was turned on when the dome of the furnace was red hot thus generating steam that the cast iron furnace could not sustain. Pieces of the burst windows were found by a Times reporter 100 feet from the scene of the accident. The ¾ inch bars, guarding the basement window where Northcote was scalded were broken in by a scantling in a frenzied attempt, fortunately proving successful, to save him

TWO INDIAN YOUTHS ASSAULT THEIR FATHER

Buffalo, Aug. 13.—Two Carlisle students—young Indian woman and a lithe brave—were held for the grand jury by United States Commissioner Charles K. Robinson yesterday afternoon on the charge of assaulting their aged father with a hammer and a baseball bat.

The defendants were Claudia Jamison and Richard Williams, daughter and son of Charles Williams, farmer of Cattaraugus reservation, and complainant against his offspring. The daughter has been married about a year.

Tribesmen at Hearing

Hearing was held in the marshal's rooms, federal building. The apartment was crowded with Indians, who laid their spreading sombreros between their feet, and with traditional stoicism, watched the case unfold.

Charles Williams, complainant, said he sent his son and daughter to Carlisle about four years ago. About that time his wife, their mother, died. He took another wife to himself and changed his quarters to her tepee, leaving the family homestead forsaken and barren.

Through college, and tired of roaming, the brother and sister, it was testified returned to Cattaraugus reservation and re-opened the old home There were two wagons on the place, which Williams senior declares were left there by him.

Wagon at Issue

When he went to the old place on July 21 to get them, however, he met opposition, it was said. With the father was Elmer Armstrong, who had been hired to help Williams cut the hay. The couple visited the homestead and started to take away the wagon when son and daughter protested. The daughter testified her father came at her with a hammer. This the complainant denies.

He testified his daughter struck him over the head with a baseball bat and hit son hit him on the knee with a hammer. There was a plaster across Williams's skull.

The girl is twenty-two. The boy is twenty years old. They signed their names to the witness voucher in copper-plate fashion.

TO QUICKLY REMOVE UGLY HAIRS FROM FACE

(Beauty Notes.)

Beauty-destroying hairs are soon banished from the skin with the aid of a delatone paste, made by mixing some water with a little plain powdered delatone. This is spread upon the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed to remove the remaining delatone. This simple treatment banishes every trace of hair and leaves the skin without a blemish. Caution should be used to be certain that it is delatone you buy.

THE BRITISH WAR OFFICE SAYS THAT GERMANS ARE IN A FAN-SHAPED LINE

German Cavalry Hold Huy, Marche, and Houffalize, and Columns are Marching Towards the Valley of the Ourthe --Engagement Near Hasselt---The Germans Are Entrenching at Vise

London, Aug. 13.—The Admiralty and War Office Information Bureau issues the following:

"An engagement is in progress north-west of Hasselt in the Province of Limburg between a Belgian cavalry division, supported by a brigade of infantry, and the German second cavalry division, 2,500 strong supported by a battalion of infantry and twelve pieces of artillery.

"The German fourth cavalry division is reported moving towards Jodoigne in the Brabant Province of Belgium

"The German infantry is known to be on the left bank of the Meuse except the above mentioned battalion. The Germans are entrenching at Vise. The forts are holding out.

"The Germans are constructing batteries north of Liege, preparatory to a seige. Heavy guns have already been heard. The Germans are constructing a railway between Vise and Homburg, parallel with the frontier of Dutch Limburg. They are also entrenching themselves in Liege.

"Huy, Marche, and Houffalize are points held by German cavalry. Columns of German cavalry are moving eastward toward the valley of the Ourthe.

"The French retreat from Mulhausen was well carried out. The proportion of opposing forces was four Germans to each Frenchman. The German field artillery proved far inferior to that of the French."

The foregoing announcement is the most illuminating yet received as showing the precise position in Belgium of the German advance. By reference to the map the facts stated so briefly in the Admiralty bulletin clearly shows the position of the German forces. The five points mentioned as being approached or occupied by German cavalry are spread out like a fan. They are, in order from the north, Hasselt, Jodoigne, Huy, Marche, and Houffalize, the latter being close to the eastern Belgian border. In the centre of the segment of the circle formed by these five points lie Liege and Vise, the two points at which the Germans are throwing up entrenchments, undoubtedly for the purpose of making this the base for further operations. A railway being built eastwardly from Vise to Homburg is evidently for bringing up masses of German troops and supplies. The advance German guards on the outer edge of the fan are probably small detachments of cavalry and their positions are as yet undoubtedly more or less precarious, particularly in view of the fact that even the forts at Liege, lying considerably in their rear, have not yet been taken.

THE NORTH SEA MYSTERY REMAINS STILL UNSOLVED

[illegible]

Heavy Cannonading, However, Was Heard Off Dover This Morning

London, Aug. 13.— Developments in the war zone, which appears chiefly confined to Belgian territory, are made vague owing to the strict censorship over news relating to military movements

Positions occupied by the main French, Belgian, and British forces are not permitted to be disclosed even approximately, so that their plan of campaign cannot be assumed.

As to the German forces, indications from various resources point to the concentration of the main body with its right wing in Belgium and its left wing in the Duchy of Luxemburg. The German staff is said to have gathered 26 army corps along the eastern frontier, facing Belgium and France. Many of these troops probably are stationed in the great fortresses in Alsace-Lorraine and along the Rhine. One despatch asserts the defence of Germany's Russian frontier has been left to armies made up of reserves. Although all of these are trained soldiers, it would seem natural to leave as a nucleus for their organisation a considerable force from the active army.

NORTH SEA STILL A MYSTERY.

The dispositions and strength of the French invaders in Alsace, where they are said to hold a long line with in the German border, are kept rigidly secret.

On the sea, the reported safe arrival in the Dardanelles of the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau has led to rumors of their probable dismantling until the end of the war.

On the North Atlantic, although Rear-Admiral Cradock has declared it "clear of German cruisers as far south as Trinidad," the French liner Rochambeau, which was to leave yesterday with French reservists, was held in New York by orders from France.

In the North Sea, which the British Government says may be strewn with mines, the main squadron of British battleships are still out, but their position is not publicly known. Neither is the location of the main German fleet public property.

SOCIETY WOMEN SEWING

Washington, Aug. 12.—A group of prominent society women gathered at Red Cross headquarters today and formed a sewing bee. They spent the afternoon sewing the red cross insignia on the uniforms of the nurses which will be sent to the war zone in Europe when demanded.

Among the seamstresses were Mrs. W. W. Wotherspoon, wife of the chief of staff of the army; Mrs. W.W. Kingman, wife of Capt. Kingman; Mrs. W. Willing and Mrs. E. I. Atkinson.

The American Red Cross received more than $4,000 today in contributions for the war sufferers. Among the donations were two of $2,000 each from Mrs. Redfield Proctor, of Vermont, and her daughter, Miss Emily Dutton Proctor.

WOUNDED SOLDIERS AT SOUTHAMPTON

London, Aug. 13.—A number of wounded troops arrived at Southampton to-day from Belgium. The report did not say to which army they belonged.

Over 100 German prisoners of war taken from trawlers in the North Sea were landed to-day at Fort George, Scotland, by British cruisers.

The Austrian steamship Izrala has been captured off Land's End by a British gunboat and brought to Mounts Bay.

The Prince of Wales relief fund for sufferers from the war totalled to-day $4,325,000.

ASIATICS IN CANADA

The last official returns from Tokio giving the census of Japanese abroad contains the statement that there are 9,615 male Japanese and 2,637 female members of the same race in Canada —a total of 12,252. From other sources it is learned that there are about 25,000 Chinese in the Dominion, 2,500 Hindus and about 18,000 negroes. These latter come in free, while Japanese and Chinese pay $500 head tax. So that altogether there are about 60,000 people in this country who are [illegible] Caucasians.

IMPROPER FEEDING OF FARM ANIMALS

Healthiness in Stock Maintained Only by Diligent Care and Study

It is now generally recognized that diarrhoea among young calves is due to a bacterial infection. Several different kinds of bacteria have been found to cause the disease. The great majority of cases, however, are caused by various forms of the common coli bacteria, or by a nearly related species, the paracoli. These species of bacteria are found in the intestines of all healthy animals. Ordinarily they are perfectly harmless. Sometimes, because of improper feeding, or other causes, a calf becomes so weakened that these bacteria are able to set up a severe inflammation in the alimentary canal. This produces the diarrhoea or scours, and usually results in the death of the calf. After a passage through one or two such calves, these bacteria acquire a greatly increased virulence. They are then able to attack healthy calves and cause their death. When such a virulent strain is once established in a barn to another on the shoes and cloth it. The infected calves are daily passing billions of these bacteria with their droppings. These are carried about from one part of the barn to another on the shoes and clothing of the attendants, by the bedding and even by the dust in the air.

The calves may become infected in various ways. Infection through the navel cord happens occasionally, but this does not occur so frequently as is generally supposed. A much more frequent method of infection is through the mouth. The calf brings its nose the mouth.

To Prevent Disease

A knowledge of the cause of the disease renders methods of prevention much simpler. On farms where the disease is not serious it is only necessary to see that the calf is born in a clean stall and is kept well supplied with clean bedding. Such a stall should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected each time before it is used. After the calf is weaned careful attention shiuld be given to the milk. It is necessary that the milk should be handled in a cleanly manner. The milk must be fresh and should be warmed to 95 deg. F. It should be given in clean pails which are kept especially for that purpose. After use these pails should then be thoroughly washed and scalded. It would be still better if all the milk used were pasteurised by heating barely to 140 deg. F. for twenty minutes. Such treatment will kill all diarrhoea and tuberculosis germs. Such precautions if carefully carried out, will prevent the disease on farms where it is not a serious infection.

On farms where the infection has gained a strong hold, prevention is a much more difficult task. On such farms the virulent bacteria are spread throughout the barn and the young calves become infected through the straw or even the dust. At such places it might be possible entirely to isolate the young calves in a new stable, where with special attendants and a careful attention to details, the disease might be eradicated. Such methods, however, are usually not practicable.

The Serum Treatment

Dr. C. O. Jensen, Copenhagen, Denmark, has devoted a great amount of time to the study of calf diarrhoea. As a result of his work he is able to produce a serum or rather several serums against the different forms of this disease. The serum treatment is now used extensively and with excellent results in Denmark and in many parts of Germany.

The preparation of such serums requires a great amount of labor and care if they are to prove successful. Since there are a number of different strains of both coli and paracoli bacteria which can cause the disease it is always necessary to examine calves from each farm in order to find out just which strain of these organisms in causing the disease. Then a serum appropriate for a given form has been obtained it is only necessary to inject a small quantity of this under the skin of the calf immune to that particular organism and usually no further trouble will be experienced. Dr. Jensen has carefully shown that such methods will both prevent and cure the disease.—F. M. Surface in Breeders' Gazette.

Diminutive Fire-arm

A revolver which has been designed for the nervous woman to carry in her vanity bag is probably the smallest weapon of its kind in the world. From the tip of the hammer to the end of the barrel it measures about three inches, and it fires a steel bullet about the size of a pin's head. The weapon, which is the latest production of a leading gunmaker, is beautifully made, with mother-of-pearl mountings.

Working Girls' Army

"There are about 110,000 milliners and dressmakers, 83,000 typists and clerks, and 14,000 girls under fourteen years of age earning wages in London," said Miss Emily Kinnaird, at a meeting in London in support of hostels for girls.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, too a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4630, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

THE BEE-STING CURE

Not Only Rheumatism But Alcoholism Succumbs to Treatment

According to the recent testimony of various doctors and their patients some really wonderful cures of rheumatism and sciatica have been effected by the sting of the bee. In one case a person crippled by rheumatism for fifteen years was completely cured after he began to keep bees and was continually stung by them; while in another case a lady who had been crippled for four years by an attack of rheumatic fever had bee-stings applied to the various affected parts, and within a fortnight the stiffness and pain left her feet, ankles, elbows and finger-joints.

And there are several authentic cases of people over eighty years of age who have suffered for years from rheumatism being completely cured by this novel remedy.

The explanation lies in the fact that the bee, when it stings, injects a large quantity of formic acid into the body. This acid as has been shown by experience with hundreds of cases, is the best antidote for the poisons in the system which stiffen the muscles and joints with rheumatism.

It is affirmed, too, by physicians that inebriety as well as rheumatism may be cured by bee-sting. This discovery was made quite by accident in a London hospital. Five men were being treated for chronic rheumatism. Four of them had been hard drinkers for years, and one was a confirmed drunkard. Bee-stings were applied to them, and the rheumatic condition promptly subsided. When they were finally discharged they found that the treatment had done more than cure the rheumatism—it had destroyed their taste for alcohol. Even the sight of drink nauseated them, and since leaving the hospital several months ago not one of them has touched liquor.

The hospital physicians, who were as greatly astonished at this unexpected result as their patients, set on foot a widespread investigation into the effects of bee-stings on drunkards to see whether they are an infallible cure for inebriety. Facts already brought to light show that an intoxicated person is quickly sobered by a bee-sting, and that drinking men who take up work among bees, where they are frequently stung, soon lose their old craving for alcohol.

GOOD CONSTITUTIONS VITAL FOR THE HERD

Cattle Need Good Food and Plenty of It, Particularly in First Year—Succulent Roots Best

Few stock raisers appreciate the exact importance of constitution in their animals, and what it means to them in the development of their herd and the profits that accrue therefrom. Many are short-sighted enough to think that most economical gains will be made by maintaining the stock on a meagre ration, and feeding heavily when the time of finishing comes. This is one mistake that has led to a reduction of profits and deterioration of many herds.

There is nothing more important than constitution in animals for all the purposes for which the herd is maintained. The success of an animal as a good breeder depends largely upon its constitution, and most dairymen know that the persistency and abundance of a cow's flow of milk depends largely upon her constitution. The same may be said of fattening steers. If they do not have that development of lungs, heart and other organs whose active operations maintain and develop the body they will be poor doers in the end.

The first year of the animal's life is the critical time in the formation of these organs which go to make up the constitution of the animal. If they are maintained on meagre rations and dry foods they will not develop those organs as will the animal that is fed on succulent food and liberal rations. The entire organs of the body will develop in harmony with the amount of food they consume. It is true with growing animals that where they are sent to the block at an early age, those fed on rape, silage, roots and such roughage will not dress out as heavy a percentage as will the dry-fed animals, but if they are maintained for a longer period of time the subsequent gains will be made at a much cheaper rate, and whether they be kept for breeding purposes or whether they be retained to finish at two years or two and one-half years of age, the breeder of stock will enhance his profits by developing the animals from the start with succulent fodders, such as silage, rape, clover and roots.

Electricity From the Air

A Spanish inventor, Senor José Iglesias Blanco, succeeded in extracting electricity from the atmosphere. Experiments were carried out at Pozuelo near Madrid. Antennae were mounted in poles upon a wooden tower erected on a lofty eminence. Electricity at a pressure of 6,000 volts was received and transformed to 110. Sixteen lamps were easily illuminated at full pressure during a prolonged test. The inventor states that he can obtain enormous quantities of atmospheric electricity at will.

QUEER TASTES OF ANIMALS

Some animals and also birds have very extraordinary tastes for different foods and drinks quite apart from those with which Nature has provided them, and it is in the knowledge of these peculiarities that the skill of the trapper lies.

So marked is a monkey's taste for an intoxicating liquor made from the fermented juice of rice that this drink is invariably used for trapping these creatures. Bears are very partial to alcohol, and many of the performing variety find their highest reward in honey and beer, or rum-and-water mixed with sugar.

Canaries delight in eating lettuce, which is well known for its narcotic properties, and they will eat it to such an extent as to leave themselves stupified for a long time afterwards.

Foxes, ordinarily the most cunning and, consequently, the most difficult to capture of animals, readily succumb to a trap baited with the body of a dead cat.

Stoats, weasels, etc., the bane of the gamekeeper, are seldom proof against a trap sprinkled with oil from fish.

Canadian Actress Got Roses From "Dad"

MILDRED RICHARDSON

Just as Mildred Richardson, 16-year-old chorus girl in "The Queen of the Movies," was about to go on at the Globe theater, New York, the stage manager handed her a wonderful bunch of roses, with this note:

"To Mildred, from her first stage-door Johnny. Daddy."

And, sure enough, there was "daddy" at the stage door. He is W. H. Richardson of Bromley, Saskatchewan, and had made the trip to New York just to see his little girl make her first stage appearance.

Our Point of View

Our old friend Colonel Bolivar Beasley so dislikes to exert himself that he employs a man to do his cussing.

—o—

The more we ponder over the European situation the stronger grows the conviction that Europe's crowned heads are a bunch of boneheads.

War may be passing out of human experience, but the enthusiasm and interest displayed on the streets is evidence that the mention of it can cause a thrill even now.

Throbbing Pain Goes Quickly

A YEAR'S SUFFERER CURED BY "NERVILINE."

No person reading this need ever again suffer long from Neuralgia.

Nerviline will quickly cure the worst Neuralgia, and Mrs. G. Evans, in her strong letter written from Russel post office, says:—"One long year, the longest of my life, was almost entirely given up to treating dreadful attacks of Neuralgia. The agony I experienced during some of the bad attacks was simply unmentionable. To use remedies by the score without permanent relief was mighty discouraging. At last I put my faith in Nerviline; I read of the wonderful pain-subduing power it possessed and made up my mind to prove it valuable or useless. Nerviline at once eased the pain and cured the headache. Continuous treatment with this magic-working remedy cured me entirely, and I have ever since stayed well."

Mrs. Evan's case is but one of hundreds that might be quoted. Nerviline is a specific for all nerve, muscular or joint pain. It quickly cures neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, lame back, neuritis and rheumatism. Forty years in use, and to-day the most widely used liniment in the Dominion. Don't take anything but "Nerviline," which any dealer anywhere can supply in large 50c. family size bottles, or in a small 25c. trial size.

The latest news from Berlin says the partnership between "Me and Gott" has been dissolved and hereafter the Kaiser's firm will be "I and Me."

After informing the public for months with biting sarcasm that the "emergency" was dead, the Toronto Globe makes a furious attack on its Conservative contemporaries for pointing to the arrival of the "emergency" safe and well.

That Sir Edward Grey, Minister of Foreign Affairs, said "If Germany will have it, she shall have it in full measure," before a declaration of war is very improbable. Such a statesman would not use this kind of firebrand language in laying facts before Parliament for serious consideration.

Paying for a House With Rent

Of course every renter knows that he might just as well live in his own house as to pay rent. All he has to do is to buy on the installment plan and receive credit on the house, until it is paid for, for the money that he would otherwise pay out as rent. He knows this is so because an innumerable number of real estate dealers have informed him of the fact. There are various incidentals— such as taxes, insurance, repairs and improvements—that are apt to be overlooked when the burden is assumed, but nevertheless it is well to assume it, for it encourages a saving habit which would never be acquired in any other way.

There is one place in the world, however, where, when the statement is made that the cost of accumulating a bundle of rent receipts will pay for a house and for the incidental expenses at the same time, it is an [illegible] building houses for workingmen. It will provide a lot and build on it for any wage-earner who has saved up $50 for an initial payment, at a cost not to exceed $3,000. He is required to pay on it weekly or monthly at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, part of which is for interest and part applies on the principal. It takes a long time to pay for it— about 25 years—but during that time the buyer pays no more than he would if he were a renter. A year's payment on a $3,000 place would be $210, while the usual rent of such a place would be $300. This leaves him a margin of $90 for taxes and upkeep. If he pays between $23 and $24 per year for state life insurance the house becomes the property of his heirs should he die before all of the payments are made.

This scheme has proved very popular in four years it has been in operation and is being extensively taken advantage of by railroad men, clerks, mechanics and workmen of all grades. The law has recently been extended to cover five-acre plots in the country.

This is a highly commendable work the New Zealand government is engaged in and a similar plan ought to be adopted in our own country. Of course the land speculator couldn't engage in it—there would be no profit in it for him—but Dominion government could. In the meantime it would be a good thing for philanthropists to turn their attention to. Carnegie could do vastly more good in that way than he can by donating libraries.

OIL THE GREAT WEALTHMAKER

We hold over 3,000 acres, more or less, of oil leases North and South of Monarch and several of our leases are in the same range as the Monarch well.

Many companies claim to be close to Monarch but we are one of the very few who are in Range Six upon which the Monarch Well is situated. Therefore, we must be on the same anti-cline and as it is a foregone conclusion Monarch will get oil, so will we.

Fifty-Seven Feet of Oil Bearing Sands Passed Through in Monarch Well

OFFICIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN OUT BY PRESIDENT GEORGESON—WELL IS NOW DOWN OVER 1,800 FEET AND FLOW OF WET GAS HAS BEEN STRUCK IN LOWER LEVELS—GEOLOGIST DUNN IS AWAY AT PRESENT

Heavy oil showings are being found in the Monarch well, west of Olds, although the oil has not yet come in in commercial quantities.

To put the exact facts before the public, President William Georgeson and Treasurer G. W. Morfitt, of the company, this morning issued an official statement from the drillers setting forth the results.

The heaviest oil seepage has been encountered through a stratum 57 feet thick, and the well is now 1850 feet deep.

A sample of this oil baled out at 1,775 feet was brought to the city this morning and is in the office of Mr. Morfitt, Grain Exchange Building. The oil is a heavy black petroleum with the characteristic petroleum odor.

The statement issued by the officers is as follows: In the absence of Mr. Dunn, Mr. Van Alst, the head driller, reports that from the depth of 1,776 feet to 1,833 feet he went through oil bearing sands for 57 feet. Throughout there was a heavy showing of black oil in the baler. Two further showing of black wet gas were met at 1,805 feet and 1,815 feet.

The well is now down 1,850 feet. Wet gas has shown at 633 feet, 1,430 feet, 1,805 feet and 1,815 feet.

Oil sands have shown at 908 feet, (48 feet), 1,430 feet (40 feet), 1,740 feet (14 feet), and 1,776 feet (57 feet).

The well is now down 1,850 feet, and while there are good oil showings there is not as yet oil in commercial quantities.

Our stock is on the market at 50 cents a share, a Dollar par, and will be advanced without notice any day pending Monarch Well developments. It is practically a certainty that Monarch will be in oil in commercial quantities within two weeks, Our stock will jump away above par and you had better hurry if you wish to share our prosperity.

RUSSIANS SUCCEED IN ATTACK ON AUSTRIANS

St. Petersburg, Aug. 13.—A Russian force has taken the town of Sokal, Austrian-Galicia, by assault, inflicting heavy casualties on the Austrian garrison, according to a semi-official announcement.

The Austrian garrison consisted of two infantry battalions, a regiment of Lancers, and a regiment of Hussars. After dislodging them the Russian cavalry pursued the Austrians across the River Bug and blew up two bridges and a viaduct.

Several houses in Sokal, which is 45 miles north-east of Lemberg, were set on fire and burned to the ground by the Russian troops because civilians had fired from them on the attacking force.

The Russians captured some military building material, pontoons, and telegraph instruments.

GERMAN PRISONERS IN PARIS

Paris, Aug. 13.—The first German prisoners passed through Paris today, on their way to Poitiers. The men were mostly Uhlans. The trains conveying them passed round the city on the belt railroad, so that few of the general public saw them.

Works in a Boot

A boot six feet long and three feet high, made in correct proportions and of genuine leather, stands in front of a Los Angeles repair shop. It contains a set of pigeon-holes and drawers for nails, tools, etc., and is furnished with a half-horse-power electric motor operating a stitching machine. Standing in this boot, the workman goes on with his task, to the amusement of the crowds that pass along and the novel advertisement is said to be a trade-bringer.

Machine Juggles Fractions

An "interest-computing machine" has been invented by a Hungarian. The instrument is said to be comparatively simple and inexpensive. It is about the size of a watch. On setting the hands at the proper positions on the dial, the amount of interest in each case is indicated on the face of the instrument.

A French perfume manufacturing firm has constructed a portable distillery to distill extracts from wild flowers in the regions in which they grow.

No Single Guide to Distinguish Edible From Poisonous Kinds

There is a popular tendency to restrict the name "toad-stool" to poisonous species of fungi and that of "mushroom" to the edible ones; but since one cannot tell, except by trial, whether a particular "toad-stool" is poisonous or not, the distinction, according to a reliable medical pulication, is neither satisfactory nor advantageous.

Many reputed tests to distinguish the innocent from the harmful toadstool are current and are implicitly believed in by some. It cannot be too emphatically stated, therefore, that so far as is known there is no single guide, with the possible exception of a chemical analysis, which will give results of any value whatever. Any scheme for distinguishing edibility in these fungi should be decisive and give uniform results. Some of the alleged tests deserve mention in order to point out their unreliability and their danger. Among them the so called "silver test" is most prevalent. It is believed that a silver spoon or coin placed with toadstools while cooking will demonstrate by blackening, or failure to blacken, whether or not the fungi are safe to eat. It need only be said that there are both poisonous and non-toxic species which act alike on silver. Again, no reliance is to be placed on the contention that if the outer (upper) skin of the top of the toadstool peels off readily, such a species is edible. Some poisonous species also will "peel." Flavor has often been alleged to serve as a reliable guide to edibility, the bitter or peppery species being charged with detrimental attributes. Experience shows, however, that the most poisonous toadstools are not at all disagreeable in respect to flavor of the raw tissues. Other "tests" are the alleged tell-tale color changes that are supposed to appear when toxic mushrooms are bruised or broken; or the existence of a milky juice, or the susceptibility of the fungi to the invasion of insects, which are believed to avoid the pernicious varieties. None of these "tests" can be applied with any certainty. As the "proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof," so the surest way of learning to distinguish the poisonous from the innocuous mushrooms is by eating them—a heroic procedure—or by learning the experience of others.

HOW TO SHIP POULTRY

In Forwarding Live Birds Only Coops of Standard Size May be Used

New regulations governing the shipping of live poultry have been adopted by the Express Traffic Association of Canada, after conference with the representatives of the packing houses, and approved by the Board of Railway Commissioners. In future, only coops of standard size and construction may be used. The new coops for poultry must have sides, ends and tops slatted, and tops with slats more than 1½ inches apart must be protected by wire netting. Coops containing chickens and ducks must not be less than 13 inches nor more than 16 inches in height, while coops for geese or turkeys must not be less than 16 inches nor more than 22 inches high. The regulations also provide that coops must not exceed 30 inches in width and 48 inches in length.

The new regulations are the outcome of an agitation on the part of the Humane Society, which has been pressing the matter forward in hope of doing away with the suffering inflicted on the birds through the use of inadequate or improperly constructed crates.

IX.—Fitful Fads—Immortal Manners

Do not be ashamed of father just because he does not know the latest fad of etiquette. The visitor at your home, whoever he is, will not regard a little breach on father's part nearly as seriously as he will your exhibition of horror. Supposing he does eat his French peas with his spoon instead of using the fork. Have you any assurance that we will not be expected to employ the nut cracker for the purpose next season?

Etiquette is to manners what the spring fashion is to attire. Etiquette literally means pin-sticking. The rules of etiquette constantly vary, but good manners are unchanging the world over. Menelek of Africa might need posting on the local proprieties at the White House, but in an examination on genuine good manners he would pass with honors, I trow. If good old King Alfred came back to England, he might not be familiar with this year's code at Windsor Castle, but in all essentials of breeding he would be strictly up-to-date.

Etiquette belongs to the hands and feet; manners to the soul. Etiquette comes from superficial training; manners from disposition of heart. Etiquette may be learned in books for the adornment of drawing rooms; manners may be developed in the desert for use anywhere. The untrained man may not know what to do with his awkward limbs; the ill-mannered man finds it difficult to control his brutish heart.

So never mind where father puts his napkin. If he prefers tucking it in at his Adam's apple, as he does with the towel while shaving, by all means let him do it and save laundry. An Englishman told me that a hundred years ago the London style was to wear the napkin to the chin for the soup, to the top button of the vest for the entree, to the lower button for the roast, and on the lap for the dessert. By the time the wine was finished it was customary for napkin and glass, guest and host, to rest in happy confusion 'neath the table. Seriously, at much-married King Harry's table the food was still transferred from plate to mouth by thumb and fore-finger until Cardinal Wolsey on his return from Rome, introduced to Englishmen the new Italian fad of table forks.

A century ago it was quite rulable to put knife to lip. Fifty years later they still poured the tea from cup to saucer to let it cool. Bishop Fowler's book of etiquette, published in 1880, tells us that boiled eggs should be eaten from the shell, and the egg must be chipped from the larger end. A later work of authority permits us graciously to break our breakfast eggs into a glass.

For your own part try to be up-to-date in table manners, remembering that

"New occasions teach new duties;
Time makes ancient good uncouth"

But do not be too impatient with father.

SERMONS OUT OF CHURCH

By the Rev. Byron H. Stauffer

X.—"If I Ought, I Can."

Blessings on the head of old Pelagius, father of heretics! He has been abused throughout fifteen hundred long years, and you can't open even a Methodist discipline to-day without finding an attack on this pioneer schismatic in the form of the well-known phrase, "As the Pelagians do vainly boast." Beg pardon for presuming to inform you that the old gentleman was born in Anno Domini 360. You may not have the date in your birthday book. He was a humble Irish monk, layman at that, of pure life, and, as an enthusiastic biographer declares, of exceptional sanctity, whatever that may imply. Going to Rome, he found the moral tone of society in the Eternal City scandalously low. His rebukes were met with the plea that as all men are the sons of Adam, they are therefore irremediably prone to sin, and as big sins are no more objectionable to God than little sins, one might just as well sin vigorously and have a big batch forgiven at a time. Pelagius traced this gross indifference to the Augustinian doctrine of total depravity and at once proceeded to tear down the shelter behind which the churchly sinners were hiding. He boldly asserted that the innate evil theory cut the sinew of all human effort. He said that a babe came into life with a character like unto a piece of clean paper upon which nothing had been written, good or evil. He proclaimed a new maxim: "If I ought, I can." At any rate the idea was new to the folks at Rome, and as it was repugnant as it was new, they proceeded to charge the author with heresy.

Into the details of the poor monk's trial before John, Bishop of Jerusalem, his acquittal, his arguments with Augustine himself, his final excommunication, you will not care to follow me. Pelagius disappears from the church courts and, indeed, vanishes entirely from the search of the historian. All we have left is the formula: "If I ought, I can."

That has the ring of a New Thought motto of the Twentieth Century, hasn't it? It sounds as if Brother Trine or Sister Wilcox might have said it in an experience meeting of their cult. And yet it was proclaimed a thousand years before Columbus discovered America. How an occasional find such as this phrase, of something [illegible] he had supposed to be quite a new wrote: "Is there anything whereof it may be said, 'See, this is new?' It hath been already of old time which was before us. There is nothing new under the sun."

But new or old, isn't it a beauty of a motto? "What I ought, I can." It was intended of course to be limited to the realm of morals. What a fine self-respecting, self-assertive declaration. It is so unlike the creature-of-circumstances, worm-of-the-dust, child-of-Adam apology that sinners of all ages and creeds habitually put forward.

"What I ought, I can." It sounds reasonable. As an ideal to keep steadfastly before us, it cannot be improved upon. What I ought, I can. It is heresy to deny that nowadays.

Coloring Live Trees

We have known for some time that plain horsehair can masquerade as the costly aigrette, but it has remained for the chemist to do a more daring deed. He can transform a cottonwood tree into Circassian walnut or something of that sort. The milliner does not cause horses to grow plumes on their dignified persons, but the chemist injects dye solution into the tree, and lo! the character of its wood changes. The amount of liquid some trees absorb is astonishing. One Scotch fir is reported to have had a capacity for three gallons in two days, at which time its appetite was sated. Now that trees have taken to drinking, it is hard to say what deception the future may show in the way of wood.

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascer-tained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

GRAZING O RESERVES

Under New Regulations Far More Cattle May Use Grasslands

The new regulations for Dominion Forest Reserves, which recently went into force, make full provision for the grazing of live stock on such reserves as frequently contain considerable areas of grassland. The number and kind of stock to be admitted into each reserve is determined each year by the Director of Forestry according to the capacity of the reserve.

In case of many applications for grazing rights on any one reserve, the number of stock which any one person is entitled to pasture is fixed by a "grazing unit," based on the number of stock which can be carried during the winter by a homestead or small ranch, the object being to give settlers without large grazing areas of their own, the same facilities as those who have such areas. But, where there is no danger of overgrazing, the number of stock grazed by any one person on a reserve may considerably exceed this "grazing unit."

Previous to these regulations only actual settlers living in the vicinity were permitted to graze cattle (not to exceed fifty head), on these reserves, and very little grazing was done.

Forestry Facts

A homesteader, taking up land near Dominion Forest Reserves in the West may obtain a free permit from the local Forest Officer to cut 3,000 lineal [illegible] 500 fence-posts, 2,000 fence-rails and 25 cords of firewood. If then or subsequently he should require more wood for any purpose, he can obtain a permit to cut such on these reserves at a very small cost.

According to a Government publication 997,456,000 board feet of wood are being used annually by the industries of Ontario, representing a total value of $19,161,384. Of this amount, considerably over five million dollars are paid for imported material, for although all except eight of the thirty-four kinds of wood used are found in Ontario, almost half of them are obtained principally from outside sources and only six local species entirely supply local demands.

Cork is the bark of an oak which is at present found in large quantity only in Spain and Portugal. The owners of groves of this tree strip off the bark every decade, this being the time necessary to obtain cork one and one-quarter inches thick. It is usually cut into strips which are steamed and flattened and compressed into bales for export. If bottle-corks are to be made, the sheets are once more steamed and cut into cubes, afterwards being trimmed into shape by hand or by machine.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

Copper is one of the world's chief necessities, and the demand for it is constantly increasing. Growth of the electrical industry largely accounts for this. Telegraph and Telephone Wire—Trolley Wire—Trolley Wheels and the multitude of other Electrical Machines and Parts—Power Transmission Wire and the use of the metal in various valuable Alloys—these are some of the places where copper is consumed, and while its production is enormous it is used about as rapidly as it can be mined and made ready. THIS IS WHY OWNERSHIP IN A COPPER MINE IS ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY SOURCES OF INCOME POSSIBLE TO IMAGINE.

TIME TO START

Naturally the time to secure an interest in any sort of enterprise is at the start, because it is then that money for development and equipment is needed and this is, of course, the reason why shares in the project are released! When these necessities are provided for the Opportunity passes.

For years we have been spending time, effort and money in getting together one of the largest known copper deposits, and we now own and control thousands of acres of land, covering veins of copper, ore carrying gold and silver values, extensive veins of coal, iron and lime.

The geology is so well defined as to make identifications of size and location of the copper bearing veins a perfect definite matter. In addition to this the estate has been thoroughly prospected by some 4,000 feet of work, there being more than 100 shafts, pits, cuts and tunnels, every one of which shows copper in paying quantities. The dumps of these openings run from 2 to 8 per cent in copper metal.

Facilities for economically winning the copper from its ores are remarkably fine. In the company's own ground are five known coal beds, insuring a perpetual supply of cheap fuel, easily accessible and located within a very short distance of the site chosen for its furnaces. Water and timber are also abundant and easy of access.

One of Colorado's most eminent mining engineers, after thoroughly examining this property, states in his report that the net profits resulting from operation of this property should range from $250,000 to $1,000,000 each year.

There is no uncertainty, no guesswork, about this project. Applied to it, a definite cause will inevitably produce an equally definite effect. Equipment for mining these immense bodies of ore and reducing the metal in them to bullion means dividends—it can't mean anything else—and it is to provide this equipment and the funds required for its installation and the preliminary operating expenses of the estate that an interest in the project is offered to you.

It is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to join in a well planned, conservative, and exceptionally profitable business undertaking. The foundations are laid, the property is acquired and the next step—providing the equipment—is now being taken. So soon as this is accomplished your chance to secure a share in the enterprise will be gone.

It is now nearly two weeks since Germany mobilised its far famed army for an attack on France, and one week since, according to the Kaiser's plans, its advance guard should have been knocking at the gates of France. It is authoritatively given out here that there is not a single German soldier on French soil, although the German army has made considerable advance into Belgium. On the other hand it is admitted in Germany that there are still large bodies of French troops in Germany's Alsace-Lorraine. This is the outstanding fact of the war situation to-day. It is quite apparent that except for the advance in Belgium, which is bravely deterred by the Belgians, with French and British troops rushing to their support, the Kaiser's troops have not been successful. In the absence of any news of its own forces, on land or sea, Great Britain is taking great encouragement to-day out of continued reports of Belgian and French victories. These are minor victories to be sure, but well worth mentioning.

London, Aug. 14.—The Official War Press Bureau in its service to-day reviews at some length toe operations in Belgium and confirmed the earlier reports from Brussels of sweeping Belgian victories in the heavy skirmishing that has taken place. The Bureau says: "On Friday morning the German cavalry division, supported by infantry and machine gun column armed with guns mounted on autos, was trapped by a force from the Belgian fortifications at wamur, which had been sent out to prevent an attack on these forts. The Germans were defeated and then driven eastward, the Belgians capturing many prisoners and all of the machine guns." "To-day Friday—the Belgian army is in entire command of the situation. The Germans have been driven back at every point of attack, and there are now no cavalry of the enemy between Hasselt, northeast of Liege, and Ramillies, 19 miles southwest of Louvain. The Liege forts are still holding out. They are well supplied with food and ammunition and their guns are being served with unerring acuracy."

AUSTRIAN FLEET GETS TOGETHER.

Vienna, Aug. 13.—All the Australian warships operating against the Montenegrin coasts have been withdrawn and the entire fleet has been massed in anticipation of an impending attack from the combined British and French Mediterranean fleets.

THREE GERMAN AVIATORS KILLED.

London, Aug. 14.—Three German aviators were shot down at Diest yesterday, two being killed and the third seriously wounded, while their aeroplanes were wrecked.

LIEGE STILL KEEPS THEM OUT.

Brussels, Aug. 14.—An official statement issued from the war o—ce at noon to-day, says: "The situation throughout Belgium continues satisfactory. There have been no important developments to-day. The Germancolumns are contenting themselves with masked movements designed to ascertain the strength of the Belgian defences, but there has been no serious fighting. There have been no important movements to-day."

The Liege forts still hold out and the German bombardment of them has proved ineffective. The Germans are still in Liege, but the civil government of the city is not being interfered with.

GERMAN ARTILLERY ENTRAPPED.

Paris, Aug. 14.—According to reports made public at the war office one entire German division with artillery was entrapped and after being decimated by a deluge of fire was forced to surrender near the entrance to St. Marc Pass. Skirmishing between the opposing armies along the entire frontier continues. The French positions have been maintained at every point. In every engagement the superiority of the French artillery and cavalry has been thoroughly demonstrated.

WHOSE BATTERED CRUISERS ARE THESE?

Tokio, Japan, Aug. 14.—That the German cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau have been in a battle at sea with either the English cruisers Minotaur and Hampshire or the French cruisers Dupleix and Montcalm is indicated by reports from Hong Kong that two badly battered cruisers have entered that port. They must be either French or English and those named are known to have been searching for German cruisers for several days.

GERMANS DECLARE NOTHING SERIOUS.

Berlin, Aug. 13.—(Delayed and doubly censored.)—The German advance is proceeding as planned. Whatever losses the army has sustained in the operations on the French border and in Belgium were anticipated. The forward movement continues along the very lines selected by the general staff. It was expected that there would be losses but the very fact that the forward movement proceeds and that the army is marching on towards Paris, shows that the claims of great German disasters are unfounded. French and Belgian prisoners of war are being sent to the concentration camps. No details of the army positions are known and information regarding fighting already in progress is confined to meagre official bulletins in which facts concerning the forces engaged and positions attacked are witheld. So severe is the censorship that the location of all regiments is known only to the war office and the members of the general staff.

LORD DUNDONALD TO BE IN COMMAND

Ottawa, Aug. 14.—There are repeated stories at Ottawa that Lord Dundonald will command the Canadian contingent. It is a big undertaking and there are not many if any Canadians qualified to command twenty thousand men. The War Office is certainly to be consulted.

WEATHER.

Today—Fine and cool.

THEY'RE HANGING MEN IN BELGIUM AS SPIES

Germans do Not Waste Powder on Anyone They Suspect

New York, Aug. 14. The New York Tribune publishes the following cable from the Maastricht correspondent of the London Standard:

"The Germans, it appears, are hanging instead of shooting civilians accused of firing on them, spying on them or for other offences against their drastic military code. A fugitive from Glons says that he saw three Belgian peasants hanging on a branch of a tree. They were accused of firing on the invading German troops from the windows of a cottage.

Some executions are witnessed in almost every village the Germans enter. The inhabitants of the region of Belgium now occupied by the German troops are terrorized completely and abstaining from any [illegible] of the invaders."

Triple Entente After Turkey Demands Immediate Explanation of German Cruisers Incident

Crews of Goeben and Bresslau Must Be Treated as Provided For in Rules of International War--Turkey's Action Considered as a Breach of Neutrality-- Powerful Fleet Within Easy Reach of Constantinople

London, Aug. 14, 2.53 p.m.—Great Britain, France, and Russia have sent a sharp demand to Turkey for the immediate repatriation of the officers and crews of the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau.

It is reported that the two cruisers were met by Turkish vessels outside and escorted into the Dardanelles.

There is no official confirmation of the actual purchase of the cruisers by Turkey, but the report to that effect is generally credited.

This new development in the war situation was received with intense interest in political circles in Italy, where it was held that it was frought with the possibility of grave results.

The belief was expressed that the purchase proclaims a new position on the part of Turkey, and in favor of Germany and Austria-Hungary, which is especially important as bearing on the interests of the Bulkan States.

A Reuter despatch from Paris says advices received there from the Dardenelles declare that contrary to the statement of the Turkish Government the German flag has not been lowered on the German cruisers Goeben and Brealau, nor have their crews been landed since their arrival in Turkish waters.

Considerable anxiety is felt in Greece in connection with the reported purchase, as it is feared the acquisition may make Turkey uncompromising on the subject of the disposition of the Aegean Islands. A rumor that Turkey had named one of these warships, Mitylene is taken as a justification for this belief.

Naval Battle in the East Two Battered Warships Seen

London, Aug. 14.—(3.10 p.m.)—The British Admiralty to-day gave the assurance that the ocean routes are well patrolled and a guarantee of the quick resumption of the Atlantic passenger service.

Several steamships which previously have been provisionally requisitioned for governmental purposes have now had their sailing dates fixed The Olympic is to depart August 19, the Mauretania, August 29, and the Lusitania, September 3.

SEA FIGHT IN CHINESE WATERS.

Evidences of a sharp sea fight in Chinese waters were brought to Hong Kong yesterday when two battered warships, either French or British arrived there with many wounded. The telegram, apparently censored, did not identify the warships, but said they were reported to have been in action with the German cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau.

A London report says the captain of a Danish steamer declares he passed seven sunken German ships on the east coast of England. He could not identify them, but believed they were warships.

BRUSSELS IN NO DANGER.

Belgian accounts of yesterday's cavalry encounter, known as the Battle of Haelen give the total of German casualties as high as 3,000 killed and wounded. No German report of the engagement has come to hand.

The Belgian staff believes the German movement of Haelen was an attempt to reach Brussels, which to-day is stated to be "no longer in danger."

French offical reports says the Belgians captured 2,000 German prisoners at Liege and the French have taken 1,500 along the frontier. The Belgian Government has requested France to provide places of internment owing to the lack of room in Belgium.

AVIATORS, FINE SCOUTS.

Aviators are taking a very prominent part in scouting for the armies in the field and are suffering severely according to reports. Belgian authorities report the destruction of three German aeroplanes and the death of two of their pilots, while French reports recount the narrow escape of a French aerial scout from German flying machines which hunted him.

MONTENEGRIN ARMY INVADES AUSTRIA

Blockade by Latter of Coast is Practicall at an End

London, Aug. 14.—(2.33 p.m.)— A special newspaper despatch from Rome to-day says the Montenegrin troops, aided by the inhabitants of Herzegovina, are successfully invading Austria whose blockade of the Montenegrin coast has practically ceased.

SKIN WITHOUT WRINKLES NOW EASY TO HAVE

There's no excuse for any woman having wrinkles now. It has been found that a simple mixture of saxolite and witch hazel has a remarkable action upon the deepest wrinkles, no matter what their nature, whether caused by worry, habitual frowning, a debilitated condition or the ravages of Father Time. This harmless remedy, which anyone can easily make and use at home, acts both as an astringent and a tonic. The combined effect of tightening the skin and heightening its vitality is to immediately affect every line and wrinkle, keeping the cuticle smooth and firm as in youth.

The proportions are one ounce saxolite (powdered) to one-half-pint witch hazel, ingredients which are found in every drugstore. The solution should be used as a wash lotion. It is equally effective in disposing of flabbiness of cheek and neck, as well as sagging below the eyes.

LEIPZIG, NURNBERG ARE SPEEDING NORTH

United States Steamer, Queen, Reports Seeing German Ships Yesterday

San Francisco, Aug. 14.—The German cruisers Leipzig and Nurnberg were headed north, steaming at full speed, when last seen yesterday north of San Francisco Bay, according to statements from the captain of the steamer Queen which arrived here today from the north.

The Leipzig was passed by the Queen, 180 miles north of San Francisco in the forenoon, north-bound and making twenty knots an hour according to the Queen's captain. He said he tried to speak to the cruiser, but all her commander did in response to a wireless call was to hoist the German flag.

The Nurnberg was reported to have passed fifteen miles north of Point Reyes just north of San Francisco Bay at 4.15 yesterday afternoon.

BRITISH COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF JOINS FRENCH COMMANDER LOCALITY NOT MENTIONED

Belgians Will Blow Up Forts Rather Than Surrender--French Gain Another Success in Alsace--Numbers of German Troops are Deserting--Joking Captain in Trouble

Paris, Aug. 14.—The Havas Agency announces that Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-Chief of the British field army, joined General Joseph Joffre, the French Commander-in-Chief, at headquarters to-day. The locality is not mentioned.

BLOW 'EM UP FIRST.

Brussels, Aug. 14.—via Paris, 1.55 p.m.—It was officially announced here today that none of the Liege forts had capitulated, as had been reported. It was declared the Belgians would blow up the forts rather than let them get into German hands.

FROM JEST TO EARNEST.

St. John, N. B., Aug. 14.— Because Captain Lewis, of the dredge Fielding called out jokingly that "two German cruisers are in the bay' while artillerymen were mounting cannon for the defence of the harbor an inquiry was ordered by Col. Armstrong, commanding officer, and a report will be sent to Ottawa.

ANOTHER FRENCH SUCCESS.

London, Aug. 14.—4 p.m.— The official press bureau of the British War Office and Admiralty today issued notice of a French success in the Vosbes Mountains, Alsace, in the following words:

"After a successful resistence lasting five days at the passes of Sante Marie Aux-Mines and Le Donhomme, the French troops have occupied the region of the Saale Pass, which commands the valley of the Bruche an affluent of the Rhine.

"At Saale numerous desertions of German troops are notified.

"The French have taken many prisoners and captured some machine guns."

WHAT WILL COUNCIL DO FOR OUR OVERSEAS VOLUNTEERS?

City of Toronto to Provide Insurance, and Gifts of Cash Will be Placed at Disposal of Officers for Benefit of Troops--Where is Peterborough's Council?

The following clipping from The World shows what Toronto is making ready to do. What is Peterborough, as a city, also preparing to do? Get going there, somebody!

"Toronto is prepared to extend a generous hand to the volunteers who go to represent the local regiments at the front. Measures will be taken by the Council to safeguard the interests of the families and dependents of those who go, and special provision will be made with the officers in command to distribute a fund of $6000 for the comfort and convenience of the men while in service. These ends will be accomplished by the insurance at public expense of each volunteer on the basis of a $1000 insurance policy drawn by the leading insurance companies. In addition, $3000 in cash will be placed at the disposal of the two colonels in command of the two battalions which the city is expected to send.

"Mayor Hocken, following a conference with Gen. Lessard and military representatives, last evening stated that this was the working conclusion they had arrived at, and that he would submit a formal notice to the Board of Control at once. Since the spirit of the city stands behind it, the measure is practically adopted. The total expense to the city will fall little short of a quarter million dollars.

"In explaining the policy the mayor said that they would call together the managers of local insurance companies to strike a proper basis. Insurance would be placed on the ground of total and partial disability. The funds to be placed in the hands of the commanding officers were intended to provide comforts for the members of the companies. It was recognized that they were often forced to endure hardships which might be avoided, and in case of emergency the ready money would be found very convenient.

Two Toronto Battalions

"He stated that according to the plans of General Lessard, as he understood them, Toronto would send two battalions to the Valcartier field. This arrangement will mean the selection of representative companies from the Queen's Own, 48th Highlanders, York Rangers and Peel Regiment. A further announcement will come from the city hall when plans have been completed.

"Mayor Hocken stated that the city would do all possible to relieve any distress that might occur and all public works, including harbor improvements, would be carried on as usual.

"Twenty constables who have volunteered for active service will be carried on the city books with full pay as well as other civic service employees who are answering the call."

BOY SCOUTS ACT AS DESPATCH BEARERS

Ottawa, Aug. 14.—The first war service performed by the members of the Boy Scouts organization in Ottawa consists of the carriage of the war despatches between the telegraph office, the Militia Department and Government House in the early morning and evening hours. The Scouts who volunteered for this duty travel by bicycle and wear their uniform, which has been officially recognized by the British Government this week as a uniform of public services which the Scouts are already discharging in England.

Saw

There is a bakery in Germany that turns out 20,000 loaves of sawdust bread daily and finds a ready market for this output. Although this "wood en bread" is intended for consumption for horses only, it is claimed by the manufacturer that in case of famine it would furnish a nutritious and highly satisfactory food for human beings. The sawdust is first subjected to a process of fermentation and various chemical manipulation, and is mixed with one-third part of rye flour. It is then formed into loaves and baked in an oven like any other bread.

DIRECTION FINDER

New Wireless Device to Increase the Safety of Ocean Traffic

During a recent passage of the Royal George of the Canadian Northern line, across the Atlantic a series of demonstrations was given of the possibilities of a new wireless aid to navigation. The new device is classified as a "direction finder." Its duty is to seek out all wireless stations, whether stationary or in motion—or in other words on coast line or high seas, within a radius of fifty miles and to indicate for the guidance of the navigating officers the exact relation of the ship to these in terms of latitude and longitude. Its sphere of usefulness, even in the present experimental stage, is to assist the captain during "thick" weather in maintaining a clear course in the travelled ocean "lanes" in passing points, and in making port. Like many inventions to mankind this wireless finder is remarkable for its simplicity. Although one of Marconi's engineers, Signor Emilio Ichino came out on the "Royal George" to make the tests, its operation does not require an expert and any of the bridge officers can obtain a bearing as easily as with a compass and just as conveniently, the instruments being set up in the chart room.

Both the Marconi engineer, Signor Emilio Ichino, and the Captain of the "Royal George," expressed themselves on arrival at Quebec as highly pleased with the experiments which had been made on the voyage. The instrument had been accurate to a degree of detecting the compass direction of other stations whether on shore or on other vessels. They had been able to ascertain the compass position of Cape Ray, Father Point and the ships Columbia, Calgarian and Sicilian. The Columbia had been 68 miles away the Calgarian 53 and the Sicilian 18 Both men were confident that neither wind, wave or fog would affect the accuracy of the new wireless device.

SHOALS OF HERRING

Neglected Opportunities in the Pacific Coast Fisheries

Notwithstanding the fact that the fisheries business has made rapid progress in British Columbia in recent years, and now constitutes one of the most important branches of industry in the province, there are still excellent opportunities for building up a profitable trade in canning certain kinds of fish. It is the opinion of those who are familiar with conditions that scarcely a beginning has been made in commercially exploiting the many varieties of fish which abound in these waters. Vast shoals of herring run for months every year in the hundreds of bays and inlets along the thousand miles of British Columbia's sheltered seacoast. They teem in shoals in Nanaimo, Pender and Prince Rupert Harbors, Quatsino sound, and many other harbors and bays, from the Fraser river to the Alaskan boundary. Every year thousands of tons of herring are swept in by the tides to be left stranded and dying on the shores of a hundred bays. This is a great waste of material and opportunity which does not seem to have been taken into account by those who are interested in the fisheries industry.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ⅛ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

SERMONS OUT OF CHU.

By the Rev. Byron H. Stauffer

XI.—A Plea For Old Mutton Chops

So you have been back to the old town. And you say that old Mutton Chops is still there, running the tannery as he did twenty years ago, and looks just about the same as then. And I suppose you did not like him a whit better last week than we did when we were young fellows. Yes, I suppose he walked up the church aisle with the same strut signifying something between self-confidence and arrogance. Do you remember when you and I and George Wilson and Aleck Brown proposed a change in the financial system of the little church? We thought we had the preacher with us and we confidently submitted it to the church board as something modern in church methods. Old Mutton Chops opposed it at once, the preacher meekly fell in behind him and before we knew it our reform measure was smothered in committee, as it were. We held an indignation meeting afterwards and called the venerable tanner a moss-back conservative, a retrograde, an old dotard.

And you say you hardly knew another soul at the Sunday morning service. Well, I am not surprised. George Wilson moved out to Colorado long ago. He decided to go one Friday, gave up his job on Saturday evening, got a rebate on his rent from Landlord Mutton Chops, paid half his grocery bill, and after the the next Wednesday the town knew him no more. Nobody knows where Aleck Brown is. And you and I found the town too small for our budding notions, and we pitched our tents towards the big city. Old Mutt alone stays. He was tied down. He couldn't sell his tannery at the drop of a hat. If he had taken it into his head to close it down some fine morning, what would have become of all the tannery hands, and the stores dependent on their trade? No, no, you and I were wrong. Maybe old Mutton Chops wasn't quite as flexible in his ideas of church finances as he might have been, but suppose we would have unhorsed him, suppose the preacher had helped us to out-vote him, suppose he had withdrawn from the church, which we at the time thought a salutary thing. What would the old church be to-day, with the rest of us gone, if he had?

So I went to make a plea for old Mutton Chops. He couldn't by the force of his sturdy old character and the lifelong of cautious habits, move as fast as we could. He was held in check, chastened as it were, by the responsibilities of property, family and servants. Do you recall the crafty calculating Jacob and his impulsive brother Esau? Well, Jacob became old Mutton Chops and Esau evolved into a sort of composite of you and me and George and Aleck. For do you recollect how, when Jacob came back with flocks and herds and wives and children and a regiment of servants, and made his peace with Esau his brother, that Esau wanted him to hurry up and travel homeward at a furious pace? Jacob protested, calling his brother's attention to his family, his lambs, his kids, his calves, and proposed that Esau go ahead and he would follow on softly as he might be able with his many cares. His very property which had accrued during his twenty years' absence prevented his moving as rapidly as his wild brother, the father of the roving Arabs of every clime, ourselves included.

Then slacken your pace for the Jacobs. Have patience with the old fellows who cannot change residence and policies and politics over night. It may be that they often err on the side of prudence. They may be old-fogeyish and stubborn too But how fortunate that most communities have one or two of their tribe. They guard the ancient land-marks, while the rest of us have gone so far from home that we cannot come back to plant a flower on our parents' graves. They hold neighborhoods from entirely falling apart. Their smoke-stacks mark the centre of industrial life. The emitting smoke signals to us, when we emerge from the afternoon train, that, "All is well." How fortunate! The tribe of Chops are the terra firma while we Esaus are the shifting sands.

Last campaign the old town was strong for the insurgents, the radicals, the progressives or whatever you have a mind to call them. But old Mutt couldn't change, couldn't work up any enthusiasm for new policies. The few who dared rebuked the old gentleman, calling him a reactionary. He quietly reminded them that sixteen years ago they likewise rebuked him for not throwing up his hat for "sixteen to one" and asked them whether they had not all come back to his position on that question. His retort rather staggered the boys.

Several young business men wanted him to put ten thousand into a beet sugar plant and were quite put out when Chops declined. The sugar factory has gone into the hands of a receiver, but Chops' balance at the bank is so uniformly satisfactory that he can always borrow five figures.

The Mutton Chops of your acquaintance may be an annoyance in theological circles. He is the disgust of unfettered souls who can knock out a creed or two before breakfast, put up a new one by dinner time and grow sick of that before bedtime.

I may, myself, have written against him yesterday, and I may do so again to-morrow, but in my best moments I reject my abusive language and rejoice that Mutton Chops is abroad. You say you found the church and the school and the post office still moseying along in the same old rut? Indeed! The windows of all three would likely be nailed up if it were not for old Mutton Chops.

DR. ALBERTA/READ

Stale eggs are Dr. Alberta E. Read's specialty; her reputation as a chemist rests on stale eggs, and it is to her ability to keep stale eggs out of the United States housewife's pantry that she owes her unusual position.

As an expert chemist in the Government bureau of chemistry, it is Dr. Read's business to examine the frozen and dried eggs submitted to the bureau for inspection under the interstate commerce law and to see that all the "stored" egg product is pure and wholesome when given to the consumer. By applying chemical tests, she can tell for a certainty the age and "previous condition" of the eggs under inspection.

A Chicken Coop

A combination two-in-one poultry coop for setting hens and chickens is 6 feet long, 3 feet deep and is divided into four compartments by removable partitions. At the back of each compartment is a nest, at the front is a sliding door which opens into a detachable runway. The front of the little house is three feet high and has an opening in the upper half, lengthwise covered with wire screen and closed by a hinged door at the top. Four hens are set in this coop at one time. As soon as the chicks come, two of the partitions are taken out and one hen given both hatchings, while the other hen is put to more profitable work. When the chicks are ready to do without the hen, the hens are taken out, the other two partitions removed and perches put in for the chicks to roost on. The runways in front are then taken away also.

An Improvement Upon the Fairly Safe Finger-print System

The finger-print system is generally regarded as the last word in scientific detection of crime, but a newer method is being experimented with.

The great objection to the finger print system is that, though it is quite trustworthy as far as it goes, being based on the fact that no two people in the world have the same pattern on the skin of their finger-tips, it is easily rendered useless by wearing gloves or by having the finger-tips deliberately defaced. Every crack burglar knows this nowadays.

But the newer system will baffle even the wariest of burglars. The idea is to photograph the back of the hand of every convicted criminal. The network of tiny veins on the back of a man's hand is as much peculiar to himself as the pattern on his finger-tips. The chances are billions to one against two men's hands showing the same arrangements of veins. The photograph is taken after the hand has been allowed to dangle down for a minute or two, so that the rush of blood may make the network of veins stand out prominently.

The advantage over the finger-print system is that no one can attempt to alter the arrangement of the veins without running great danger of bleeding to death.

Our Point of View

Yes sir, some persons think that writing newspaper paragraphs is a merry pastime, but the men who are on the job know that it is hard labor.

—o—

When it comes to careful nursing a young mother with a new born babe has nothing on a young man with a new-born mustache.

—o—

The philosopher of the Boston Transcript says water is put in stocks for the purpose of soaking the investors.

Captain Okiyi has been detailed from the Japanese army as an attache to the British headquarters in the field. He is a gallant soldier, no doubt, but his name sounds like a puppy whose tail has been stepped on.

—o—

There is one fever that spreads rapidly and cannot be controlled. It is the war fever, and the only cure for it is the spilling of much blood.

—o—

The character of the protest made by Belgium against being used as the "cockpit of Europe" will not soon be forgotten by the Germans.

—o—

It is interesting of course, to follow the war in Europe, but there are times when we feel that if we could declare a moratorium and mobilize a few dollars a fishing trip would be enjoyable.

—o—

A news item says the Hon. Ted. Roosevelt disapproves of the European war. Of course he does. It has bumped him off the first page and blasted his best efforts to become a counter attraction.

The World's Biggest Flag

There's a new "biggest American flag ever made." So much the biggest that there is no "second biggest" worth talking about. The construction of this monster flag has just been finished by the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company. Here are the banner's dimensions:

It is 95 feet long and 50 feet wide. The width of each of its thirteen stripes is nearly four feet (47 inches to be exact).

The great stars upon its blue field are constructed within a 39-inch circle and measure about 3 feet from point to point. The blue field is 38 feet in length by 26 feet 5 inches in height.

The stars are placed 4 feet 9 inches between centres longitudinally and 4 feet 3 inches vertically. The stars alone weigh nine pounds, while the completed flag weighs 200 pounds.

The proportions of this flag are strictly in accordance with government regulations.

In making the flag another important point in the government regulations has been observed, that of never allowing the flag to touch the ground—a very considerable task, considering its dimensions.

To provide for this rule, as well as to give the correct appearance of height, etc., a pole 285 feet tall has been prepared as a flagstaff.

In other words, this pole, placed in Trinity Church yard, would tower five feet above the summit of the Trinity Building.

Many an apartment house could be completely covered by the folds of the banner.

Specially made bunting was needed for the flag to withstand the tremendous weight and the strain. Ordinary bunting would tear like so much paper under the first tug.

A problem that is still to be solved is:

Will any wind, short of an equinoctial gale, be strong enough to fill the folds of the giant flag and whip it out straight? Remember, the banner weighs 200 pounds (more than the weight of a barrel of flour) and there is an area of 4,750 square feet of bunting for the wind to fill.

Perhaps some mathematical reader will care to work out the problem as to the volume of air-pressure needful to make this wonderful American flag wave; and the wind velocity necessary to make 200 pounds and 4,750 square feet of bunting fly out straight.

Magic Effect of Neuralgia Throbbing Pain Goes Quickly

A YEAR'S SUFFERER CURED BY "NERVILINE."

No person reading this need ever again suffer long from Neuralgia.

Nerviline will quickly cure the worst Neuralgia, and Mrs. G. Evans, in her strong letter written from Russel post office says:—"One long year, the longest of my life, was almost entirely given up to treating dreadful attacks of Neuralgia. The agony I experienced during some of the bad attacks was simply unmentionable. To use remedies by the score without permanent relief was mighty discouraging. At last I put my faith in Nerviline; I read of the wonderful pain-subduing power it possessed and made up my mind to prove it valuable or useless. Nerviline at once eased the pain and cured the headache. Continuous treatment with this magic-working remedy cured me entirely and I have ever since stayed well."

Mrs. Evan's case is but one of hundreds that might be quoted. Nerviline is a specific for all nerve, muscular or joint pain. It quickly cures neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, lame back, neuritis and rheumatism. Forty years in use, and to-day the most widely used liniment in the Dominion. Don't take anything but "Nerviline," which any dealer anywhere can supply in large 50c. family size bottles, or in a small 25c. trial size.

Noisy Burglar Is Put To Flight By a Bat

New Orleans, Aug. 15.—He was a burglar, but he lacked stealthiness. He strolled into the back yard of the Acme Drug Store, Second and Dryades street, and after stumbling over a garbage can and knocking a broom off the back steps, he started climbing up a post to get on the second story gallery.

Boyd Gauley, a clerk in the drug store, was alone in the house. He was in the dining-room, up front, but he heard the attack at the rear. Gauley armed himself with baseball bat and slipped out on the gallery.

He looked over the railing. The noisy burglar was climbing up towards him.

As the burglar stuck his head over the gallery Gauley swung the bat. His batting average leaped to a thousand.

It took the burglar two seconds to fall to the ground from the gallery that it had taken him twenty minutes to climb.

The burglar shook himself, stood up, and then leaped over a fence that stood in his way. He disappeared down Second street so fast that Gauley was unable to furnish a description. Gauley says he doesn't even know whether the man was white or black.

OIL THE GREAT WEALTHMAKER

We hold over 3,000 acres, more or less, of oil leases North and South of Monarch and several of our leases are in the same range as the Monarch well.

Many companies claim to be close to Monarch but we are one of the very few who are in Range Six upon which the Monarch Well is situated. Therefore, we must be on the same anti-cline and as it is a foregone conclusion Monarch will get oil, so will we.

Fifty-Seven Feet of Oil Bearing Sands Passed Through in Monarch Well

OFFICIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN OUT BY PRESIDENT GEORGESON—WELL IS NOW DOWN OVER 1,800 FEET AND FLOW OF WET GAS HAS BEEN STRUCK IN LOWER LEVELS—GEOLOGIST DUNN IS AWAY AT PRESENT

Heavy oil showings are being found in the Monarch well, west of Olds, although the oil has not yet come in in commercial quantities.

To put the exact facts before the public, President William Georgeson and Treasurer G. W. Morfitt, of the company, this morning issued an official statement from the drillers setting forth the results.

The heaviest oil seepage has been encountered through a stratum 57 feet thick, and the well is now 1850 feet deep.

A sample of this oil baled out at 1,775 feet was brought to the city this morning and is in the office of Mr. Morfitt, Grain Exchange Building. The oil is a heavy black petroleum with the characteristic petroleum odor.

The statement issued by the officers is as follows:

In the absence of Mr. Dunn, Mr. Van Alst, the head driller, reports that from the depth of 1,775 feet to 1,832 feet he went through oil bearing sands for 57 feet. Throughout there was a heavy showing of black oil in the baler. Two further showing of black wet gas were met at 1,895 feet and 1,915 feet.

The well is now down 1,860 feet. Wet gas has shown at 633 feet, 1,430 feet, 1,805 feet and 1,815 feet.

Oil sands have shown at 806 feet, (48 feet), 1,430 feet (40 feet), 1,740 feet (14 feet), and 1,775 feet (57 feet).

The well is now down 1,860 feet, and while there are good oil showings there is not as yet oil in commercial quantities.

Our stock is on the market at 50 cents a share, a Dollar par, and will be advanced without notice any day pending Monarch Well developments. It is practically a certainty that Monarch will be in oil in commercial quantities within two weeks, Our stock will jump away above par and you had better hurry if you wish to share our prosperity.

CEDER POLES

One Hundred and Ninety Year Old Tree Decays in Fourteen Years

A purchase of nearly 800,000 poles a year means the destruction of even a greater number of whole trees. While the greater number of these trees are small, under 30 feet in length and eight inches in diameter, each one represents a potential timber tree. In cutting timber for poles there are several sources of waste, including damage to remaining timber, cutting to specification and long butting to avoid flares and hollow butts. While this waste is partly necessary, careful and scientific utilization would effect a considerable saving before the poles were set in place.

The average cedar pole is cut from a tree about 190 years old, and if put in place, untreated by any chemical preservative, it will decay and become useless within 14 years. It is evident from these facts that the supply of cedar poles is doomed to speedy destruction. A telephone pole is not subjected to mechanical wear or excessive strain of any sort, and practically never wears out. It invariably decays long before the end of its mechanical life. Under these conditions some sort of preservative treatment is a self-evident necessity. Up to the present time in Canada the cheapness of poles and the cost of the treatment have prevented pole-line builders from using any preservatives. Practically all the poles set in Canada are untreated and the annual replacements approximate 600,000. If all the poles used in Canada were treated, a saving of 264,000 poles would be made each year, which is equivalent to a saving of 1,584,000 board feet of timber.

Spruce, jack pine, lodgepole pine and Western yellow pine are all fairly good pole-timbers as far as taper, height, strength and weight are concerned, but they are not durable if used in the untreated state. There are two methods of creosote or tar-oil treatment that are specially adapted to poles and can be easily and cheaply applied.

NOTES MADE OF SILK

Less Opportunity For Forgery in the Future

Bank-notes made of a particular shade that will baffle the bank-note forger are now possible. As is known, most of the expert bank-note forgers use photography to obtain their best results; but a recent invention makes it possible to manufacture silk of a particular shade that cannot possibly be photographed. Discovered by a woman, this invention is a new process for waterproofing fabrics without rubber and dyeing them in the same operation. Linen, cotton, or other materials to be treated by this process are placed white into one end of the machine and brought out at the other end a few minutes later colored, waterproofed, and dry. Fabrics so produced, the inventor maintains, can be used in hundreds of trades, from aeroplane building to bank-note making.

State to Supply Cheap Fish

The Government of New South Wales has decided to establish a State fish supply agency with a view to providing the people with cheap fish. Three trawlers will be purchased at an estimated cost of $40,000 each, and depots will be established for the sale of fish.

NORTHERN WATER-POWERS

Norway's Condition Compared With That of Canada

The statement is sometimes made by the uninitiated that the water-powers north of the settled parts of our Dominion are of little value. The existence of numerous falls and rapids in these parts is not denied, but the argument is advanced that the temperature and other climatic conditions existing where these falls and rapids are situated will prevent their utilization. As a direct contradiction to the above assertion, we need only turn to Norway, the latitude of which is about the same as that of the Yukon and where climatic conditions are similar to those of northern Canada in size, Norway is only slightly larger than our Maritime Provinces, and yet we find their water-power plants with a total capacity of over 1,500,000 horse-power, either in actual operation or in course of construction. Hydro-electric stations of considerable size have been constructed in different parts of that country. Many of the smaller ones have been erected for municipal use, but the larger ones are for the electro-chemical industry, in which a main factor of success is cheap and plentiful electric power.

QUEBEC'S MAPLE INDUSTRY

Worth $2,000,000 a Year to Those Who Are in It

The Agricultural Department of the Province of Quebec distributed twenty two thousand small boxes of maple sugar to patrons of the railway hotels and dining cars, steamship restaurants and to Canadian clubs throughout Canada, along with small illustrated booklet telling how maple syrup and sugar is produced in Quebec. The world's production is confined practically to Eastern Canada, and by far the largest part of this product is made in Quebec, the oldest Province of the Dominion. When the first settlers landed on the shores of the St. Lawrence, they learned from the Indians the art of making syrup and sugar from the sap of the maple tree. It is stated that the maple industry is worth, now, upwards of $2,000,000 a year to the producers in the Province, who, to guard the public against adulterated goods, point out that the very best grades of maple syrup are clear and of a light straw or amber color. To a great many old customers syrup of the best grade will act at first appeal as they are accustomed to the sharp sweet taste that has more or less of a griping after effect.

It Costs to Become a Cardinal

A newly-created cardinal has to pay dearly for the honor. Fees to the Papal Court amount to no less than $1,500. Besides this, in cash tips the new cardinals have to expend on the day of the consistory, when they receive the red hat, not less than $730, and another $70 on the day that they take possession of the Roman church to which they are nominally appointed. Foreign cardinals have the additional privilege of paying $740 to the Papal chamberlains and secretaries and the trumpeters of the Noble Guard. It is also represented to them that it is fitting to leave with the Vatican a considerable sum of money to ensure burial befitting their rank.

Wolves Drop in For Lunch

As Geo. Wilson, a keeper at the Horne Zoological Arena, east of Independence, was eating his luncheon in the cooking house the door opened and in walked two big wolves. Wilson summoned help and seized a club.

The wolves were not the little, half-hearted American kind, but the big Siberian variety, noted for their fierceness. They were not as hard to manage as they might have been, however, for they had already dined off some Plymouth Rock roosters and for dessert had eaten a $10 parrot.

They were eventually driven back to their cage by Wilson and several other men.

Watches Street Lighting

Philadelphia uses an accurate testing plant carried on an automobile to ascertain if its various forms of street lights are maintained at contract standard.

What Fires Cost

Fire losses and the cost of fire prevention cost the United States more each year than the total value of its production of gold, silver, copper and petroleum.

Developing Island Continent

It will cost Australia about $25,000,000 to open the Murray river to navigation and to construct an irrigation system that will develop 1,500,000 acres of land.

The fool shooeth his neighbor's hens from his bakyard, but the wise man fixeth up a snug place for them to lay in.

PROTECTION FORESTS

Functions of Government Reserves Outlined—How Trees Help Soil

A perpetual timber supply, resulting from systematic methods of cutting is commonly, and correctly, supposed to be the chief purpose of making forest reserves.

Another purpose, scarcely, if at all inferior, is that of regulating the run off from the water-sheds of rivers, on which, on account of the fact that the land is unsuited for farming, through its being too poor in quality or too rocky, or being too high a level and so exposed to frosts, trees form the most profitable crop.

Forests maintained for this latter purpose are called "protection forests." Possibly the best example of such a forest, and certainly the largest protection forest in the world, is he Rocky Mountains Forest Reserve in Alberta which now has an area of 20,896 square miles.

Fortunately the Dominion Government early recognised the value of such protection forests, and, by the creation of forest reserves in the West, the great rivers of the plains having their source in these watersheds were saved from the disastrous floods, the low-water stages, and the filling up of the river-beds with eroded soil, so characteristic of the rivers originating in the denuded water sheds of the eastern United States.

In this latter region many areas in the Appalachian mountains, which cover a large part of Pennsylvania, Virginia, the Carolinas and other States were very severely cut, and have been repeatedly swept by fire, so that the forests have been entirely destroyed. When rain falls on such an area, the water runs off almost immediately; if, on the other hand, the area were covered with forest, the soil would be more spongy and able to retain water, and the water would be hindered in running off by the tree roots and the debris on the ground. Moreover, the water, in its rapid run-off, gradually takes with it the soil, and, where the soil covering the rocks is thin, it is apt to be washed away entirely. Hence there is lost any possibility of growing a new forest on the now bare rock. The soil carried away eventually found its way to the larger rivers and harbors, and did actual harm by silting these up.

THE FARMER'S CREED

By Frank I. Mann

I believe in a permanent agriculture, a soil that will grow richer rather than poorer from year to year.

I believe in a 100-bushel corn and in 50-bushel wheat, and I shall not be satisfied with anything else.

I believe that the only good weed is a dead weed, and that a clean farm is as important as a clean conscience.

I believe in the farm boy and the farm girl, the farmer's best crops, the future's best hope.

I believe in the farm woman and will do all in my power to make her life easier and happier.

I believe in a country school that prepares for a country life, and a country church that teaches its people to love deeply and live honorably.

I believe in community spirit, a pride in home and neighbors, and I will do my part to make my community the best in the state.

I believe in the farmer, I believe in farm life, I believe in the inspiration of the open country.

I am proud to be a farmer, and I will try earnestly to be worthy of the name.

Give Offender a Chance

The chief of police of the Berlin suburb of Schoeneberg is anxious to diminish the number of people fined for petty offences in his district, many of them due to ignorance of local by laws. Anyone found by the police breaking these regulations for the first time is in future to be given a pamphlet drawing his attention to the offence committed instead of being prosecuted as hitherto.

FARMERS OF 30 STATES TO DISCUSS WAR PROBLEM

FORT WORTH, TEX., Aug. 15.—When the business farmers of thirty States assemble in Fort Worth Sept. 1, for the annual convention of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, it will be a "council of war" that will have an important bearing on the business interests of the United States.

The financing of the farming and ranching interests of the nation through the possible stringency that the European war may cause in America will be the prime object of the conference.

Charles S. Barrett, of Union City, Ga., who was in Fort Worth a few days ago arranging for the approaching convention, said the European war and its effects on American farming will be one of the most important matters before the convention.

Not less than 2,000 farmers will attend.

Largest Hats in the World

What would you think of a hat that was so large it would safely shelter your father, mother, sisters and yourself under it should a sudden rain storm come up? The men of Korea like these enormous hats and would not feel properly dressed without them. These hats look like great flower pots set on a round table six feet across. The crowns are nine feet in height, and three inches wide, much like a chimney on a one-story house. How do you suppose these large, round head coverings are kept on? Under the brim is a small, closely-fitting cap, held on by a padded string which ties under the ears. The material of these hats is bamboo, so finely split that it is like thread; and, lastly, they are varnished to keep out the sun, and rain, and the wind.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leavinb $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $90,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1010 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

Shares are selling at $25.00 each; 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

REFORESTATION PROFITABLE

The Only City Forest in Canada Situated at Guelph

City forests are not, as yet, in vogue in this country. Perhaps the only city forest in Canada is that at Guelph, Ont., where a small area has been planted surrounding the springs which furnish the city's water supply, states a bulletin of the forestry branch of the department of the interior. In many of the counties of eastern Canada, however, are large areas of waste land, originally forested, and capable only of producing forests. Ontario has a counties reforestation act making possible the acquisition of such waste land for reforestation purposes by municipal councils, but up to the present time only one county has availed itself of this opportunity. Quebec and the Dominion government have also passed legislation to encourage tree planting, and the Dominion forestry branch recently distributed nearly 4,000,000 trees from the nurseries at Indian Head for woodlot planting in western Canada. The growing of forest trees on waste land can in most cases be made a profitable under taking, besides providing labor to a considerable number of men, yet no extensive reforestation has as yet been done in eastern Canada.

AN INCH OF RAIN

Some Idea of What This Really Means

An inch of rain strikes one as very little. But it is really a big rainfall.

When an inch of rain has fallen it means, literally, that the amount of water descending from the sky in that particular shower would cover the surrounding territory to a depth of one inch, providing, of course, that it did not run away or soak into the ground.

It means that on one acre water enough to fill more than 600 barrels of forty-five gallons each has fallen. This quantity of water weighs more than 110 tons. If the rain storm covered a territory comprising a thousand acres, which would be a very small shower, 113,000 tons of water would fall from the clouds. Rain storms frequently cover whole States, and often four and five inches of water fall in one rain. In this case the total number of tons of water falling to earth is enormous.

Right to Punish Wife

While the tingle of the spanking that her husband had given her because she had not obeyed him was yet sharp, Mrs. Louis Laparcono, twenty years, of Jamaica, had him arrested for assault. But she told Justice Salmon in special sessions that the spanking, though it was undoubtedly hard, was only what she deserved. So she hoped the kind judge would discharge her husband.

He only did, she added, what he had a right to do if she misbehaved.

"You think," asked the astonished magistrate, "that he had a right to punish you if you disobey him?"

"Yes, I do," said the young matron. "I think every wife should obey her husband. I promised to do so when I married him."

"Didn't you ever disobey him before?"

"No; and I'll never do it again," she responded.

"That certainly releases him," said the justice.

Seven Wonders of the World

A voting contest has recently taken place in Germany to decide which are the seven wonders of the twentieth century. After the enormous volume of votes cast were counted, it was found that the majority had placed wireless telegraphy at the head of the list and the Panama Canal second. The third of the seven wonders, it is was decided, is the dirigible airship; next in order were the flying machine, radium, the cinematograph, and the steamship "Vaterland."

300 Letters on Grain of Wheat

Perhaps the greatest feat of microscopic engraving was accomplished by a Jewish farmer in Alberta, who prepared an address of welcome to the Duke of Connaught. The address was inscribed in Hebrew on a grain of wheat and contained no fewer than 300 letters. So fine was the lettering that a microscope was necessary to read the inscription with any ease.

Electricity From the Air

A Spanish Inventor, Senor José Iglesias Blanco, succeeded in extracting electricity from the atmosphere. Experiments were carried out at Pozuelo, near Madrid. Antennae were mounted in pairs upon a wooden tower erected on a lofty eminence. Electricity at a pressure of 6,000 volts was received and transformed to 150 Sixteen lamps were easily illuminated at full pressure during a prolonged test. The inventor states that he can obtain enormous quantities of atmospheric electricity at will.

Fortune From "Movies"

D. W. GRIFFITH

Here is the man who stands out preeminently in the business of moving picture producing. He has been called the "Belasco of the screen world."

When he was the director of the Biograph pictures, they were called the best in the business. But now the independents have captured him at a salary of $100,000 a year. And he is directing the Reliance and the Majestic Mutual movies.

At one time in his career, not so long ago, Griffith was with a traveling company earning the munificent sum of $18 a week.

Impure Ice Cream

The following is a synopsis of the results of an analysis of ice cream undertaken in the chief analyst's department at Ottawa, in charge of Dr. A. McGill: Samples found genuine, 77; samples found adulterated, 49; samples found but slightly below required standard, 8; samples lost, 2; sold as imitation, 1; total, 137.

"Our standards for ice cream," says Dr. McGill, "require 14 per cent. of milk fat in ordinary ice cream, and 12 per cent. milk fat in the article when fruit or nuts are present. Samples which show less than one per cent. shortage in butter fat, I have not declared to be adulterated but have indicated as slightly below the required standard."

CANADA'S NEW PARK

Old Trading Post Stood in Midst of Beautiful Forest Tract

Forty-seven years ago two adventurous young Englishmen, Viscount Milton and Dr. Cheadle, after passing the winter in a Saskatchewan forest, set out from Edmonton to cross the Rocky Mountains and to reach the Pacific coast by the overland route. After a most laborious journey, attended with much hardship and often much danger, they accomplished their purpose. They crossed the Rockies by way of the Yellowhead Pass, which accurate surveys have since determined to be the easiest passage through the mountains, and is the route followed by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway on its passage over the great divide. On their journey they arrived at Jasper House, an ancient landmark, even at that time in the geography of this part of Canada. One hundred years ago Jasper House was one of the most important trading posts of the Hudson Bay Company in all the far North-west. It was built in the year 1800 by Jasper Hawes, who is frequently referred to by the early explorers of the upper Rockies.

Ireland's Signposts

Ireland is the country for useless signposts. During the last few year there has been an outbreak of Gaelic League activity in the country. Among other manifestations it has taken the form of erecting signposts with Gaelic inscriptions. There is one such in the little Village of Omeath, in County Louth. It directs the traveler to Carlingford and to Newry—but it directs him in an unknown tongue. It is not easy to see what useful purpose is served by such a signpost. For the inhabitant knows his way without any such assistance and the English-speaking traveler is unable to find it unless he happens to consult one of the villagers, not one of whom—so far as I have been able to discover—can either read or speak a single word of Gaelic.—London Chronicle.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

CALGARY, July 23rd.—An official statement just issued by the Monarch Oil Company states that the drill has just passed through a 57-foot strata of oil bearing sand, at a depth of between 1775 and 1832 feet. A sample of the oil from this oil sand is on exhibition at the Company's office in Calgary. This is the fourth oil sand encountered in the well, and indicates that a good producing well should be obtained before going much deeper. The Hole-Woollard Oil Company is making preparations to drill on its property in the Monarch district, which adjoins the property of the Monarch Oil Company, and we are advised that the price of shares will be advanced as soon as drilling operations are started. The time to invest in the shares of the Hole-Woollard Company is NOW, before the advance in price.

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascer-tained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1380 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

COPPER
The Red Metal
MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

Copper is one of the world's chief necessities, and the demand for it is constantly increasing. Growth of the electrical industry largely accounts for this. Telegraph and Telephone Wire—Trolley Wire—Trolley Wheels and the multitude of other Electrical Machines and Parts—Power Transmission Wire and the use of the metal in various valuable Alloys—these are some of the places where copper is consumed, and while its production is enormous it is used about as rapidly as it can be mined and made ready. THIS IS WHY OWNERSHIP IN A COPPER MINE IS ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY SOURCES OF INCOME POSSIBLE TO IMAGINE.

TIME TO START

Naturally the time to secure an interest in any sort of enterprise is at the start, because it is then that money for development and equipment is needed and this is, of course, the reason why shares in the project are released! When these necessities are provided for the Opportunity passes.

For years we have been spending time, effort and money in getting together one of the largest known copper deposits, and we now own and control thousands of acres of land, covering veins of copper, ore carrying gold and silver values, extensive veins of coal, iron and lime.

The geology is so well defined as to make identifications of size and location of the copper bearing veins a perfect definite matter. In addition to this the estate has been thoroughly prospected by some 4,000 feet of work, there being more than 100 shafts, pits, cuts and tunnels, every one of which shows copper in paying quantities. The dumps of these openings run from 2 to 8 per cent in copper metal.

Facilities for economically winning the copper from its ores are remarkably fine. In the company's own ground are five known coal beds, insuring a perpetual supply of cheap fuel, easily accessible and located within a very short distance of the site chosen for its furnaces. Water and timber are also abundant and easy of access.

One of Colorado's most eminent mining engineers, after thoroughly examining this property, states in his report that the net profits resulting from operation of this property should range from $250,000 to $1,000,000 each year.

There is no uncertainty, no guesswork, about this project. Applied to it, a definite cause will inevitably produce an equally definite effect. Equipment for mining these immense bodies of ore and reducing the metal in them to bullion means dividends—it can't mean anything else—and it is to provide this equipment and the funds required for its installation and the preliminary operating expenses of the estate that an interest in the project is offered to you.

It is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to join in a well planned, conservative, and exceptionally profitable business undertaking. The foundations are laid, the property is acquired and the next step—providing the equipment—is now being taken. So soon as this is accomplished your chance to secure a share in the enterprise will be gone.

A FUNNY "MOVIE" MAN

Patrons of picture shows have seen this man in action perhaps hundreds of times. He is Max Asher and he turns out comedy for the film operator nearly every day in the year. His friends say he always has been a joker.

TEMPERANCE REFORM IS OF CATCH-CRY

Rowell's service for Temperance Reform has covered thirty years of political indifference or hostility and one year of catch-cry.

Rowell's party twice promised prohibition and then threw the Temperance cause overboard. Rowell stuck fast to that party. He sticks to it to-day. And he has revived their plausible devices to put himself in power. No one has yet given a proof that Rowell is less insincere to-day than in 1902

Rowell refuses to sacrifice the liquor shops. Whitney's Local Option Canada Temperance Acts sweep away bars, clubs and shops, the moment the people demand it.

Rowell lacked courage to feature "Abolish the Bar" in his 1911 campaign. He laid it aside until he had experimented with other issues. Hopelessly beaten 86 to 18, he picked up the only remaining chance of winning office. Temperance is his political toy. Temperance is Whitney's pledge and achievement. Rowell juggles. Whitney gives Reform an actual meaning.

To Cure Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness and head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected a complete cure after all else has failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear.

Therefore, if you know someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrh, or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand to them and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secur from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength), about 75c worth. Take this home, and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of moist or granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose promptly ends the most distressing head noises, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., while the hearing rapidly returns as the system is invigorated by the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell and mucous dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrhal poison, and which are quickly overcome by this efficacious treatment. Nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are directly caused by catarrh; therefore, there are but few people whose hearing cannot be restored by this simple home treatment. Every person who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness, or cartarrh in any form should give this prescription a trial. There is nothing better.

Important.- In ordering Parmint always specify that you want Double Strength; your druggist has it or he can get it for you; if not send 75c to the International Laboratories, 74 St. Antoine St., Montreal, P.Q., who make a specialty of it.

CITY IN PARAGRAPH

Major Garnet Hughes, son of the Minister of Militia, will go to the war.

The Times is in receipt of the annual calendar of McGill University for the year 1914 - 1915.

Lindsay has a new summer resort. This spot was formerly known as Bald Point, but has been re-christened Long Beach. It is about five miles from the town.

The police of this city should use a fine tooth comb to discover local Germans who may blow up the lift lock, or the C.P.R. bridge. The situation is beyond a joke.

Whilst a joke put up on local reporters by an alleged German spy, was, it is admitted, successfully carried out, there is one German in this city who will bear close watching. Things have come to such a pass that every German sympathizer will bear close watching.

Social and Personal

Readers of The Times are requested to phone or send to the office any items of personal news or any social events that may come to their knowledge.

BOOM OF BIG GUNS

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The roar of cannon and shriek of shells will be heard along the coast here next Thursday night, but there need be no cause for alarm. Col. S. E. Allen, coast defense commander at Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook, N. J., gave warning to shipping interests to-day that there will be target practice that night with the great coast defense guns and mortars.

GERMANY RENOUNCED PLAN OF DIRECT ATTACK ON NANCY

Invaders Found French Forces Too Strong--Germans Expected to Mobilize Troops in Cities of France After First Day of War

Paris, Aug. 15.—An official communication issued this afternoon by the French minister of war reviews the situation to date. It says: "In order that opinion in France and elsewhere can have a just view, and not be lost in the details of news, it is of advance the developments of events and andwithout seeking to juhge in advantage to lay down in broad lines, to classify the results acquired.

"We know from the declarations of German strategists, such as Bernharthat the German plan provided for a di, Falkenhayne and Vov der Glotz, quick attack of the first line upon our covering ttoops to the north of Nancy.

"We know equally without any doubt that a second sharp and quick attack was to have been made by passing through Belgium and then immediately striking at the French frontier. A positive proof of the verity of vidual cards of mobilization directing this double plan is found in the indithe German reservists from the fifth to fifteenth day of mobilization to join their regiments in French cities, such as Verdum, Teims and Chalonssur-Marne. This double quick action failed. The direct attack against Nancy was not attempted in its entirety. The Germans, finding our force too strong, renounced the plan.

"The Russian army, having accelerated its mobilization, will be able to operate at the same time with the French, English and Belgian armies, The Servian army is now mistress of to send her troops, which during the past eight days have been on their Herzegovina, and this will cause Austria-Hungary to hesitate to continue

TINIEST ADMIRAL OF WORLD'S FLEETS

Sir John Jellicoe Landed The Troops Once on Shores of Great Britain

Vice-Admiral Sir John Rushworth Jellicoe, K.C.B., who has been appointed to the command of the Home Fleet as full Admiral, is just the man to repel a German invasion of the British Isles, for he was commander last year of that part of the British fleet which represented a hostile German fleet in the naval manoeuvres. He ought to know the weakness or strength of the English coast, for his fleet out-manoeuvred the squadron representing the naval might of Britain and landed his troops on the coast of Lincolnshire.

He has seen much active service at various times. He took part in the relief of the legations at Pekin in 1900, commanding the Naval Brigade and acting as chief of staff to Sir Edward Seymour, who was in command of the British forces. Prior to that he had served with distinction in the Egyptian war of 1882, winning distinction at the bombardment of Alexandria and at Tel-el-Kebir.

He is the smallest man in the British Navy, and the tiniest Admiral in the world. Despite that, he is a great martinet, and the British Empire owes to him the complete organization and much consequent improvement in gunnery practice. He is idolized by the British "tars" whom he is known as "J. J."

NEAR APPROACH TO REAL CONDITIONS AT TORONTO'S CAMP

Toronto, Aug. 16.—Long Branch today assumes the outlines of an armed plain. The lines of tents have been plotted and a group of workers preparing for the influx of troops tomorrow will be busy all day. In the centre a power tank is being subjected to tests and a long steel pipe runs into the lake to supply fresh water for camp purpose. It is learned that the camp cooks have been secured, altho considerably difficulty was experienced at first.

Resemble Valcartier

The life at Long Branch will resemble that at Valcartier in every important particular. The whole locality will subscribe to military formula and the day will be one of routine surpassing in its exactitude any encampment at Niagara.

Sham Storming.

An item in the daily program will be "marching orders," and it is planned to drill the troops in all British strategic moves, including the sham storming of surrounding towns and villages. The garrison at Stanley Barracks is shifted this afternoon, infantry taking the place of dragoons going to Valcartier.

Gold!

There's lot of it, — but generally too mixed with rock to be profitable.

Much the same with food value. The nourishment in many foods is in such form that it cannot be readily assimilated.

GRAPE-NUTS is scientifically prepared from wheat and barley to present their rich nourishment in easily digestible form.

Long baking (about 20 hours) breaks down the starch cells—making it partially pre-digested and readily assimilable by the most delicate stomach.

RUSSIAN CONSUL KICKED AND CUFFED

After Having Been Compelled to Salute Statue of Germania.

Paris, Aug. 15.—The French liner Chicago, sailed from Havre for New York at two o'clock this morning and the France of the same line sails at one o'clock this afternoon.

The bitterness engendered by the war is reflected in numberless anti-German stories. A despatch to the Havas Agency from Zurich, Switzerland, to-day says travelers returning from the south of Germany declare that the Russian Consul at Frankfort N. De Damier, was forcibly taken from his home and escorted to a statue of Germania. After being compelled to remove his hat and bow to the statue, he was kicked and cuffed.

The Duke of Orleans has returned to Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary, the collar of the Order of the Golden Fleece, which was conferred upon the French pretender in 1896 when he married the Archduchess Marie of Austria.

ALGERINE SAFE IN CANADIAN HARBOR

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 15.—The British sloop of war Algerine, which had an exciting trip up the Californian coast dodging the German cruiser Leipzig, is now safe in Esquimalt harbor.

Roar Of Heavy Guns Heard At Headquarters Of The Belgians

Strong German Army Corps Thought To Be Heading For Brussels. Belgians Confident of Successfully Hurling Their Enemies Back---Ministry Denies Occupation of Diest by Germans.

Brussels, Aug. 16.—Although the Belgian artillery is battling every move of the Germans, who are forcing themselves towards Brussels and Namur, the roar of cannon is heard at the Belgian headquarters at Louvain. Their advance has been slow but sure, and they are now in touch with the allies' main formation. The clashes are becoming a general battle.

The German army corps that has crept along north of Liege and is now using Hasselt as a base is believed to be moving on Brussels. It is checked here and there, but making irresistible advances. Namur is the other city that seems to be the object of the German movements between these two points. When the Germans come upon the position of the allies there are likely to be some important conflicts. The Germans at Hasselt are being held in check by Belgian cavalry.

The Belgian staff discredits the reports that the German general staff has expressed itself as determined to take Brussels at any cost. The Belgians maintain that the sacrifice of even 75,000 German soldiers could not accomplish it.

GERMANS HAVEN'T GOT DIEST.

Brussels, Aug. 15.—The Belgian ministry of war today officially denied the rumor that the Germans had occupied the fortified Town of Diest, to the northeast of Louvain.

TURKISH GOVERNMENT TO DO RIGHT THING.

London, Aug. 16.—The official press bureau of the British admiralty and war department this evening issued the following: "There is no reason to doubt that the Turkish Government is about to replace the German officers and crews of the Goeben and Breslau by Turkish officers.

HOPE TO ENVELOPE ALLIES' LEFT FLANK.

London, Aug. 16.—"There are indications of an intention on the part of the German troops to envelope the extreme left of the allied forces," according to a statement issued by the official press bureau here this evening.

FIELD MARSHAL FRENCH WILDLY GREETED.

Paris, Aug. 15.—Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British field army was greeted by a vast crowd, when he arrived at the railroad station in Paris today. The people cheered and sang the British national anthem when the field marshal came out of the station in his khaki uniform. He was attended by the British ambassador and the French minister of the interior and was followed by a numerous staff.

Sir John spent the day in conference with Adolphe Messimy, minister of war, and in paying formal visits to President Poincare and Premier Viviani.

Japan Will Not Declare War Unless Cermany Is Aggressive

Brussels, Aug. 15.—It was officially announced this evening that the situation remains satisfactory and nothing has happened.

A Belgian sergeant who escaped from Liege asserts that there is much demoralization among the German troops. A German officer and eight soldiers committed suicide by throwing themselves into the River Meuse.

London, Aug. 15.—The statement that there was no news of special importance has come to hand. There have been engagements at one of two points, but these appear to have been mainly outpost affairs.

"News from official sources continues to indicate that the French and Belgian artillery is proving superior to the German and also that the German infantrymen do not determinedly face bayonets."

REPORTS MEET WITH DENIAL.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Flat denial at the Japanese embassy today met the report that Japan is preparing to declare war on Germany in the far east. At the state department, it was said the American representative in Tokio had investigated the rumors which emanated from the Japanese capital several days ago ann reported they were unable to find any foundation for them. Ambassador Chinda characterized the reports as pure fiction.

Japan's position at this time, Ambassador Chinda said, was that of enforcing its neutrality. He said that German aggression only would involve Japan.

British Ships Keep Sea Clear German Vessels are Taken

BRITISH SHIPS ARE ACTIVE POLICEMEN.

Hull, August 15.—The captain of the British steamer Buffalo, on his arrival here, today, reported that his vessel was continually stopped by gunboats. On the voyage up the North Sea the captain saw a number of German vessels taken as prizes by British warships.

MADE IN GERMANY.

New York, August 15.—A despatch from German official sources in Berlin was received today here via Sayville, Long Island, wireless Station, as follows: "The Seventh French Army Corps, and an army division from Belfort, which had invaded upper Alsace, were defeated yesterday by German troops near Muhlhausen."

The despatch, somewhat mutilated, by poor transmission, indicated that French intrenchments were taken at point of bayonet.

OBITUARY

Death of Albert John Mitchell.

The many friends of Mr. Albert John Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mitchell, will regret to learn that he passed away at the family residence, 101 Romaine Street, at one-thirty Saturday afternoon, after a lingering illness. Deceased was forty-two years of age, and had been a resident of this city all his life. He was a member of the old volunteer fire brigade up to the time of its absorption by the present permanent force, was extensively popular and enjoyed the esteem and respect of a large section of the community. Of late years he engaged successfully in the building business. The late Mr. Mitchell is survived by a sorrowing father and mother, one sister, Mrs. Wm. Rundle, of this city, and four brothers—Joseph and William, now of Toronto; and Arthur and Ernie, of Peterborough. The sympathy of many friends and acquaintances will go out to the family in their bereavement.

A funeral service will be held at the family residence, 101 Romaine Street, today at two o'clock. Interment will take place in the Little Lake cemetery, the funeral leaving the house at two-thirty.

BUELOW'S BROTHER DEAD REPORT NOW CONFIRMED

London, Aug. 15.—The Daily Telegram's Rotterdam correspondent says a Berlin newspaper has confirmed the report that Maj.-Gen. Von Buelow, a brother of Prince Von Buelow, former German imperial chancellor, was killed in battle early this week.

JAPAN WILL DECLARE WAR

Paris, Aug. 15.—The Petit Journal, editor of which is, Stephen Pichot, who was formerly minister of foreign affairs, says today that it learns on absolutely unimpeachable authority that Japan is resolved to declare war on Germany, and that official action probably will be taken today, following the return of the emperor to Tokio.

STRONG GERMAN COLUMN BROKE THRU BELGIAN LINES

Correspo ndent Describes Fighting in Which 15,000 Germans Lost Eheir Lives--100,000 Invaders Faced Much Smeller Belgian Force--

Brussels, Aug. 15.—I have just returned to the Belgian capital, after having been an eye-witness of most of the fighting which has taken place during the past week between the German army of invasion and the Belgian forces, in the country lying between Maastrecht and Eyden. As near as I can estimate, the German forces engaged in this fighting have numbered about 100,000 men, the Belgian forces opposing them being much smaller.

The Germans advanced their base at Vise at the beginning of the week, keeping well to the north of the fortified City of Liege, and I am credibly informed, burning property indiscriminately as they advanced.

According to a number of civilian refugees who sought shelter behind who opposing their progress. The Germans also shot a number of civilians who opposed their progress. The German forces consisted of infantry anh cavalry, supported by both heavy and light artillery.

Their efforts to cross the River Meuse were hotly contested by the Belgians, notwithstanding the fact that the Germans outnumbered them by ten to one.

The Belgians blew up every available bridge over the River Meuse and inflicted frightful losses on the enemy by keeping up a constant and deadly artillery and rifle fire upon them during their efforts to construct pontoon bridges to take the place of those destroyed by the Belgians.

The Germans, however, persisted and eventually succeeded in constructing a pontoon at Sixhe.

Over this bridge scores of heavy guns and masses of German infantry crossed directly in the teeth of a withering fire from batteries of Belgian shrapnel guns which were operated with such precision that the German losses at this point were numerous.

At a conservative estimate, the number of Germans killed during the entire fighting was 15,000, the number of wounded being, of course a great deal larger.

The bulk of the German forces were repulsed, especially the infantry, but a large portion of the cavalry and artillery succeeded in getting through the Belgian lines and advanced in the direction of Louvain.

The German cavalry which broke through included the famous Todkopfreiter ("Death's head rider.")

This celebrated regiment whose badge consists of a skull and crossbones, is led by the Kaiser's son and is now fighting in the neighborhood of Tirlemont and Hesbaye.

In their advance, the Germans brought up their largest artillery which has proved a hopeless failure, much to the discomfort of the German general staff.

FRENCH TRAITOR ORDERED TO DIE

First Sentence by Court Martial Meted to Tradesman

Paris, Aug. 15.—The first sentence of death by a French court martial in the present war, was announced today. It was pronounced on a French tradesman, whose name has not been disclosed. It was proved that he sent reports on aviation defences of the country and on the wireless telegraph stations on Eiffel tower, a French secret service agent believing him to be a German spy.

TRANSFERRED COAL TO GERMAN BOAT

Havana, Aug. 15.—The German steamer President, which left here several days ago, proceeding toward the east returned today and reported that she went as far as Point Maysi, at the eastern extremity of Cuba.

She was then chased by a British cruiser, and compelled to return. It is said that the President transferred coal and other supplies to a German cruiser at sea.

LOCAL LADIES ARE OUT FOR THE HOSPITAL SHIP

A largely attended meeting of the Committee in charge of the "Women's Hospital-Ship and War Fund" was held in the Recreation Room at the Armouries, with Mrs. Travers in the chair. The committee arranged for the collection of the fund by subscription lists and closed collection on Tuesday next. It was carried, upon motion by Mrs. Ritchie, seconded by Miss Lundy, that the Banks be asked to take charge of the subscription lists, and that these lists be published each day in the local papers until the 22nd of August, when the money is to be forwarded.

The following letter was then read:

Peterborough, Aug. 13, 1914.

Mrs. (Col.) Clegg, Regent I.O.D.E.

Dear Madam,—Having seen in the local press and by bulletins that your patriotic society is receiving subscriptions for the purpose of furnishing a hospital ship for the use of wounded and sick British soldiers and sailors during the present war in which our Empire has been called upon to defend herself, and knowing the need of such a ship, we gladly donate the sum of $10 (ten) and we pray God's blessing in the cause for which you are working.

Signed on behalf of Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 50.

COBOURG AMERICANS SHOW UNION JACK WHEN TROOPS LEAVE

Cobourg, Aug. 15.—The one absorbing topic of conversation, of course, is the "war," and the whole town was excited on Thursday by the departure of the local battery. The Americans were the first to display the Union Jack on their carriages and automobiles and by their enthusiasm to show their interest.

A COUNTRY BOY'S CREED

I believe that the country which God made is more beautiful than the city which man made; that life out of doors and in touch with the earth is the natural life of man. I believe that work with nature is more inspiring than work with the most intricate machinery. I believe that the dignity of labor depends not on what you do but how you do it; that opportunity comes to the boy on the farm as often as to the boy in the city; that life is larger and freer and happier on the farm than in the town; that my success depends not upon my location but my self; not upon my dreams but upon what I actually do; not upon luck, but upon pluck. I believe in working when you work and playing when you play, and in giving a square deal in every act of life.

ROBINNE

Paris has awarded another prize. No medal was given, no ceremony was held, but unofficially all Paris come to the agreement that Mlle. Georgette Lemanier, known in the theatre as Robinne, is "the most beautiful woman in France." There are many beauties in France, but not one has tried so far to take away Robinne's laurels.

SALMON FISHING

Other Fish Are Neglected by the British Columbia Canners

The interest in the British Columbia fishing industry has so far been centered almost entirely in salmon packing, and there is no lack of capital and enterprise in that particular branch, which has been exploited to the neglect of other important features of the business. The reason of this salmon run is short, and the canneries are closed down most of the year, while herring can be taken all the year round along the entire coast although the heavy run is during the winter months. This would enable the factories to continue operations throughout the year and would obviate to a large extent, the difficulty of securing a sufficient number of hands to handle the business during the high season in the salmon-canning industry. It is only in recent years that halibut have been taken in commercial quantities on the British Columbia coast, and, so far, the packing of sardines is practically an untried enterprise. The herring, which are caught in large quantities, are now mainly used as bait in the halibut fisheries, and for that purpose only the larger fish are kept. Nothing is done with the smaller ones, which could be packed for sardines. There are, along the provincial coast, scores of fine sites for sardine factories, where the fish could be caught in adjacent waters in unlimited quantities and at small expense.

Naming of St. Lawrence River

The St. Lawrence River owes its name to the accidental conjunction of the Festival of Saint Lawrence with the day upon which the first explorer imagined he had discovered the river. Jacques Cartier in 1534 heard from the natives of the Magdalen Islands of a mighty stream threading the continent to an unknown source, and it was while testing this legend that he sailed up the gulf until he could see the land on each side.

Good Results Follow a Good Soap and Water Wash

Do you ever give your eyeglasses a bath? If not, give them a surprise and see how you like the result.

Dampness and dust form a gummy combination on the eyelashes, and the wearer of glasses or spectacles will find his vision, apparently, much improved by giving them a thorough washing daily with soap and warm water, followed by drying and polishing with tissue paper. The gummy substance which collects on the lenses cannot be removed by a mere rubbing with chamois or tissue paper.

An oculist, who knows the importance of well-washed lenses, carries in his pocket a vial of alcohol. It takes but a moment to moisten the corner of a handkerchief and remove the combination of dust and moisture from his glasses. Another has the case of his glasses interlined with a folded bit of soft tissue, such as is used for copying letters in offices. This is so soft that it is easily folded into the small space of the receptacle case. No dust collects on this as it does on the velvet lining, and the tissue interlining is removed every day

AS LIGHT AS LAGER BUT BETTER FOR YOU

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them can not imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4838, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

SERMONS OUT OF CHURCH

By the Rev. Byron H. Stauffer

XII.—Our Limitations in Friendships.

William Jennings Bryan lectured in my city once upon a time, and I got into line to shake hands with the Peerless One. Because I had lived in Omaha four whole months, I thought I would provide somewhat in common by filling up the fraction of a second spanning the greeting with the whisper: "I'm from Omaha." The phrase proved to be an open sesame: nothing could have been heartier than the Commoner's shake. "Hello old man! Glad to see you again, old man; very glad, very glad." There was no time for it, and it would have been rude, but I might have replied, "Say, old man, you cannot be so very glad, for never in your life before this minute have you ever set eyes on this portly frame, old man. I've sat under the spell of your betwitching oratory, old man, but until now, though I be from Omaha, you and I have never clasped hands, old man."

But was Mr. Bryan playing the hypocrite in his greeting? Not at all. He has too many friends that is all. He cannot carry them all in his memory. His heart is big, his intellect is spacious, but his capacity for faces and names is limited after all, so he must grope and take a chance at striking the right door knob in memory's many chambers.

You cannot hold so very many friends. To a multitude, you may be able to say "Good morning." To an inner circle you may throw a "how d'ye do, Mr. Smith," or even a "Hullo, Jim," but of real chums, I'll vouch you have no more than you can count on one hand. Why no more? Because you cannot contain them. You are too small. The limitations of your mind, your heart, your memory, your time, forbid.

And that is why the functions of the social world seem cold. Society tries to do too much. We vainly attempt the cultivation of so many friendships that, to properly care for them all, we are compelled to resort to such devices as large parties, at homes, and standing luncheons. So we have scores of formal acquaintances, but few close friends.

Nothing sustains the unity, the continuity, the zest of life as does the close friendship of a great soul. Eighteen hundred years ago Emperor Marcus Aurelius gave Roman youth the sage advice which we well seize now: "When thou wishest to delight thyself, think of the virtues of thy friends; for instance, the activity of one, and the modesty of another and the liberality of a third, and some other good quality of a fourth. For nothing delights so much as the examples of the virtues, when they are exhibited in the morals of those who are with us. Therefore we must keep them before us." The old philosopher might have added: "There is nothing so damaging, either to the digestion or the morals of the family as to spend the dinner hour in discussing the faults of your friends. It is a blighting habit to acquire. Once addicted to the vice, the breaking of it is next to impossible.

"The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried, Grapple hem to thy soul with hooks of steel."

SERMONS OUT OF CHURCH

By the Rev. Byron H. Stauffer

XIII.—Making Home a Club House

The best antidote for Gang Alley is an attractive home. And the pleasantness of a house does not depend on the style or cost of the furniture or the size of the rooms, but upon the atmosphere of the place.

Do not effeminate your house, housewife. Why have a holy of holies in the shape of a formal drawing room with meaningless pictures such as any hotel parlor might select? And why have the best room shut off, by tradition or by doors, from the every day use of the whole family? Of late years, it is true, father has been given a modest concession in the form of what we suggestively call a den, the implication being that the old bear needs such limits. But this upstairs room has only tended to make the downstairs stiffer than ever. The parlor chairs are not intended for resting; there must not be too many books lying around; a davenport or a serviceable table is entirely out of the question.

Why not turn the whole institution into a den? Let home be a club house for father and brother. To satisfy the whims of a few fastidious callers an afternoon a week by keeping a conventional reception room for their ten minutes of empty talk is not nearly as important as to keep your boys at home evenings. Let the tools for an hour's pastime be within easy reach of the young fellow the moment he rises from the evening meal. A chess board and a deck of cards, parchesi and crokinole, an easy chair and an entertaining book, and good indoor coaxers.

Do not puritanize your home. To get away from feminine austerity, youths escape from high class residences to the club, and from cottages to the dive, and sometimes the club is nothing but a more comfortable dive. Better allow your young fellow to smoke a pipe at home than a cigarette down town. Suppose you compromise with him on that basis. After dinner I passed the cigars to a company which included a gentleman and his eighteen-year-old son. When I asked the father whether I should offer the young man a smoke he assented saying: "John and I reached an understanding on these matters a year ago when I found that he was smoking cigarettes on the sly. We agreed that he should give up the cigarette, but that he and I would smoke a cigar together every evening after dinner." Wise man!

The old revival hymn, "Where is my wandering boy to-night" will not need to be sung so often when religious people will exercise a little more common sense and a little less puritanical prudery about their children. And if mothers and fathers will ask where their boys are evenings during the first fifteen years of life, they will not need to sniffle while the Evangelist sings the question in after years.

To make home a real club house father must be at the head of the house committee. His evenings must be given to the children. Away with the lodge and the club! The night-after-night lodge man, the every-evening club member, yes and the man who thinks he must attend every committee meeting at the church, is losing his opportunity of sustaining the one lodge of which the eternal pass-word is "Success."

EGG CARRYING CASE

Layers With Many Compartments Fit Over One Another

Since the parcel post has been in effect, inventors have been busy turning out all sorts of carrying devices. A woman has planned the egg case shown in the illustration, and if it carries eggs as safely as she claims there will be plenty of use for it. Each side of this case is a different height and to each side is hinged a flat box that is divided into numerous cells, each just large enough to hold an egg. One side for example, is the full depth of the case, while the others are respectively three-fourth, one-half and one-fourth of the depth. So that when the different boxes are filled and their lids fastened down they are turned into the central space and form four separate layers, each containing a certain number of eggs and with each egg in a separate cell

MATRIMONIAL PARADOXES

"Weddings to me have often been a matter of considerable curiosity writes a clergyman in "Church Life." "There is surely here no accounting for taste. To see a beautiful young bride giving her heart and hand to a rough, burly, ignorant fellow is almost beyond comprehension. That which verges on the ridiculous is to behold a gnat of a man reaching up to take the hand of a woman, while the latter is almost a giantess in stature, and as broad in proportion to her height and hearing her [illegible] repeat that she promises to obey the diminutive creature at her side. SPRAINS AND FRACTURES

What Can be Done Until the Doctor Comes

A sprain is due to the stretching and tearing of the ligaments around a joint. It is usually accompanied by great pain and swelling. Hot water applications are the best to relieve the pain and to reduce the swelling. The joint should be kept absolutely at rest. A very good way to secure this is to strap the joint for some distance above and below, with adhesive plaster, layer upon layer. If there is a weak spot in the dressing it can be strengthened by an extra layer or two. Care should be taken that the strapping is not so tight as to interfere with the circulation. It is comparatively easy to determine this by noting whether the part below the strapping remains warm. If it does not, you may know the circulation has been seriously interfered with. Loosen the bandage sufficiently to allow the blood to move. Remember that a severe sprain often takes longer than a fracture to heal and is a difficult thing to treat satisfactorily.

Our Point of View

If reports be true the Zeppelin dirigibles are more to be feared in peace than in war.

When last heard from, Andy Carnegie was shut up in his Peace Palace at The Hague reading Norman Angell's Great Delusion.

A German scientist predicts that "unless the feminist movement is abandoned women of the future will be bald and will wear beards." The brute!

With the European war under way the New York Evening Post antitipates "wholesale murder on a more terrible scale than the world has yet witnessed."

The Kaiser's famous remark that "women's sphere includes only the church, kitchen, children and clothes ought to move Mrs. Pankhurst to lead her unbeaten legions against him.

The Toronto Globe heads up a leading editorial: "Why This War Is Ineviatble." As Rev. Dr. J. A. Macdonald says: "In peace, prepare to be in pieces."

Germany's most trusted allies are the unmitigated asses in Great Britain and in Canada, who are still, in the face of danger, yelping about the advantages of peace.

Noting that two of Toronto's distinguished musicians are resuming their positions in the Austrian army, The Globe remarks that "military service should be reserved for men of less capacity in other fields."

An official of the Panama exposition says it will not be postponed and that the attendance will be greatly increased by the war. These can hardly be accepted at present as positive assurances, however.

What Belgium Has Done.

Some of the critics who are conducting the war from arm chairs are beginning to cast doubt on the value of the service the Belgians have rendered in holding the Kaiser's forces in check, and also cast doubt on the numerous reports of Belgian successes. The distance from the German frontier to the sea at Ostend is given as at about 140 miles, with Brussels situated about midway between the German frontier and the coast. Because the German forces have succeeded in winning their way to a point fifty miles from the German border and twenty miles from Brussels, these critics are discouraged, and make the gloomy prediction that at their present rate the Germans will be overrunning Belgium in a few days.

These gloomy critics have lost sight of the fact that it was vital to the success of the Kaiser's campaign that he should administer a crushing blow to France with lightning-like rapidity before the allies could come to her aid as he is surrounded with enemies on nearly all sides, and is in danger of being caught as in a vise. It is evident that in making the attack first on France, he hoped to crush his most formidable enemy first and then be free to turn the whole strength of his forces against the slow-moving Russians. Dealing with one enemy at a time would be a picnic compared to the task that now presents itself to him, because owing to the check administered by the Belgians, he will have to meet the combined forces of three countries, Britain, France and Belgium, instead of only the French army. In addition to that he will have to deal at the same time with his other enemies. Haste was so vital to his plans that he selected Belgium as the means to reach France, instead of tackling the fortified French border, where he was confronted by the task of either consuming months in seeking to take the fortresses or of enveloping each with troops and pushing on into the interior with his main forces. With enemies on all sides, he could not afford to wait to subjugate the fortified places, and apparently he did not relish the risk of leaving them enveloped to be a constant source of danger not only to his operations but to his supplies. He did not count upon any delay in forcing his way through Belgium, but thanks to this heroic nation, he finds himself confronted with almost the same difficulties that he shied from at the fortified French border. He has not been able to capture any of the fortiyed places of Belgium, and has had to push on, leaving them surrounded. It never expected that Belgians would be able to hold up his forces indefinitely. The most expected was that they might be able to create a slight delay. They have prolonged this delay beyond anything expected of them. The value of that service to the allies is inestimable.

The pessimistic critics are dismayed because no reports have arrived announcing the arrival in Belgium of the British troops. The war office officials have seen to it that no such announcement of the movements of the British troops was made. It is knowo that some 300,000 were ready for the continent several days ago! If they have not reached Belgium, it is safe to say that the only reason is that they could render more effective service in some other place.

OIL THE GREAT WEALTHMAKER

We hold over 3,000 acres, more or less, of oil leases North and South of Monarch and several of our leases are in the same range as the Monarch well.

Many companies claim to be close to Monarch but we are one of the very few who are in Range Six upon which the Monarch Well is situated. Therefore, we must be on the same anti-cline and as it is a foregone conclusion Monarch will get oil, so will we.

Fifty-Seven Feet of Oil Bearing Sands Passed Through in Monarch Well

OFFICIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN OUT BY PRESIDENT GEORGESON—WELL IS NOW DOWN OVER 1,800 FEET AND FLOW OF WET GAS HAS BEEN STRUCK IN LOWER LEVELS—GEOLOGIST DUNN IS AWAY AT PRESENT

Heavy oil showings are being found in the Monarch well, west of Olds, although the oil has not yet come in in commercial quantities.

To put the exact facts before the public, President William Georgeson and Treasurer G. W. Morfitt, of the company, this morning issued an official statement from the drillers setting forth the results.

The heaviest oil seepage has been encountered through a stratum 57 feet thick, and the well is now 1850 feet deep.

A sample of this oil baled out at 1,775 feet was brought to the city this morning and is in the office of Mr. Morfitt, Grain Exchange Building. The oil is a heavy black petroleum with the characteristic petroleum odor.

The statement issued by the officers is as follows:

In the absence of Mr. Dunn, Mr. Van Alst, the head driller, reports that from the depth of 1,775 feet to 1,832 feet he went through oil bearing sands for 57 feet. Throughout there was a heavy showing of black oil in the baler. Two further showing of black wet gas were met at 1,885 feet and 1,915 feet.

The well is now down 1,950 feet. Wet gas has shown at 633 feet, 1,430 feet, 1,885 feet and 1,915 feet.

Oil sands have shown at 868 feet, (48 feet), 1,430 feet (40 feet), 1,740 feet (14 feet), and 1,775 feet (57 feet).

The well is now down 1,950 feet, and while there are good oil showings there is not as yet oil in commercial quantities.

Our stock is on the market at 50 cents a share, a Dollar par, and will be advanced without notice any day pending Monarch Well developments. It is practically a certainty that Monarch will be in oil in commercial quantities within two weeks, Our stock will jump away above par and you had better hurry if you wish to share our prosperity.

WHALING INDUSTRY

Canned Whale Beef May be on the List Shortly

The whaling industry is commonly supposed to be a thing of the past. Yet it is estimated that $1,000,000,000 are invested in that business to-day, and one whaling company recently bought out a rival at a price of $1,000,000. Such a business would seem to be rather lively for a back number. A new scheme has been brought up several times of late which may add still more to the importance—and profits—of whaling. This is the plan to can whale beef, and put it on the market as a rival to other forms of canned meat. No doubt this would add considerably to the world's supply, and under the right handling the quality might not be bad. Japan eats a great deal of whale meat already. Dr. Grenfell of Labrador considers it very good food. But no one yet has explained how the huge carcass can be handled in sanitary fashion with the limited equipment possible on a whaling ship. Until this miracle is achieved, it is not likely that whale meat will rival beef and pork in any country peopled by white men.

DETECTIVE METHODS VARY

How English and French Authorities Do Their Work

In France the police do not hesitate to arrest a half a dozen people one after the other, in the hope of finding the right man among them. In England the police, knowing what public opinion is in the matter, hesitate to arrest anyone without they have a certain amount of evidence to justify the arrest.

In connection with many of the crimes which so far as the public are concerned are still "mysterious" long and anxious consultations have been held by the chief authorities before it has been decided not to act on strong suspicion in making an arrest. The English police authorities have always been disinclined to charge a person against whom they are not able to bring evidence which would be likely to satisfy a jury of the prisoner's guilt.

The French police have not the same restraining influence. They can go on arresting and leave it to the investigating magistrate to interview the prisoner, badger the prisoner, examine and cross-examine the prisoner, denounce the prisoner, confront the prisoner with witnesses, inquire into his past life and his present associations, and generally to "turn him inside out" before deciding.

CRIME AND THE WEST

Wide Prairies an Ideal Setting For Daring Deeds, Says Conan Doyle

The golden west of Canada is a great field for crime, said Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes, after his Canadian trip.

The West, with its vast prairies and mountains, was just ideal for making clean "getaways," Sir Arthur declared, and said there was need for more men in the Northwest Mounted Police, although they were doing good work. The police of the West have a problem before them such as no others have, people are pouring in, some of them the lowest type of criminals, who have made their "getaway" is coming to this country.

COWS THAT WEAR WELL

Testing Brings Out the Milk-producing Facts of the Herd

One of the many advantages reaped from systematic cow testing is the fact that it not only detects cows of indifferent value saving dairymen the burden of providing for worthless cows, instead of their having good cows to support them, but also it has frequently discovered valuable cows. For instance, a farmer at Ennismore, Ontario, had a small, undersized "native" cow which he intended to sell, not placing much value on her. But cow testing showed that she was one of the best in the herd both for milk and fat production.

This recalls another cow at Ayers Cliff, Quebec, bought at auction for $3.00 because no one knew her value. Indeed she was put in with three others as the four poorest in the herd of the man who was selling out. The present owner believes in cow testing, and has refused $100.00 for her; she gave 322 pounds of fat in seven months.

The men who have built up herds that average 8,000 or 9,000 pounds of milk per cow are just those men who know, through having proved it, that cow testing pays. Your cows may be like fancy china, of very fine appearance, but they may not wear well. But the tested cows, that do produce that do wear well, may bring you in sixty or seventy dollars each during the factory season.

Lessen Collisions at Sea

Signor Ulivi, the engineer who claims to be able to ignite explosives at a distance of several miles by means of rays, says his invention can be so applied on board ship as to ascertain whether another steamer is within a radius of thirteen miles. Thus precautions can be taken which should lessen the possibility of collisions at sea.

SURVEY YOUR OWN FARM

Did you ever take an afternoon off and stroll over your own farm, viewing it in the impartial manner in which you would survey a neighbor's farm? Looking the farm in the face in this way is a wonderful educator, and all of us can afford to do it at least once a year.

Sticking too close to hard work makes us narrow in our vision. Obvious faults are apt to escape our notice. For instance, it is easy for one of us who has plowed for 40 years around a large boulder in the middle of an otherwise clean field, to come to regard that obstruction as a necessary evil; a few pounds of blasting powder and half an hour's work would remove the obstruction and improve the field immensely. The barnyard may be very unsightly and mussy to a stranger, but all right to us because we have become accustomed to seeing it that way. A gate that insists on sagging and dragging may lose us enough time and energy in a year to build half a dozen new ones to take its place, but we have become so accustomed to hauling that old gate around that it too is classed as a necessary evil.

It is wonderful how many small points in need of improvement we can find if we will only give our farm a square look in the face. Many of the most obvious faults may be remedied by half an hour of energetic work. There are few of us whose farms are so perfect that they would not be the better of an annual clean-up.

ANNIE EDNEY

Annie Edney is said to have screamed herself into a job once upon a time in London. She was looking for a position with a theatrical company, so the story goes. A consultation with the manager indicated that she would have to scream in the part assigned to her.

She "allowed" that she could scream to order in first class fashion. So a short synopsis of the play was given to her. Her husband was supposed to have dropped dead. She, seeing the figure of her loved one at her feet, then was to give a cry which would send shivers over the audience.

Miss Edney walked to the stage door, turned, and gave the requisite shriek—which drew stage hands, police, and people off the street to discover what was the matter.

She got the job!

Belgium's People Heaviest Drinkers

Belgium has the greatest number of public houses per head in the world. Whereas in Norway there is one to every 9,000 inhabitants, in Sweden one to every 5,000, in England to every 432, in the United States to every 360, in Germany to every 246, in France to every 82, Belgium has one public house to every 30 inhabitants. The drink revenue in Belgium amounts to $500,000,000, the Belgian working man being computed to spend two and a half months' wages on alcohol.

Long Street Names

The Parisian record for long street names is the Rue des Prêtres-Saint Germain-l'Auxerrois, which is something of a mouthful, but is equalled by a thoroughfare in Brussels rejoicing in the name of the Rue de la Montagne aux Herbes-Potagères. In the environs of the Belgian capital there is even more of a tongue twister, the Onzelievevrouwkindeverenocker nootjesstraat which may be rendered as the street of the little unpicked silver nut.

Annual Marriage Fair

The annual marriage fair, at which eligible young men are the guests of matured spinsters desirous of matrimony was held at Ecaussines, in Belgium, a few Sundays ago, when sixty-seven youths were entertained by as many maidens at an alfresco banquet.

MUSHROOM FALLACIES

No Single Guide to Distinguish Edible From Poisonous Kinds

There is a popular tendency to restrict the name "toad-stool" to poisonous species of fungi and that of "mushroom" to the edible ones; but since one cannot tell, except by trial, whether a particular "toad-stool" is poisonous or not, the distinction, according to a reliable medical publication, is neither satisfactory nor advantageous.

Many reputed tests to distinguish the innocent from the harmful toadstool are current and are implicitly believed in by some. It cannot be too emphatically stated, therefore, that so far as is known there is no single guide, with the possible exception of a chemical analysis, which will give results of any value whatever. Any scheme for distinguishing edibility in these fungi should be decisive and give uniform results. Some of the alleged tests deserve mention in order to point out their unreliability and their danger. Among them the so-called "silver test" is most prevalent. It is believed that a silver spoon or coin placed with toadstools while cooking will demonstrate by blackening, or failure to blacken, whether or not the fungi are safe to eat. It need only be said that there are both poisonous and non-toxic species which act alike on silver. Again, no reliance is to be placed on the contention that if the outer (upper) skin of the top of the toadstool peels off readily, such a species is edible. Some poisonous species also will "peel." Flavor has often been alleged to serve as a reliable guide to edibility, the bitter or peppery species being charged with detrimental attributes. Experience shows, however, that the most poisonous toadstools are not at all disagreeable in respect to flavor of the raw tissues. Other "tests" are the alleged tell-tale color changes that are supposed to appear when toxic mushrooms are bruised or broken; or the existence of a milky juice, or the susceptibility of the fungi to the invasion of insects, which are believed to avoid the pernicious varieties. None of these "tests" can be applied with any certainty. As the "proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof," so the surest way of learning to distinguish the poisonous from the innocuous mushrooms is by eating them—a heroic procedure—or by learning the experience of others.

HOW TO SHIP POULTRY

In Forwarding Live Birds Only Coops of Standard Size May be Used

New regulations governing the shipping of live poultry have been adopted by the Express Traffic Association of Canada, after conference with the representatives of the packing houses, and approved by the Board of Railway Commissioners. In future, only coops of standard size and construction may be used. The new coops for poultry must have sides, ends and tops slatted, and tops with slats more than 1½ inches apart must be protected by wire netting. Coops containing chickens and ducks must not be less than 12 inches nor more than 16 inches in height, while coops for geese or turkeys must not be less than 16 inches nor more than 22 inches high. The regulations also provide that coops must not exceed 30 inches in width and 48 inches in length.

The new regulations are the outcome of an agitation on the part of the Humane Society, which has been pressing the matter forward in hope of doing away with the suffering inflicted on the birds through the use of inadequate or improperly constructed crates.

What is believed to be a world record has just been set up at a congress of South German smokers held at Frankfort.

A special trophy, consisting of a silver eagle on a red and white ribbon, was offered to the smoker who took the longest time to turn a Mexican cigar into grey-white ash without letting it once go out. The competition began at eleven o'clock, and very nearly 200 people contested for the award. By twelve o'clock only twenty competitors were in the running—the rest had regretfully finished their "weeds" or had laid them at rest in the ash-tray for too long.

The rivals dropped out rapidly, and by one o'clock only one smoker was left—Herr Hens, a Sachsenhausen business man, who actually puffed away in peace until he perforce had to throw his diminutive cigar stump away, two hours forty-six minutes and seventeen seconds after he had set light to it. Herr Hens was therefore proclaimed smoker laureate.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

CALGARY, July 23rd.—An official statement just issued by the Monarch Oil Company states that the drill has just passed through a 57-foot strata of oil bearing sand, at a depth of between 1775 and 1832 feet. A sample of the oil from this oil sand is on exhibition at the Company's office in Calgary. This is the fourth oil sand encountered in the well, and indicates that a good producing well should be obtained before going much deeper. The Hole-Woollard Oil Company is making preparations to drill on its property in the Monarch district, which adjoins the property of the Monarch Oil Company, and we are advised that the price of shares will be advanced as soon as drilling operations are started. The time to invest in the shares of the Hole-Woollard Company is NOW, before the advance in price.

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascer-tained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). cf a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

Copper is one of the world's chief necessities, and the demand for it is constantly increasing. Growth of the electrical industry largely accounts for this. Telegraph and Telephone Wire—Trolley Wire—Trolley Wheels and the multitude of other Electrical Machines and Parts—Power Transmission Wire and the use of the metal in various valuable Alloys—these are some of the places where copper is consumed, and while its production is enormous it is used about as rapidly as it can be mined and made ready. THIS IS WHY OWNERSHIP IN A COPPER MINE IS ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY SOURCES OF INCOME POSSIBLE TO IMAGINE.

TIME TO START

Naturally the time to secure an interest in any sort of enterprise is at the start, because it is then that money for development and equipment is needed and this is, of course, the reason why shares in the project are released! When these necessities are provided for the Opportunity passes.

For years we have been spending time, effort and money in getting together one of the largest known copper deposits, and we now own and control thousands of acres of land, covering veins of copper, ore carrying gold and silver values, extensive veins of coal, iron and lime.

The geology is so well defined as to make identifications of size and location of the copper bearing veins a perfect definite matter. In addition to this the estate has been thoroughly prospected by some 4,000 feet of work, there being more than 100 shafts, pits, cuts and tunnels, every one of which shows copper in paying quantities. The dumps of these openings run from 2 to 8 per cent in copper metal.

Facilities for economically winning the copper from its ores are remarkably fine. In the company's own ground are five known coal beds, insuring a perpetual supply of cheap fuel, easily accessible and located within a very short distance of the site chosen for its furnaces. Water and timber are also abundant and easy of access.

One of Colorado's most eminent mining engineers, after thoroughly examining this property, states in his report that the net profits resulting from operation of this property should range from $250,000 to $1,000,000 each year.

There is no uncertainty, no guesswork, about this project. Applied to it, a definite cause will inevitably produce an equally definite effect. Equipment for mining these immense bodies of ore and reducing the metal in them to bullion means dividends—it can't mean anything else—and it is to provide this equipment and the funds required for its installation and the preliminary operating expenses of the estate that an interest in the project is offered to you.

It is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to join in a well planned, conservative, and exceptionally profitable business undertaking. The foundations are laid, the property is acquired and the next step—providing the equipment—is now being taken. So soon as this is accomplished your chance to secure a share in the enterprise will be gone.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

GREAT OPPORTUNITES IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Fish Industry Is Being Helped by New Process of Curing

Canadians hold that Newfoundland's greatest opportunity for increased sales of fish lies in the Brazils, as in these countries the consumption of dried fish is increasing probably faster than in any other part of the world. Last year's imports of Northern Brazil are reported to have shown an increase of 100,000 quintals (no exact figures are yet obtainable), and certainly were not less than 50,000 quintals over the previous year. The explanation is this: The Brazilian people are eating less meat. Formerly they received large quantities of this article from the Argentine; it was cured especially for tropical consumption, and was technically described as "jerked beef." Often it found its way as far north as the West Indies, and had a more or less demoralizing effect on the prices of codfish in those islands. But conditions have changed. The chilled-beef industry of the Argentine with Europe, and later with America, has provided a more profitable beef market, and so the Brazilian is compelled to fall back on fish. The exact ultimate proportions of Brazilian purchases it is impossible to exactly forecast; but there reason to believe that the Brazils will use a great deal more codfish during the next decade than they have required during the current one—perhaps twice as much.

There is now being introduced here a new method of curing fish, recently introduced into Halifax (Nova Scotia). It is now being tested by one of the largest shippers of fish in Halifax, and it promises to revolutionise the whole fish industry. This method does away altogether with the use of ice, salt, pickle or other preservatives, and so perfectly preserves the fish that two weeks after the curing process (which is sufficient time for this food article to reach cities in Central United States, in the West Indies, and some ports in South America) the fish is just in the same state as when it was drawn from its native water. Previously it had been the practice to salt and sun-dry all fish to be preserved, or, should nearby markets be the objective, the fish were either placed in ice or shipped in cars equipped with refrigerators. For the new method it is claimed that it abolishes this slow and expensive process, and enables the shipper to quickly and inexpensively prepare his shipments in such a way that the product, two weeks after shipment, and in a foreign market, will be the equal of the highest quality of fresh fish.

SHOWS SHADOW OF HAIR

Slightest Vibration Affects Heart Beat Recording Instruments

The heart department of the London Hospital has recently been placed under ground, as the slightest vibration affects the extremely delicate instruments used in recording heart beats.

By certain of these instruments various forms of heart disease have been diagnosed long before they could be heard by the stethoscope. When the heart beats it has been found that it gives off minute electric currents, and by proper arrangement these currents are made to cause a fine hair of glass, coated with silver to vibrate. These vibrations are made to take place in front of the lens of a powerful arc lamp and to throw a shadow on a sensitised film.

When this film is developed a tracing is obtained caused by the shadow of the hair and from this shadow valuable inferences can be drawn. The apparatus is connected by wires to some of the beds in the hospital.

BATTERED GERMAN CRUISER SEEN BY DANISH CAPTAIN

Her Funnels and Upperworks Gone--Big Holes in Her Plating Admiralty Refuses to Confirm Report

London, Aug. 17.—A despatch from Amsterdam to the Central News says the captain of the Dutch steamer Epsilon, upon his arrival at Ymuiden today, reported seeing a German Dreadnought in the harbor at Trondheim which had been put out of action. Her funnels were smashed and on one side she was scarred with holes from shell fire. No confirmation of the report has reached the official news bureau here.

French Take 1,000 Prisoners.

London, Aug. 17.—The official press bureau of the War Office and Admiralty has issued a statement saying that French troops in the course of a rapid advance along the valley of the Schirmeck, have taken a thousand prisoners.

The scene of the fighting of the last few days, the official announcement Trenches abandoned by the enemy effect of the fire of the allied artillery, continues, shows the great destructive are filled with dead and wounded.

French Far Into Alsace.

London, Aug. 17.—A despatch from Paris to the Havas Agency says that French troops have occupied the town of Schirmeck, twelpe kilometers (seven and one-half miles) beyond Saales, in Alsace.

They took twelve field guns, twelve caissons, and eight rapid-fire guns. The French cavalry then pushed on to Mulbach and Lutzelhausen.

The French Official Statement.

Paris, Aug. 17.—An official announcement today by the French War Office says:

"The advance of the French armies continues to develop. Our troops have taken the heights to the north of the Alsatian frontier in German territory, and the French line now passes thro Abrechevillier, Lotquin, Azoudange and Marsal.

"In the Donon, or Rougemont region, we have occupied Schirmeck, eight miles from Saales, in Alsace, and we have captured twelve German field guns, eight machine guns and twelve gun-carriages, with ammunition.

"Our cavalry has penetrated as far as Lutzelhausen and Muhlbach, or Rosheim.

"Farther to the south, we occupy Ville, east of Durbois, on the road to Schlestadt, and Saint Croix-aux-Mines, and some heavy field artillery has been captured by the French troops.

"In Alsace we have a strongly supporting line from Thann through Cernay to Bannemarie."

FARMERS OFFERING VERY POOR HORSES

Militia Department Having Dificulty in Equipping Artillery Brigade

Ottawa, Aug. 17.—The Militia Department is having a great deal of difficulty securing satisfactory horses at reasonable prices for the artillery brigade. Many "patriotic" farmers are apparently offering the militia authorities poor horses, and insist on high prices. The chief difficulty has been in Western Ontario.

The Militia authorities made it very plain to-day that they would not be held up. They are quite willing to purchase the horses locally, and direct from the farmers. However, they do not intend to pay two or three prices and unless the farmers of Ontario get down to reasonable prices immediately the horses will be purchased wholesale and in the West.

DEATH TO TRADE IN PACIFIC IS NOW ALMOST NEGLIGIBLE

Entrance of Japan's Fleet Into the Conflict, to Assist Britain, Ensures Absolute Safety to Shipping

London, Aug. 17.—Mr. Archibald Hurd, the naval expert of The Daily Telegraph, fortells a Japanese descent on Kiau-Chau, the destruction of Germany's Far Eastern squadrons and the capture of the German ships in the Pacific. Mr. Hurd says:—

"We stood by Japan in the hour of her supreme trial. The Japanese Government has now decided to do all in its power to assist in protecting British interests in the Pacific.

Danger Almost Negligible.

"This means that in a very short time the Admiralty will be able to supplement the certificate of freedom, given in respect of the Atlantic by a guarantee of safety to British commerce in the Pacific. Indeed, the danger is now so slight it is almost negligible.

"Our ally has never forgiven Germany for an unfriendly act after the war with China. Japan had secured Port Arthur, and Germany engineered a combination of European powers which denied to her this fruit of her victory. Then Germany herself some years later took Kiau-Chau. The two incidents did not exhibit the Western nations at their best.

Overwhelming Naval Force.

"The Japanese are not only in advance with us, but have their own mobilizing her reserves. She has four battleships—the Shikishima, the Kawachi, the Settsu and the Kashima—with six armoured cruisers and nine light cruisers always in commission. Admiral Dewa put to sea last week, and we may expect things to happen soon.

"The Japanese are not only in alliance with us, but have their own reasons for welcoming the opportunity of adding to Germany's discomfort. It is significant of coming events that three Japanese cruisers already have appeared off Lai-Chow, opposite Kiau-Chau."

A NEW FACE WITHOUT SURGICAL SKIN PEELING.
The surgical operation of face peeling is too radical, too often dangerous. There's a better way of removing offensive complexions and one that is entirely safe and rational. Ordinary mercolized wax causes the devitalized scarf skin to come off, but gradually and gently. Unlike the surgical process, the skin is not forcibly taken off in big pieces all at once, but almost invisible flaky particles are absorbed by the wax, and about two weeks are required to complete the transformation. There's no pain, no discomfort.
Nature renews complexions the same way, shedding tiny cutaneous scales day by day. But deficient circulation, or other abnormal condition, may interfere with the shedding—a "bad complexion" results. Then mercolized wax assists Nature by hastening the removal of the aged, faded or discolored top skin. Thus only the lively, young, healthy-hued skin is in evidence, as in robust girlhood. This is why mercolized wax produces the indescribable beauty of overflowing youth. The wax is put on at night like cold cream, and washed off in the morning. You can procure it at any druggist's; an ounce is sufficient.

Censorship Very Strict in Regard to British Troops

Not One Word Comes Through as to Britam's Military Activities--German Dreadnought Reported Sunk--Belgians Capture Fonous German Standard

The censorship put into effect by the British authorities over the movements of the Empire's armed forces afloat and in Belgium is effective to a remarkable degree. Not one word of news has come through for several days past concerning British military or naval activities. Censored despatches from Brussels and Paris have frequently referred to the presence of British troops arrayed against the forces of Germany, but not one word has been allowed to come through from any source to indicate what the numerical strength of the British field army may be, or where the units may be located. Equal secrecy shrouds the movements of the British warships believed to be holding the German fleet in check in the North Sea.

NO WORD OF RIVAL NAVIES.

Eot one word has come through of the position of any British or German battleship, cruiser or torpedo boat in these waters. So fae as the general public is concerned, naval activities in European waters are a sealed book.

French official reports assert that the French armies continue their forward march in Alsace, where many guns are said to have been captured from the Germans, as well as many prisoners and the standard of an Alsatian infantry regiment which is now on view at the French War Office.

St. Petersburg reports successes by the Russian troops over the Austrians on the frontier, when an Austrian dragoon regiment is said to have suffered severely in a sabre engagement.

GERMAN DREADNOUGHT SMASHED ?

A German Dreadnought is reported by the captain of a Dutch steamer as having been put out of action. He asserted on arriving in Holland today that she was lying in harbor at Trondhjem, severely damaged. No conformation has been received in official quarters.

GREECE IS ALARMED.

The standard of the famous "Death's Head" Hussars, the German Crown Prince's regiment, is said to have been captured by the Belgians.

Despatches saying Greece had received information of the passage through Bulgarian territory of Turkish troops going toward Greece are published in Copenhagen. It is said Greece has threatened to take similar measures.

Germany has followed England's example and that of other countries in acknowledging the receipt of President Wilson's proffer of good office. Russia has not yet replied.

A great number of French and English warships are said to be patrolling the coast.

WAR OFFICE ANNOUNCEMENT OF FIGHT.

London, Aug. 17.—The official war bureau in a statement issued late this afternoon confirms the fact that the French fleet has been in action in the Adriatic, but is aware of only one Austrian ship, which is not the one mentioned in the Rome despatch, being sunk.

"The French fleet in the Mediterranean has made a sweep up the Adriatic sea as far as Cattaro. A small Austrian cruiser of the Aspern type of 2,363 tons was fired on by the French vessels and sunk."

Earlier reports received in London via Nish said that the French fleet had sunk two Austrian ironclads and driven two others to flight. The Austrian squadron engaged was the one which recently bombarded the Montenegrin coast.

The Aspern type of warships in the Austrian war fleet include Aspern, Szigetvar and Zenta. They are 313 feet long, with a displacement of 2,363 tons, an indicated horsepower of 7,000, and an armament of eight 4.7-inch, eight 3-pounders, three rapid firers, and two torpedo tubes. They carry crews of about 305 men.

CHASED BY BRITISH SHIPS.

A despatch from Rome to the Exchange Telegraph Company says it is reported from Ancona that four British battleships chased the Austrian cruisers Aurora and Szigetvar, which were blockading Antivari, Montenegro. The Austrian vessels were pursued until they took refuge in the naval station at Pola, under shelter of the land forts. A bombardment of the defences there is expected.

THE EARLY REPORTS.

A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Nish, Servia, under date of Sunday, gave the first account of the engagement received. It said:

"A naval battle between French and Austrian warships began off Budua, Austria, in the Adriatic, at 9 o'clock this morning. The French squadron, coming from the southwest, attacked the Austrian warships.

"Two Austrian ironclads were sunk, one was sent on fire, and a fourth fled northward toward Cattaro. The fight was over an hour."

The French squadron had been in pursuit of the Goeben and Breslau.

STOPPED LEIPZIG TAKING ON COAL

German Cruiser Went to Work Without Waiting for Permission

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—The German cruiser Leipzig which came into port before dawn today moved into Man-O'-War row later in the day and began to take on coal and supplies. Contract had already been placed with coal, victualling, towing and lightering companies by the acting German consul.

Permission in writing, however, has not been formally requested and as soon as the collector of the port learned that coaling had begun without his authority he ordered it stopped until the formalities had been

AUSTRIAN CRUISER CHASED

CITIZEN'S COMMITTEE WILL RAISE GENERAL WAR FUND

Enthusiastic Meeting Last Night--Government Will be Requested to Prohibit Undue Rise in Cost of Provisions--What Will City Council Do for Overseas Contingent ???

A citizens' meeting was held in the city hall last night to devise ways and means for raising an emergency fund in aid of the Peterborough boys and their families, who have volunteered their services to the British Empire in its struggle against the German autocrat and his allie, Austria-Hungary.

The addresses made were all of a patriotic nature, especially that of Mrs. Jas. Kendry, who offered that the Women's Council is anxious to co-operate with any citizens' committee or the city council in the project in view.

Mayor Buller made a very capable chairman of the proceedings, He offered that the city council should insure the lives of those of our citizens who are going to the front.

Father McCall advanced that a fund should be raised to aid all the poor of this city who will necessarily suffer from stagnation of trade and high prices engendered by the present crisis, irrespective of whether they have relatives at the front or not.

Mr. Dan O'Connell endorsed the opinions advanced by Father McCall, and suggested that a committee be appointed to go into the whole question and report back to another meeting. He moved in this direction.

Mr. Vincent Eastwood, manager of the Royal Bank, urged that at this moment consideration should be shown for the men (and their families) who are going to the front prepared to lay down their lives for the Empire. Care of the poor left with us the coming winter could be arranged for by a separate fund.

Rev. Canon Davidson was optimistic in regard to the future for the poor, and suggested that we do not borrow trouble in that regard, but devote present energies toward creating a fund in aid of the Peterboro overseas contingent and their families.

Colonel Clegg, who has volunteered for overseas service, was received with marked enthusiasm. In defining the military situation in this city he pointed out that of 19 married men who volunteered, 16 wives had consented that their husbands should go; these families represent twenty-two children, and their comfort should be provided for.

Ald. A. H. Stratton moved, seconded by A. E. Austin, that the work of the women of Peterborough, assisted by the Women's Council and the Daughters of the Empire, in raising funds for the hospital ship and the general war relief, be heartily endorsed by this meeting, and recommend to the citizens at large for contribution.—Carried.

Mr. O'Connell moved, seconded by Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P., that a committee be struck to recommend to a subsequent meeting a sytem for raising a general war fund.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. O'Connell, seconded by Major Langford, Mayor Buller, Ald. Strattan and Ald. Green named the following committee:

Mrs. Jas. Kendry, Miss Peck, Miss Weir, J. H. Burnham, M.P., Geo. A. Gillespie, M.P.P., Judge Huycke, T. F. Matthews, R. J. Soden, D. O'Connell, Edward Navey, of the Trades and Labor Council, Adjutant McElheney, of the Salvation Army; the Ministers of all the churches, the Warden and Council of Peterboro county.

This committee met last night and will report shortly.

Incidentally, his worship, pointed out that the families of several naval reserve men ordered to join their ships at once are in need of immediate relief. The committee were authorized to take action in this respect.

Mrs. James Kendry thought something should be done to stop the stampede for provisions by people who have money. There is no need for it, she said; besides, in the present crisis all should stand shoulder to shoulder and share alike.

On motion of Mr. R.J. Soden and Mr. Edward Navey, Mr. J.H. Burnham's attention will be drawn to the uncalled-for rise in cost of provisions, coupled with the suggestion that he request the Dominion government to take steps to prevent the same, as is being done in the Mother Country.

The meeting closed with the singing of The National Anthem.

MAY SIGN CABLES WITH SINGLE NAME

Ottaw Censors Announce Relaxation of Rules

Ottawa, Aug. 15.—The government censorship bureau this afternoon, issued the following bulletin: "An important relaxation of the rule regarding transatlantic cables is announced. Hereafter, all cable messages filed in Canadian telegraph offices, in plain language may be signed with a single name, provided the sender is duly identified with signature at the foot of the telegraph form. All cable messages must, however, be fully addressed as announced a few days ago."

JAPAN'S ULTIMATUM

Tokio, Aug. 16.—The ultimatum sent by Japan to Germany is as follows:

"We consider it highly important and necessary in this present situation to take measures to remove the causes of all disturbances of the peace in the far east and to safeguard the general interests as contemplated by the agreement of alliance between Japan and Great Britain.

"In order to secure a firm and enduring peace in eastern Asia, the establishment of which is the aim of the said agreement, the imperial Japanese Government sincerely believes it to be its duty to give the advice to the imperial German Government to carry out the following two propositions:

Must Withdraw Warships.

"First—To withdraw immediately from Japanese and Chinese waters, German men-of-war and armed vessels of all kinds, and to disarm at once those which cannot be so withdrawn.

"Second—To deliver, on a date not later than Sept. 15, to the imperial Japanese authorities without condition or compensation, the entire leased territory of Kiaochau, with a view to the eventual restoration of the same to China.

"The imperial Japanese Government announces at the same time that in the event of it not receiving by noon, on Aug. 23, 1914, an answer from the imperial German Government, signifying its unconditional acceptance of the above advice offered by the imperial Japanese Government Japan will be compelled to take such action as she may deem necessary to meet the situation."

Defensive Action Necessary.

Inspired utterances express regret at the inability to maintain neutrality, but say that Great Britain, the ally of Japan, is compelled to defend herself against the aggressions of Germany. Moreover, it is pointed out that Germany is making preparations day and night at Kaio Chau, where it is strong provisions, while its warships are scouring the seas of eastern Asia to the great detriment of commerce, and that converted cruisers, are seizing English merchant vessels. Such actions, it is argued, are directly calculated to disturb the peace of eastern Asia. Accordingly, after full and frank communication with Britain, Japan has found herself compelled to send an ultimatum to Germany.

OBITUARY

FUNERAL OF A. J. MITCHELL.

The funeral of the [illegible] Mitchell was held yesterday at Little Lake cemetery, Rev. Mr. Price, Rector of St. George's church, conducted the obsequies. An interesting feature was "that all that is left of them," the former local volunteer fire brigade of which the late Mr. Mitchell was a member, attended in their full attenuated strength. The funeral was also attended by members of the Hunt Club to which the deceased belonged.

WINTER SPRAYING

Experience of a Prince Edward County Farmer Points to Profit

The growing prevalence and popularity of winter dairying is a feature of the dairy industry in Canada at the present time. On this point the following article dealing with the experiences of a farmer of Prince Edward county, is of interest.

"Another resident of this county, Carman Metcalfe, has for several years been disposing of his milk in the factories, and the records of his herd show that from the production end they are not at fault. Several have given over 6,000 pounds; three more were giving over 7,000 pounds and one of them over 8,000 pounds. This is during the summer months only, a period of seven or eight months. However, with these good returns from the cows, Mr. Metcalfe has not been satisfied with his profits accruing from this practice. Feeding silage, red clover and alfalfa hay, and grain for about nine months of the year, Mr. Metcalfe has calculated that it costs him between $80 and $90 to keep a cow each year, and claims that the returns from the factory do not leave him any surplus over and above the cost of maintenance. However, he is a man who finds pleasure in dairying, and now has a scheme whereby he can milk the cows for a longer period and thus receive more satisfying remuneration.

"Fifteen heifers are running on grass which will freshen in October. He intends to ship milk from these cows to Toronto until the factory starts in the spring, when the milk will be diverted into that channel. This proposition has a bright side, and whatever disposal is made of the milk a fair degree of success should accompany the venture. The demand for milk in our cities is not insatiable but during the winter months it does not seem possible that too much milk can be produced, providing it be handled wisely. Creamery butter is always in good demand, and it seems feasible that any milk produced over and above what is necessary to supply urban consumption might be manufactured into dairy products that will find a ready market.

"The absence of profits from the practice of supplying the cheese factory with milk during a few months of summer has led Mr. Metcalfe to adopt this system."

Roses in Alberta

It's only a few short years since we heard that wheat alone would grow in the west. Then, here and there, a rash experimenter, tired of tinned commodities, even when he could get them, tried a few vegetables. Later on someone woke up to the fact that if prairie flowers could grow, garden flowers might also. And so the good work has gone on till an ardent rose lover in Edmonton set out some bushes, and this year has brought him the rich reward of masses of fragrant bloom, and the routing of those who jeered at him for wasting time planting something that was certain to be winter-killed. That man's enterprise is destined to make disciples, and it may not be long before many a garden of the west will blossom with the rose.

Wife's Message of Reproach

Letters reproaching her husband for his laziness were read at the inquest held by the Liverpool coroner concerning the death of Ellen Moyses, twenty-nine, who was discovered hanging from the banisters at her house. The husband joined a ship for West Africa, but left it before it sailed, and his wife wrote to a friend saying she felt "broken up" by his action. The coroner remarked that the husband had not been seen since, although the police had searched for him. An extract from the woman's letter read as follows: "My sin is great enough, but I consider it is a greater sin to bring children into the world, and be too lazy to provide for them." One witness stated that on hearing of the tragedy she went to the house and found Mrs. Moyses lying on a couch dressed in a suit of her husband's clothing, and with a photograph of the husband pinned on the clothing. A verdict of "Suicide whilst temporarily insane" was returned.

Street Promenading Girls

Street promenading by young persons was called attention to at a conference of the Dundee Committee on Public Morals. Chief Constable Carmichael stated that the practice of promenading the chief streets was more prevalent on Sundays than on any other day of the week. No offence appeared to be committed, and the police could not, therefore, interfere. It was reported that the Aberdeen committee was prepared to co-operate and it was decided to ask the police and the Salvation Army to unite in endeavoring to deal with evils attendant upon street promenading.

Clerk's Rescue Attempt

How Sydney James Turner, a clerk, made an heroic effort to save a drowning man in one of the most dangerous spots in the Swift-flowing Kennet was described at the inquest at Reading on Frederick William Newman, a groom. Turner saw Newman being rapidly borne down the stream, and, fully clothed as he was, he jumped into the rescue, a drop of nearly 16 feet. Swimming strongly, he caught Newman when the latter was in the act of sinking, but he failed to retain his grasp. The water was very deep.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them can not imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. XIV.—Making Folks Handsome by Love

We may develop goodness in others by our mental attitude towards them. Yes, it is even possible to love people into handsomeness. I know a husband and wife who, as they had no children of their own, went to an orphanage to select a little girl for adoption. There were some twenty little tots in the group, some golden haired, some with snappy black eyes. Nearly all were pretty and it was quite a task to choose among them. But one was sadly deformed, having a hairlip of a pronounced type. That poor little three-year-old mite sat there so lonely-looking, as if she knew why it was that no one chose her to be their child. Her big dark eyes seemed to beg, "take me." Not being able to come to a decision they called back the next day, and there sat the little hair-lipped girl again with the same wistful look.

The lady suddenly came to a conclusion. "Husband, let us take her," said she. "She looks as if she were just hungry to be loved, the others will easily find homes, but no one will want this child and she, above all, will need a home and what little money we can leave her." They consulted a surgeon, but he told them it was too late to even improve, let alone altogether correct, the malformation. "So much greater the reason why I should take her," said the wife. They took the child and bestowed upon her all their devotion and love. She was responsive, both in her mental development and in the affection she showed for her foster parents. She has grown to be a fine young woman, and her pleasant countenance more than counterbalances the blemish of an otherwise handsome face. She graces any parlor with her cheerful presence. She has nursed both man and woman through serious illnesses. No wonder that the husband followed her with loving eyes while he told me: "She is the best investment we ever made," so she is, and she will be in years to come, as Ruth's baby was to Naomi, a restorer of their lives, and a nourisher of their old age. Meanwhile I submit to you that the love of that woman for that deformed child is akin to the love of the Christ for maimed humanity.

XV.—A Ride With the Ragman

In my desperation to catch an interurban car, the taxi having broken down, I literally threw myself on the first conveyance that happened along, buying up the driver with Phileas Fogg enterprise and was well on my way before I noticed that I was riding with a ragman!

He had a twinkle in his eye mingling the mien of humility with somewhat of self-confidence. His left hand was dwarfed and his drawn-up left limb indicated that he had been a cripple from his birth. He had a bag or two of rags, some scrap-iron and a few yards of old garden hose behind him. He had a German accent, and it developed that his parents had come across by the steerage route passing through old Castle garden in the statutory way.

The rag business? Oh, it was picking up, thank you. A good hand could gather from four hundred to six hundred pounds a day. He had just been down to New York where he had a cousin in the business, and had picked up some new tricks of the trade. He would soon have his own bags to leave with steady customers so as to stimulate the accumulation of rags and rubber by the children. New York, he said, is the best rag town on the coast. There, a thousand pounds is a good day's work. He proudly denied that any fool could be a ragman but said that anybody at the point of starvation could keep soul and boyd together by gathering newspapers from door to door. An active man with a cart, or better still, with horse and wagon, could earn a good living in this way.

The ragman became eloquent concerning the price of land. The vacant lots we were just passing did not sell as well as those he had just disposed of on his street. How had he bought the lots? With rag money of course. "And there was no gold in the rags either," he added with a chuckle, "still rags make gold and lots of gold in the hands of the prosperous makes good rags; it works both ways." By the way, he is a communicant at Saint Ann's Roman Catholic Church, pays $12.75 a year for his pew, helped to pay for the church with his first savings and glories in the boast that with a congregation of poor folks there had never been a dollar of debt on Saint Ann's.

Well, there is nothing more to tell and you may not see anything very interesting in my ride with the ragman. It occurs to me, however, that a country which can do that for a crippled immigrant is a great country to begin with. I remark also that a cripple with some hustle can not only escape the almshouse but can put by a competency withal. Again, there are many ways of making a living outside of the conventional avenues which the thoughtless multitudes throng to their own loss.

In a western town I saw this legend pungent even though not very Websterian, in a shop window:

"'Tis grit makes the man,
The want of it the chump,
The men who win, lay hold,
Hang on and hump!"

SERMONS OUT OF CHURCH

By the Rev. Byron H. Stauffer

XVI.—Ability For Swallowing Things

Good old Doctor Shaw was pastor of the Brick Church in Rochester, N.Y., for over fifty years. Somebody asked him the secret of his unusual pastorate. The reply came instantly: "My ability for swallowing things."

No, that is not slang, my dear Prude. Webster's fifth definition of the verb, swallow, is, "to put up with; to bear patiently, as an affront."

Ability to swallow things is the great essential to continuity in anything. I can imagine some of the things Dr. Shaw had to swallow during those fifty years. On a drizzling Sunday morning, an usher came into the Minister's vestry ten minutes before service to say that the two deaf old spinsters in pew 39 were giving up their sittings because the pastor hadn't called on them. That was the Sunday morning when the audience kept straggling in until the second hymn. The ruling elder sat sideways in his pew and looked bored. The choir girls whispered during the Doctor's long prayer, and at the beginning of the sermon there was a fusillade of coughing. Towards the sermon's close, a child kept up a nagging whine. And after the benediction someone asked whether the preacher was ill? One spring, the W.C.T.U. ladies offered to take one Sunday evening service each month during the summer for a temperance meeting with women speakers, and the session really thought it would increase the attendance. At a church social somebody confessed to running over to the neighboring church last Sunday to hear the new minister just graduated from Yale and said he had to sit on a campstool, the church being full to the rafters. Someone else commented that a young clergyman had such an advantage in freshness of material, nimbleness of mind and strength of body.

Yes, to be in one pulpit, or in one kitchen for that matter, during fifty years, one must have a throat as large as a cobra. The humblest servant and the most eminent jurist, the poorly-paid clerk on his stool and the successful merchant in his office, the much-abused telephone girl calling "Number please," and the far-famed prima donna earning a thousand per night, all these must alike practice the muscles that squeeze and hurry the lumps of chagrin and insult past the danger point of choking. All great permanent successes include the patient bearing of unpleasant situations.

It is fatal to have your name on the kickers' blacklist. A young fellow throwing up one position after another because he choked on some hard word or some drudging task will soon have a record that will put him in the not-wanted class. It is astonishing how soon a defective swallowing apparatus will be discovered. One of the most expert proof-readers I ever knew had to tramp from city to city just because he had acquired a reputation of flying off the handle every time a printer triumphed over him by securing a "ring" from the foreman. Every "Chapel" in the town soon found him out. He didn't get a chance to hang his hat in an office, for everybody knew he wouldn't leave it on the peg very long.

But once established, the habit of not noticing will become a second nature. Each victory over sensitiveness will help us some other to [illegible]. Unless the agrent is really a gi[illegible] nanit to manhood or womanhood [illegible] will become expert in ignoring [illegible] fixing our eyes on the goal [illegible] achievement ahead of us.

Our Point of View

When the war is over little Belgium ought to publish a book entitled "The Experience of an Innocent Bystander."

—o—

What a pity it is that the pure food law cannot be extended so as to make it apply to fake extras and thus protect the public against those glaring frauds.

—o—

"Think of the girl who takes your diction," says the advertisement of a dictaphone. But our advice is don't. Thinking of the girl has already caused a good deal of domestic trouble in this town.

—o—

The Illinois man who was permitted to be hanged in a Palm Beach suit by the considerate sheriff probably knew that he was going to a very hot place and desired to be as comfortable as possible.

—o—

The triple alliances in Europe have proved to be very entangling affairs and with the lights now before us we should be thankful that the fathers of the republic foresaw the danger of such things and warned us against them.

—o—

Says the Macon Telegraph: "If the Germans run short of money they can hock der kaiser." More than a week ago we were tempted to perpetrate that joke on a helpless and long suffering public, but thank our stars, now that we didn't, because it has developed into an epidemic. It has stricken hundreds of esteemed contemporaries and as many comedians in vaudeville, and every mother's son of them thinks it is original with him, in spite of the fact that it is old enough to be the father of a large family of jokelets.

The Irony of Fate

It is the irony of fate which finds the American delegates to an international peace conference stranded in Europe by the world's biggest war.

But what better awful example could they have to reinforce their pleas?

Those kindly ministers of peace have hitherto been simply theorists and idealists. Their fight was abstract, like so much of the world's professional charity.

Now it will have a human basis, born of intense experience.

Joint and Muscle Pains Banished by Nerviline

IT CURES RHEUMATISM

Thousands of people, chuck full of the joy of living—happy, glad, bright people, that Nerviline has cured of their pains, all tell the same wonderful story of its power to drive out the aches and tortures of rheumatism and kindred ills.

"My goodness, but Nerviline is a miracle-worker," writes Mrs. Charlotte Chipman, mother of a well-known family residing at Mount Pleasant. "Last month I was so crippled up with sciatica and muscular rheumatism as to be almost unable to do a bit of housework. My joints were so stiff and the muscles so frightfully sore that I even cried at times with the pain. For years we have used Nerviline in our family and I just got busy with this wonderful, good old liniment. Lots of rubbing with Nerviline soon relieved my misery and I was in a real short time about my work as usual."

No matter where the ache is, no matter how distressing the pain you can rub it away with Nerviline. For forty years it has been curing lumbago, sciatica, back-ache, colds, chest trouble and all sorts of winter ills. Keep a large 50c. family size bottle handy and you'll be saved lots of trouble and have smaller doctor bills. Small trial size 25c. at dealers everywhere.

The Packers at it Again

Buffalo Courier:—As usual, the packers appear to be at the bottom of the attempt to boost food prices as a result of the foreign war. The Chicago packing houses may usually be counted upon as a storm center when the question of increased prices arises, and following them the retailers of foodstuffs usually add a few cents to their price list for the ordinary commodities.

The packers now say that the supply and demand rule the prices as heretofore, and add that while there is some little shortage of hogs and cattle, that the retailers are taking an unfair advantage of the war scare.

The reply of the retailers is that the packers see a great opportunity to make millions out of European war, and they are boosting prices. The public must suffer.

Probaby to a certain extent both charges are true. In any event the public is being made to suffer unnecessarily, and it is the duty of every district attorney to give his attention to this question and bring to justice the extortioners.

A protest against this food price outrage has gone up from coast to coast and the people are now thoroughly aroused. The President's action has met the widest commendation and the Nation has confidence that no effort will be spared to reach those responsible for those who are seeking to enrich themselves because of the great disaster that has overtaken the Old World and which is having its effect here.

What He Noticed

A prominent Churchman in the United States, who is very fond of joke, tells of an amusing incident in connection with an ordination ceremony. As is usual on such occasions the bishop wore a red University hood at the back of his surplice. Among the most interested of the congregation was an old darky. After the ceremony he was asked by someone how he liked the proceedings.

"I was clean taken by de preachin' of de bishop," answered the negro. "An' at the same time I felt kinder sorry for him. He ain't got no wimmin to look after him, has he?"

"Why, what makes you think that Sam?"

"I noticed, sah, whenever de bishop turned round dat de back of his coat was bursted, an' de red undershirt was a-showin' through!"

Washday on St. Paul's Cathedral

Many sightseers stood outside St. Paul's Cathedral recently watching the operations of workmen high up at the base of the gilded cross at the top of the dome. The men were engaged in washing a year's accumulation of London's grime from the gilt. Once a year the gilt needs a thorough spring cleaning, but regilding takes place only once in a quarter of a century.

Neglect is the thing that makes the weeds grow in your garden.

"Safety First" a Success

The "Safety First" movement, introduced on the Grand Trunk over a year ago, has been found, after a thorough test, to be such an effective means of preventing injuries to employes, patrons and others that it has been decided to extend the work to the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Cat Survives Eight-Inch Pin

After having swallowed an eight inch hatpin, a three-months' old kitten belonging to Elsie Kinney, of Watertown, N.Y., has been relieved of her trouble.

The pin was swallowed head fore most, the head entering the stomach. The sharp end could be felt under the jaw. A veterinarian cut a small hole in the cat's throat, worked the pin out as far as the head, swung it around and by bending it slightly, pushed it out head first from the cat's mouth.

OIL THE GREAT WEALTHMAKER

We hold over 3,000 acres, more or less, of oil leases North and South of Monarch and several of our leases are in the same range as the Monarch well.

Many companies claim to be close to Monarch but we are one of the very few who are in Range Six upon which the Monarch Well is situated. Therefore, we must be on the same anti-cline and as it is a foregone conclusion Monarch will get oil, so will we.

Fifty-Seven Feet of Oil Bearing Sands Passed Through in Monarch Well

OFFICIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN OUT BY PRESIDENT GEORGESON—WELL IS NOW DOWN OVER 1,800 FEET AND FLOW OF WET GAS HAS BEEN STRUCK IN LOWER LEVELS—GEOLOGIST DUNN IS AWAY AT PRESENT

Heavy oil showings are being found in the Monarch well, west of Olds, although the oil has not yet come in in commercial quantities.

To put the exact facts before the public, President William Georgeson and Treasurer G. W. Morfitt, of the company, this morning issued an official statement from the drillers setting forth the results.

The heaviest oil seepage has been encountered through a stratum 57 feet thick, and the well is now 1856 feet deep.

A sample of this oil baled out at 1,775 feet was brought to the city this morning and is in the office of Mr. Morfitt, Grain Exchange Building. The oil is a heavy black petroleum with the characteristic petroleum odor.

The statement issued by the officers is as follows: In the absence of Mr. Dunn, Mr. Van Alst, the head driller, reports that from the depth of 1,775 feet to 1,832 feet he went through oil bearing sands for 57 feet. Throughout there was a heavy showing of black oil in the baler. Two further showing of black wet gas were met at 1,806 feet and 1,915 feet.

The well is now down 1,850 feet. Wet gas has shown at 683 feet, 1,430 feet, 1,806 feet and 1,815 feet.

Oil sands have shown at '808 feet, (48 feet), 1,430 feet (40 feet), 1,740 feet (14 feet), and 1,776 feet (57 feet).

The well is now down 1,860 feet, and while there are good oil showings there is not as yet oil in commercial quantities.

Our stock is on the market at 50 cents a share, a Dollar par, and will be advanced without notice any day pending Monarch Well developments. It is practically a certainty that Monarch will be in oil in commercial quantities within two weeks, Our stock will jump away above par and you had better hurry if you wish to share our prosperity.

POISONOUS TREES

Many Woods Cause Severe Skin Eruptions

Nettles, poison ivy and poison sumac are by no means the only plants which [illegible] a poisonous effect on the human skin. Poisonous substances exist in many trees, and even after [illegible] been cut and sawed a sufficient [illegible] of the poison remains in [illegible], so that workmen who handle it are liable to infection.

Amberwood is impregnated with a powerful poison according to Dr. [illegible] Graf, who investigated the subject for the German Botanical Society. Two different kinds of wood are [illegible] under the term amberwood—the genuine East Indian or Asiatic satinwood, or "silkwood," and the satin hardwood or amberwood. The two are quite different in external appearance. Nestler succeeded in extracting the active substance only from the latter. This is a stearinlike substance soluble only in ether. A small quantity of it placed in contact with the skin of the underarm, in the course of about five hours produced a tensely swollen yellowish blister surrounded by a red area of inflammation. After the bursting of the blister an ulcer remained which required four weeks to heal.

What is known as "cocobolo" wood contains a poisonous substance easily soluble in alcohol and benzol, less so in water. It is apparently an ethereal oil. The placing of fine sawdust of this wood on the moist skin causes first a violent smarting. Following this, red spots or pimples appear accompanied by redness and inflammation of that part of the skin, followed by scaling.

Similar phenomena are caused by the plant Cortusa Matthioli, but they are even stronger, since blisters are produced. Touching the plants is enough to cause irritation, and the infection may be transmitted to other persons by hands so infected. The bearers of the irritating substance in this case are gland-hairs, as in the case of the primrose. This substance is a crystallizable sap which can be extracted from gland-hairs.

The sawdust of the Mexican blue gum is harmful when the skin is especially sensitive from some other cause.

Works in a Boot

A boot six feet long and three feet high, made in correct proportions and of genuine leather, stands in front of a Los Angeles repair shop. It contains a set of pigeon-holes and drawers for nails, tools, etc., and is furnished with a half-horse-power electric motor operating a stitching machine. Standing in this boot, the workman goes on with his task, to the amusement of the crowds that pass along and the novel advertisement is said to be a trade-bringer.

Machine Juggles Fractions

An "interest-computing machine" has been invented by a Hungarian. The instrument is said to be comparatively simple and inexpensive. It is about the size of a watch. On setting the hands at the proper positions on the dial, the amount of interest in each case is indicated on the face of the instrument.

JOHNSON'S SPEED REALLY MARVELOUS

Accurate Test Showed His Ball Travels Faster Than the World's Fastest Train

Walter Johnson throws a baseball faster than the Twentieth Century Limited travels. If he could propel a ball along the course followed by the world's fastest train, the ball would travel from New York to Chicago ahead of the train—because the "Century" moves at an average of 120 2-3 feet per second and Johnson's fast ball hops along 122 feet per second.

The exact speed of Johnson's fast ball has always been a matter of discussion. He has been compared to Rusie, and old-time fans say the Hoosier demon had it on Johnson, but there was no way to prove this. Men who have seen Johnson at his best are willing to swear the ball goes so fast it cannot be seen with the naked eye. Often the plunk of the ball in the catcher's mitt precedes the batsman's futile swing.

The question came up in New York one day when Washington was playing in the metropolis, and to settle it the big Swede was taken to Bridgeport, Conn., in an automobile, and a mathematically accurate test of his speed was made in the trial room of one of the big arms factories. A device used to test the speed of bullets was used. The apparatus consists of a screen of fine wires set up in front of a steel-faced plate; the distance between the screen and the plate is five yards. An electric connection to a register gives the exact time consumed by the projectile traveling between the screen and plate. As the projectile passes through the screen it snaps one or more of the fine wires starting the timer, which registers until the projectile strikes the steel plate.

After Johnson warmed up he took his stand before the apparatus and pitched ball after ball. He had difficulty in locating the "plate"—the screen—at first. But he finally managed it and the registering device commenced to ring off the astounding speed. He reached 122 feet per second and stopped. "Nap" Rucker, the Brooklyn southpaw, who was also in the party took a turn at the indicator and registered 113 feet per second. Nap expressed his firm belief that Johnson could reach 150 feet per second if conditions were favorable—in fact, he asserted that on the ball field Johnson does that well. But Walter seemed satisfied to have beaten the speed of the Twentieth Century.

The speed of a high power bullet from an automatic pistol that is supposed to go through steel plates and heavy planking is but 800 feet per second.

Deserted Town of Blackmailers

Only seven people now live at Dyea which in the days of the Klondike had a population of 20,000. Of the seven, it is said only two are whites. The townsite has been filed on as farming land by three homesteaders, one of whom is an Indian woman and another a young man who is founding a fox ranch. Dyea, whose post office was established in 1896, became the next year the most crowded, lawless settlement in the world. The residents took toll from the men going in to seek gold and those coming out with pouches of the precious stuff. After completion of the White Pass and Yukon Railway, with Skagway as its sea terminus, Dyea collapsed and was abandoned.

THE STAGE IN CANADA

Montreal Journalist Protests Against Second-rate Productions Here

The Dramatic Mirror (New York) and the Montreal Star had a friendly argument of late concerning Amer'can and English plays, and their comparative worth to the play-going public of Canada.

Mr. S. Morgan-Powell, in the Star, sized the situation up very neatly in the following:

"I said the American companies sent to Canada were, as a rule, inferior companies. I do not understand the Mirror to question that assertion. We have been assured, time after time, that we were to see 'the original New York company,' and we have seen a company which contained sometimes two, sometimes one, and very often none, of the original New York cast. We have been 'fed up' with second-rate casts and second-rate productions until we are sick and tired of them. And the plays that have been sent to us have been, on the whole, very poor, though there have been some which, as the Mirror points out, we have praised. In general, however, it has been necessary to exercise a great deal of patience and endurance.

"If the Mirror can exercise its influence with New York producers to convince them that Canada wants their best, and will gladly support their best, but that Canada does not want, and will no longer endure, being made the dumping ground for their second-rate dramatic productions, the Mirror will be doing not only Canada, but the producers themselves, a favor.

"I have argued in season and out of season in favor of all-English plays for Canada, because Canada's experience of such plays has been that, on the average, they are much superior to what the United States has sent us.

"Art has no nationality; but so far we have been getting an unpleasantly strong impression that the American type of play and player, judging from the samples that visit us, is not as good as we want. It is up to the United States to eliminate that impression 'right away.'"

COLD STORAGE FLOWERS

Development of Plants May be Retarded Without Injury

In England extensive use is made of electrical refrigeration to enable certain flowers to be kept ready for table use all the year around. When the "crowns" of the lilies, as they are called, are just beginning to shoot, the plants are taken out of the ground and placed in cold storage. The effect of the low temperature is to retard the development of the plant without injuring it, explains a writer in the Electrical World. After being removed from the low temperature, the plants are placed in the ground out of doors, when the season is favorable, and, when not, in soil in ordinary pots in the greenhouse, or in moss in vases. In any case the plants bloom in from three weeks to a month from the time of being taken out of cold storage.

The florist adopting cold storage has at his command a method of retarding the blooming of plants in actual growth. By placing them in cold storage for a little while the development of the plant is retarded, and they can be brought out again before the occasion for which they are required and allowed to finish their blooming.

A Chance For Some Golfer

Golfers may be interested to know of a curious prize awaiting a claimant at the Royal Ashdown Golf Club, Sussex. On the club links there is a hole, called the Island Hole, of such a difficult character that a member hit on the unique idea of endowing it with the sum of $25, the accumulated interest of which sum should go to the competitor who does the hole in one stroke at either the Easter, Whitsuntide, or autumn meetings. That was some years ago, and the interest is still accumulating.

NORTHERN WATER-POWERS

Norway's Condition Compared With That of Canada

The statement is sometimes made by the uninitiated that the water powers north of the settled parts of our Dominion are of little value. The existence of numerous falls and rapids in these parts is not denied, but the argument is advanced that the temperature and other climatic conditions existing where these falls and rapids will prevent their utilization.

As a direct contradiction to the above assertion, we need only turn to Norway, the latitude of which is about the same as that of the Yukon and where climatic conditions are similar to those of northern Canada. In size, Norway is only slightly larger than our Maritime Provinces, and yet we find their water-power plants with a total capacity of over 1,500,000 horse-power, either in actual operation or in course of construction. Hydro-electric stations of considerable size have been constructed in different parts of that country. Many of the smaller ones have been erected for municipal use but the larger ones are the electro-chemical industry, in which a [illegible] factor of success is cheap and plentiful electric power.

QUEBEC'S MAPLE INDUSTRY

Worth $2,000,000 a Year to Those Who Are in It

The Agricultural Department of the Province of Quebec distributed twenty-two thousand small boxes of maple sugar to patrons of the railway hotels and dining cars, steamship restaurants and to Canadian clubs throughout Canada, along with small illustrated booklet telling how maple syrup and sugar is produced in Quebec. The world's production is confined practically to Eastern Canada, and by far the largest part of this product is made in Quebec, the oldest Province of the Dominion. When the first settlers landed on the shores of the St Lawrence, they learned from the Indians the art of making syrup and sugar from the sap of the maple tree. It is stated that the maple industry is worth, now, upwards of $2,000,000 a year to the producers in the Province, who, to guard the public against adulterated goods, point out that the very best grades of maple syrup are clear and of a light straw or amber color. To a great many old customers syrup of the best grade will not at first appeal as they are accustomed to the sharp sweet taste that has more or less of a griping after effect.

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascer-tained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1380 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

Copper is one of the world's chief necessities, and the demand for it is constantly increasing. Growth of the electrical industry largely accounts for this. Telegraph and Telephone Wire—Trolley Wire—Trolley Wheels and the multitude of other Electrical Machines and Parts—Power Transmission Wire and the use of the metal in various valuable Alloys—these are some of the places where copper is consumed, and while its production is enormous it is used about as rapidly as it can be mined and made ready. THIS IS WHY OWNERSHIP IN A COPPER MINE IS ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY SOURCES OF INCOME POSSIBLE TO IMAGINE!

TIME TO START

Naturally the time to secure an interest in any sort of enterprise is at the start, because it is then that money for development and equipment is needed and this is, of course, the reason why shares in the project are released! When these necessities are provided for the Opportunity passes.

For years we have been spending time, effort and money in getting together one of the largest known copper deposits, and we now own and control thousands of acres of land, covering veins of copper, ore carrying gold and silver values, extensive veins of coal, iron and lime.

The geology is so well defined as to make identifications of size and location of the copper bearing veins a perfect definite matter. In addition to this the estate has been thoroughly prospected by some 4,000 feet of work, there being more than 100 shafts, pits, cuts and tunnels, every one of which shows copper in paying quantities. The dumps of these openings run from 2 to 8 per cent in copper metal.

Facilities for economically winning the copper from its ores are remarkably fine. In the company's own ground are five known coal beds, insuring a perpetual supply of cheap fuel, easily accessible and located within a very short distance of the site chosen for its furnaces. Water and timber are also abundant and easy of access.

One of Colorado's most eminent mining engineers, after thoroughly examining this property, states in his report that the net profits resulting from operation of this property should range from $250,000 to $1,000,000 each year.

There is no uncertainty, no guesswork, about this project. Applied to it, a definite cause will inevitably produce an equally definite effect. Equipment for mining these immense bodies of ore and reducing the metal in them to bullion means dividends—it can't mean anything else—and it is to provide this equipment and the funds required for its installation and the preliminary operating expenses of the estate that an interest in the project is offered to you.

It is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to join in a well planned, conservative, and exceptionally profitable business undertaking. The foundations are laid, the property is acquired and the next step—providing the equipment—is now being taken. So soon as this is accomplished your chance to secure a share in the enterprise will be gone.

"IT IS BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN SORRY"—ACT NOW!

IMPROPER FEEDING OF FARM ANIMALS

Healthiness in Stock Maintained Only by Diligent Care and Study

It is now generally recognized that diarrhoea among young calves is due to a bacterial infection. Several different kinds of bacteria have been found to cause the disease. The great majority of cases, however, are caused by various forms of the common coli bacteria, or by a nearly related species, the paracoli. These species of bacteria are found in the intestines of all healthy animals. Ordinarily they are perfectly harmless. Sometimes, because of improper feeding, or other causes, a calf becomes so weakened that these bacteria are able to set up a severe inflammation in the alimentary canal. This produces the diarrhoea or scours, and usually results in the death of the calf. After a passage through one or two such calves, these bacteria acquire a greatly increased virulence. They are then able to attack healthy calves and cause their death. When such a virulent strain is once established in a barn to another on the shoes and cloth it. The infected calves are daily passing billions of these bacteria with their droppings. These are carried about from one part of the barn to another on the shoes and clothing of the attendants, by the bedding and even by the dust in the air.

The calves may become infected in various ways. Infection through the navel cord happens occasionally, but this does not occur so frequently as is generally supposed. A much more frequent method of infection is through the mouth. The calf brings its no[illegible] the mouth.

To Prevent Disease

A knowledge of the cause of the disease renders methods of prevention much simpler. On farms where the disease is not serious it is only necessary to see that the calf is born in a clean stall and is kept well supplied with clean bedding. Such a stall should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected each time before it is used. After the calf is weaned careful attention should be given to the milk. It is necessary that the milk should be handled in a cleanly manner. The milk must be fresh and should be warmed to 98 deg. F. It should be given in clean pails which are kept especially for that purpose. After use these pails should then be thoroughly washed and scalded. It would be still better if all the milk used were pasteurized by heating barely to 140 deg. F. for twenty minutes. Such treatment will kill all diarrhoea and tuberculosis germs. Such precautions if carefully carried out, will prevent the disease on farms where it is not a serious infection.

On farms where the infection has gained a strong hold, prevention is a much more difficult task. On such farms the virulent bacteria are spread throughout the barn and the young calves become infected through the straw or even the dust. At such places it might be possible entirely to isolate the young calves in a new stable, where with special attendants and a careful attention to details, the disease might be eradicated. Such methods, however, are usually not practicable.

The Serum Treatment

Dr. C. O. Jensen, Copenhagen, Denmark, has devoted a great amount of time to the study of calf diarrhoea. As a result of his work he is able to produce a serum or rather several serums against the different forms of this disease. The serum treatment is now used extensively and with excellent results in Denmark and in many parts of Germany.

The preparation of such serums requires a great amount of labor and care if they are to prove successful. Since there are a number of different strains of both coli and paracoli bacteria which can cause the disease it is always necessary to examine calves from each farm in order to find out just which strain of these organisms in causing the disease. Then a serum appropriate for a given form has been obtained it is only necessary to inject a small quantity of this under the skin of the calf immune to that particular organism and usually no further trouble will be experienced. Dr. Jensen has carefully shown that such methods will both prevent and cure the disease.—F. M. Surface in Breeders' Gazette.

Diminutive Fire-arm

A revolver which has been designed for the nervous woman to carry in her vanity bag is probably the smallest weapon of its kind in the world. From the tip of the hammer to the end of the barrel it measures about three inches, and it fires a steel bullet about the size of a pin's head. The weapon, which is the latest production of a leading gunmaker, is beautifully made, with mother-of-pearl mountings.

FARM MANAGEMENT

Executive Ability is Needed as Well as Training

Farm management is the application of business principles to farming. A farm enterprise must be organized for the purpose of securing the greatest continuous profits. It is not enough to raise good crops or to secure a large animal production; these must be produced economically. This is accomplished only when capital and labor are so adjusted to existing conditions that maximum yields are obtained at the lowest cost. Every department must be well organized and must be co-ordinated with the others.

In the days of our fathers the farm provided almost everything needed by the family. The few things not raised on the farm were received in trade from the village store. Very little money was required or handled by the farmer. The measure of his success was his ability to produce his own food and clothing rather than his ability to organize his business and buy and sell. Since machinery has been introduced in the factory and on the farm, money has become necessary for the farmer. No longer can he raise or trade all he needs. He must sell his products and buy most of his requirements. All these changes mean that the farmer of to-day, in order to be successful, must be a business man. He not only produces, but he sells and buys. The kind of business ability needed is not alone that of the trader, but also that of the executive who can organize the farm into a successful enterprise. An idle horse in the barn is often a greater source of loss than a bad deal in horses. Failure is caused by poor management as well as by poor crops. The successful farmer must consider and plan his work ahead of time. He must give a plan for stormy days as well as a plan for field work. He must foresee most things that are about to go wrong, and prevent them from going wrong. The more the farmer thinks and the more his brawn is intelligently directed by his brain, the greater will be the resultant satisfaction and success.

MENDING BROKEN BONES

Bolts and Screws Now Replace the Old Splint Bandages

That the old-fashioned splint treatment is far from satisfactory in restoring the proper shape and functions of a limb, particularly in case of considerable displacement of broken bones, is generally admitted by the medical profession. And it is a fact that there are many people to-day going through life crippled simply because a fractured bone has been badly set.

This danger, however, has now been considerably minimized by a system which has been perfected by a member of the Royal College of Surgeons, which enables a bad fracture to be mended by means of screws passed through the bones, with plates or nuts at the ends holding the screws in position.

One of the great objections to the splint method has always been that the treatment has been so slow. It necessitates the patient being kept in bed or inactive for the longest possible time, in order that the bones and tendons may naturally heal together. It is pointed out that perhaps half an hour is given to fixing a broken arm in a splint or a leg in plaster, and then nothing more can be done for a month or two, except for the patient to enjoy his convalescence and the surgeon to come and look at the bandage and have a chat about the weather from time to time.

It is claimed, however, that if bolts and screws are used in the treatment of broken bones the fractured parts are held together so tightly that the healing process takes but a short time. Furthermore, there is less danger of displacement through careless movement on the part of the patient, as when an ordinary splint is used.

The method adopted is quite simple. After the broken bone has been held carefully in position, it is transfixed by a long drill from side to side, and into the hole so made is passed a long bolt, which is one-sixteenth to one-eighth of an inch in thickness, according to the size of the bone. The head of the bolt carries one plate, and another plate is placed over the opposite end and secured tightly by a nut when the projecting end of the bolt is cut off. These bolts and plates are usually made of soft steel, and the method of treatment has been found particularly valuable in the case of broken leg-bones, where the muscular strain is very great.

CROFTERS FOR CANADA

The crofters may leave the Highlands of Scotland and come to Canada. The crofter is a tenant farmer occupying a small piece of land in the North of Scotland and on the Scottish islands. During the last century they were the subject of numerous investigations and some legislation. A large number of the crofters were cleared from their crofts in the crofting parishes of the Highlands despite their claim to absolute security of tenure. Their condition was afterwards improved by legislation. A proposal has now been made to establish a colony of crofters in Nova Scotia.

14th Battery Off.

The 14th Durham Field Battery in charge of Major Ralston leave Monday morning on the 10.40 train for Cobourg. Members of the battery from Peterboro, Campbellford, Port Hope, and Cobourg will congregate at the latter town and it is expected that they will be called to Quebec early next week. The local battery-men will be escorted to the station Monday morning by the 46th Regiment and band.

Port Hope Milk Poor.

It was observed from the milk tests for the month of June only one sample came up to the standard, while for July all were below the standard. The secretary was instructed to notify the milk vendors that the samples hereafter must test up to the standard of 3.50, otherwise they would be prosecuted under the law.

HARVEY MAN KILLED

William Weir, of Harvey, was instantly killed yesterday morning when he was struck by a bolt of lightning while standing at the door of his barn. The bolt set fire to the building, which was a mass of flames, before neighbors could get the body out only the trunk, could be found. Mr. Weir was about sixty-five years of age and leaves a widow and family.

Local Policemen For War.

P. C. Reid of the local force left at midnight last night to rejoin his old regiment, the Scots' greys. This is the regiment that was seen by a Times reporter do their "Musical Ride" at Aldershot, England, before Emperor Bill whom they are now going to fight. P. C. Downs left in the same train to rejoin the grenadier guards.

It will be remembered that, at the battle of Watelloo on May 15th, 1815 the Scott's Greys captured the French Eagle. P.C. Reid's only fear is that on arrival at Quebec he may be rejected because since serving with the Grey's his front upper teeth have gone.

German Born But Now Canuck.

Yesterday Mr. P. H. Spies of 232 Park Street, returned home from a two weeks' business trip to New York. Whilst there Mr. Spies raised a company to handle the turbine he invented and of which a full description has been given in a former issue of The Times. This turbine, it might be briefly recalled, enables power to be derived from a river without a "head" of water. The company has $250,000 paid up capital. When seen by The Times, in a joking way "Why aren't you going out to fight for Hoch der Kaiser?" Mr. Spies replied, "I'm a naturalized Canadian. Do you think I would go and fight for that son ... ... of a German murderer?"

Former Local Girl in War Zone.

Miss Kathleen Wallis has written to her sister, Mrs. Roger, relating the manner of her departure from Paris a few hours before the mobilization of the French troops was ordered. Having heard that war was going to be declared, Miss Wallis received a telegram warning her to leave Paris immediately. This intimation came at noon and at four o'clock Miss Wallis was on her way to Dieppe. She was unable to secure money at the banks and was unable to pack only a small handbag. Her departure was only an hour or two in advance of the declaration of war, but she reached England.

Local Paddlers at New York.

Mr. Gordon Grahame, of Lakefield, who with Donald Cameron and Jack Davidson, of Peterboro, left here on June 27th for a canoe trip to New York City, arrived safely in New York City on August 7th. The canoeists left here on the 24th of June, but owing to bad weather and loss of their equipment at Campbellford they were held up for three days. Leaving out the three days they lost they lost they were just forty days making the trip. On an average they paddled 25 miles a day—a remarkable achievement when it is considered that Cack Davidson and Donald Cameron are both under 15 years of age. They returned by rail.

Is Peterborough Patriotic?

Peterborough, last night did not exhibit that patriotism that might have been anticipated when the Empire is endangered. A lot of young men went to the front, for the artillery service, and no band headed them. To go back to a poetical description of a Quebec incident of past years "not a drum was beat, not a sound was heard." Even little Port Hope sends out its 46th Regt. band when the 14th Battery there goes to the front!

Local Artillerists For War

Last night some thirty young husky men marched down George Street to join the 14th Brigade of Canadian Artillery at Cobourg. These were volunteers enlisting under auspices of the gallant local 24th Field Battery. They were preceded by members of the local dragoons afoot. The streets were lined with citizens who cheered the departing troops. On arrival at the G.T.R. station the departing troops were given a warm send off with many hopes for their speedy return.

NO CASUALTIES IN BRITISH ARMY, WAR OFFICE DECLARES

King George Gave Stirring Message to Expeditionary Force on its Leaving for Continental Service

London, Aug. 18.—The official news bureau announces, in reply to "attempts that are being made by the enemy to spread false reports of disasters to ourselves and our allies," that "no casualities have as yet occured in the British army."

A stirring message from King George to the expeditionary force was read out to each regiment as it left its port of departure under sealed orders. It was as follows:

"You are leaving home to fight for the safety and honor of my Empire.

"Belgium, whose country we are pledged to defend, has been attacked, and France is about to be invaded by the same powerful foe.

"I have implicit confidence in you, my soldiers. Duty is your watchward, and I know your duty will be nobly done. I shall follow your every movement with the deepest interest, and shall mark with eager satisfaction your daily progress. Indeed, your welfare will never be absent from my thoughts.

"I pray to God to bless and guard you and to bring you back victorious'

EMERGENCY SESSION OF HOUSE OPENS WITHOUT USUAL ECLAT

His Royal Highness, His Aide Lieut.-Col. Farquhar and Other Officers in Business-like Khaki

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—The emergency session of Parliament was opened this afternoon by the Duke of Connaught. While there was none of the pomp and ceremony which usually marks the opening of Parliament the proceedings were all the more dignified and impressive from the very simplicity of the arrangements. Social features had been eliminated entirely. The women in gorgeous gowns on the floor of the Senate were missing. No formal invitations were issued. The usual levity and gaiety which marks the opening were notably absent. The members did not indulge in the usual horse play and customary jokes. Even the gentleman usher of the Black Rod when he knocked at the Commons Chamber and solemnly announced with many bows that the Commoners were wanted in the Senate Chamber was not received with cheers. An air of seriousness marked the opening of what will be known as the "khaki session" of Parliament.

In Business-like Uniform.

The Duke of Connaught was escorted to the Parliament Buildings by the usual detail from the Princess Louise Dragoons. Instead of their flashing helmets and blue and white tunics they were garbed in their service uniforms. The Governor-General's Foot Guards received the Duke at Parliament Hill, but they were attired not in brilliant scarlet uniforms and busbies, but in their business-like drill uniform. Most of the aides of the Duke have already left for the front to join their regiments and the Governor-General was attended only by Col. Farquhar, who will command the Princess Patricia Light Infantry, and a few local officers, and attired in khaki.

Short and to the Point.

The speech from the throne was short and to the point. There was a reference to the serious crisis which now faces the Empire, which is the cause of the present session. There was also a reference to the generous offer of Canada. The speech contained a summary of legislation which will be brought down. After the reading of the speech the members returned to the Chamber where the Premier laid on the table the orders-in-council which have already been passed by the Cabinet and considerable papers and documents relating to the war. The House will then adjourn until to-morrow when the debate on the reply to the speech from the throne will commence.

The address will be moved by Mr. Donald Sutherland and seconded by Mr. D.O. Lesperance. It is not expected that there will be more speakers than Sir Robert Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

AMATEUR WIRELESS DOWN IN CANADA

Montreal, Aug. 18.—All amateur wireless plants in the city have been closed by the authorities and the machines taken to pieces. The order, which came from Ottawa, did not exempt any of them, no matter how small the area was that they could talk through.

Most of the amateur establishments had a radius of only about 20 miles. There was a strong suspicion at headquarters, however, that somewhere around the city there was a plant of sufficient power to catch important messages that were in transmission.

EX-HEAD OF N.O STOCK

New Orleans, Aug. 19.—Eugene Chassaniol, for seven years president of the New Orleans Stock Exchange, and a prominent active broker in Carondelet street, sent a bullet through his brain at 11.30 o'clock Friday morning while in an apartment of the Stock Exchange lavatory. The act was deliberate and sensational. Ill health, coupled with the strain of the prevailing war situation, are declared to be responsible for the deed. Mr. Chassaniol bought a pistol and a package of cartridges and after locking himself in the toilet fired one bullet into his left temple.

So far as Carondelet street is concerned the death of Mr. Chassaniol proved the biggest shock of the season. For more than thirty years the deceased was an active and popular operator along the street. His operations were confined almost entirely to stocks and bonds, at which he was very successful, but he was known in a social way on the floor of the Cotton Exchange and in the clubs. For twenty-one years Mr. Chassaniol was vice president of the Stock Exchange and for seven years he held the presidency.

In recent years ill health so thoroughly enervated Mr. Chassaniol that his intimate friends often worried about his mental condition. He was 67 years old and has lived in New Orleans all his life.

In the hope that his condition would be improved by the change friends induced Chassaniol to spend some time at Waveland. He took sick while there, however, and recently returned to the city.

HEAVY FIRING HEARD OFF CALIFORNIA GERMAN AND FRENCH IN ACTION?

Monterey, Cal., Aug. 18.—Reports of heavy firing at sea were received here last night from several sources. Capt. McDonald, of the steamer Frank H. Buck, which arrived here last night, said he heard cannonading while off Pigeon Point, north of Santa Cruz.

The French light cruiser Montcalm, was reported late yesterday as off the Farallone Islands, 32 miles, due west of the Golden Gate. These ships may have been in action.

New York, Aug. 18.—The committee of citizens selected by Mayor Mitchell to investigate the rise in the price of food organized to-day.

Already some dealers are reported to have reduced meat from one to three cents a pound.

German Crown Prince Hurt at Aix-la-Chappelle in War

Belgians Not Worried at Prospect of German Advance on Brussels--Russians Moving Speedily--British Arrival is Announced

Shanghai, Aug. 18.—Two German cruisers have been disabled and brought into Hong Kong. Confirmation of this fact was received here to-day. The deck works, the turrents and the barbettes of the two cruisers were demolished and their masts and funnels shot away. Their sides were stained with blood, which had run through the scuppers. Owing to the rigid censorship established by the British authorities at Hong Kong it is impossible yet to obtain the names of the two German cruisers. Many German merchant vessels are lying in the harbor at Hong Kong.

PRINCE ALEXANDER TO THE FRONT.

London, Aug. 18.—Prince Alexander of Teck, brother of Queen Mary, and the future Governor-General of Canada, is going on foreign service.

Troops of Germany appear to-day to be continuing their activities in Belgium. German cavalry patrols have been seen north of Antwerp, and the entire civic guard of Antwerp has been called out to defend the city.

There is good reason to believe that a serious engagement, in which the German advance is opposed by troops of Belgian and France, has been going on since Monday south of Brussels. No definite news of the progress of this encounter however, has been received.

An official statement made in Brussels is to the effect that the German incursion towards Brussels has been stopped.

The Belgian position is described as excellent.

Other reports from Brussels say that trenches are being thrown up in the environs of the city.

SAY CROWN PRINCE IS HURT.

An official communication from the Russian General Staff at St. Petersburg says the Russian mobilization is now complete, and that eleven members of the Russian Imperial famisy are at the front.

Other reports from St. Petersburg by way of London set forth that the Russian armied began their general advance last Sunday.

It is rumored persistently at The Hague that the German Crown Prince, Frederick William has been seriously wounded at the front, and that Emperor William has hastened to the side of his son, who is said to be at Aix-la-Chapelle. The report has been received also at Paris.

ANNOUNCE LANDING OF BRITISH.

Despatches from London, delayed by the British censors, announce officially the landing of the British expeditionary forces on the French coast. Field Marshal Sir John French, the British commander-in-chief, was given a rousing reception in Paris. The British army in France is believed to number between 100,000 and 120,000 men

The Servian Premier is authority for the statement that Austrian forces have suffered a serious defeat on the Servian line. He telegraphs London that 15,000 Austrians have been "annihilated" near Sabac, whence they fled in disorder. The Servians captured fourtern Austrian guns.

GERMAN CRUISERS DISABLED.

Two German cruisers, evidently seriously disabled in an encounter with the enemy, have been brought into Hong Kong. The censorship maintained at this port in China prevents the sending of the vessels' names or any details of the engagement which preceded their capture.

The German cruiser Leipzig, which came into San Francisco yesterday for coal, left the Golden Gate early to-day with a supply that will carry her to the nearest German port, Apia. The Japanese cruiser Idzumo is believed to be coming up the Pacific coast to observe the movements of the Leipzig.

NO WAR CORRESPONDENT!

The announcement from London and Paris that no war correspondents will be allowed in the field, coupled with Great Britain's request to Belgium to expel the correspondents now in the zone of operations, makes it probable that the story of the first great battle will be told only through official reports.

It is known that the German General Staff regulations absolutely prohibits correspondents with the army. Only official artists and historians may go with German troops, and they will not be permitted to write or make public their sketches until the conclusion of a campaign, or at the discretion of the authorities.

MANY DIFFICULTIES IN WAR.

It is knownalso that the military regulations governing war correspondents have been made very difficult.

Russia is prohibiting by her experiences in this connection in the Russo-Japanese war.

The Pope is reported, through London, to be suffering from a severe bronchial affection; his condition is said to be such as to occasion serious alarm.

30,000 TOURISTS STRANDED.

Relief committees in London, as well as the United States Embassy, are convinced that the number of Americans stranded in Europe have been greatly under-estimated. The original total of 30,000 is believed to represent only half the real number. Frank S. Breckenridge, Assistant Secretary of War of the United States, who is now in London, has completed plans for the succoring of those still in England an on the continent.

President Wilson has addressed a statement to the American people, urging them to a strict observation of that speech and conduct which will best safeguard the nation against distress and disaster. He warns against the breach of neutrality which may spting out of partisanship.

COPS NOT SEEKING HYNES' ASSAILANT

Giant Who is Charged With Beating Small Girl Attacked by Two Men

New Orleans, Aug. 18.—"Hynes did not get enough, I won't look for the man who beat him up," declared Superintendent of Police Reynolds. He referred to the report that two men went to the home of Edward Hynes, 930 Frenchmen street, and took the man into the back yard and gave him a good beating, in return for the awful lashing that Hynes is charged with giving 5-year-old Hilma Selles, last Friday.

Hynes is out on $500 bond, pending trial of a charge of assault and battery filed against him by Officer H. A. Rhodes, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Hilma Selles is the infant daughter of Hynes' housekeeper. She declared that Hynes beat her because she couldn't sweep the yard.

Two men called at Hynes' home and proceeded to beat him to their hearts' content. When they thought they had given him enough they left. Hynes is a giant and they had a tough job.

"They should have put as many lashes across his back as he put on the child's back," declared Superintendent Reynolds. "He deserved everything they gave him—and more."

Superintendent Reynolds says that if Hynes wants the men arrested he will have to file an affidavit. Hynes, however, is keeping quiet on the subject, and won't even give their names yet.

GOT MONEY ON PHONY CHECKS

Gowanda, Aug. 18.—William Vail, aged 49 years, giving his name as Georgetown, Delaware, was arrested yesterday by Chief of Police James Clark, and arraigned before Justice John W. Schatt on charge of forgery. Vail claimed that he had been drinking hard for the past few days and while in that condition he had forged the name of Fred Falk of Perrysburg to several checks. These he tried to secure money on at several business places. He succeeded in getting Forest Mathews, proprietor of the Union House, to cash one check for $14. Justice Schatt held him for the grand jury and he was taken to the jail at Little Valley.

John Lance, residence unknown, who was in company with William Vail, worked on the Erie County side of the village of Gowanda. He was successful in getting Moll Bros. to cash a check for $14, payable to William Vance with Fred Falk's name forged to it.

Vail sent Lance into the Bank of Gowanda to secure money on another forged check for $14. Assistant Cashier S. M. Johnson was suspicious and he telephoned Mr. Falk who pronounced the check a forgery. He then telephoned Chief Clark, who immediately came and arrested Vail. In the meantime Lance skipped. Justice William Bartlett has issued a warrant for Lance and officials are now looking for him.

FRENCH PUSH INTO LORRAINE MEANS HARD BLOW TO KAISER

General Joffre Sends Word to Paris He is Thirty-two Miles Across the German Frontier

Paris, Aug. 18.—An official announcement says:

"All day Monday we continued to progress in upper Alsace. The enemy's retreat from this side was in disorder. They abandoned everywhere their wounded and their stores."

This telegram was received at the War Office from Gen. Joseph Joffrey, French commander-in-chief. The official communication of the French War Office adds:—

"The French troops have occupied all the region to the west of Fenetrange, 32 miles inside the German frontier in Lorraine. Our troops poured through from the valley of the River Seille, of which a number of passes have been excavated by the Germans. Our cavalry is at Chateau Salins."

"In all the actions of the past few days the Germans have sustained serious losses, our artillery have a demoralizing and frightening effect on the army.

"We have conquered the majority of the valleys of the Vosges, upon the slope of Alsace, from where we will soon attain the plain.

"To the south of Saarburg, in Lorraine, 20 miles east of Nancy, the enemy had organized in front of us strongly fortified positions, held by heavy artillery. The Germans retreated precipitatedly and our cavalry pursued them.

"In general, we have obtained in the preceding days successes rebounding to the greatest honor to the officers and men engaged in the battles"

FATHER OF 7 IS HIT BY FALLING HOUSE, PARALYZED; DYING

Donaldsonville, Aug. 18.—Vives Melancon, white tenant on the Belle Alliance plantation, Assumption parish, is dying at his home as the result of injuries sustained in an accident about eight o'clock Thursday morning.

Melancon was assisting in moving an outhouse on his premises when the building collapsed, a heavy piece of timber striking the unfortunate man across the back and fracturing his spine. He was paralized from the hips down, and there is said to be no hope for his recovery.

Melancon is about fifty years old, married and has a family of 5 boys and 2 girls.

$1065.00 WAS GIVEN BY THE CITY TO THE HOSPITAL SHIP

Many people thought that because the Battery Boys were let go away to the war on Monday night without flare of trumpet or beat of drum, that this city is lacking in patriotism This was evidently disproved yesterday when $1065.68 was raised by splendid efforts of local ladies and, incidentally, members of the local troops and auto owners.

Yesterday's campaign by the Daughters of the Empire, to raise funds for the Hospital Ship and War Fund was a gratifying success, in spite of the disagreeable weather conditions which have had the effect of making the down town crowds comparatively small. The work of collecting was systematically undertaken with the City divided into sections and $1065.68 was the result. "We have had liberal responses everywhere," said a collector.

The campaign was inaugurated with an automobile parade, twenty cars, handsomely decorated with British flags, leaving the Armouries shortly after ten o'clock. Each car contained, in addition to the collectors, a bugler from the 57th Bugle Band and martial music featured the parade. Those who loaned their cars for the occasion were Mrs. Wood, Messrs. W.R. Travers, V. Eastwood, Lundy, Keyes, Langford, Irwin, Crossman, Collier, Turner, Comstock, Weddell, Coulthard Pennefather, Karne, Backham and Mason.

SALVATION ARMY HELP

That that most admirable institution, the Salvation Army, under local control of Adjt. McIlheney is doing its share not only for the saving of human souls and human bodies but displaying a markedly patriotic spirit it is exemplified by the action of its splendid local band. The S. A. Band is arranging for a series of concerts the proceeds of which will be handed over towards the Hospital Ship fund. it should be remembered that the members of this band do a day's work and give their services gratuitously towards the good cause.

BATTERY MUTINY QUICKLY CHECKED

Mobile, Alta., Aug. 18.—Adjutant General J.B. Scully stated here today that the entire battery was under arrest at Montgomery, and would be confined in the armoury.

As to official action, he said he would consult with Governor O'Neal, Captain Sam Roswold, arrested here and then released because of no charge against him, is reported to be preparing charges against General Scully, the nature of which could not be learned.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 18.—Fifty members of the local infantry companies and officers from all three organizations were stationed at the Union depot when the members of Battery B. arrived here from camp at Mobile, at 5 o'clock this morning.

There was no disorder on the part of the batterymen, except for a few shouts which were given while marching from the depot to the armoury.

The infantry was ordered out last night at 11 o'clock, armed with ball cartridges, by Adjutant General Scully, as the battery mutinied just before the special train left Mobile.

It is claimed that the members of the battery were not paid when camp broke today because of alleged missing equipment. The men entrained expecting to be paid on the cars. When pay was not forthcoming the men began to debark and a Mobile company was ordered out on riot call the order later being rescinded.

Captain Sam Roswold of the battery was arrested by Mobile police but latter released and will return to Montgomery today.

POPE'S CONDITION IS DANGEROUS HAS FEVER; VATICAN MUCH ALARMED

London, Aug. 18.—A despatch to the Daily Chronicle from Milan, Italy, says that the Pope is in a state of high fever and that his condition occasions serious alarm. For some days His Holiness has been reported as failing. He is said to have become ill with grief over the war.

Rome, Aug. 18.—(Later.)—The condition of the Pope is about the same. The bronchial affection continues. There is no sign of aggravation, but it will be difficult for the patient to free himself of this condition, owing to his state of mental depression consequent upon the war.

TO KEEP YOUR SKIN FREE FROM HAIRS. (Beauty Topics) If you are willing to spend a few minutes' time in your room using a delatone paste, you can easily banish any ugly, hairy growth without discomfort or injury. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is then spread over the hairy surface and after about two minutes rubbed off and the skin washed. You will not be disappointed with this treatment, providing you get real delatone.

Simple Frock For Little Girl

Simplicity in children's frocks seems to be the fashion, and very sensible it is, as well as beautiful.

The little pinafore frock pictured is of white cotton jean with a band of dark red cotton around the bottom and about the elbow sleeves, headed with dull blue braid of different widths.

A white cap of Turkish towelling trimmed to match the dress gives an individual touch to this little costume which can entirely be made by any mother.

THE DIARY OF A BABY

Yelled fifteen minutes without taking breath.

Pulled out enough hair from his uncle's head and whiskers to stuff a pillow.

Swallowed six buttons and a good deal of a reel of cotton.

Emptied the contents of his mother's workbasket into the fireplace.

Tried to squeeze the head of a cat into a tin cup and was scratched badly in the attempt.

Knocked the head off a fine wax doll belonging to his elder sister by trying to drive a tack into a toy wagon with it.

Broke two panes of window glass with a walking stick which his uncle let him have.

Fell into the coal scuttle and spoiled his new white dress.

Set fire to the carpet while his uncle was out of the room hunting up something to amuse him.

Got twisted into the rungs of a chair, which had to be broken to get him out.

Poured a jugful of water into his mother's best shoes.

Finally, when he saw his mother coming, he ran out to the porch and tumbled off the steps, damaging his little person and tearing a hole a foot square in his dress.

Corks may be made airtight and watertight by keeping them immersed in oil for five minutes.

REFORESTATION PROFITABLE

The Only "City" Forest in Canada Situated at Guelph

City forests are not, as yet, in vogue in this country. Perhaps the only city forest in Canada is that at Guelph, Ont., where a small area has been planted surrounding the springs which furnish the city's water supply, states a bulletin of the forestry branch of the department of the interior. In many of the counties of eastern Canada, however, are large areas of waste land, originally forested, and capable only of producing forests. Ontario has a counties reforestation act making possible the acq[illegible] such waste land for reforestation purposes by municipal councils, but up to the present time only one county has availed itself of this opportunity. Quebec and the Dominion government have also passed legislation to encourage tree planting, and the Dominion forestry branch recently distributed nearly 4,000,000 trees from the nurseries at Indian Head for windbreak planting in western Canada. The growing of forest trees on waste land can in most cases be made a profitable under taking, besides providing labor to a considerable number of men, yet no extensive reforestation has as yet been done in eastern Canada.

AN INCH OF RAIN

Some Idea of What This Really Means

An inch of rain strikes one as very little. But it is really a big rainfall.

When an inch of rain has fallen it means, literally, that the amount of water descending from the sky in that particular shower would cover the surrounding territory to a depth of one inch, providing, of course, that it did not run away or soak into the ground.

It means that on one acre water enough to fill more than 600 barrels of forty-five gallons each has fallen. This quantity of water weighs more than 110 tons. If the rain storm covered a territory comprising a thousand acres, which would be a very small shower, 112,000 tons of water would fall from the clouds. Rain storms frequently cover whole States, and often four and five inches of water fall in one rain. In this case the total number of tons of water falling to earth is enormous.

Do you desire to make large profits on your investment in Alberta Oil Shares?

If you do you must use good judgment in the selection of the companies in which you invest.

In order that you may use this good judgment it is absolutely necessary that you investigate and analyze a company thoroughly before placing your money in its shares.

(12) A reputable petroleum engineer in reply to an enquiry from us, stated that the lease held by the British Canadian Oils, Ltd., in Section 31, is situated on the most perfect anticline he has seen in Western Alberta.

Right to Punish Wife

While the tingle of the spanking that her husband had given her because she had not obeyed him was yet sharp, Mrs. Louis Laparcono twenty years, of Jamaica, had him arrested for assault. But she told Justice Salmon in special sessions that the spanking, though it was undoubtedly hard, was only what she deserved. So she hoped the kind judge would discharge her husband.

He only did, she added, what he had a right to do if she misbehaved.

"You think," asked the astonished magistrate, "that he had a right to punish you if you disobey him?"

"Yes, I do," said the young matron. "I think every wife should obey her husband. I promised to do so when I married him."

"Didn't you ever disobey him before?"

"No; and I'll never do it again," she responded.

"That certainly releases him," said the justice.

Seven Wonders of the World

A voting contest has recently taken place in Germany to decide which are the seven wonders of the twentieth century. After the enormous volume of votes cast were counted, it was found that the majority had placed wireless telegraphy at the head of the list and the Panama Canal second. The third of the seven wonders, it was decided, is the dirigible airship; next in order were the flying machine, radium, the cinematograph, and the steamship "Vaterland."

Accordingly Surgeon Major Ma[illegible] decided to operate, and succeeded in replacing the fractured mandible by one of aluminium.

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascer-tained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1380 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

COPPER

-The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

Copper is one of the world's chief necessities, and the demand for it is constantly increasing. Growth of the electrical industry largely accounts for this. Telegraph and Telephone Wire—Trolley Wire—Trolley Wheels and the multitude of other Electrical Machines and Parts—Power Transmission Wire and the use of the metal in various valuable Alloys—these are some of the places where copper is consumed, and while its production is enormous it is used about as rapidly as it can be mined and made ready. THIS IS WHY OWNERSHIP IN A COPPER MINE IS ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY SOURCES OF INCOME POSSIBLE TO IMAGINE.

TIME TO START

Naturally the time to secure an interest in any sort of enterprise is at the start, because it is then that money for development and equipment is needed and this is, of course, the reason why shares in the project are released! When these necessities are provided for the Opportunity passes.

For years we have been spending time, effort and money in getting together one of the largest known copper deposits, and we now own and control thousands of acres of land, covering veins of copper, ore carrying gold and silver values, extensive veins of coal, iron and lime.

The geology is so well defined as to make identifications of size and location of the copper bearing veins a perfect definite matter. In addition to this the estate has been thoroughly prospected by some 4,000 feet of work, there being more than 100 shafts, pits, cuts and tunnels, every one of which shows copper in paying quantities. The dumps of these openings run from 2 to 8 per cent in copper metal.

Facilities for economically winning the copper from its ores are remarkably fine. In the company's own ground are five known coal beds, insuring a perpetual supply of cheap fuel, easily accessible and located within a very short distance of the site chosen for its furnaces. Water and timber are also abundant and easy of access.

One of Colorado's most eminent mining engineers, after thoroughly examining this property, states in his report that the net profits resulting from operation of this property should range from $250,000 to $1,000,000 each year.

There is no uncertainty, no guesswork, about this project. Applied to it, a definite cause will inevitably produce an equally definite effect. Equipment for mining these immense bodies of ore and reducing the metal in them to bullion means dividends—it can't mean anything else—and it is to provide this equipment and the funds required for its installation and the preliminary operating expenses of the estate that an interest in the project is offered to you.

It is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to join in a well planned, conservative, and exceptionally profitable business undertaking. The foundations are laid, the property is acquired and the next step—providing the equipment—is now being taken. So soon as this is accomplished your chance to secure a share in the enterprise will be gone.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

ORIGIN OF "CANADA"

Many people have from time to time inquired the meaning of the name "Canada" and how it came to be applied to the northern half of North America. The "Standard of Empire," England, has endeavored to discover the correct answer to these questions, which are ignored by most of the best-known works of reference dealing with the history of the Dominion. It would seem, however, that the etymology of the name is obscure. There is, of course, a Spanish word canada—a diminutive of canon, and meaning, therefore, a small valley—but there is apparently little reason to suppose that such a mis-description could ever have been applied to the great basin of the St. Lawrence—the only portion of the Dominion known to white men at the period from which the name dates. In some quarters it is believed that the name is a corruption or Gallicisation of an Indian word kannatha, signifying a village. It is further supposed that the famous French explorer Jacques Cartier heard the word used by the aboriginal inhabitants when speaking of their settlements, and erroneously regarded it as the native name for the then known portions of the Dominion. Whatever the true derivation may be, it will be generally admitted that the name is both musical and dignified, and well suited to be the designation of one of the great countries of the world.

QUEBEC FORESTRY

Forestry Engineers Who Work on Scientific Principle

The day of the ruthless pioneer is long past in the Province of Quebec and the valuable forests which dense[l]y clothe such an enormous area are no longer regarded as an obstacle in the path of civilization. On the contrary, they are being carefully conserved, and forestry engineers, working on scientific principles, are being increasingly employed. The old haphazard methods are giving place to organized effort. There are six million acres of private forests in the province, and seventy-nine million acres of forests under government control. The work of classification and exploration will necessitate the employment of a great number of agents for a long period. Retimbering is beginning to assume truly colossal proportions, no less than 200 firms at the present time being en

ASCOT REALLY ROYAL

The King Could Take Half the Receipts But It Goes for Upkeep

It was an interesting story which Mr. Upjohn, K.C., told a Select Committee of the House of Lords when they had before them the Ascot Authority Bill, promoted by Lord Churchill, as the King's representative, and Sir William Carington, Keeper of the Privy Purse, for the purpose of forming one legal authority connected with Ascot Racecourse.

Mr. Upjohn said the objects of the Bill were to form one authority for the management of Ascot races and to vest in that one authority all the property until now vested in two different bodies.

Private race meetings were originally held in the King's Park, and in those days the races were under the management of the Master of the Buckhounds. One reason for the bill was that the office of Master of the Buckhounds was abolished in 1902, and since that time his place had been filled by Lord Churchill, as the King's representative, and Sir William Carington.

Another reason why it was necessary to put things on a more legal footing was that from time to time leases had been granted by the King. Ascot Heath was a Royal domain. With one exception—the grandstand—all the properties had been brought together and were held by Lord Churchill and Sir William Carington.

Colonel Bulkeley, the senior trustee, said it was desirable that there should be some body which would act as a buffer between the King and the people, because that body would prevent any evil-minded person from taking the King's name in a wrong way.

Mr. Reginald Coventry agreed that such an arrangement would prevent any suggestions that the King was making money out of horse-racing. The King was entitled to half the takings at Ascot.

"What does his Majesty do with it?" asked Mr. Balfour Browne, K.C., and, amid laughter, Mr. Coventry replied, "I don't know."

Lord Churchill stated that every single shilling was spent for the benefit of Ascot races. Expenses were very heavy, and the whole upkeep of the racecourse had to be paid for out of the income.

The First Regatta

June 23 was the date of the first British regatta, held between Westminster Bridge and Ranelagh in 1775, to which Dr. Johnson appears to have taken Mrs. Thrale. It was suggested by Lady Montague's description of a regatta she had witnessed in Venice. The only rowing contest was "a race of wager-boats," after which a procession of boats manned by red, white, and blue oarsmen rowed from Westminster to Ranelagh, where various festivities followed in a Temple of Neptune. Some of the 200,000 who attended seem, says the "Westminster Gazette," to have supped "not wisely but too well," for on the return journey "many accidents occurred," and seven persons were drowned.

PRESERVING ANTELOPE

Dominion Government Undertaking to Prevent Them Becoming Extinct

The rescue and perpetuation of the rapidly disappearing prong-horned antelope is to be undertaken by the Dominion Government. To this end it enlisted the services of Ernest Thompson-Seton, the naturalist, and Maxwell Graham, chief of the zoological division at Ottawa, who have outlined a scheme which promises success.

This proposes the establishment of three fenced parks for antelope in different parts of their favorite range, on areas not desirable for agriculture and in regions that still contain wild antelope.

The first step was to outline the ancient and present range of the antelope, then to ascertain the probable number at large. The combined evidence of many game wardens and mounted police shows that there are yet between 1,000 and 1,500 antelope still at large in the Canadian Northwest.

Prior to the hard winter of 1906 and 1907, there were at least ten times as many; but that long, fierce spell of frost and deep snow killed them off by thousands. In the spring when the driving remnants were making their way north over the frozen Saskatchewan, the rotten ice gave way, according to one ranchman, and over 500 were engulfed on one occasion, as he watched them from the bank.

Seton and Graham, acting for the Dominion, set out to select the lands needed. Three parks were secured, one in each of the prairie provinces, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. On the two former the wild antelopes still range. All the conditions, climatic, topographic and botanic have been pronounced perfect. Each park will be about thirty-six square miles in extent. The fencing will be horse high, strong and coyote proof. A competent warden will be in charge and in residence in each.

ORIGINAL POSTAGE STAMP

England Was the First to Use This Idea

The adhesive postage stamp had its origin in England seventy-four years ago as a direct outcome of the postal reforms introduced by Sir Rowland Hill, whose master-mind created not only the inestimable boon of penny postage, but the means by which it was carried into effect—the adhesive postage stamp. At the time of the passing of the Uniform Penny Postage Act in 1839 all postal charges were paid in cash (usually on delivery) involving an enormous amount of bookkeeping on the part of the post office, which would have been increased a hundred fold when the reduced rates of postage came into force but for the suggestion of the great postal reformer, for "a bit of paper, just large enough to bear the stamp, and coated at the back with a glutinous wash," being subsequently embodied in the famous one-penny black postage label and its consort, the two-pence blue, which made their debut in May, 1840, and were the progenitors of all adhesive postage stamps.

For three short years Great Britain enjoyed a monopoly of this novel and handy method of collecting postages, until, in July, 1843, the enlightened Empire of Brazil followed suit with a series of unprepossessing adhesive labels of native manufacture, adorned with large numerals of value in place of a design. In 1847 the United States entered the field with two beautifully engraved portraits of Franklin and Washington, while the head of Ceres and the goddess of agriculture found place on the first stamps of the French Republic, engraved by the elder Barre, which made their debut January 1, 1849.

How to Become a Millionaire

Save one cent to-day, two cents to-morrow, four cents the third day, and continue to save through the month, doubling each day the results of the preceding day. At the end of the month you will be a multi-millionaire. Try it on paper. Any other way is impracticable, of course. The way most people get rich is on paper. But why is the world eternally striving for riches? People see the material things to be bought with money and think that if only they were able to have them they would be satisfied, contented, happy.

CROFTERS FOR CANADA

The crofters may leave the Highlands of Scotland and come to Canada. The crofter is a tenant farmer occupying a small piece of land in the North of Scotland and on the Scottish islands. During the last century they were the subject of numerous investigations and some legislation. A large number of the crofters were cleared from their crofts in the crofting parishes of the Highlands despite their claim to absolute security of tenure. Their condition was afterwards improved by legislation. A proposal has now been made to establish a colony of crofters in Nova Scotia.

MADAME C. M. SEVERANCE

Madame C. M. Severance, often called the "mother of women's clubs, lives in a quaint, vine-covered, sequestered cottage in Los Angeles, where the celebrities of the world of wisdom and wit like to gather during their sojourns in Southern California. For her unfaltering devotion and services, to the cause of femininity in the years when women were fighting against big odds she has won the universal love of women who know her personally or know her through her works.

Painful Swellings Reduced Muscular Strains Ended

Such Troubles Now Quickly Rubbed Away by Powerful Remedy.

If you have any muscles that are strained and weak, that are frequently subject to rheumatic pains; if you have any painful swellings that refuse to go away—get busy with Nerviline. This is the very sort of trouble that Nerviline is noted for curing quickly. "I have proved Nerviline simply a wonder in reducing a hard, painful swelling. It followed an injury I received in my left leg and caused me great pain and discomfort. The muscles were strained and sore, and no other remedy gave the ease and comfort I got from rubbing on Nerviline. There is a soothing, pain-relieving power about Nerviline that touched the root of my trouble. Nerviline reduced the swelling it destroyed the pain, it brought my limb back to perfect condition." The experience of Mr. Bowen, whose home is in Middlesex, is not unusual. Thousands are proving every day that muscular pains of every kind, chronic rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia and sciatica will yield to Nerviline when nothing else can possibly cure. Nerviline is an old-time family pain remedy, used nearly forty years with great success. The large family size bottle costs 50c., trial size 25c. at all dealers.

We are informed that so patriotic are the German restaurant keepers in New York that they have stopped serving French fried potatoes. But we are proud to say that they are not more patriotic than the Massachusetts fishermen who in the war of 1898, armed themselves against an invasion of Spanish mackerel.

Japan's Ultimatum

Japan's action in sending a drastic ultimatum to Germany anticipates the entrance of Japan into the present war as an ally of Great Britain. Japan demands that Germany practically cripple her naval power in Far Eastern waters, and it is hardly to be expected that Germany will do so.

Kiao-Chau, which Japan demands that Germany evacuate, is Germany's most important naval base in Eastern waters. It is situated where it can be used to tap the coal fields of China, and is, therefore, of first importance as a coaling station. It was ceded to Germany by China in 1897 on a ninety-nine year lease, after having been a German protectorate for several months. A second demand is that Germany withdraw her warships from the China sea.

If Japan comes into the present war, she will participate by reason of the agreement between her Government and that of Great Britain, which was formed in 1905, and renewed for ten years in 1911. Under that agreement, a wide latitude is given to the action of either nation in time of war. In case the interests of either in Eastern Asia or in India are menaced, the two Governments may communicate "fully and frankly" and may decide to act in common as a result. Under this agreement, therefore, in the present circumstances, Great Britain may have decided that the participation of Japan in the present war was desirable as a protection against German attack upon her extensive and valuable properties and commerce in the Far East.

Should Japan enter the arena, the present conflict will take on a new significance as a world-war, and will lose its distinctive coloring.

WHY DID NOT 57TH BAND PARADE

To the Editor of The Times.

Dear Sir:—In view of the fact that the 24th Field Battery's gallant over-seas' contingent was allowed to march to the depot Monday night without music, I would ask in the name of common decency, supposing feelings of loyalty to the Empire and to comrades in another branch of the service were absent, why the 57th Regiment Band did not lead the parade? The writer would certainly be averse to believing that any of the members of this organization were pro-German, but in times of trouble such as the present the public are apt to be, possibly, supercritical. In any event, it is up to the 57th Band to see that they are not again side-tracked and put in the unenviable position they occupied last night. It may be claimed that the band was not ordered on parade. This excuse will not suit the public in its present mood. In the absence of orders, the impulsive patriotism that caused this same organization to turn out night after night during the Boer War, in snow storms and all kinds of rough weather, must prevail, or the public will demand an organization that will fill the bill—and what is more, they will get one.

Yours truly.
EX-NON-COM.

(Our correspondent is quite correct, and justified in criticising the attitude of our regimental band in this connection. The least the band could do in this crisis is to turn out and give departing brethren for the front a loyal send-off, orders or not. Their failure to do so on Monday night shames Peterborough in the eyes of the British world, and leaves room for our correspondent's insinuation that pro-German sentiment exists. The public will demand all that is to be expected from a band organization wearing the red coats of a British regiment.—Editor).

OIL THE GREAT WEALTHMAKER

We hold over 3,000 acres, more or less, of oil leases North and South of Monarch and several of our leases are in the same range as the Monarch well.

Many companies claim to be close to Monarch but we are one of the very few who are in Range Six upon which the Monarch Well is situated. Therefore, we must be on the same anti-cline and as it is a foregone conclusion Monarch will get oil, so will we.

Fifty-Seven Feet of Oil Bearing Sands Passed Through in Monarch Well

OFFICIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN OUT BY PRESIDENT GEORGESON—WELL IS NOW DOWN OVER 1,800 FEET AND FLOW OF WET GAS HAS BEEN STRUCK IN LOWER LEVELS—GEOLOGIST DUNN IS AWAY AT PRESENT

Heavy oil showings are being found in the Monarch well, west of Olds, although the oil has not yet come in in commercial quantities.

To put the exact facts before the public, President William Georgeson and Treasurer G. W. Morfitt, of the company, this morning issued an official statement from the drillers setting forth the results.

The heaviest oil seepage has been encountered through a stratum 57 feet thick, and the well is now 1850 feet deep.

A sample of this oil baled out at 1,775 feet was brought to the city this morning and is in the office of Mr. Morfitt, Grain Exchange Building. The oil is a heavy black petroleum with the characteristic petroleum odor.

The statement issued by the officers is as follows:

In the absence of Mr. Dunn, Mr. Van Alst, the head driller, reports that from the depth of 1,775 feet to 1,832 feet he went through oil bearing sands for 57 feet. Throughout there was a heavy showing of black oil in the baler. Two further showing of black wet gas were met at 1,805 feet and 1,915 feet.

The well is now down 1,850 feet. Wet gas has shown at 633 feet, 1,430 feet, 1,805 feet and 1,815 feet.

Oil sands have shown at 868 feet, (48 feet), 1,430 feet (40 feet), 1,740 feet (14 feet), and 1,775 feet (57 feet).

The well is now down 1,850 feet, and while there are good oil showings there is not as yet oil in commercial quantities.

Our stock is on the market at 50 cents a share, a Dollar par, and will be advanced without notice any day pending Monarch Well developments. It is practically a certainty that Monarch will be in oil in commercial quantities within two weeks, Our stock will jump away above par and you had better hurry if you wish to share our prosperity.

The hired boy had slept in. For the first time since his employment he had come down from the little loft over the barn, which served him for a bedroom, fifteen minutes late. It was precisely a quarter past five.

"Son," said the old farmer, who had been impatiently waiting him below. "Son, ye kin git—git, look, stock an' barril—I doan' want yer 'round here nohow."

"D'ye mean it. D'ye sure mean it? D'ye want me to git, as ye say?" and the boy peered nervously into the hard old man's face, shivering in the raw morning air.

"I allus means wot I sez," growled the old farmer viciously," and I repeats it. Git, an' quick about it," and he pointed with his thumb over his shoulder towards the farm gate.

"All right," assented the lad sorrowfully, "I'll git out, I'll git out, but I tell ye, I don't understand—I don't see why."

"See why; doan' understan'," spluttered the old man. "Why, shucks alive boy, w'ot better reason dud ye have than that ye slep' in. Didn't ye, I asks, didn't ye sleep in?"

"Yep," responded the lad slowly. "I slep' in, I sure did, but it is the first time, an' (pleadingly) ain't I tried to please ye? Ain't I wor'd hard to follow your orders? Ain't I been willin' to do most anythin'?"

"Maybe ye has, an' then again, maybe ye hasn't," grudged the old farmer, "but it don't make no difference, nohow; I tells ye, son, the farmer's boy has got to be educated, an' I ain't got no use for a feller wot sleeps in all forenoon."

Educate the farmer's boy. Yes, the old man was right, the hired man and the hired boy have got to be educated; but it must be in the proper way, and at the proper time. That's the kind of education the farmer's boy used to get, and a rather hard and unjust one it was, you will admit. But it's not the kind of education he's getting now, at least, in the Province of Alberta.

Here's what one old farmer, writing to the principal of the Government Agricultural School at Olds, thinks:

Yours truly,
(Signed) H. L. Kroetsch.

On two of the six provincial demonstration farms established last year, agricultural schools—not colleges—have been erected and opened at Olds and Claresholm on the Canadian Pacific. They have as principals, practical experienced farmers, who have assistants, equally practical specialists in all lines of agricultural education, live stock, poultry, carpentry, farm machinery, dairying, crop selection, soil, chemistry, in fact everything that will give the boy such knowledge and practice that will enable him to make the business of farming a pleasanter and more profitable occupation. Every progressive country in the world now recognizes the necessity of giving its boys and girls the best possible educational advantages as preparation for whatever life they may elect to follow, and here is education along practical and attractive lines.

By locating these schools on the Government farms practical demonstration of subjects discussed daily in class are available, and at all times the assistance of the farm superintendents are available. In addition some 20 acres on each farm are set aside as experimental plots, which are under cultivation and care of students.

THE STAGE IN CANADA

Montreal Journalist Protests Against Second-rate Productions Here

The Dramatic Mirror (New York) and the Montreal Star had a friendly argument of late concerning American and English plays, and their comparative worth to the play-going public of Canada.

Mr. S. Morgan-Powell, in the Star, sized the situation up very neatly in the following:

"I said the American companies sent to Canada were, as a rule, inferior companies. I do not understand the Mirror to question that assertion. We have been assured, time after time, that we were to see 'the original New York company,' and we have seen a company which contained sometimes two, sometimes one, and very often none, of the original New York cast. We have been 'fed up' with second-rate casts and second-rate productions until we are sick and tired of them. And the plays that have been sent to us have been, on the whole, very poor, though there have been some which, as the Mirror points out, we have praised. In general, however, it has been necessary to exercise a great deal of patience and endurance.

"If the Mirror can exercise its influence with New York producers to convince them that Canada wants their best, and will gladly support their best, but that Canada does not want, and will no longer endure, being made the dumping ground for their second-rate dramatic productions, the Mirror will be doing not only Canada, but the producers themselves, a favor.

"I have argued in season and out of season in favor of all-English plays for Canada, because Canada's experience of such plays has been that, on the average, they are much superior to what the United States has sent us.

"Art has no nationality; but so far we have been getting an unpleasantly strong impression that the American type of play and player, judging from the samples that visit us, is not as good as we want. It is up to the United States to eliminate that impression 'right away.'"

COLD STORAGE FLOWERS

Development of Plants May be Retarded Without Injury

In England extensive use is made of electrical refrigeration to enable certain flowers to be kept ready for table use all the year around. When the "crowns" of the lilies, as they are called, are just beginning to sprout, the plants are taken out of the ground and placed in cold storage. The effect of the low temperature is to retard the development of the plant without injuring it, explains a writer in the Electrical World. After being removed from the low temperature, the plants are placed in the ground out of doors, when the season is favorable and, when not, in soil in ordinary pots in the greenhouse, or in moss in vases. In any case the plants bloom in from three weeks to a month from the time of being taken out of cold storage.

The florist adopting cold storage has at his command a method of retarding the blooming of plants in actual growth. By placing them in cold storage for a little while the development of the plant is retarded and they can be brought out again before the occasion for which they are required and allowed to finish their blooming.

Buried Ashes at Sea

A novel funeral ceremony took place recently off the Goodwin Sands when an urn containing the ashes of Mr. Thomas James Forbes Haskoll were committed to the deep. The funeral service was conducted from the vessel which conveyed the urn to sea.

A Chance For Some Golfer

Golfers may be interested to know of a curious prize awaiting a claimant at the Royal Ashdown Golf Club, Sussex. On the club links there is a hole, called the Island Hole, of such a difficult character that a member hit on the unique idea of endowing it with the sum of $25, the accumulated interest of which sum should go to the competitor who does the hole in one stroke at either the Easter, Whitsuntide, or autumn meetings. That was some years ago, and the interest is still accumulating.

Rubber From Steel

Artificial rubber as a by-product of the manufacture of steel may be a possibility as English scientists are experimenting with its production from coke oven gases.

Displacing the Hen

In a new incubator the eggs are so supported that the movement of a lever turns all of them at once the proper distance to produce the best results.

Saving Life at Sea

So buoyant is a life preserver invented in Germany that it will support several persons clinging to it as well as its wearer.

300 Letters on Grain of Wheat

Perhaps the greatest feat of microscopic engraving was accomplished by a Jewish farmer in Alberta, who prepared an address of welcome to the Duke of Connaught. The address was inscribed in Hebrew on a grain of wheat and contained no fewer than 300 letters. So fine was the lettering that a microscope was necessary to read the inscription with any ease.

PROTECTION FORESTS

Functions of Government Reserves Outlined—How Trees Help Soil

A perpetual timber supply, resulting from systematic methods of cutting is commonly, and correctly, supposed to be the chief purpose of making forest reserves.

Another purpose, scarcely, if at all inferior, is that of regulating the [illegible] from the water-sheds of rivers, of which, on account of the fact that the land is unsuited for farming, through its being too poor in quality or too rocky, or being too high a level and so exposed to frosts, trees form the most profitable crop.

Forests maintained for this latter purpose are called "protection forests." Possibly the best example of such forest, and certainly the largest protection forest in the world, is the Rocky Mountains Forest Reserve in Alberta which now has an area of 20,89[illegible] square miles.

Fortunately the Dominion Government early recognized the value of such protection forests, and, by the creation of forest reserves in the West, the great rivers of the plain having their source in these watersheds were saved from the disastrous floods, the low-water stages, and the filling up of the river-beds with eroded soil, so characteristic of the rivers originating in the denuded water sheds of the eastern United States.

In this latter region many areas in the Appalachian mountains, which cover a large part of Pennsylvania, Virginia, the Carolinas and other States were very severely cut, and have been repeatedly swept by fire so that the forests have been entirely destroyed. When rain falls on such an area, the water runs off almost immediately; if, on the other hand, the area were covered with forest, the soil would be more spongy and able to retain water, and the water would be hindered in running off by the tree roots and the debris on the ground. Moreover, the water, in its rapid run-off, gradually takes with it the soil, and, where the soil covering the rocks is thin, it is apt to be washed away entirely. Hence there is lost any possibility of growing a new forest on the new bare rock. The soil carried away eventually found its way to the larger rivers and harbors, and did actual harm by silting these up.

A Stammering Cuckoo

The inhabitants of Charlesworth, near Glossop, are enjoying the curious experience of listening to a stammering cuckoo. At first it was thought it had not found its note, but time has gone on, and, undoubtedly, it is the bird's natural note. Its struggles to get out its call are causing much amusement.

WINTER SPRAYING

Experience of a Prince Edward County Farmer Points to Profit

The growing prevalence and popularity of winter dairying is a feature of the dairy industry in Canada at the present time. On this point the following article dealing with the experiences of a farmer of Prince Edward county, is of interest.

"Another resident of this county, Carman Metcalfe, has for several years been disposing of his milk in the factories, and the records of his herd show that from the production end they are not at fault. Several have given over 6,000 pounds; three more were giving over 7,000 pounds and one of them over 8,000 pounds. This is during the summer months only, a period of seven or eight months. However, with these good returns from the cows, Mr. Metcalfe has not been satisfied with his profits accruing from this practice. Feeding silage, red clover and alfalfa hay, and grain for about nine months of the year, Mr. Metcalfe has calculated that it costs him between $50 and $60 to keep a cow each year, and claims that the returns from the factory do not leave him any surplus over and above the cost of maintenance. However, he is a man who finds pleasure in dairying, and now has a scheme whereby he can milk the cows for a longer period and thus receive more satisfying remuneration.

"Fifteen heifers are running on grass which will freshen in October. He intends to ship milk from these cows to Toronto until the factory starts in the spring, when the milk will be diverted into that channel. This proposition has a bright side, and whatever disposal is made of the milk a fair degree of success should accompany the venture. The demand for milk in our cities is not insatiable but during the winter months it does not seem possible that too much milk can be produced, providing it be handled wisely. Creamery butter is always in good demand, and it seems feasible that any milk produced over and above what is necessary to supply urban consumption might be manufactured into dairy products that will find a ready market.

"The absence of profits from the practice of supplying the cheese factory with milk during a few months of summer has led Mr. Metcalfe to adopt this system."

Expected a Deluge

An extraordinary case of religious mania was found in Panama. An individual who had proclaimed himself the Messiah predicted the destruction of the world by a deluge in a short time, and some of his eighty adherents engaged in building an ark, while others collected in pairs animals of all species found in their region.

COWS THAT WEAR WELL

Testing Brings Out the Milk-producing Facts of the Herd

One of the many advantages reaped from systematic cow testing is the fact that it not only detects cows of indifferent value saving dairymen the burden of providing for worthless cows, instead of their having good cows to support them, but also it has frequently discovered valuable cows. For instance, a farmer at Ennismore, Ontario, had a small, undersized "native" cow which he intended to sell, not placing much value on her. But cow testing showed that she was one of the best in the herd both for milk and fat production.

This recalls another cow at Ayers Cliff, Quebec, bought at auction for $2.00 because no one knew her value. Indeed she was put in with three others as the four poorest in the herd of the man who was selling out. The present owner believes in cow testing, and has refused $100.00 for her. She gave 322 pounds of fat in seven months.

The men who have built up herds that average 8,000 or 9,000 pounds of milk per cow are just those men who know, through having proved it, that cow testing pays. Your cows may be like fancy china, of very fine appearance, but they may not wear well. But the tested cows, that do produce, that do wear well, may bring you in sixty or seventy dollars each during the factory season.

Lessen Collisions at Sea

Signor Ulivi, the engineer who claims to be able to ignite explosive at a distance of several miles by means of rays, says his invention can be applied on board ship as to ascertain whether another steamer is within radius of thirteen miles. Thus precautions can be taken which should lessen the possibility of collisions at sea.

Machine Does Arithmetic

An instrument has been invented for quickly measuring the earthwork in railroad cuts and fills without laborious calculations.

Mirror For Watching Airships

For watching aeroplane flights without straining the neck an inventor has patented a mirror to be attached to the end of field glasses at any desired angle.

Cure Hay by Steam

Five years of experiments in curing hay by steam heat with special machinery have proved that such hay is more nutritious to cattle than the sun-cured kind.

Elevated Tent

An Illinois inventor's tent can be suspended, floor and all, from two trees at any desired height.

QUEER TASTES OF ANIMALS

Some animals and also birds have very extraordinary tastes for different foods and drinks quite apart from those with which Nature has provided them, and it is in the knowledge of these peculiarities that the skill of the trapper lies.

So marked is a monkey's taste for an intoxicating liquor made from the fermented juice of rice that this drink is invariably used for trapping these creatures. Bears are very partial to alcohol, and many of the performing variety find their highest reward in honey and beer, or rum-and-water mixed with sugar.

Canaries delight in eating lettuce, which is well known for its narcotic properties, and they will eat it to such an extent as to leave themselves stupified for a long time afterwards.

Foxes, ordinarily the most cunning and, consequently, the most difficult to capture of animals, readily succumb to a trap baited with the body of a dead cat.

Stoats, weasels, etc., the bane of the gamekeeper, are seldom proof against a trap sprinkled with oil [illegible] fish.

Long Street Names

The Parisian record for long street names is the Rue des Prêtres-Saint Germain-l'Auxerrois, which is something of a mouthful, but is equalled by a thoroughfare in Brussels rejoicing in the name of the Rue de la Montagne aux Herbes-Potagères. In the environs of the Belgian capital there is even more of a tongue twister, the Ongeschildezilverenochernootjestraat, which may be rendered as the street of the little unpicked silver nut.

"She is somebody's mother, boys, you know,
For all she is aged and poor and slow."

I wish a rhyme could be given us on "Somebody's Sister," to stir the noblest imaginations of our youths and elevate their demeanor towards every young woman they meet.

Somebody's sister waits on you in the restaurant, my boy. She comes from a home with parents and brothers and sisters clustered in its memories. Hers may be a humbler circle than your sister knows, but to her brother she is just as precious as the maiden who will greet you at dinner to-night is to you. So be gallant to the waiter girl.

Somebody's sister is the chambermaid at the hotel that sheltered you last night. She has the meanest task in the house, and usually does it well. Too often she is forgotten, except when rude jibes or suggestive jokes are passed. Women travelers can acquire no more Christlike habit than that of encouraging the girl who makes the beds.

Somebody's sister clicks the typewriter in your office, young man. The angel of your home does not need to call forth the heroism that the stenographer exercises every morning as she prepares for her daily bread winning feat. I knew a young woman whose father's sudden death compelled her to leave her piano and painting lessons in order to qualify as a stenographer. Her swift fingers soon supported her frail mother and two little sisters. By and by, the young fellow in the next office cultivated her acquaintance. One day, when he thought matters were ripe, he motored her out to see a lot his rich father had given him. After some effort, he succeeded in explaining that, if she would have him, he would put up a nice bungalow in the autumn. She took the proposition home with her, balanced it with her duty to her three charges, and then, after a half day's crying declined it and cheerily went back to her work. You can afford to tip your hat to the stenographer, my son. Treat her with respect, and keep a clenched fist ready for any scoundrel who doesn't.

Somebody's sister is behind the counter where you buy your box of candy. There are but one or two lives or perhaps merely one or two reverses betwen your sister and such a position. A funeral or a failure might put her there any day. And the candy girl is likely just as sensitive and of as fine a fibre as your sister is. Bestow the same courtesy upon her which you would want to be shown the girl you guard so jealously. Such bordering jests as you might thoughtlessly give her would soon wear the enamel off her purity.

Somebody's sister is walking by the street corner where you and your chums are congregating to-night. You are feeling merry, with a bit of loose change in your pocket and the day's work over. A group of young fellows will recklessly make remarks about a passing woman in the evening, which one young man, alone, wouldn't think of expressing next morning. Set the bound of decency against your buoyancy. The next young woman to happen along may be your sister or your sweetheart. If your chum, not knowing, should offer her an insult there would be trouble, wouldn't there?

My son, if you drag down some young woman, you shall not escape a harvest of remorse. Retribution is not a present theme of our pulpits. That subject is left to our novelists who, I sometimes think, are our real preachers. Hall Caine in "The Deemster" and "The Prodigal Son" delivers sermons that clergymen too often fear to preach. His warning is, "Be sure your sin will find you out." Crimes against virtue rebound to push the sinner into an earthly hell. I say to you, young man, if any act or word or gesture of yours contributes to the influences that lure a young maiden from innocence to guilt, from decency to degradation, whether your part in the matter is the first seductive beckon or the last abrupt push, or any of the intermediate steps, know that eternal Vengeance will find you out and require her blood at your hands. Over every girl baby's cradle Christ bends to-night to say, "Whosoever shall offend one of these little ones, it were better that a millstone were hanged about his neck and that he were drowned in the depths of the sea."

Love for our own mothers ought to awaken respect for everybody's sister. If only mothers knew their power, and could throw off the mock modesty that prevents plain speech, they could turn the affection of their sons to practical account by awakening within the young men's breasts the chivalry that protects womankind the world over. John Ruskin said that he promised his mother to treat all women with respect, and he kept his word.

Mothers, get your boy to solemnly swear by the love he bears you to be a son to the matron, a brother to the maiden, and, by and by, a father to the little children.

Measured When Made

To save the use of a yardstick in stores some of the finer dry goods are being rolled at the mills with a sheet of paper on which measurements are printed between the layers of fabric.

AS LIGHT AS LAGER BUT BETTER FOR YOU

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them can not imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. MARKETING EGGS

Co-operative Scheme Appeals to Farmers of Western Province

A movement has been started in Saskatchewan to form associations in different districts for the co-operative marketing of eggs. An attempt is being made to place this industry on a more profitable basis without increasing perceptibly the cost to the consumer. The movement has the approval of the Provincial Government, but beyond supervising the preliminary work of the organization, its part in the movement is not active. The constitution of the associations and their governing by-laws have been drafted by the director of the co-operative organization, Mr. W. W. Thomson, and forwarded to the various points where organizations are proposed. According to the text of the proposed constitution the object of the association is "to increase the profits of the poultry-raisers by the co-operative marketing of strictly fresh eggs." Any poultry-raiser desirous of making use of the marketing facilities may become a member of the association upon the payment of the admittance fee. The directors of the association will appoint a secretary-treasurer and business manager, who will have charge of the collection and sale of all eggs, and will apportion the returns among the members according to the quantity received.

BIG GAME OF THE NORTH

The Walrus is a Fearsome Looking and Rather Vicious Creature

Hunting the walrus in Behring Straits is an exciting sport, and one not engaged in to any great extent. It is dangerous because the huge creatures do not hesitate to attack a boat, and woe betide the unlucky hunter if one of these huge beasts gets its tusk over the gunwhale of his boat.

The picture shows a front view of the head of a huge bull walrus which weighed about a ton and a half, and measured fourteen feet from the heavily bristled muzzle to the tips of his rear flippers. The females are usually smaller than the males, but strange to say frequently have bigger tusks.

Famous Rose Bushes

It is thought that the oldest rose bush in the world is that on the cathedral wall at Hildesheim, Germany. Its history may be traced, it is said, with certainty to the eleventh century, when, the records of the cathedral show, it was an item of expense to the caretakers of the ancient edifice.

The main trunk of this bush is twenty inches in diameter, and the branches spread over the wall to a height of twenty-five feet.

Though the Hildesheim rose bush is the oldest, it is not the biggest. To Germany also pertains this distinction. The bush in the Wehrle Gardens, in Freiburg, attains a height of 115 feet. The stock is wild rose, and the graft made some thirty years ago, a tearose of the Chromatella variety.

There is an enormous Banksia rose at the Castle of Chillon on Lake Geneva, that is better known to tourists than either of these, though as a matter of fact it is exceeded in size by the one of the same variety in the Marine gardens at Toulon.

This spreads over a space eighty feet wide and fifteen feet high, and has as many as fifty thousand of its flowers in bloom at once.

A BRONCHIAL COUGH, PERHAPS WEAK THROAT USE "CATARRHOZONE"--DEAD SURE CURE

Wonderful Success Reported in Thousands of Bad Cases.

How many thousands are there who would gladly pay any sum to be cured of bronchitis or catarrh. Many could be cured if they would just use common sense in selecting their remedy.

Bronchitis of course is an inflammation of the bronchial tubes which were made for the passage of air alone and neither the moisture of an atomizer nor the liquid of a cough syrup can get where the trouble really is. The diseased parts can only be reached by a remedy that can force its way through all the breathing organs. Doctors who have used "Catarrhozone" say it is the only rational cure for bronchitis. It cures by inhalation.

You breathe in its healing balsams, inhale its soothing antiseptic vapor and relief is immediate.

Simple to use, delightful and pleasant—nothing compares with Catarrhozone which is the cure of the day for all bronchial and throat troubles.

Mr. H. B. McLaughlan, the well-known representative of Parks and Blackwell, Toronto, says: "I have used Catarrhozone for years and can honestly say it is the only remedy that relieves me from a painful attack of Bronchial Catarrh. The inhaler for Catarrhozone is always in my pocket and I simply couldn't get along without it. I firmly believe Catarrhozone is a wonderful remedy."

Large size sufficient for two months' use, guaranteed, $1.00; small size 50c; sample or trial size 25c. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Barn Burned by Lightning.

A fire occurred at 4.15 yesterday morning in Otonabee when the log barn of Mr. Robt. Cleghorn was set afire by lightning. Whilst the thunderstorm was raging its worst Mr. Cleghorn got out of bed and closed his windows. Shortly after a neighbor woke him up and told him his barn was afire. WHALING INDUSTRY

Canned Whale Beef May be on the List Shortly

The whaling industry is commonly supposed to be a thing of the past. Yet it is estimated that $1,000,000,000 are invested in that business to-day, and one whaling company recently bought out a rival at a price of $1,000,000. Such a business would seem to be rather lively for a back number. A new scheme has been brought u[illegible] several times of late which may add still more to the importance—and profits—of whaling. This is the plan to can whale beef, and put it on the market as a rival to other forms of canned meat. No doubt this would add considerably to the world's supply and under the right handling the quality might not be bad. Japan eats a great deal of whale meat already. Dr. Grenfell of Labrador considers it very good food. But no one yet has explained how the huge carcass can be handled in sanitary fashion with the limited equipment possible on a whaling ship. Until this miracle is achieved, it is not likely that whale meat will rival beef and pork in any country peopled by white men.

London, Aug. 19.—"A fierce battle is in progress between the Belgians and Germans along the extended front," says a Reuter despatch from Brussels, dated at seven o'clock last night. "Large numbers of refugees are arriving from Tirlemont."

The above curt announcement is generally accepted in London to-day as indicating the real beginning of the first great battle in the war of eight nations.

The German attack is to-day again reported to have been made on the direct orders of Emperor William himself to his generals in the field.

Shells Have Been Dropping in Tirlemont.

The exact extent of the line of fighting has not yet been revealed, but presumably it stretches in a north and south line. Beyond this its definite location is virtually guesswork.

Refugees from Diest, Tirlemont, and other towns in that section of Belgium, who fled as the Germans approached, are coming into Brussels in great numbers. They declare that since the inhabitants vacated Tirlemont, German shells have been dropping in the town and that subsequently the Belgians broke the German advance at this place at the point of the bayonet.

Army Advancing on Brussels.

Paris, Aug. 19.—A despatch in the Paris Midi from Brussels, dated to-day, says cannonading was distinctly heard in Brussels at six o'clock this morning.

The correspondent adds it is understood that a German army is now marching opon Brussels by way of Huy or Jodoigne,

Later Despatch Says Advance Checked.

London, Aug. 19, 2.30 p.m.—A despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Brussels says the German advance posts covering the region between Gembloux and Jodoigne, are being gradually pushed back before the advance of Belgian and French forces.

The Belgians and French are now in close junction and in contact with the advance lines of the German army.

BODY OF SENTRY IS FOUND IN THE CANAL

Private Kels Evidently Fell Into the Water While Heavy With Sleep

St. Catharines, Aug. 19.—The body of Private Kels, 19th Regiment, a sentry on guard duty at the Welland Canal, was found just before noon today in the level of the canal below that on which he had his beat, from which he mysteriously disappeared early Sunday morning. The coroner is investigating.

From the condition of his uniform there is little doubt that he fell in from the edge of the bank, being unsteady from loss of sleep. The lockage of steamers is believed to have carried his body into the lower level of the canal. His rifle, however, has not yet been found.

Two Hundred German Ships Taken By Allied Navies

London, Aug. 19., 3.55 a.m.— The Daily Express estimates that the number of large German vessels captured at sea by the British, French and Russian warships total 200, with a tonnage of one million tons and a value of $300,000,000. The paper says that there are still remaining at sea about 500 German ships liable to capture at any moment. These have a total tonnage of 2,700,000 tons and a value of $700,000,000. These latter include 156 Hamburg-American vessels, 120 North German Lloyd, 65 Hansa, 45 German-Australian, 45 Hamburg South American, 45 German Levant, 30 German-American Petroleum, and 25 Woermann.

Stomachs Kept Doctor Busy

"An old fashioned doctor a number of years ago, told us stomachs kept him busy. And he argued that a more conscientious care of the stomach would practically put his profession out of commission."—National Food Journal, June, 0914

It was a new milling process that had considerably to do with keeping this old doctor on the jump. This process, which made flour look white and pretty—unfortunately removed nearly all of the really vital mineral elements of the wheat—the invaluable phosphate of potash, etc.

This kind of milling has now become almost universal. Think what it means to deprive the system of these elements which are necessary for its daily rebuilding?

Grape-Nuts -a delicious food made of wheat and barley, contains all the nutriment of the grains, including their mineral elements. Many forms of stomach trouble are due to a lack of these elements in daily food: and a regular ration of Grape-Nuts and cream along with other food is admirable to set one right.

French Troops Holding Ground All Along The Line of Battle

Warned, However, Not to Value Too Highly Minor Victories--Germany Sends Mission to Rome in Effort to Range Italy on German's Side--Captured Austrian Steamers

London, Aug. 19.—The British Government is sending reinforcements to the continent. Plymouth is being used as the principal base of transportation operations. Thousands of soldiers are arriving there every day for mobilization.

The exact location of the British allies is still unknown, but military men believe that the main body has been massed in or around the northwestern part of Belgium to prevent an advance into France.

GERMAN MISSION TO ROME.

Paris, Aug. 19.—In a final effort to swing Italy into line to oppose the allies, Germany has sent a military and diplomatic mission to Rome. It is traveling by auto, and arrived at Trent in the Austrian Tyrol to-day.

BRUSSELS HEARS CANNONADING.

Paris, Aug. 19.—A despatch to the Paris Midi from Brussels, dated to-day, says cannonading was distinctly heard in Brussels at 6 o'clock this morning. The correspondent adds it is understood that a German arm is now marching upon Brussels by way of Huy or Jodoigne.

FORCING THE GERMANS BACK.

London, Aug. 19.—A despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Brussels says the German advance posts covering the region between Gembloux and Jodoigne, are being gradually pushed back before the advance of Belgian and French forces. The Belgians and French are now in close junction, and in contact with the advance lines of the German army.

BRITISH MOVES HIDDRN.

The commander of the allied forces of French, British and Belgians will not permit anything about their positions to be made public, and since the official note made known the presence of a large British expeditionary force on the Continent, its movements have been hidden from the outside world.

At Brussels, it is said the position has not changed since yesterday, when it was reported from Brussels to be excellent in the allies.

WHAT OF THE LIEGE FORTS?

The fate of the Liege forts is not definitely known. German despatches describe them as in the hands of the German army since the arrival of heavy artillery, while Belgian military authorities assert that they are still intact and holding out bravely.

In Alsace-Lorraine the French turning movement through southern Alsace appears from French reports to be progressing favorably for the French, and this seems to receive confirmation in a despatch sent out by the Wolff Bureau, the German official news agency, saying batteries of guns were taken by the French, who continued their forward march.

CAPTURE AUSTRIAN STEAMERS.

A Montenegrin army is reported within two hours' march of the fortified Austrian seaport of Ragusa, in Dalmatia. The Montenegrins had already captured a number of towns in the vicinity.

Two large Austrian steamers were captured to-day by the French.

An exhortation to the world by the Pope calls for prayers for peace, "So that the merciful God may, as it were, be wearied with the prayers of his children and speedily remove the evil causes of war, giving to them who rule to think the thoughts of peace."

King Alfonso of Spain, with Premier Dato, are to confer with the French and British Ambassadors at Madrid concerning Spain's attitude.

PARIS ALSO THINKS GREAT CONFLICT BEGAN.

Paris, Aug. 19, 1.09 p.m.—Careful study of the military situation on the northern frontier leads French military observers to the conclusion that the events transpiring in Belgium to-day are the beginning of operations on an immense scale.

Germany, it is declared, is making a fresh and mightier effort to break into France through the comparatively open Belgian county.

Government opinion in Paris, however, is confident that the allies will be able to meet this shock successfully and reply to it crushingly.

Russia Full of Moral Energy No Rioting. Soloons Closed

London, Aug. 19, 4.20 p.m.—"It is impossible to relate a tithe of the amazing things that have happened in Russia during the last ten days," says a letter to The Daily Chronicle written in St. Petersburg on August 12. It continues:

"Russia is not recognizable, or rather that haunting beauty of Russia which those of us who live here gropingly and often sadly feel and love has suddenly shone forth radiantly from out the heavy clouds of failure and defeat that have hidden it for so many years.

"Russia is full of moral energy. She has never displayed it with the same vigor as now at any period of her history. Russia feels herself for once to be morally in the right."

No Rioting in Country.

"Russia's internal condition was deplorable," says the correspondent. "The Poles, Finns and Jews were embittered by the Government's policy of oppression. The Duma was divided and helpless. Strikes were spreading. There were serious riots in St. Petersburg.

All Russian is mobilizing; the peasants, the workmen and the strikers of the week before, students, teachers and lawyers—all dropped their work without a murmur and joined the ranks.

"I had half expected mobilization riots in the country districts like those which occurred during the Japanese war, but friends from the south the west and the east declare that all Russia is as one man. Every where the people are going to war to die for our country, as the peasants say.

Drink Shops Closed.

"The drink shops were closed, and all went soberly and sternly expecting no easy victories and preparing for a long and hard struggle.

"For the first time in his reign the Russian Emperor is cut off now from these German influences which egged him on to ruinous reaction. His Majesty came out on the balcony of his palace to greet an immense throng of his people!

Four Million Pounds of Cheese is Quebec's Gift

Quebec, Aug. 19. At a special session of the Quebec Provincial Cabinet held at noon to-day the Gouin Government has decided to offer the Imperial military authorities four million pounds of Canadian cheese for the use of the armies.

As cheese costs the consumer about 20 cents per pound, this gift may be said to be worth about $800,000, though, buying in large quantities, the Government will get it for much less. This fine sum from the French Canadian Province is significant of Empire unity in the present crisis. Quebec, especially the Eastern Townships, has a large yearly output of cheese, and will probably make, as well as pay for the gift.

SERVIAN FORCES WIN ANOTHER VICTORY FROM THE AUSTRIANS

Reported that Austria Lost 3000 Dead and 5000 Wounded--Minor Russian Success--Germans Open Fire on Italians--Cuba Refuse Supplies to Germans

London, Aug. 19.—The curt announcement in a telegram from Brussels, dated last night, of fierce fighting between Belgian and German troops along an extended front is generally accepted in London to-day as indicating the real beginning of the first great battle in the war of eight nations.

The German attack is to-day again reported to have been made on the direct orders of Emperor William himself to his generals in the field.

The exact extent of the line of fighting has not yet been revealed, but presumably it stretches in a north and south line. Beyond this its definite location is virtually guess work.

London, Aug. 19.—An official communication received here from Paris declares that confirmation is at hand of previous reports of a Servian victory at Shabats over 80,000 Austrians. Shabats is in Servia, 40 miles west of Belgrade.

The Austrians suffered a severe defeat, with very heavy losses in men and munitions. According to advices from Rome, their casualties amounted to 3,000 killed and 5,000 wounded.

Germans Fire on Italians.

London, Aug. 19.—A despatch from Rome to The Star says refugees from Magdeburg, Germany, report that German soldiers fired on 3,000 Italians confined in the barracks there, killing seven and wounding sixteen, because some of them shouted "Hurrah for Italy."

Fighting in the Congo.

London, Aug. 19.—The Daily News says that a statement has been issued at the French Embassy that German and French troops have been fighting in the Congo region. It is reported that the Germans had been dislodged from Jringa.

Cuba Refuses Food to Germans.

Havana, Aug. 19.—The Cuban Government was notified to-day by the British Charge d'Affaires that German warships must not be provisioned at Cuba's neutral ports. This action was taken as a result of reports that German merchantmen were loaded with provisions and coal in Cuban ports and their supplies transferred at sea to German men-of-war.

Big Battle in Progress.

London, Aug. 19.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Brussels, sent at 7 o'clock last night, says:—

"A fierce battle is in progress between the Belgians and Germans along an extended front. Large numbers of refugees are arriving from Tirlemont."

Coal Shortage Feared.

London, Aug. 19.—The Lisbon correspondent of The Morning Post says that on account of the fear of running short of coal only half the usual number of trains are being run throughout Portugal. Lighting for the streets and public buildings has been reduced to a minimum for the same reason.

The only topic of conversation in Portugal is war, and the attitude of Portugal. A week ago, says the correspondent, party politicians were at each others' throats; now home policies have been laid aside and the only attack on the Government are on the grounds that it is acting too weakly in support of its ally, England.

WILL PROVIDE FOR VOLUNTEERS AND THEIR FAMILIES

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 19.—The Prime Minister stated this afternoon that the government of Canada will provide for those left behind by volunteers, and for the complete welfare of those volunteering.

Thought Lord Dundonald Will Command Canadians

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—While there as yet is no official announcement as to who shall command the Canadian expeditionary army, the belief is growing that Lord Dundonald will be the selection.

The Canadian authorities are in communication with London on the subject, and an official announcement will be made before the end of this week. There is equal interest in the likely commanders of the three infantry and three artillery brigades. It seems certain that Col. Currie, of Victoria, will command one of the infantry brigades.

Col. Sam Steele, of Winnipeg, is suggested as the commander of a second, and Colonel Septimus Denison, head of third. The names of Col. Landry, of Quebec, and Col. Riley of Montreal, are also prominently mentioned. For the artillery brigades the likely commanders are regarded as Col. Morrison, Col. Panet and Col. Burstall. It is now certain that two members of Parliament will be in the firing line.

Col. John Currie, M. P., will command the 48th Highlanders, and Col. H. McLeod, M. P., for York, has been selected to command the New Brunswick battalion which is going to Val Cartier. General mobilization orders have now been issued by Col. Hughes. Many of the troops have already left for Quebec, but all will start moving by tomorrow morning. By the end of this week the full contingent will be in camp. There will be a week's hard drilling, when the troops will likely embark under sealed orders for an unknown port in Europe.

WAR OVER IN TWO OR THREE MONTHS

Paris, Aug. 19.—A news despatch from Tarbes quotes Count Witte, the Russian statesman, who is on his way from Biarritz to Russia, as declaring that the European war would not last more than two or three months. It was bound to end, he said in the downfall of Germany. The moment had come when Russia could intervene. Her mobilization had been carried out slowly and surely, but her army was certain to vanquish Germany whatever might happen.

TOBACCO MONOPOLY STARTED BY NAPOLEON

London, Aug. 19.—The Chronicle recalls that it was Napoléon who tried to smoke once, and then with dire results, instituted the French tobacco monopoly.

At a court function held early in 1810, the Emperor remarked a lady wearing jewels of such magnificence that he inquired how her husband made his money.

"He is a tobacco merchant,' was the reply, which led him to seek further information as to such a profitable business. Before the year expired the sale and manufacture of tobacco Napoleon issued a decree restricting exclusively to the State.

It has remained a monopoly ever since, and for many years past has brought in an annual revenue of over $80,000,000.

POPE PIUS X. NEAR DEATH

Rome, Aug. 19, 1.10 p.m., via Paris, 6.15 p.m.)—It is reported that the Pope has received the last communion.

Rome, Aug. 19 (via Paris, 4.10 p.m.).—The Pope has had a sudden relapse.

A bulletin issued by Dr. Marchiavi leaves no doubt that the patient's life is in danger.

WHERE CANADA LEADS

Canada leads in the productivity of her soil, in the high quality of her civilization, in her educational system, in a free press, in the law and order observable through the land and in the success that has followed the union of the provinces into a dominion.

Canada leads in her savings per capita; in her railway mileage per capita, and in the grade of wheat grown.

Canada leads in the opportunities she presents to the settler, and in the generous offer of free land.

Canada leads in her wealth, and diversity of natural resources.

Canada leads in industrial and commercial openings.

Canada leads as one of the self governing dominions of the empire.

Famous Rose Bushes

It is thought that the oldest rose bush in the world is that on the cathedral wall at Hildesheim, Germany. Its history may be traced, it is said, with certainty to the eleventh century, when, the records of the cathedral show, it was an item of expense to the caretakers of the ancient edifice.

The main trunk of this bush is twenty inches in diameter, and the branches spread over the wall to a height of twenty-five feet.

Though the Hildesheim rose bush is the oldest, it is not the biggest. To Germany also pertains this distinction. The bush in the Wehrie Gardens, in Freiburg, attains a height of 115 feet. The stock is wild rose, and the graft made some thirty years ago, a tearose of the Chromatella variety.

There is an enormous Banksia rose at the Castle of Chillon on Lake Geneva, that is better known to tourists than either of these, though as a matter of fact it is exceeded in size by the one of the same variety in the Marine gardens at Toulon.

This spreads over a space eighty feet wide and fifteen feet high, and has as many as fifty thousand of its flowers in bloom at once.

CRIME AND THE WEST

Wide Prairies an Ideal Setting For Daring Deeds, Says Conan Doyle

The golden west of Canada is a great field for crime, said Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes, after his Canadian trip.

The West, with its vast prairies and mountains, was just ideal for making clean "getaways," Sir Arthur declared, and said there was need for more men in the Northwest Mounted Police, although they were doing good work. The police of the West have a problem before them such as no others have, people are pouring in, some of them the lowest type of criminals, who have made their "getaway" in coming to this country.

How People Feel

When They Have

Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only cemented together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a basin of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, has a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale [illegible], or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

MINERAL WEALTH OF PERU

The Country Has an Abundance of Silver, Gold and Copper

Peru is generally conceded to be the third richest country in the world in the matter of minerals. Silver is the most abundant of the metals and is found in every section of the republic. In many places it is found in its native state, in deposits of greatest richness. It is said that between 1630 and 1824, the Jesuit priests took twenty-seven tons of pure silver out of a single valley, while other mines yielded hundreds of millions of dollars, even under the primitive methods of mining and extraction in vogue in the country.

Gold is found in several sections of the country, although this metal was not mined to any great extent before the conquest by Pizarro, the Spanish conquerors for some reason giving all their attention to the silver mines. Therefore the gold mines from which the native Incas derived their fabulous wealth were abandoned for three centuries or more, and only within recent years has there been a revival of mining for the yellow metal. The rivers of Eastern Peru all have gold-bearing gravel beds.

Mining for copper has proved a most profitable industry in Peru, the mines of Cerro de Pasco being among the famous copper mines in the world.

The New Color

"I suppose," said the new saleswoman, "that you want a suit that will make you look attractive to your husband?" "Attractive to my husband!" echoed the shopper. "I should say not. He wouldn't know if I wore a suit ten years old. What I want is something that will make my next-door neighbor turn a pale pink green with envy."

THE WEED PROBLEM

A proper rotation and cultivation will do much to eliminate weeds, but the thrashing machine problem is not so easily solved. It is almost impossible to clean the machine of weed seeds. They stick to the screens and in every crack and corner, and will sift out all day long.

One solution of this problem is the private outfit. A small machine may be bought for $150 to $250 that will thrash from 30 to 60 bushels per hour. If electric power is available this makes an ideal outfit; even a gasoline or horsepower engine may be used with satisfactory results. But many farmers do not care to invest so much money, so we must look for some cheaper way of thrashing our seed grain. If ten or fifteen farmers in a district would club and buy a regular outfit and hire a good man to run it and do only the thrashing of those who have a share in the output, it would pay them. If these men would grow the same varieties, and keep their fields free of weeds, then the machine could go from farm to farm and grain would not be mixed with other varieties or full of weed seeds.

RARE PLANT AT OTTAWA

Only One of its Kind in Canada—Blooms Once in 150 Years

To have been in existence for over half a century, to bloom once and then wither away, is likely to be the fate of the "Agave Attenuate," in the Government greenhouse at Ottawa. The Agave is one of the rarest flowers known, and the one at Ottawa is the only one in Canada. About forty years ago, when the present greenhouses were erected on Parliament Hill, the plant was moved there. Very little was known about it, and it was tenderly cared for and curiously watched to see what it would do. The plant at last assumed its maturity, and this is likely to cause its death. The only other known specimens are in the botanical gardens in Washington, D.C. The only times that they are known to have bloomed were in 1897 and 1898.

The plant is a native of Mexico, and was discovered by plant hunters there in 1834. It is not known how the specimen came to Canada, but it is thought that it was through the agency of some of the United States plant collectors. However, it was placed in the Government greenhouses some time before 1873.

Lettuce Induces Sleep

The lettuce plant has had a reputation as a sedative from very ancient times, says "Science Siftings." The Romans were in the habit of partaking of it at the evening meal to insure peaceful slumbers. In later days many celebrated physicians prescribed it as a soothing herb, but it was not until the end of the seventeenth century that a Dr. Cox experimented extensively with the latex, or milky juice obtained by making incisions in the stem. This crude juice, when dried into a solid mass, he named lactucarium, and he, as well as other doctors, proclaimed its virtues as a substitute for opium.

Finding Metals by Spectroscope

Mineral waters are easily analyzed by means of the spectroscope, as shown by M. Jacques Bardet, and this is likely to prove one of the best methods for this work. He sends a beam of light through the water to be analyzed and thence through the spectroscope prism, in order to permit of examining the spectrum, this method revealing very minute traces of metals. He finds the most varied metals in different samples of mineral water, and even the rarest metals, such as germanium and gallium, which are very rarely found in nature.

PRINCESS MARY STILL IN THE SCHOOLROOM

Is Shy and no Book Lover But Likes Outdoor Sports

Princess Mary will attain her 17th birthday on April 26th, but Queen Mary has no intention of introducing her daughter in the world as a grown-up young lady till after she is 18. As a matter of fact the Princess looks younger than her real age, and in mind and education she is younger, for though, naturally, she has had every educational advantage she has been brought up so simply that in mind she remains somewhat undeveloped.

To a certain extent she inherits her mother's shyness and lack of geniality. Queen Mary even now will shed tears of sheer nervousness at the prospect of receiving an Ambassador and his suite, though she will converse with perfect aplomb, intelligence, and interest with a doctor at a large hospital or will present prizes in public to poor children with a charming little greeting for each recipient in the view of cheering thousands.

The Princess inherits some of the traits of her great-grandmother, Queen Victoria. She has, like her ancestors, no sense of humor, and in spite of the sensible upbringing of her parents has a considerable idea of her own importance. She is something of an autocrat among her brothers, and at Sandringham, the charming country house of the King and Queen in Norfolk, there is sometimes a good deal of sparring and an exchange of much plainness of speech.

Princess Mary does not care much for books, though she is a good linguist, having had French and German governesses from her earliest childhood. She is devoted to outdoor life, especially to riding. It is no secret that she would much like to ride astride, as so many of her friends are doing in the park, but this the Queen sternly forbids. No doubt her Majesty wisely turns her head when in the privacy of the Sandringham paddocks her daughter, springing on the back of her pony with or without a saddle—it is all one to her—tears madly up and down with her hair flying and more often than not both feet out of the stirrups.

Lumbago's Misery Ceases Every Aching Muscle Cured

JUST RUB ON OLD-TIME "NERVILINE."

Not necessary to drug inside!

That awful stiffness that makes you yelp worse that a kicked dog will be cured—cured for a certainty, and quickly, too, if you just rub on Nerviline.

Rub Nerviline right into the sore spot, rub lots of it over those tortured muscles, do this and the pain will go. You see Nerviline is thin, not oily. Therefore it sinks in, it penetrates through the tissues it gets right to those stiff, sore muscles and irritated nerves that make you dance with pain.

You'll get almost instant relief from muscle soreness, stiffness, aching joints, lameness or rheumatism by rubbing with Nerviline. It's a soothing liniment and doesn't blister, doesn't burn or even stain the skin.

It's the most harmless cure in the world for Lumbago, Back Strain or Sciatica. It takes away the ache at once and ends your misery quickly.

Now quit complaining—don't suffer another day—Nerviline, that good, soothing old-time liniment will limber you up mighty quick. Get busy to-day, the large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical, of course, the trial size costs but 25c. Any dealer anywhere can suppl Nerviline.

In Cincinnati the Loyal Order of Moose is going to give a parade and a bathing suit dance. We presume that an invitation has been sent to a certain fat man with eyeglasses and large teeth, but we agree with the New York Evening Telegraph that the person referred to wouldn't look well doing the hesitation waltz in a bathing suit.

An Example of the Simple Life

Medical literature tells of a woman in Silesia who became the proud—and busy—mother of 62 babies, all of whom lived to maturity. They came in showers, once six at a time, often four and five, only one unitarian.

There were no flats in Silesia, with children barred. This prolific mother lived in the open country, where the kiddies had room to play and to grow.

Most of the time they went barefoot. Otherwise pa mightn't have been able to foot the shoe bills.

They ate the simple fare which was obtainable from the fields and forests—brown bread, nuts, wild fruits, the flesh and eggs of domestic fowls, fish from a friendly stream and hares and partridges.

Their clothing was homespun, not fancy, but serviceable. They were not afraid to sleep outdoors.

Theirs was a happy example of the simple but bounteous life. They never saw a railroad train, a street car, an automobile or an aeroplane, and when they traveled it was by the best of ways, shanks' ponies.

But they ate well and slept well and were strong and hardy; they were not peevish and fretful and crazy for a new sensation, for they had nerves of steel.

They missed a lot of pleasures and advantages of civilization, do you say?

What, for instance ?

How much would a multi-millionaire dyspeptic give, think you, for health and strength and contentment like theirs?

How much of the high life that many of us nowadays live is really essential?

POETS CORNER

OLD ENGLAND.

Old England is really too sad ;
We must this truth own—
That it's really too bad
To shoot one another down.
But if we wish to breathe
Freedom's pure air,
Victory we must share,
Or else die in despair.

Then Old England go ahead,
Your freedom to maintain,
Let it now be said,
Freedom is your aim.
Let no foe conquer you,
Or freedom's gone.
To yourself be true ;
Fight as you've always done!

Go England and do your best
To make your guns to rattle,
You are now put to the test,
To win the world's battle.
Go England and fight!
And your good ships steer.
Fight for freedom's right,
The world will you cheer.

Go, Old England—go and win,
Fight in your good old way;
The world for you does pray.
To fight for freedom is no sin,
Go, Old England, and persevere ;
Go with all your might.
Canada will you cheer,
And help you in the fight.

Go with your fighting ships,
Go in like red hot iron,
Go blow them into bits,
Go, Old England, and preserve;
The battle must be won,
The foe is but the blight,
Then freedom comes anon.

OIL THE GREAT WEALTHMAKER

We hold over 3,000 acres, more or less, of oil leases North and South of Monarch and several of our leases are in the same range as the Monarch well.

Many companies claim to be close to Monarch but we are one of the very few who are in Range Six upon which the Monarch Well is situated. Therefore, we must be on the same anti-cline and as it is a foregone conclusion Monarch will get oil, so will we.

Fifty-Seven Feet of Oil Bearing Sands Passed Through in Monarch Well

OFFICIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN OUT BY PRESIDENT GEORGESON—WELL IS NOW DOWN OVER 1,800 FEET AND FLOW OF WET GAS HAS BEEN STRUCK IN LOWER LEVELS—GEOLOGIST DUNN IS AWAY AT PRESENT

Heavy oil showings are being found in the Monarch well, west of Olds, although the oil has not yet come in in commercial quantities.

To put the exact facts before the public, President William Georgeson and Treasurer G. W. Morfitt, of the company, this morning issued an official statement from the drillers setting forth the results.

The heaviest oil seepage has been encountered through a stratum 57 feet thick, and the well is now 1850 feet deep.

A sample of this oil baled out at 1,775 feet was brought to the city this morning and is in the office of Mr. Morfitt, Grain Exchange Building. The oil is a heavy black petroleum with the characteristic petroleum odor.

The statement issued by the officers is as follows: In the absence of Mr. Dunn, Mr. Van Alst, the head driller, reports that from the depth of 1,775 feet to 1,832 feet he went through oil bearing sands for 57 feet. Throughout there was a heavy showing of black oil in the baler. Two further showing of black wet gas were met at 1,805 feet and 1,915 feet.

The well is now down 1,850 feet. Wet gas has shown at 633 feet, 1,430 feet, 1,805 feet and 1,815 feet.

Oil sands have shown at 898 feet, (46 feet), 1,430 feet (40 feet), 1,740 feet (14 feet), and 1,775 feet (57 feet).

The well is now down 1,850 feet, and while there are good oil showings there is not as yet oil in commercial quantities.

Our stock is on the market at 50 cents a share, a Dollar par, and will be advanced without notice any day pending Monarch Well developments. It is practically a certainty that Monarch will be in oil in commercial quantities within two weeks, Our stock will jump away above par and you had better hurry if you wish to share our prosperity.

NOTE INDELICATE SAYS MISS GORDON

Defends Era Club's Refusal to Send Condolences to President Wilson

New Orleans, Aug. 19.—Miss Kate Gordon, New Orleans suffrage leader, and prominent member of the Era Club who opposed the suggestion that the Club send a letter of condolence to President Wilson, Friday set forth the reasons for this action in a statement to The Daily States. Miss Gordon declared that she was actuated solely by a sense of delicacy in the matter. She denied vehemently that she had been moved by any desire for retaliation. The statement in full is:

"New Orleans, August 14.

"To the New Orleans Public:

"Having been released by the Board of Directors of the Era Club from a silence which as a member of an executive session I was obligated to observe, I now state to the public my position in regard to the unfortunate publicity relative to the message of condolence to the president voted down in an executive session of the Era Club.

"The action taken was not as reported, instigated in a spirit of retaliation, because Mrs. Wilson was not in sympathy with the suffrage movement. The members voted against it because of a sense of propriety which dictated them not to intrude on the sanctity of private grief. In speaking against the motion I stated that I felt it was an indelicate intrusion upon the president at this time, from an organization with which the president and his wife were not even in sympathy. Had the executive character of the meeting been preserved the public would never have known that any action one way or the other had been taken. My personal opinion is it would have been an indelicacy and more an impertinence for the club to intrude itself at such a moment.

SHOOTS FARMER THEN KILLS SELF

Murderer, a Well-known Merchan Cornered by Posse Commits Suicide

Troy, Aug. 19.—Following a dispute over some land, David Eldon of Watervliet, forty years old, shot and killed Jonathan Norton, aged seventy-seven, and a wealthy farmer of Pittstown, Rensselaer county, late this afternoon. After firing the fatal shot Eldon entered his carriage and drove about a mile down the road to a place where the farmer's son was working in a field. Eldon informed the young man that he had killed his father and threatened to shoot the son.

In the meantime the farmers of the neighborhood hearing of the crime organized themselves and started in pursuit of the murderer. Eldon was still talking with Norton's son when he saw the farmers approaching. He took refuge in a field at the top of a hill and when his pursuers surrounded him he threatened to shoot the first man who approached him. He kept the farmers at bay for some time, but they closed in on him and seeing that capture was inevitable Eldon placed against his left breast the muzzle of the magazine rifle with which he had shot the farmer, and pulled the trigger with his foot. He died an hour later in a Troy hospital.

SOUP-TICKETS FOR GERMANS IN LONDON

London, Aug. 19.—Twenty-five thousand Germans have registered with the police of the London district to date. Large numbers of Germans still remain in the Provinces. The German relief committee is giving soup tickets to thousands, most of whom are forced to sleep in the park or at lodging houses. Thousands of others are living in the workhouses.

CARLETON TO BE CHARGED WITH FIRST DEGREE MURDER

Spring Green, Wis., Aug. 19.—Julian Carleton, the Cuban negro cook who murdered five members of Frank Lloyd Wright's household with a hatchet Saturday, will be charged with murder in the first degree when he is arraigned before a justice of the peace at Dodgeville, Wis., next Tuesday. If the negro pleads guilty it is planned to take him before Judge George Clemonson at Lancaster, Wis., to be sentenced at once. In the event he pleads not guilty his case will be presented to the grand jury and he may not be tried until the latter part of September.

Mrs. Carleton still is in custody and will be arraigned with her husband next Tuesday although it has not been decided on what charge.

That Carleton's victims will be increased to six is believed by physicians attending Thomas Brunker, sixty years old, a farm hand, who is suffering from a fractured skull and paralysis as the result of the negro's murderous attack.

IS THIS WHY ENGLISH BEAUTIES ARE SO FAIR?

(From London Herald)

Ever since the discovery that mercolized wax would absorb and remove a discolored complexion, its use by ladies as a substitute for bleaching creams has grown rapidly. A perfect complexion can be maintained indefinitely if this remarkable substance is used. Its beneficient cleansing, cleansing, clearing and preservative action is quickly apparent, and ladies who have been paying as high as a guinea a jar for "special bleach" from beauty specialists, soon recognize that mercolized wax outranks them all. It has become so popular that it can be obtained at all chemist shops in the British Isles. American druggists also have great demand for it, in original one-ounce packages. The favorite way of using is to apply it, like cold cream, before retiring, washing it off in the morning.

The saxolite lotion for wrinkles and the facial contour has also become extremely popular. One ounce powdered saxolite is dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this has a splendid effect in erasing wrinkles and improving contour.

SURVEY YOUR OWN FARM

Did you ever take an afternoon off and stroll over your own farm, viewing it in the impartial manner in which you would survey a neighbor's farm? Looking the farm in the face in this way is a wonderful educator and all of us can afford to do it at least once a year.

Sticking too close to hard work makes us narrow in our vision. Obvious faults are apt to escape our notice. For instance, it is easy for one of us who has plowed for 40 years around a large boulder in the middle of an otherwise clean field, to come to regard that obstruction as a necessary evil; a few pounds of blasting powder and half an hour's work would remove the obstruction and improve the field immensely. The barnyard may be very unsightly and messy to a stranger, but all right to us because we have become accustomed to seeing it that way. A gate that insists on sagging and dragging may lose us enough time and energy in a year to build half a dozen new ones to take its place, but we have become so accustomed to hauling that old gate around that it too is classed as a necessary evil.

It is wonderful how many small points in need of improvement we can find if we will only give our farm a square look in the face. Many of the most obvious faults may be remedied by half an hour of energetic work. There are few of us whose farms are so perfect that they would not be the better of an annual clean-up.

ANNIE EDNEY

Annie Edney is said to have screamed herself into a job once upon a time in London. She was looking for a position with a theatrical company, so the story goes. A consultation with the manager indicated that she would have to scream in the part assigned to her.

She "allowed" that she could scream to order in first class fashion. So a short synopsis of the play was given to her. Her husband was supposed to have dropped dead. She, seeing the figure of her loved one at her feet, then was to give a cry which would send shivers over the audience.

Miss Edney walked to the stage door, turned, and gave the requisite shriek—which drew stage hands, police, and people off the street to discover what was the matter.

She got the job!

Belgium's People Heaviest Drinkers

Belgium has the greatest number of public houses per head in the world. Whereas in Norway there is one to every 9,000 inhabitants, in Sweden one to every 5,000, in England to every 422, in the United States to every 360, in Germany to every 246, in France to every 82, Belgium has one public house to every 20 inhabitants. The drink revenue in Belgium amounts to $500,000,000, the Belgian working man being computed to spend two and a half months' wages on alcohol.

What He Noticed

A prominent Churchman in the United States, who is very fond of a joke, tells of an amusing incident in connection with an ordination ceremony. As is usual on such occasions the bishop wore a red University hood at the back of his surplice. Among the most interested of the congregation was an old darky. After the ceremony he was asked by someone how he liked the proceedings.

"I was clean taken by de preachin' of de bishop," answered the negro. "An' at the same time I felt kinder sorry for him. He ain't got no wimmin to look after him, has he?"

"Why, what makes you think that, Sam?"

"I noticed, sah, whenever de bishop turned round dat de back of his coat was bursted, an' de red undershirt was a-showin' through!"

Washday on St. Paul's Cathedral

Many sightseers stood outside St. Paul's Cathedral recently watching the operations of workmen high up at the base of the gilded cross at the top of the dome. The men were engaged in washing a year's accumulation of London's grime from the gilt. Once a year the gilt needs a thorough spring cleaning, but regilding takes place only once in a quarter of a century.

BRITISH-CANADIAN

Do you desire to make large profits on your investment in Alberta Oil Shares?

If you do you must use good judgment in the selection of the companies in which you invest.

In order that you may use this good judgment it is absolutely necessary that you investigate and analyse a company thoroughly before placing your money in its shares.

In order that you may do this in the case of the British Canadian Oils, Ltd., we hereby give you the information we have secured through our rigid investigation and analysis of said company, and in giving this information we would say that we believe it is correct in every detail.

(11) A reputable local geologist in reporting on adjoining property makes the following statement in said report:

"There is a plunging tendency in the crest of the anticline which causes its crest to sink toward the Elbow river. The crest of this dome-shaped structure seems to be in the neighborhood of Section 31, of Township 24, and Section 6 of Township 25."

(12) A reputable petroleum engineer in reply to an enquiry from us, stated that the lease held by the British Canadian Oils, Ltd., in Section 31, is situated on the most perfect anticline he has seen in Western Alberta.

(13) British Canadian shares are listed on the three Calgary exchanges, and are very active traders.

(14) The price of British Canadian shares is very low at the present time; we expect to see it go much higher.

In view of the above information secured by us, we have no hesitation whatever in advising you to at once buy the shares of the British Canadian Oils, Limited, at 15c per share, believing that you will get a square run for your money, and big profits on your investment.

We are prepared to fill your orders for British Canadian shares at 15c each, but this price is subject to raise without notice. Any new strike in the oil field, or any other exciting report might send this stock to a very high price. We would suggest that you wire us at our expense and let your remittance follow, or if you prefer, write us and enclose your remittance.

MARKETING EGGS

Co-operative Scheme Appeals to Farmers of Western Province

A movement has been started in Saskatchewan to form associations in different districts for the co-operative marketing of eggs. An attempt is being made to place this industry on a more profitable basis without increasing perceptibly the cost to the consumer. The movement has the approval of the Provincial Government but beyond supervising the preliminary work of the organization, its part in the movement is not active. The constitution of the associations and their governing by-laws have been drafted by the director of the co-operative organization, Mr. W. W. Thomson, and forwarded to the various points where organizations are proposed. According to the text of the proposed constitution the object of the association is "to increase the profits of the poultry-raisers by the co-operative marketing of strictly fresh eggs." Any poultry-raiser desirous of making use of the marketing facilities may become a member of the association upon the payment of the admittance fee. The directors of the association will appoint a secretary-treasurer and business manager, who will have charge of the collection and sale of all eggs, and will apportion the returns among the members according to the quantity received.

DETECTIVE METHODS VARY

How English and French Authorities Do Their Work

In France the police do not hesitate to arrest a half a dozen people one after the other, in the hope of finding the right man among them. In England the police, knowing what public opinion is in the matter, hesitate to arrest anyone without they have a certain amount of evidence to justify the arrest.

In connection with many of the crimes which so far as the public are concerned [illegible] and anxious consultations have been held by the chief authorities before it has been decided not to act on strong suspicion in making an arrest. The English police authorities have always been disinclined to charge a person against whom they are not able to bring evidence which would be likely to satisfy a jury of the prisoner's guilt.

The French police have not the same restraining influence. They can go on arresting and leave it to the investigating magistrate to interview the prisoner, badger the prisoner, examine and cross-examine the prisoner, denounce the prisoner, confront the prisoner with witnesses, inquire into his past life and his present associations, and generally to "turn him inside out" before deciding.

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascertained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1380 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

Copper is one of the world's chief necessities, and the demand for it is constantly increasing. Growth of the electrical industry largely accounts for this. Telegraph and Telephone Wire—Trolley Wire—Trolley Wheels and the multitude of other Electrical Machines and Parts—Power Transmission Wire and the use of the metal in various valuable Alloys—these are some of the places where copper is consumed, and while its production is enormous it is used about as rapidly as it can be mined and made ready. THIS IS WHY OWNERSHIP IN A COPPER MINE IS ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY SOURCES OF INCOME POSSIBLE TO IMAGINE.

TIME TO START

Naturally the time to secure an interest in any sort of enterprise is at the start, because it is then that money for development and equipment is needed and this is, of course, the reason why shares in the project are released! When these necessities are provided for the Opportunity passes.

For years we have been spending time, effort and money in getting together one of the largest known copper deposits, and we now own and control thousands of acres of land, covering veins of copper, ore carrying gold and silver values, extensive veins of coal, iron and lime.

The geology is so well defined as to make identifications of size and location of the copper bearing veins a perfect definite matter. In addition to this the estate has been thoroughly prospected by some 4,000 feet of work, there being more than 100 shafts, pits, cuts and tunnels, every one of which shows copper in paying quantities. The dumps of these openings run from 2 to 8 per cent in copper metal.

Facilities for economically winning the copper from its ores are remarkably fine. In the company's own ground are five known coal beds, insuring a perpetual supply of cheap fuel, easily accessible and located within a very short distance of the site chosen for its furnaces. Water and timber are also abundant and easy of access.

One of Colorado's most eminent mining engineers, after thoroughly examining this property, states in his report that the net profits resulting from operation of this property should range from $250,000 to $1,000,000 each year.

There is no uncertainty, no guesswork, about this project. Applied to it, a definite cause will inevitably produce an equally definite effect. Equipment for mining these immense bodies of ore and reducing the metal in them to bullion means dividends—it can't mean anything else—and it is to provide this equipment and the funds required for its installation and the preliminary operating expenses of the estate that an interest in the project is offered to you.

It is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to join in a well planned, conservative, and exceptionally profitable business undertaking. The foundations are laid, the property is acquired and the next step—providing the equipment—is now being taken. So soon as this is accomplished your chance to secure a share in the enterprise will be gone.

"IT IS BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN SORRY"—ACT NOW!

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

300 Letters on Grain of Wheat

Perhaps the greatest feat of microscopic engraving was accomplished by a Jewish farmer in Alberta, who prepared an address of welcome to the Duke of Connaught. The address was inscribed in Hebrew on a grain of wheat and contained no fewer than 300 letters. So fine was the lettering that a microscope was necessary to read the inscription with any ease.

CEDER POLES

One Hundred and Ninety Year Old Tree Decays in Fourteen Years

A purchase of nearly 800,000 poles a year means the destruction of even a greater number of whole trees. While the greater number of these trees are small, under 30 feet in length and eight inches in diameter, each one represents a potential timber tree. In cutting timber for poles there are several sources of waste, including damage to remaining timber, cutting to specification and long butting to avoid flares and hollow butts. While this waste is partly necessary, careful and scientific utilization would effect a considerable saving before the poles were set in place.

The average cedar pole is cut from a tree about 190 years old, and if put in place, untreated by any chemical preservative, it will decay and become useless within 14 years. It is evident from these facts that the supply of cedar poles is doomed to speedy destruction. A telephone pole is not subjected to mechanical wear or excessive strain of any sort, and practically never wears out. It invariably decays long before the end of its mechanical life. Under these conditions some sort of preservative treatment is a self-evident necessity. Up to the present time in Canada the cheapness of poles and the cost of the treatment have prevented pole-line builders from using any preservatives. Practically all the poles set in Canada are untreated and the annual replacements approximate 600,000. If all the poles used in Canada were treated, a saving of 264,000 poles would be made each year, which is equivalent to a saving of 1,584,000 board feet of timber.

Spruce, jack pine, lodgepole pin and Western yellow pine are all fairly good pole-timbers as far as taper, height, strength and weight are concerned, but they are not durable if used in the untreated state. There are two methods of creosote or tar-oil treatment that are specially adapted to poles and can be easily and cheaply applied.

WANT MILLION FARMERS

Peace River District Has Room For All

"The Peace River country" is really a very indefinite term applied to the enormous territory within the basin of the Peace River, where there is such a diversity of natural characteristics that it is impossible to give any description which will apply accurately, or even approximately to all parts of it. From the confluence of the Finlay and Parsnip rivers, west of the Rocky Mountains, to where it empties into the Slave River, near Lake Athabasca, is about 600 miles in a direct line but about 1,000 miles as the river flows, and approximately 100,000,000 acres of arable land are drained by this mighty river and its tributaries, including the North and the South Pines and the Halfway rivers. Of this area at least 60,000,000 acres are park land or open prairie and 40,000,000 acres are covered with heavy timber. There is room for a million farmers. There is no longer any question as to the agricultural possibilities of that vast pampas. It has already passed the experimental stage, for it has been proven by actual demonstration that the climate is admirably adapted to the maturing of the entire range of farm products of the temperate zones; and, further, that the grains attain a maturity and quality there which are not excelled anywhere else in the known world. The hard varieties of spring wheat grown there show a yield and weight, and also milling qualities in advance of that produced on the prairies of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, which are now recognised as the producers of the standard wheat of the world. And in those great stretches of natural meadows the pioneer meets with little difficulty in preparation of his land, as it is possible for him to begin breaking the sod and actual farm operations during the first season in the country. All that is lacking now is transportation, and this problem is being solved as quickly as steel can be laid by two or three different railroads, which are racing for the choicest territory.

ROTATION OF CROPS

Fertility is Best Maintained by Varied Crops

In discussing rotation of crops a writer in the Journal of the Board of Agriculture points out the fact that left to itself without change land in course of time gathers a fresh stock of fertility, but seeing that in many cases land in the beginning is exhausted, crop rotation must be followed in order to maintain fertility and to bring worn-out soil up to a productive standard. The writer points out that the main reason for growing a series of crops is that the requirements of the various classes of crops grown on the farm vary greatly in their capacity to extract and utilise the various materials known as plant food. Some crops require much of certain classes of this, while others demand large quantities of food of another class. Some are shallow-rooted some are deep-rooted and some occupy the land for a much longer period than others, that is, they have a longer growing season. All these things must be taken into consideration when working out a rotation. No matter how rich the land is in the beginning continuous cropping with one kind of crop sooner or later exhausts certain elements of plant food which the crop grown requires in largest quantities.

Owl in Engine Cab

While the driver of the "Flying Scotsman" from Euston to Carlisle was driving his train at sixty miles an hour near Leighton, Cheshire, the look-out window on his engine was suddenly smashed. Pieces of broken glass flew in all directions, and a portion struck and cut the driver under the eye. Lying at his feet the driver found an owl, dead.

DR. ALBERTA READ

Stale eggs are Dr. Alberta E. Read's specialty; her reputation as a chemist rests on stale eggs, and it is to her ability to keep stale eggs out of the United States housewife's pantry that she owes her unusual position.

As an expert chemist in the Government bureau of chemistry, it is Dr. Read's business to examine the frozen and dried eggs submitted to the bureau for inspection under the interstate commerce law and to see that all the "stored" egg product is pure and wholesome when given to the consumer. By applying chemical tests, she can tell for a certainty the age and "previous condition" of the eggs under inspection.

A Chicken Coop

A combination two-in-one poultry coop for setting hens and chickens is 6 feet long, 3 feet deep and is divided into four compartments by removable partitions. At the back of each compartment is a nest, at the front is a sliding door which opens into a detachable runway. The front of the little house is three feet high and has an opening in the upper half, lengthwise covered with wire screen and closed by a hinged door at the top. Four hens are set in this coop at one time. As soon as the chicks come, two of the partitions are taken out and one hen given both hatchings, while the other hen is put to more profitable work. When the chicks are ready to do without the hen, the hens are taken out, the other two partitions removed and perches put in for the chicks to roost on. The runways in front are then taken away also.

ASCOT REALLY ROYAL

The King Could Take Half the Receipts But It Goes for Upkeep

It was an interesting story which Mr. Upjohn, K.C., told a Select Committee of the House of Lords when they had before them the Ascot Authority Bill, promoted by Lord Churchill, as the King's representative, and Sir William Carington, Keeper of the Privy Purse, for the purpose of forming one legal authority connected with Ascot Racecourse.

Mr. Upjohn said the objects of the Bill were to form one authority for the management of Ascot races and to vest in that one authority all the property until now vested in two different bodies.

Private race meetings were originally held in the King's Park, and in those days the races were under the management of the Master of the Buckhounds. One reason for the bill was that the office of Master of the Buckhounds was abolished in 1902, and since that time his place had been filled by Lord Churchill, as the King's representative, and Sir William Carington.

Another reason why it was necessary to put things on a more legal footing was that from time to time leases had been granted by the King. Ascot Heath was a Royal domain. With one exception—the grandstand—all the properties had been brought together and were held by Lord Churchill and Sir William Carington.

Colonel Bulkeley, the senior trustee, said it was desirable that there should be some body which would act as a buffer between the King and the people, because that body would prevent any evil-minded person from taking the King's name in a wrong way.

Mr. Reginald Coventry agreed that such an arrangement would prevent any suggestions that the King was making money out of horse-racing. The King was entitled to half the takings

CLEARS THE HEAD, OPENS THE NOSTRILS
& STOPS SNEEZING, CURES CATARRH

You Get Instant Relief by Inhaling the Soothing Vapor "Catarrhozone."

Catarrh is bound to come with this weather. Slight colds become more offensive and sickening every day. The inflammation extends further into the head. Soon the ears begin to buzz and ring. The head aches, the eyes pain dreadfully, the nose gets plugged up and this forces the patient to breathe through the mouth. Vile filthy secretions are forced back into the throat, requiring a great deal of coughing to keep the air passages free. Finally, this foul matter finds its way into the stomach, causing Dyspepsia and general ill-health. By this time the patient has SYSTEMATIC CATARRH, which saps strength, depletes the vital energies till consumption is the unhappy result.

There isn't the slightest use in trying to cure this condition with tablets, snuff or spray. Such treatments are wholly inadequate. You must employ Catarrhozone the only remedy that possesses power to kill the germs of Catarrh. The healing vapor of Catarrhozone is carried by the air you breathe to the most minute cells of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. Its antiseptic medication goes everywhere that air can go. No case is too chronic, no person too old—everybody that has catarrh of any kind can be cured by this grand treatment which is endorsed by thousands of physicians throughout America, who say: "The only way to permanently get rid of Catarrh is to use Catarrhozone."

Canadian Manufacturers Will Do Everything Possible to Help Country

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—Mr. E. G. Henderson, of Windsor, Ont., president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, who is in Ottawa to see the Government in connection with business of interest to all members of the association, said to-day that every Canadian manufacturer is going to do everything possible to keep as many as possible in employment during the time the war is in progress.

"I know that every manufacturer throughout the Dominion will do everything possible to keep as many of his employees working during the present crisis," said Mr. Henderson. "Our members are going to do this even if it means a sacrifice on their part. It is the duty of manufacturers to their country. In many cases it may not be possible to keep men employed on full time all along, but married men will be given the most consideration. The best way the general public can assist the manufacturers to keep their men employed is to buy Canadian-made goods as much as possible."

Mr. Robert Hobson, president of the Hamilton Steel and Iron Company, who is also in the city, says that his firm is prepared to sell goods at a little below cost if necessary so that the purchase of their products will be made attractive. He looks for an improvement in the steel and iron business in Canada owing to the production in Germany and other European countries being stopped to a large extent.

BIG GERMAN LOSSES OFFICIALLY ADMITTED

2,000,000 Germans are Now in the Field, and Mobilization Continues—British Cruiser Chases German Ship to Port—British Forces Engaged With the Enemy

Rotterdam, Aug. 20.—The casualty list of the German army, published in The Cologne Gazette, gives in detail the losses of the Germans up to August 18. They total about 1,500 dead, and seven thousand at least wounded. The list as printed gives the name of each individual killed or wounded.

According to another German newspaper, the German fleet not now blockading Russian ports, is at Kiel and in Heligoland. About 2,000,000 Germans are now in the field, but mobilization continues. The railroads in the west are carrying nothing but soldiers and supplies. Many Austrian troops are on their way to France, according to this newspaper.

FRENCH TROOPS IN MUELHAUSEN

Paris, Aug. 20.—The re-occupation of Muelhausen, Alsace, by French troops, is announced officially here to-day.

The capture of Muelhausen was preceded by a severe battle, during which the French troops took one of the suburbs at the point of the bayonet. They also took, as the result of their victory, six German cannon and six ammunition wagons.

London, Aug. 20.—It is announced here to-day that the British forces sent to the help of the French troops, are engaged with the enemy.

London, Aug. 20.—Louvain, the headquarters of the Belgian troops, has been captured by the Germans. And King Albert's troops are falling back before the steady advance of the "War Machine", perfected by Emperor William.

GERMAN LOSSES ENORMOUS

It is expected that Brussels will be occupied within a few hours by the Germans. A despatch from Paris to-day said it was persistently rumored there that the Germans had entered the city already, but early despatches from the Belgian capital made no mention of this.

A Central News despatch from Brussels says that Germans suffered heavy losses before they captured Louvain.

"When the Germans brought their artillery into play in front of Louvain," says the correspondent, "the Belgian troops decided to evacuate the place in order to save the beautiful, historic city from destruction. Therefore they took up strong positions on the road to Brussels.

SWEPT DOWN LIKE NINEPINS

"The German losses around Louvain were terrible. The Germans persisted in advancing in close formation, whereupon the Belgian machine guns swept them down like ninepins."

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 20.—The British cruiser Bristol to-day exchanged shots with the German cruiser Karlsruhe. The Bristol, which was convoying a supply ship, hit the German vessel at least three times before the Germans could escape.

AUSTRIAN WARSHIP CAPTURED BY ALLIES

Rome Aug. 20.—Signor Cicotti a member of the Italian House of Deputies, telegraphed here today following his arrival on the east coast from Dalmatia that a torpedo boat and an Austrian yacht had been sunk near Sebenico, and that the warships of the of the allies had captured four vessels. The Austrian fleet was in three divisions, one at Pola, the second at Sebenico, and the third at Ragusa.

LOCAL VOLUNTEERS GIVEN LOYAL SEND-OFF

Three Bands And 57th Regt. Escort the Dragoons To the Station

The first local men leaving direct for Valcartier departed last evening at about 8.30, when the 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons, who have volunteered as artillerymen, boarded the special C. P. R. train, running from London to the scene of mobilization.

Some twenty-five men, many of whom are from this city, composed the contingent. The officers in charge are Col. C. H. Rogers; Major A. E. Loughlin, of Bowmanville; Capt. G. G. Greer; Lieut. R. W. F. Jones, Lt. T. D. Johnston, Lt. R. B. Brook, Lt. E. Hughes.

In marked contrast to the departure of the Battery men earlier in the week, was the send off given to the boys who departed last night. George street on both sides was lined with patriotic citizens and the cheering thrilled the hearts of everyone and inspired in the soldiers leaving for the overseas service, a spirit that is bound to buoy them up in many a dark hour to come. The procession from the Armouries to the station was headed by three local bands, the Temple band, the 57th Regimental and the Bugle band. The Dragoons were accompanied by the 57th Regt., which turned out in force to escort their comrades to the train. The scene at the station was an enthusiastic one, when thousands of people waited to see the train pull out.

The second company of Battery volunteers left last evening for Cobourg via G. T. R., and were given a royal send off also, the bands heading the parade.

BELGIAN RETREAT IS BUT A STRATEGY

But General German Advance Seems in Progress all Along the Front—Small German Detachments Encountered Even in Suburbs of Antwerp

An entire change in the plan of campaign may be brought about by the finding of an opening to the north by the German armies in Belgium. This was admitted in an official communication from Brussels to-day, which said the Germans "had gained much ground on both banks of the Meuse, and are in contact with the allies." It adds that "the Belgians, having done all that could be expected by holding the invaders in check for fifteen days, their strategy will now be merged into the general plan of the allied armies." It concludes with the significant sentence that "the retrograde movement does not mean defeat. The Germans seem to be moving in the direction of Antwerp. Any Belgian backward movement in that direction may therefore be explained as strategic manoeuvring, which points to an early discomfiture of the enemy." The Belgians have been operating hitherto by themselves in checking the Germans while the French and British were making preparations to meet the advancing German forces.

NO REAL NEWS OF BRUSSELS

Rumors that Brussels has fallen into the hands of the Germans were persistently current in Paris, but no confirmation could be obtained. The Belgian capital was known certainly to be threatened by daring German cavalry, who had reached the forest of Soignels, flanking the city. All the approaching roads had been barricaded and entrenched. Four of the Brussels hospitals are filled with wounded soldiers.

WHAT OF TOKIO ULTIMATUM?

Reports in Brussels asserted a battle had occurred near Charleroi, in which the Germans were supposed to have suffered a loss of 6,000 killed but this report was not confirmed by any official source.

Reports were current in many European quarters to-day that Germany had decided not to comply with Japan's ultimatum calling for the German evacuation of Kiao-Chow and the abandonment of the Eastern seas by German warships. Holland is said to feel uneasiness in regard to her East Indian colonies in view of Japan's attitude.

Cumbinnen, a German town 20 miles from the Russian frontier, has been captured by the Russians who, according to Russian official advice captured twelve German field guns and took many prisoners.

"IMPORTANT EVENTS" OCCURRING

News of military movements issued by the official bureaus, become more brief as the great masses of Germans and Austrians approach the opposing forces of the Belgians, French and British, and indications of the positions occupied are entirely suppressed. This morning's note sent out by the French War Office just mentions that "important events are occurring in Belgium," and adds that there is nothing new along the front in Alsace-Lorraine.

French official advices announce the rapid progress of the French column invading Lorraine in the direction of Metz.

Two sons of Emperor William—Princes Eitel Friedrich and August William—are said to have passed through Liege on the way to the front.

ALLIES PREPARED TRAP FOR ENEMY

Gap in Defensive Army Left and German Troops Marched Through

London, Aug. 20.—The French line from Namur to Dinant and south to Givet, in France, is intact. The German attack not only failed, but the French in force with immensely strong reinforcements behind and still coming up from France, have crossed the Meuse and are steadily pushing back the right wing of the army of the Moselle and part of the centre This news allowed to come through from Brussels by the censor, shows that the German effort to make headway through the ardennes region has so far met with no success, and that the situation is hourly growing more unfavourable to the invaders and more favorable to the allies.

Fell Into Ambush

The Germans have allowed a gap to pass in on the north of Namur. They stepped in the trap. They got as far as Gembloux. Meanwhile the allies have been taking possession of a vast semi-circle from Diest to Namur, arriving by Quatre Bras and Wavre. They have been choosing their battleground. It is not Waterloo this time That place is too close to possible distractions in Brussels, but it is on a splendid field. It is broken ground, veiling the allies strength from the enemy.

Yesterday the long line of troops on the left bank of the Meuse between Namur and Dinant, was drawn gradually in, stiffening up as they came it is stated. The faces of fields and low hills were alive with moving troops.

ONE HEART AND ONE MIND IN CANADA UNITED STAND WITH MOTHER COUNTRY

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—The two parties in the house of Commons joined yesterday in a message of loyal devotion to the motherland, of confidence in the justice of her cause, and of determination to enter upon the Empire's war with every resource and to the limit of any sacrifice. It was a splendid demonstration of the unity of the Canadian people as citizens of the Empire.

WHOLE-HEARTED ENTHUSIASM

The spectacle was presented by two parties but lately engaged in bitter and prolonged political conflict applauding speakers on opposite sides of the house. Sir Robert Borden contributed to the applause with which the speech of the Opposition leader was received, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier in turn joined in the ovation which followed the declaration of the Prime Minister, that whatever sacrifices might be entailed, Canada would not shrink from them.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier on arising to speak, was received with an enthusiasm that forced the Liberal leader to stand several moments are the unrestrained cheering had spent itself.

A UNITED CANADA

Sir Wilfrid said so long as there is danger at the front a united Canada stands with the Mother country.

"Long we have enjoyed the benefits of our British citizenship," he said. "To-day it is our duty and our privilege to accept its responsibilities, yes and its sacrifices. We have long said that when Great Britain was at war we were at war; to-day we realise that Great Britain is at war, and that Canada is at war also. There is but one heart and one mind in Canada. We must assist the Motherland to the utmost of our ability."

NO QUARREL WITH GERMAN PEOPLE

Sir Frederick Borden was received with an enthusiasm that momentarily took the house by storm, and it was several moments before the wave of intense enthusiasm spent its force again. He said, that Britain and her people had absolutely no quarrel with the German people, but with that Kaiser's military autocracy. The Prime Minister's address contained an important announcement not hitherto made public. This was that in addition to the gift of one million bags of flour to the people of Great Britain, Canada has offered to the French nation a hospital, fully equipped, with provision for 50 patients. to be situated in Paris or elsewhere, and maintained by the Dominion of Canada.

Sir Robert said he had listened with interest and admiration to the patriotic speech of the leader of the Opposition. He was convinced that no Government ever with whole hearted earnestness sought to keep the peace of the world and the peace of this Empire than did His Majesty's Government. (Loud cheers). And he thought it was the deliberate intention of the Government of Germany, formed many years ago, to violate the neutrality of Belgium in case war should break out with France.

"The men who go to the front from Canada," said Sir Robert, "will go as free men by voluntary enlistment, as free men in a free country."

"From provinces, from individuals gifts have come great and small, all showing the intense eagerness of the people of Canada and the Provinces to associate themselves in this great issue with the Dominion as a whole, and with all the other Dominions of the Empire."

Weighing 6 lbs. 7 ozs., Mr. T. Snelgrove caught a golden carp whilst fishing in the mill pond at Addlestone, Surrey.

SHIPPING BILL PASSES SENATE IN FIRST FORM

Conference Report Defeated Because of Opposition to Admission of Foreign-Built Vessels to Coastwise Trade

Washington, Aug. 20.—Congress to-day passed the emergency shipping bill which will authorize the President to admit foreign-built ships to American registry so that commercial fleets may sail the seas under protection of the American flag while belligerents of Europe are at war and scouring the oceans for prizes. President Wilson will sign the bill tomorrow.

Culmination of the effort to enact this legislation followed repudiation by the Senate of the conference report on the measure, which previously had been radically amended in the Senate. As it goes to the President the bill is the same as it passed the House more than a week ago.

The conference report met defeat in the Senate by a vote of 40 to 20, because of determined opposition to the provision which would have admitted to the American coastwise trade all foreign-built vessels taking American register within two years.

Twenty Democrats and 20 Republicans voted to reject the report, which was submitted and championed by Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the inter-oceanic canals committee. Seventeen Democrats, Senators Borah, and Jones, Republicans, and Senator Poindexter, Progressive, voted for it. Senator O'Gorman arraigned the opposing Democrats, declaring that they were championing an "offensive monopoly," and borrowing Republican arguments in favor of un-American principles of protection.

A safe, reliable home treatment for the quick removal of superfluous hairs from your face or neck is as follows: Mix a stiff paste with some water and powdered delatone, apply to objectionable hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This simple treatment is unfailing and no pain or inconvenience attends its use, but to avoid disappointment be certain you get genuine delatone.

TELLS OF WAR'S TOLL AT DIEST

Correspondent Says German Soldiers Fought Valiantly

London, Aug. 19.—A trip over the battlefield of Diest, Belgium, is described by the Brussels correspondent of the Daily News. He says:

"I remember best a brown stretch of harrowed ground, half a furlong in length, which is the grave of 1,200 Germans who fell in the fighting of Wednesday. All over the field are other graves, some of Germans, some of Belgians and some of horses.

"When I reached the place peasants with long spades were still engaged in the work of burial. The battleground is about three miles long with the village of Haelen at one end. The village is harshly marred. Its houses are pierced with bullet holes. Hardly a pane of glass remains. The church spire is tumbled over and the town clock is wrenched from its place.

"As I passed across the battleground a German biplane swept by like a carrion crow, seeking other victims. Later in the day I visited the Bruges prison, where 400 Germans are held. I never before saw men sleep as these men did. They lay like dogs after seven days and nights of almost constant duty on the field of battle. These prisoners are no cowards. They surrendered only when no other course was possible. They were victims of the German military system, which drills men out of all independence."

GERMAN ARMIES ARE PUT ON DEFENSIVE: GERMAN SEABORNE COMMERCE PARALYZED

LURE OF BIG CITY CALLS YOUTH

Immigration Authorities at Niagara Prevent Trip

Niagara Falls, Aug. 18.—Douglas McGregor, a fifteen-year-old lad from Woodstock, Ont., was turned back there last night by immigration officials when he attempted to cross the border. He was placed in charge of the immigration authorities at Niagara Falls, Ont., locked up in the police headquarters and an investigation made by the Canadian officials.

It was found that McGregor was in charge of the Woodstock Children's Humane society. He had $10 in his pocket and stated that he was on his way to New York. Among his effects when immigration authorities searched him was found a note to his mother in which McGregor stated he had committed suicide by going over the falls and that search for his body would be fruitless.

McGregor declared that he did not intend to take his life, that his reason for penning the note to his mother was to prevent "a search which might detain him upon his journey to New York. Evidently McGregor did not count upon the immigration authorities when planning his trip.

An officer came here from Woodstock to-day and took McGregor back with him.

DUKE TO VISIT CAMP BUT NOT LIVE THERE

His Royal Highness Has Already Seen Val Cartier

Ottawa, August 20.—Rumors having got into circulation that His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught would not visit the Val Cartier camp as announced. Mr. Arthur Sladen, private secretary to His Royal Highness, announced to-day that the Governor-General would make a series of visits to the camp. The Duke has already visited Val Cartier, and has taken a warm interest in what is going on there. The statement to the effect that His Royal Highness would take up a residence at St. Joseph's Lake Hotel near the camp, was denied by Mr. Sladen.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The British Embassy here to-day received from its foreign office a summary of the naval and and military situation to date.

Mr Colville Barclay, the charge, sent a copy to Secretary Bryan. It follows:

Since the declaration of war, the fleet has been responsible for the safety of the expeditionary force which completed its disembarkation in france on August 18, which was effected in perfect order and without a casualty.

The work of the navy in the Atlantic and elsewhere in safeguarding the trade routes is best exemplified by the fact that at Lloyds yesterday the war risk rate fell to 40 shillings per cent, for almost any voyage of British vessels, whereas the rates to insure freights of corn, paid by steamers from the United States to a British port, is 30 shillings per cent.

The German fleet outside the Baltic is confined to harbors. English commerce is almost normal. German sea-borne commerce is paralyzed.

The only casualty is the loss of the light cruiser Amphion, blown up by a mine after having sunk the German mine layer Koenigin Luise. One German submarine has been sunk in the North Sea.

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES

The military position is as follows:

The German forces at present extend from north of neighborhood of Basle through Liege to a point in Belgium to the east of Antwerp and near the Dutch frontier. Outstanding features in the operations up to the present has been delay caused to the contemplated German offensive movement across the Meuse by the defence of Liege, where the forts are still intact.

It has permitted the orderly mobilization and concentrating of the French army and the British expeditionary force. German troops have now crossed the Meuse and below Liege and are gaining some ground slowly westward, but their advance cavalry has been continually checked by the Belgians.

In the south where the German armies are apparently on the defensive, the French are advancing on a long line into Alsace and Lorraine, a great extent of which they now occupy after driving back in several engagements the troops opposed to them.

"THAT BERLIN BULLY"

A French paper, in referring to the war policy of the Kaiser, described him as "mad." Frankly his latest action in forcing the whole of Europe into an awful war leads one to agree with the French journalist. The Kaiser while posing as the apostle of Peace, has always been hankering after war. Year after year his chief aim has been to build up a huge, highly-trained army and a navy strong enough to challenge England's supremacy on the sea. He is, in short, a fanatic—hypocrite. As Carlyle said of Napoleon:

> "An element of blamable ambition shows itself, from the first, in this man; gets the victory over him at last, and involves him and his work in ruin."

Right through the piece he has been playing his cards with a view to humbling England, though he has always professed great personal friendship for his English cousins. For years past Britain has quietly put up with a good deal of indirect arrogancy on the part of Germany. The first occasion on which the Kaiser's true feelings towards us came to the top was at the time of the Jameson Raid, when he sent his famous telegram to the late President Kruger. Then, during the Boer war he and his people aided the South African Republic in the same indirect way. They, however, lied to the Boers, who believed that Germany would, once war had been declared, step in and help them. The result of their false policy is that to-day the Boer detests the German and all his works.

The Kaiser has been termed the modern Napoleon—what an insult to the memory of a brave, though misguided, man! Whatever the faults of France's great hero, he was led on to his tragic fate by a supreme belief in his mission. The Kaiser William is no hero. He is a mere bully, as witness his treatment of Belgium, and his end will be that of all bullies. He will sink into vacuity, there to end his days miserably. A hundred years ago Napoleon found that the world was not disposed to be trodden down under-foot, so the Kaiser will realise that the same spirit exists to-day, and that England will play the same part in the tragedy as she did then.

INDIANS AND FORESTS

The Red Men Are Being Enlisted a Fire Rangers

The Indian has frequently—and not always unjustly—been accused of criminal carelessness with fire, and to the ancestral habit of setting out fires in order to improve grazing for buffalo has even been ascribed the cause of the prairies, on which trees are once more being grown. But owing to the precept and example of Dominion fire-wardens this ingrained carelessness has—in northern Manitoba, at least—been supplanted by an enthusiasm for forest conservation. Several hundred Indians in the district promised to observe every precaution to prevent forest fires, and, as the Chief Fire Ranger writes, "The fact of no fires the next summer is proof positive that the majority of them faithfully kept their pledge." During the course of a few months sixty-three Indians voluntarily visited the Chief's headquarters to discuss the plans of the Forestry Branch in the matter of conserving the remaining forests in Western Canada.

Many of these Indians are sufficiently well educated to serve as fire rangers, and, following its policy of obtaining the best men possible for this work, the Dominion Government has enlisted quite a number of Indians in the fire ranging service, for which their knowledge of the country and their enthusiasm for the work make them admirably adapted. Several towers have been established, enabling rangers to scan at one glance several hundred square miles of country. Wireless telegraphy has also been brought into use and from The Pas and Fort Churchill it is now possible for the rangers in these remote regions to communicate almost instantly with headquarters.

MIDGETS AND DWARFS

They Simply Are Slow in Developing and Remain Childlike

Professor Hastings Gilford delivered an interesting lecture on "Infantilism" at the Royal College of Surgeons in London recently. He pointed out that many so-called dwarfs or midgets are not in reality the result of a stoppage of growth, but rather of a protracted delay of development, so that they remain infants all their lives. And when they grow old, as they often do, their infantile characteristics still persist, in spite of their wizened appearance.

So extraordinary is their slowness in passing through the childish stage that in one case Professor Gilford found it took twenty years for one of these little people to grow as much as an ordinary child grows in five years. Growth goes on until well over thirty, and at the end of that time the little "man" may be no bigger than a child of six. One case was mentioned in which one of these "infantilists" passed as a child until nearly thirty years, having no difficulty in travelling on the railway with a half-ticket. Another, a boy of fourteen, could pass as a baby in arms, and took the leading role in one of the London theatres, acting alternately as a baby and as a diminutive "man about town," with great intelligence and ability.

"It is this kind of complaint, for such is its nature, that accounts for the midgets," continued the professor. "They seem to be intelligent and captivating little people, their intelligence being of the childish pattern, such as might be expected of young children who gather years of experience. They never seem to be spoiled, nor even to be embarrassed by the attentions they receive from the public, but show quaint childish traits and a charming naiveté, which makes them great favorites with those who have dealings with them."

Long Street Names

The Parisian record for long street names is the Rue des Prêtres-Saint Germain-l'Auxerrois, which is something of a mouthful, but is equalled by a thoroughfare in Brussels rejoicing in the name of the Rue de la Montagne aux Herbes-Potagères. In the environs of the Belgian capital there is even more of a tongue twister, the Ongeschildezilverenockernootjestraat, which may be rendered as the street of the little unpicked silver nut.

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascertained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1380 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

Copper is one of the world's chief necessities, and the demand for it is constantly increasing. Growth of the electrical industry largely accounts for this. Telegraph and Telephone Wire—Trolley Wire—Trolley Wheels and the multitude of other Electrical Machines and Parts—Power Transmission Wire and the use of the metal in various valuable Alloys—these are some of the places where copper is consumed, and while its production is enormous it is used about as rapidly as it can be mined and made ready. THIS IS WHY OWNERSHIP IN A COPPER MINE IS ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY SOURCES OF INCOME POSSIBLE TO IMAGINE.

TIME TO START

Naturally the time to secure an interest in any sort of enterprise is at the start, because it is then that money for development and equipment is needed and this is, of course, the reason why shares in the project are released! When these necessities are provided for the Opportunity passes.

For years we have been spending time, effort and money in getting together one of the largest known copper deposits, and we now own and control thousands of acres of land, covering veins of copper, ore carrying gold and silver values, extensive veins of coal, iron and lime.

The geology is so well defined as to make identifications of size and location of the copper bearing veins a perfect definite matter. In addition to this the estate has been thoroughly prospected by some 4,000 feet of work, there being more than 100 shafts, pits, cuts and tunnels, every one of which shows copper in paying quantities. The dumps of these openings run from 2 to 8 per cent in copper metal.

Facilities for economically winning the copper from its ores are remarkably fine. In the company's own ground are five known coal beds, insuring a perpetual supply of cheap fuel, easily accessible and located within a very short distance of the site chosen for its furnaces. Water and timber are also abundant and easy of access.

One of Colorado's most eminent mining engineers, after thoroughly examining this property, states in his report that the net profits resulting from operation of this property should range from $250,000 to $1,000,000 each year.

There is no uncertainty, no guesswork, about this project. Applied to it, a definite cause will inevitably produce an equally definite effect. Equipment for mining these immense bodies of ore and reducing the metal in them to bullion means dividends—it can't mean anything else—and it is to provide this equipment and the funds required for its installation and the preliminary operating expenses of the estate that an interest in the project is offered to you.

It is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to join in a well planned, conservative, and exceptionally profitable business undertaking. The foundations are laid, the property is acquired and the next step—providing the equipment—is now being taken. So soon as this is accomplished your chance to secure a share in the enterprise will be gone.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. FACTS ABOUT BEES

Never go More Than Two Miles From Their Hives

Bees never travel very far from their hives. The farthest they ever go is about two miles and then they never get mixed with another colony, and can always find their own way home.

The keeping of bees takes but little space. The beehive is about two feet square and enough room has to be left to allow of the owner being able to walk comfortably around it and not knock against the next hive.

Bees are hatched out from April to September. The early comers have but a short time to live. No sooner are they hatched than they begin to work, and overwork ends their life in 21 days.

Great Strength Developed in Fingers of Famous Players

The amount of power expended on playing on a piano has recently been figured out in a way which, if not altogether accurate, is at least interesting. Commenting on the statement that it already requires more force to sound a note gently on this instrument than it does to lift the lid of a kettle, it is easy to verify it if one takes a small handful of coins and piles them on a key of the piano.

When a sufficient quantity is piled on to make a note sound they may be weighed, and the figures will be found to be true. If the pianist is playing fortissimo, a much greater force is needed. At times the force of six pounds is thrown upon a single key to produce a solitary effect. With chords the force is generally spread over the various notes sounded simultaneously, though a greater output of force is undoubtedly expended. This is what gives pianists the wonderful strength in their fingers that is often commented on.

A story used to be told of Paderewski that he could crack a pane of French plate-glass, half an inch thick, merely by placing one hand upon it as if upon a piano keyboard, and striking it sharply with his middle finger.

Chopin's last piece in C minor has a passage which takes two minutes and five seconds to play. The total pressure brought to bear on this, it is estimated, is equal to three full tons. The average "tonnage" of an hour's playing of Chopin's music varies from twelve to eighty-four tons. Wagner has not yet been calculated upon these lines.

Feeding Brood Mares

An interesting experiment carried out by G. L. Carlson in connection with the feeding of brood mares seems to show that oats are better than corn for breeding mares; that oats and bran are better than oats alone, that hay without grain is better than with grain, and that natural conditions on grass beat everything. The following table gives the results:

Food	Mares Bred	Av. Age	No. of Foals
Range feed	465	10.1	425
Grass in summer	182	9.9	161
Hay, oats, bran ..	306	9.2	147
Hay and corn	306	8.7	196
Corn, bran, hay ...	231	8.9	117
Corn, alfalfa, or clover	306	8.8	177
Hay, oats	418	9	294

FINE COLLECTION OF OLD-TIME WEAPONS

They Recall Distant But Not Less Blood-thirsty Days of Europe—Loaned to Museum

A remarkable collection of old weapons, secured by Geo. Kennan the celebrated writer and traveler during a trip to Russia, has been installed in the new National Museum of the United States. The greater part of the weapons were originally gathered by Prince Paskievich, of Russia, a noted connoisseur, from whom Mr. Kennan purchased them a good many years ago. The collection comprises about fifty-eight objects and consists of sabres, daggers, yataghans, pistols and guns, all richly mounted, and some having historic and ethnologic interest on account of the inscriptions they bear, in Russian, Persian, Caucasian, Arabic or Latin.

Some especially attractive weapons, the Turkish and Arab yataghans, which are slightly curved swords with particularly pleasing outlines, appear to be of Persian origin and art. Their scabbards are marvelous examples of silver and gold repousse work. One sword of particular interest is that of a Russian executioner, bearing on one side an inscription of silver inlaid in steel. "God help me to overcome my enemies in the mountains and on the steppes," while the other side is the record of campaigns against the Caucasian mountaineers in 1787. The handle is plain black wood; the scabbard decorated in silver gilt and red velvet, with repousse ornamentation.

A sabre having a remarkable history is one in a plain black scabbard with gold inlaying on the bands and crossbar, bearing an inscription on one side of the blade, "Pro fide pro patria," with the figure of a man brandishing a sword over his head; on the other side is the following "Soli Deo Gloria" a coat of arms consisting of a double-headed eagle and a crown, and below, "Laus Deo Semper." The blade is inscribed on the back with the following, "Yohann Mayrschoffer Ialossay Anno 1134." This warlike implement is considered to be the most valuable piece of the entire collection and is greatly prized by its owner on account of the ancient date and probable historical connection with the Crusades.

Another weapon of interest is a Scotch dirk once the property of a member of the Seventy-eighth Highland Regiment, evidently captured in the Himalayas and carried into Central Asia, where it was picked up by Prince Paskievich. It is an odd piece of cutlery, having a straight two-edged blade and a short solid grip. The scabbard is of black leather and ornamented like the pommel with large crystal mountings. A case for a knife and fork is to be seen on the side, making the implement available for use both for camp and warlike purposes.

Representative of the great two-handed swords of the early part of the eighteenth century, is one with a cross handle and two cutting edges, inscribed, "Vivat Zaar Peter Alexeits, 1710," supposed to be from the forge of Rooslagen, as this name is engraved on the blade.

There are two battle-axes in the collection, one with gold inlaid Persian blade and Caucasus niello-work handle, and dated 1326; the other a queer combination of a flint-lock pistol and a hatchet, the latter set on at the muzzle. The stock and handle of the weapon is straight and inlaid with ivory. It is said to be one of old Saxon workmanship.

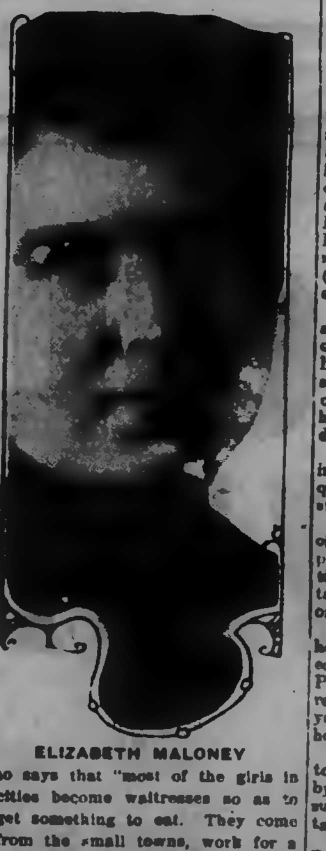
Father Minds the Baby While Mother Works

The district of Willesden is a perfect paradise for a certain type of husband. There is no need for him to go out to work; his wife will see to that. All he need do is stay at home and mind the baby. He has a job for life, and practically nothing to do.

It is no uncommon thing for a husband to mind the baby while his wife goes to work. This arrangement is due to the peculiar industrial conditions of Willesden, where there are many laundries and factories, and female labor is much in demand. Although it is cheaper than male labor would be at the same class of work, the wages are good considering that only five days a week are worked in the laundries, the women not being required on Mondays. As much as from $5 to $6 a week can be earned, $5 being a common wage, even for girls.

Consequently the women rule the industrial world of Willesden. The positions of man and wife are reversed. There is no need for the man to go to work. Not only would he be unsuitable for the job, but the labor and the wages would not suit him.



ELIZABETH MALONEY

who says that "most of the girls in cities become waitresses so as to get something to eat. They come from the small towns, work for a while in offices or big department stores, and then, when they get hungry, they turn to work in restaurants."

COW TESTING

One Man Has Had an Increase of of Thirty-five Dollars a Month

Speaking of his experience with cow testing for three years one farmer near St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, recently expressed himself as very well satisfied. He had good reason to be for his 9 cows now average 1,200 pounds of milk each, a total of 10,823 pounds. Three years ago the average was only 822 pounds, the total only 7,411 pounds. In other words, his income from the nine cows has increased thirty-five dollars in one month.

Instances very similar to this may be found in every county where cow testing has been taken up intelligently. Near Listowel, Ontario, is a herd of 16 cows that gave on the average 2,700 pounds of milk more per cow than three years ago. The addition of four hundred and thirty-two dollars per year to one's income, without increasing the number of cows is a substantial and tangible result of intelligent weighing and sampling.

Again, at Wooler, Ontario, is a herd now giving 3,367 pounds of milk per cow, an increase of almost [illegible] pounds per cow.

Our Point of View

War is hell and, unfortunately, peace is not heaven.

As compared to most cities in Europe just now Mexico City appears to be a safe harbor of refuge.

If Russia puts a detachment of anarchists with bombs in the van of her army, the fight won't last long.

Who has secured the moving picture rights for the European war? Some American, you may be sure.

Sciatica Vanishes Instantly If Nerviline is Used

CAN YOU BEAT THIS CASE!

No ordinary liniment will even relieve Sciatica. Nothing but the most powerful kind of a remedy can penetrate through the tissues and finally reach the Sciatic Nerve. You can always depend on the old-time "Nerviline." Nothing made to-day is as good for Sciatica as Nerviline was when first produced, about forty years ago. All this time the same old "Nerviline" has been curing Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, and is considered to be without an equal in relieving pain or soreness anywhere. "'Nerviline' couldn't be made stronger or better," writes James E. Edwards. "The way it cures Sciatica is to me simply a miracle. For years I suffered frightfully. I ruined my stomach with internal dosing. I rubbed in gallons of oils and liniments—none were strong enough. One good rubbing with Nerviline relieved. I kept on rubbing and shortly was cured. My father cured rheumatism in his right arm and shoulder with Nerviline, and my mother cured herself of chronic lumbago with Nerviline. Our family simply swears by Nerviline and we are never without a 50c. family size bottle in our home. We find that for external pain for coughs, colds, earache, such minor ills it is a veritable family physician."

The feeling against the average baseball umpire is tame as compared with that which the public is developing toward the war news censor.

Belgium has put herself on the map in a thrilling and impressive way, but how long can she remain there?

England is not sending all her heroes to the war, for then there would be no reporters to go to interview Lord Kitchener.

Just before the war started circular invitations were sent out for a "world's peace conference" to be held in September at Vienna and Budapest. Said conference presumably has been called off.

Perhaps at last the autocrats are beginning to learn! There is a report that the Czar of Russia will soon sign a proclamation giving the Jews in his dominion equal civil and political rights with his other subjects.

The profits of the express companies may have been reduced to a small margin, they say. The war has caused them some loss of business, but they have suffered chiefly from the competition of the parcel post.

Speculating on "if the market were open" the New York Evening Post notes things which have happened since the stock exchange shut down, and refers to "a chapter of financial history which must be left to imagination and conjecture."

The members of the British Government's press bureau will have to work harder if they want to earn their salaries. A cub reporter could send out more news than they have transmitted since the war began, that's what.

The War in Africa

When a British ship captures a German ship on Lake Nyassa in the heart of the dark continent, it means the bringing of the war into Africa literally as well as metaphorically.

The war among European powers had already extended to Africa, and upon the ultimate victory of one group or the other depends the political fate of vast territories in that continent. For European nations have parcelled out Africa among themselves without a thought of native rights, and whole races may pass with the lands they inhabit from the lands of one white invader to those of another, according to which may prove the stronger in this war. If Britain and France were at last on the losing side the colors on the map of Africa would be greatly changed. These nations are the great African powers. Including Egypt and the Soudan, the territories under British control in Africa show an area of 2,750,472 square miles. France is not far behind the total extent of her twelve African possessions being 2,294,834 square miles, and these colonies and protectorates are so widely scattered that to guard them all at one time during war is no easy task—a fact which suffices to account for the refusal of the German government to say at the time of mobilization that it would not annex French colonies.

Belgium has a heavy African stake in this deplorable war game. Her Congo Free State extends to about 900,000 square miles, and is fitted for valuable commercial development. Like Belgium itself, the Congo colony is by international treaty declared perpetually neutral; but in this war it appears that such a treaty is of no effect. Germany has four African colonies, covering altogether 931,420 square miles, and it is she who has received the first blow of colonial attack. A British force from the Gold Coast on the west, and a French force from Dahomey on the east, have joined hands in Togoland. It is Germany's smallest colony; the important thing to seize was its powerful wireless station, which will be useful in further operations.

Yet far more momentous may be the reported appearance of a British warship at Dar-es-Salaam, the chief port of German East Africa. This is the largest of the German possessions. Like German West Africa, it was secured mainly by means of agreement with the British government, and it stands between British territories—Nyasaland and Rhodesia on the south, and British East Africa and Uganda on the north. The late Lord Salisbury was greatly blamed by many of his countrymen for agreeing that it should extend westward to the shore of Lake Tanganyika, because thus it blocked the way of the Cape to Cairo railroad, for which a right of way had then to be obtained through Congo State territory on the other side of the lake. The original idea was to run that road on British land all the way from end to end of the continent, and the hope has been entertained that somehow, after all, this might be accomplished. Is the opportunity in sight? Will Germany have to retreat from Lake Tanganyika? This is but one of a number of questions that indicate the weighty bearing of the European war upon the future of Africa.

OIL THE GREAT WEALTHMAKER

We hold over 3,000 acres, more or less, of oil leases North and South of Monarch and several of our leases are in the same range as the Monarch well.

Many companies claim to be close to Monarch but we are one of the very few who are in Range Six upon which the Monarch Well is situated. Therefore, we must be on the same anti-cline and as it is a foregone conclusion Monarch will get oil, so will we.

Fifty-Seven Feet of Oil-Bearing Sands Passed Through in Monarch Well

OFFICIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN OUT BY PRESIDENT GEORGESON—WELL IS NOW DOWN OVER 1,800 FEET AND FLOW OF WET GAS HAS BEEN STRUCK IN LOWER LEVELS—GEOLOGIST DUNN IS AWAY AT PRESENT

Heavy oil showings are being found in the Monarch well, west of Olds, although the oil has not yet come in in commercial quantities.

To put the exact facts before the public, President William Georgeson and Treasurer G. W. Morfitt, of the company, this morning issued an official statement from the drillers setting forth the results.

The heaviest oil seepage has been encountered through a stratum 57 feet thick, and the well is now 1850 feet deep.

A sample of this oil baled out at 1,775 feet was brought to the city this morning and is in the office of Mr. Morfitt, Grain Exchange Building. The oil is a heavy black petroleum with the characteristic petroleum odor.

The statement issued by the officers is as follows:

In the absence of Mr. Dunn, Mr. Van Alst, the head driller, reports that from the depth of 1,775 feet to 1,832 feet he went through oil bearing sands for 57 feet. Throughout there was a heavy showing of black oil in the baler. Two further showing of black wet gas were met at 1,805 feet and 1,915 feet.

The well is now down 1,850 feet. Wet gas has shown at 623 feet, 1,420 feet, 1,805 feet and 1,815 feet.

Oil sands have shown at 896 feet, (46 feet), 1,430 feet (40 feet), 1,740 feet (14 feet), and 1,775 feet (57 feet).

The well is now down 1,850 feet, and while there are good oil showings there is not as yet oil in commercial quantities.

Our stock is on the market at 50 cents a share, a Dollar par, and will be advanced without notice any day pending Monarch Well developments. It is practically a certainty that Monarch will be in oil in commercial quantities within two weeks, Our stock will jump away above par and you had better hurry if you wish to share our prosperity.

PLANS WAR INSURANCE

Washington, Aug. 20.—Creation of a government war risk insurance bureau to facilitate shipping across the Atlantic while the European powers are at war is proposed in a bill which will be introduced in the House with the approval of the administration. The measure is one of the results of the recent conference of business men at the treasury department.

The proposed bureau would be part of the treasury department, instead of the department of commerce as first contemplated. There would be a war risk fund of about $5,000,000 with which the government would insure the vessels needed to carry the cargoes of grain, corn and other American products now awaiting transportation.

Secretary McAdoo and other members of the cabinet think it is unlikely many vessels will take advantage in the immediate future of the American registry bill which passed Congress, unless a war risk insurance can be provided.

FEASTS FOR EPICURES

Strange Dishes Prepared to Tickle Jaded Appetites of the Wealthy

The fads and fancies of the very rich are displayed in many ways, but in none more emphatically than in the matter of food. Here whim and freakishness are worshipped with an amazing earnestness, and the uncommon or most expensive dish at dinner is often an eloquent symbol of the selectness of the society.

Who, for instance, has not heard of caviare, but how many of us, in ordinary circles, have ever tasted it? It is a dainty appetizer, and consists of the steel-grey colored roe of the female sturgeon, that monster fish caught chiefly in the Caspian Sea. Its quality is reckoned by the size of the globular granules of the roe, and the best qualities are cheap at anything less than $8.00 a pound.

Crayfish tails, a dainty composed of the most delicate parts of the crayfish, is another dish open only to the wealthy, for its cost, broadly speaking, works out occasionally at about $2.50 a mouthful.

We are all familiar with the name of truffles, that edible mushroom-like fungus which serves so deliciously with all kinds of meat, but it is not generally known that the black truffle, a most popular feature at rich dining tables, grows underneath the surface of the ground, and its presence is detected by pigs and dogs, who are very fond of them and trace them by their peculiar smell. They are about the size of hens' eggs, and are not unlike potatoes in appearance, but they are most expensive, as they do not keep long and no method of cultivation has yet been devised to regulate the supply. One of the commonest uses of truffles is as an ingredient in goose-liver pie—patés de foies gras—the most famous product of Strasburg.

This is certainly one of the freakish tastes of the opulent. It is expensive; a little jar, containing about two teaspoonfuls, costs 25 cents. There is one regrettable feature about the use of this dainty—namely, that ordinary goose livers are small and lacking in softness; with the result that it is not uncommon to find flocks of geese penned up in noisome cellars, where, with special dieting, their livers become unnaturally enlarged and more suited to the purpose in view.

Probably to the average person the most familiar of the rich man's dishes is turtle soup. The green turtle of the West Indies is par excellence the most expensive soup provider in the world. Five dollars a quart is about the lowest price at which the real article can be bought.

Calipash and calipee—the names given to the delightful green fat of the upper and lower shells of the turtle—are less known, but their flavor is most delicious, and their preparation in the kitchen is a rite of great mystery and solemnity. Turtle fins also provide a unique entrée for the millionaire epicure.

But there is no end to which freakishness is not carried, and often even delicacy of flavor is sacrificed for mere whim. It cannot be said, for instance, that any but the specially-cultivated appetite would negotiate quails, woodcock, and snipe, for these birds are only considered edible when cooked whole and undrawn.

Anglo-Indians delight in a pickle made from the young and tender shoots of the bamboo soaked in oil, and revel in a feast of golden mangoes. West Indians pin their faith to an extraordinary preparation of red peppers called salmagundi, a pickle so hot as to require a long sojourn in Jamaica before one can entertain the prospect of its consumption without quaking.

Other travellers declare chrysanthemums and Chinese birds'-nests to be full of the Eastern charm, while such oddities as reindeer's tongues, bull frogs, and snails, and even the extreme whim of delicately-stuffed plums, are but a few of the dishes indicative of the fads and fancies created for the tickling of the wealthy palate.

Telephone Replaces Waiter.

No waiters appear in the dining room of a new French hotel, the guests telephoning their orders from their tables, to which the food is delivered from a kitchen below by electric elevators.

Outdoor Amusement

A recently invented outdoor amusement device for children is a boat shaped seesaw which also revolves like a merry-go-round.

To Prove His Invention.

To prove that a parachute of his invention was an improvement over former types, a Frenchman dropped 1000 feet from an aeroplane with one and landed safely.

The Call of the Far West

Less than a decade ago no white man dwelt where the flourishing city of Prince Rupert with its 6,000 inhabitants now stands and with the rapid increase in population resulting from the constant extension of the Grand Trunk Pacific lines the little hamlets which nestle near the steel are calling for men with small capital to take their share in the prosperity of the future.

CANADIAN SILHOUETTES

On the bridge at Edmonton

THERE is a bridge over the Saskatchewan's north fork, between Strathcona and Edmonton. That bridge is like a grand stand whence a pageant of the West can be looked upon. The sky-line of the hill on one side of the river is dotted with houses.

If you were to climb up the precipitous hill to them you would find that they are all broad-verandahed, wide-porched, hardwood floored. The glass of their windows shines as I have not seen glass shine anywhere else, I do not know whether atmosphere, or washing, or quality of glass is the explanation; but this is a thing to note about these houses—the glamor of their windows.

The high-perched houses of Edmonton always make me think of the beautiful house in Hawaii as described by Stevenson in "The Bottle Imp." They seem to have come there in response to a sparkling wish, seem never to have been hammered and sworn over by carpenters.

But we are on the bridge. Turning and looking in the other direction you can see tents among scrub and underbrush, with stove-pipes projecting out of their tops. You can get everything in Edmonton—the stone-fronted bank block, the bungalow that a man dreams of when he has his turn of holding the mysterious bottle and making his wish, and the tent with the stove-pipe sticking through and a tin basin at the door on an old discarded orange-box for a toilet table.

A buzzing sound comes to the ears. Is it a "bug" close at hand, or a "gasolene buggy" in the distance? Looking round from this grand stand you see an electric car coasting down hill, see it swerve on to the bridge, and begin its humming run across. When it has passed you note that it is crowded; people sit, people stand, people balance clutching straps. They are packed on the rear platform. They cluster on the side step, holding tenaciously to the side stanchions. It is the weirdest thing to see strap-hangers on a train that whizzes through a wood.

Down hill comes a wagon, two great horses cannily, and stiff leggedly, humouring it down on their haunches, the whiffle-tree swinging, the shaft rising jerkily, falling abruptly, swerving wildly—and the high-perched, sunburnt driver holding the reins up and cautioning the beasts to be steady there, to whoa there, to be easy there. The wagon is laden with cases of tinned meat, tinned tomatoes, canned fruit, bottled fruit, condensed milk, hams; and half a dozen cases of eggs are perched carefully above all. These goods may be for consumption in Edmonton, or they may be for camps in the hills, r by the creeks westward towards the Rockies; or they may yet grace the shelves of a store at Lake Saint Ann. The wagon gains the bridge and crawls across, the horses' hoofs hammering hard, but muffled, on the dust-covered planks.

If you look over the bridge to see what is going on below, till something else comes along on top, you can see two lumber men holding together a raft, leaping from log to log in their spiked boots carrying long poles like boat-hooks and guiding the logs into the confines of a boom—a boom being a sequence of logs chained together to make a frame or floating fence, for many others. Up-stream is a little white-painted stern-wheeler that could do with another coat of paint. It comes churning round the bend, back-grounded by a steep bank of firs.

And then the clanging of a bell brings our attention back to the bridge and its pageant. It is a locomotive bell, and the locomotive comes shaking on to the bridge; the fireman, in the high cab, pulling the bell rope. It goes hotly past, drawing a groaning, screaming string of freight cars.

A grimy and tough-looking brakesman, large-gloved hands on hips, garters round his tucked-up sleeves, billy-cock hat on the back of his head, stands on the roof of one of the cars in an attitude reeking of insolence and abandon; his hip is full of belongings, and the pocket is, as it were, corked with a monstrous blue handkerchief that hangs out a fluttering corner. Another brakesman leans on the chain at the end of the caboose, legs crossed, black shirt sleeves held with garters round the biceps (much as English navvies strap their legs below the knee), and spits. The string of cars goes past, and the swirls of dust fall.

Pitter-patter, Pitter-patter—and you look up and see a string of ponies loping along, naked as the day they were foaled, unkempt, lean, "mean" looking, good ponies for the work they have to do. They are Indian ponies. And here comes their owner, driving a "rig." He is a fine, tall fellow, in an old morning-coat and dungaree pants, with beaded moccasins. You can see that because he has one foot up on the edge of the rig. He wears a great hat that sends a shadow under his eyes and accentuates the ridge of his nose; and on either side of his face hangs down a plait of black, glossy hair.

His squaw sits beside him, papoose on back, wrapped in a blanket, her hair in plaits, too, and wearing large crescent earrings of some flashing metal that takes the sunlight; and her teeth gleam as she makes some laughing comment to her "buck." Under the wagon, and behind it, pads a string of mongrel dogs. The dust falls and they are gone up-hill and over the crest.

A couple of honks sound; the jarring rasp of gear being changed on an "automo-beel"—and here it comes, crackling along the bridge, the tonneau bouncing and swaying on strong springs. It stands high from the ground, a high "clearance" being necessary on these Western roads.

I suppose some young journalist will come across this impression of Edmonton Bridge in 1923, and will call me a liar, and head his retort with the words Effete English Journalist Slanders the Twin City. And in the innocence of my heart I shall wonder what's the matter—for one of the happiest quarters of an hour I ever spent was spent on Edmonton Bridge watching the pageant go by. It will all be different in ten years. It always is in the West.

—By Frederick Niven, author of "Hands Up."

GREAT INVENTORS WHO MADE NO MONEY

Not All Geniuses Can Make Money—Lawsuits Have Robbed More Than One of the Fruits of His Labors

That the man who invented cold storage should die of starvation, and that one of the greatest mechanical geniuses of the age, whose inventions made millions of dollars for others, should either fall overboard or commit suicide because he was harassed by creditors, call attention to the fact that not all geniuses make money out of their inventions. Tellier, the inventor of cold storage, lacked business ability, and while Diesel was reputed to be a rich man, it is known that other people made a hundred thousand dollars for every dollar he made from his oil engine.

Rev. Hannibal Goodwin, who ought to be recognized as the inventor of the photographic film, lived and died unknown, and actually lost money through his wonderful discovery. Goodwin was a Newark clergyman, who spent every spare moment in his attic in chemical experiments. In 1887, after years of hard work, he invented the photographic film. But he could not secure a patent, a wealthy photographic firm securing an injunction to stop him. He began suit, and the company entered a counter-suit. The case dragged on, the corporation being equipped with the best lawyers that money could hire, and the poor clergyman doing the best he could with much less valuable legal advice. Years passed, and Goodwin died, poorer than ever. A company bought his rights to the disputed patent, and stock was issued to his wife. After a series of lawsuits lasting twenty-six years the Supreme Court decided in Goodwin's favor.

Cotton Gin Inventor

Eli Whitney, the inventor of the cotton gin, was cheated by the courts, and the injustice he received was one of the scandals of the time. Whitney was a New Englander who went south, and on a plantation in Georgia saw the slaves separating the lint from the cotton seed by hand. It suggested to him the idea of a machine that would do the work, and he succeeded in making one. The cotton gin brought about a revolution in the cotton industry. One machine did the work of a thousand hands and did it better. Its tremendous importance was recognized from the first. A dozen firms pirated the Whitney invention and began to make cotton gins. Whitney sought to protect his rights, and soon was involved in lawsuits. Some he won; some were appealed, and dragged on year after year. Then when Whitney was almost at the end of his resources and disgusted with the treatment he had received he surrendered his patents, and his discovery became free to the world. In recognition of his services the State of Georgia voted Whitney $50,000, but this money hardly paid his legal and other expenses. However, it enabled him to return north, where he engaged in the manufacture of firearms and made some money.

Friends Helped Edison

Thomas Edison is reputed to be a millionaire, and his name as a trade mark is worth millions, but it was not until some of his friends marketed his inventions that he began to earn much money from them. For the quadruplex, the most important of all inventions in the telegraph, Edison received less than $30,000.

The simultaneous discovery by Wallace and Darwin of the theory of evolution is paralleled by the simultaneous discovery of the telephone by Alexander Graham Bell and Daniel Drawbaugh. Their patents were filed on the same day, and a lawsuit arose. Three justices of the Supreme Court of the United States supported Drawbaugh's claim to priority, and four voted for Bell. Thus it was by one vote that Bell was given a patent worth millions.

Auto Goggles

By providing automobile goggles with glass partly clear and the remainder more or less clouded an inventor claims to reduce the glare and flicker of light and thus reduce the eye strain.

Wireless Telegraphy and Nerves

That an increase of nervous disorders is due to an increase in the use of wireless telegraphy, overcharging the atmosphere with electricity, is a theory advanced by a European physician.

Snails Are Hardy.

A French scientist who has been experimenting for 18 years to ascertain the effects of low temperatures on fish and animals has found the common snails can withstand the greatest amount of cold.

Seven mirrors, mounted so as to be turned to any angle desired, feature a toilet table a Washington man has patented.

Jacks have been invented to relieve the tires of motor fire apparatus from pressure while standing idle.

MILK PER ACRE

Individual Records Should be Kept For Best Results

If it may be assumed that the farm of the average factory patron is fairly well adapted to dairying, that the patron himself is inclined towards dairying, rather than other lines, and that his cows are fairly good, then it will be of interest to note how the farm is made to respond to this dairy inclination.

There are frequently noticed yields as low as 250 pounds of milk per acre cultivated including pasture, but some good patrons obtain 750 and 800 pounds per acre. Even this is little enough, for there are plenty of authentic records of 1,100 and 2,100 pounds of milk per acre. It should not be extremely difficult to obtain more than this, even 2,500 or 3,000 pounds.

This latter figure is a long, long way ahead of the yields already mentioned of only 250 pounds which may be found on many so-called dairy farms in Canada, and is indicative of the possibilities in reach of the factory patron who is really anxious to attain first rank.

It is questionable if the average yield per acre in Ontario is much more than 600 pounds of milk. If loyal, whole-hearted support is given to the local factory and to our national industry of dairying, the farm and the dairy herd will be made far more productive. Great help will be derived by keeping individual records of each cow, because the old established, complacent "average" cow has no intention whatever of assisting the average patron to get 3,000 pounds of milk from the average acre. The first necessary step is to know for certain that each cow is a good producer, then one may aim with more hope at $30 or $40 per acre.

The Tabooed Tango

There is nothing new either in the tango or the opposition to it. As long ago as the December of 1637, the Archbishop of Buenos Ayres excommunicated one Senor de la Cueya y Benavides, governor of the city, for dancing the tango in public. Even then the dance was anything but new. An authority in the Argentine states that the tango is named after a province in Indo-China, and that it originated there more than two thousand years ago. It was the gipsies who took the dance to Spain, from whence it reached the Argentine. One definition of the tango—given in a glossary of South American Spanish —is "Gathering of dance of gipsies." The dance has not been improved by being civilised or modernized. As danced by the up-country Argentines and the Spanish gipsies it is exceedingly graceful, which is more than can be said for it as performed in many places in Canada.

MRS. GRACE WILBUR TROUT

This woman is devoting all her spare time to instructing other women how to vote and why to vote, but not what to vote.

She says the business of suffragists, just now, is to make women familiar with all phases of registration and election day; in other words, the curriculum of voting. "If we make them understand why they need to vote and then familiarize them with the system so that they will not have any hesitancy when the time comes we can safely leave the matter of what they vote to their own intelligence and good sense," says Mrs. Trout.

She is the president of the Illinois Equal Suffrage Association.

CLEVER BIRDS

Among the feathered tribe the bower-bird of Australia easily takes the record for versatility, being at once gardener, architect, and artist. For it not only constructs a neat, tunnel-like bower framed like a Gothic arch, but can lay out a garden, discriminately picking the orchid blossoms and arranging them into pretty patterns with impeccable taste. [illegible] the pitta [illegible] of [illegible] and Sumatra takes the [illegible] there being every color [illegible]. The bird of Paradise [illegible] and is in addition a [illegible]. One species of this digs a hole a foot in diameter, over which it places crossed sticks (as for a Scottish sword dance), and strews leaves and rubbish over them, thus forming a floor on which it dances. But the jacana and ypecaha, both species of the rail, can go one better; for besides being splendid little dancers, they provide their own music the while.

The world's record parrot is owned by Baron Alfred de Rothschild, and he paid for it a record sum. She sings with effect quite a number of songs in a voice like a banjo's twang; she speaks 200 words of German, can answer reasonable queries, smartly rebukes those who ask silly ones, is careful to [illegible] that her [illegible].

The late Prince Whan of Korea always carried with him on his travels an enormous white parrot with rose colored lining on its wings, and with priceless sapphires set on each side of its perforated beak.

MAKING NEW CITIZENS

Suggested That Greater Care be Taken of New Arrivals

In an address on "Immigration" particularly as applicable to Canada, Mrs. Walter James Brown told the Imperial Daughters of the Empire that something should be done to [illegible] gration, and [illegible] suggested that there should be more stringent regulations for inspection and medical examination. She pictured graphically the great natural resources of Canada, the marvelous developments that had taken place, and what a magnet it was to those ambitious to make more than a living in a new country. But careless and indiscriminate immigration had led to slum conditions and congestion in the cities. It had added materially to the cost of living. Other glaring defects in the present immigration policy were pointed out and some most valuable suggestions made for helping to educate those who wish to be farmers. She urged the Order to use their influence in securing a better class of immigrants, also to promote educational efforts for the newcomer.

AS LIGHT AS LAGER BUT BETTER FOR YOU

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel

When They Have

Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a basket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, [illegible] a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from [illegible] of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale [illegible], or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

1. Cool the cream from the separator as soon as possible to 55 degrees F. or lower.

2. Never mix warm cream with cool cream.

3. Mix all the cream to be churned in one vat or can at least 12 hours before churning.

4. Ripen at a temperature of 70 to 75 degrees F. from six to eight hours stirring frequently during this period.

5. Cool cream to churning temperature as soon as ripe.

6. Let cream stand eight hours or more (over night) at the churning temperature.

7. The temperature of churning should be such as to make the butter come in from 35 to 40 minutes, usually 55 to 60 degrees F.

8. If it is desired to use artificial coloring, it should be added to the cream just before churning.

9. Stop churning when the granules are about the size of peas, varying to wheat, and draw off the buttermilk.

10. Wash the butter once with pure water at the churning temperature, agitating three or four times, and drain.

11. Wash a second time with water about four degrees above churning temperature, agitating seven or eight times, and drain.

12. Add the salt wet while the butter is in granular form, using about one to one and one-half ounce for each pound of butter, according to the demands of the market.

13. Work the butter just enough to distribute the salt evenly.

14. If the butter is to go on the market it should be put up in neat attractive packages.

GOOD TEETH AN ASSET

Work a Misery If the Mouth Needs Dentist's Attention

Has it ever occurred to you that your teeth are a valuable part of your business equipment. Well they are and for more reasons than appearance although a row of fine teeth are beyond a doubt indicative of a healthy body and also have a beauty not to be ignored.

If the teeth are neglected it is bound to affect your work; for frequent toothaches are the best mind distractors there are, and no one can think properly of business problems or household matters with a throbbing jaw.

In addition to the discomforts of the ache poor teeth mean incomplete mastication and lack of chewing means that the food is not properly prepared for the stomach and indigestion is sure to follow sooner or later.

Indigestion not only makes one feel heavy and uncomfortable, but it is apt to affect the nerves and the circulation so that eyes and head again suffer and the work is impeded all because the teeth are not able to do their work properly.

Every day the doctors are finding that the teeth are to blame for most of the ills of the body and it does not pay to put off visits to the dentist especially before going away in the summer. Sea air or any change of climate is bound to find a sensitive tooth if one is neglected and this may mean the loss of several days' vacation through toothache and perhaps a visit to a strange dentist who may not understand your mouth as well as the one who usually looks after you at home.

RAISING MUSHROOMS

With a Little Care May be Made a Profitable Enterprise

Although mushrooms have attained the reputation of an uncertain crop, with proper attention they may be grown either out of doors or inside with excellent and profitable results, and their culture could with advantage be greatly extended.

On a commercial scale, quantities of first class mushrooms are grown in old limestone pits, shale mine quarries, disused railway tunnels underground cellars, old ice houses, empty rhubarb forcing houses, sheds—in fact, any place which can be kept dark, and where sufficient manure for new beds can be stored to keep up a temperature of 60 degrees Fahr.

Cakes of spawn broken up into pieces as large as a hen's egg are inserted in the bed some 3 inches deep in holes a foot apart, and then firmly covered over. If all goes well, the young mushrooms may be expected in about six to eight weeks time.

The gathering of the crops is an important feature. Mushrooms should never be cut with a knife, but given a sharp twist and pulled clean out the lower part of the stem bein cut off afterwards.

Fog Gun Started by Wireless

A system of wireless control that is now being applied successfully at several points in Scotland seems to have solved the problem of distant control of acetylene fog guns located at points difficult of access, and provides a means by which a number of such installations may be operated from one wireless station without the necessity for visiting the different signals, except for making repairs and replenishing the supply of gas. The gun automatically feeds and fires itself at regular intervals until stopped or until the supply of acetylene runs out, and the wireless control simply provides a means of starting it when there is a fog and stopping it when the fog clears, without going near the signal. Furthermore, the wireless apparatus is so arranged and tuned that it is not interfered with by the more powerful waves that may be sent out by passing ships or by other wireless stations.

ANIMAL HYPNOTISM

Deer Are Frequently Fascinated by Train Rails

As the engineer in charge of a railroad track running through the Megantic, Quebec, district was running over his division in a track car propelled by a gasoline engine, he saw a fine deer on the track before him. His bridge inspector, who accompanied him, being a keen sportsman, at once sent the car along at full speed after the swiftly flying animal. These cars are supposed to be able to run along at the rate of thirty miles an hour, so that, although the deer had a good start, it was caught up with after about a mile's racing.

For fear of a smash-up resulting from a rear-end collision, the foreman slacked up as the car came up to the frightened creature, and both men

Belleville, Aug. 20.—Frederick Tuttle, aged 45, was instantly killed last night at the Point Anne Cement works by electrocution. He was working in the open on a cinder machine, which was sheltered by timber covered with galvanized iron. The machine is operated by an electric motor. It is thought that the wiring was defective, and the wires coming in contact with the galvanized iron, and Tuttle placing his hand on the sheeting short-circuited the current from the iron covering to the damp ground, through his body. He was an employee of the cement company for five years.

Another Patriotic Company.

Mr. W. A. Haslam, local representative of the Metropolitan Life Co., returned yesterday from a business trip to Oshawa. In that town Mr. Haslam placed a policy for $1,000 on each of the married men who enlisted for the war. The premiums on these policies were paid by the Oshawa Manufacturers' Association. The Council of that town will place a similar policy on the single enlisted men. When asked by the Times, "What extra premium do you charge for the extra risk?" Mr. Haslam replied, "This (the Metropolitan) Company has been doing business in Canada. We owe a debt of both patriotism and business to this country. We are not charged any extra premium whilst some other insurance companies are charging three per cent. extra.

CITY IN PARAGRAPH

The Peterborough Normal School opens on Tuesday, Sept. 1st.

A valuable horse, belonging to Reeve Tiers, of Fenelon Falls, was killed by lightning.

The many friends of P. C. Read, whilst regretting his refusal at Quebec, for active service, on account of his present condition of teeth, welcomed this popular officer back when on duty yesterday.

P. C. Read told the Times yesterday that the physical inspection at Quebec of volunteers for the war was stiffer than that he passed in England for the Scots Greys.

Is it not time that Peterborough awoke to the fact that there is a war on? A patriotic spirit should be displayed by raising the National flag. During the American-Spanish war, every important business house in every American town and city floated the stars and stripes. Is the good old Union Jack worth less notice, or does it make for less patriotism than the gridiron flag? Fly your bunting!

Very general regret was heard throughout the city yesterday over the death of Pope Pius. The late Pope was a brilliant scholar, anable diplomatist and the conscientiously impelled head of a great church.

LESS MEAT

Advice of Family Physician.

Formerly people thought meat necessary for strength and muscular vigor.

The man who worked hard was supposed to require meat two or three times a day. Science has found out differently.

It is now a common thing for the family physician to order less meat, as in the following letter from an Eastern man:

"I had suffered for years with dyspepsia and nervousness. My physician advised me to eat less meat and greasy foods generally. I tried several things to take the place of my usual breakfast of chops, fried potatoes, etc., but got no relief until I tried Grape-Nuts food.

"After using Grape-Nuts for the cereal part of my meals for two years, I am now a well man. Grape-Nuts benefited my health far more than the medicine I had taken before.

"My wife and children are healthier than they had been for years and we are a very happy family, largely due to Grape-Nuts.

"We have been so much benefited by Grape-Nuts that it would be ungrateful not to acknowledge it."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

A number of accounts were passed, except 200 warrants of commitment papers for which 3c was charged. This account cents each was charged. The latter account was held over, the rest ordered paid.

The Chief noted that officers Downs and Read had gone to the front. Read had been rejected as a reservist man, on account of loss of teeth. The Chief thought P. C. Downs should be reinstated should he return. The Board agreed with this. Mr. Hayward was heard and given a chance to resign. Mr. A. Blade, Jr., was appointed on the force

Two Battles Reported Raging in Belgium French May Have Broken Through Lines

SEND CANADA'S SONS TO EGYPT

Part of Dominion Overseas Contingent Detailed for Garrison Duty

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—There is a strong belief at Ottawa to-day that part of the Canadian expeditionary army will be tent to Egypt to relieve the British regulars for service on the continent. The militia authorities, however, naturally refuse to give out any information. The Canadian army, like the British, when it left for Europe, will go under sealed orders and their destination will be unknown. The men themselves will not know for where they are bound. It would not be surprising though if some of the transports with Canadian troops were sent direct to Egypt, where seasoned British troops could be released and hurried across to France

First to Leave Canada

The first Canadian regiment to leave for the front will be the Princess Patricia Light Infantry, which has been mobilized at Ottawa. They will not train at Val Cartier, but will go direct from Ottawa to transports, where they will embark for Aldershot They will sail some time next week The Royal Canadian Horse Artillery will likely leave at the same time. The Princess Patricia Light Infantry, as a regiment is now fully recruited. The corps is ready for fighting at this very moment, as practically all the men are old timers. They drill like regulars and make a splendid showing.

Belgians Retire on Antwerp Where They Can Hold Out Indefinitely

"The most formidable shock in history," will occur on Belgian soil, according to French military experts, when the great armies of Germans and Austrians on the one side and the allies troops of Belgium, France and Britain on the other, come into close contact. No definite information is permitted to get past the censor as to the place where the decisive encounter is to occur, but the General staff of the French army declares itself confident of fighting under the best auspices far its own forces.

Not a shot was fired by the Belgians when entry into Brussels was made yesterday by an advance guard of German cavalry who, it was reported, were to be followed to-day by a strong column of German troops encamped in the vicinity.

BRITISH SHIPS IN ACTION

After the departure of the Belgian troops from Brussels communication was cut off between that city and other parts of Belgium and abroad. The temporary capital of the country, Antwerp, whither the Belgians have retired, is understood to be very strongly fortified, and military correspondents say the forts extend over an enormous area, while it has been provisioned for a long siege.

British and French warships bombarded and greatly damaged Cattaro, an Austrian seaport, on Wednesday.

Libau, the Russian Baltic seaport, was badly damaged during its two-hour bombardment by a German fleet, according to the captain of a Swedish steamer. The inhabitants were panic-stricken.

German warships are reported to have destroyed the harbor works at Hango, Finland.

JAPAN TO MOVE ON FORTRESS

Japan is making active preparations in view of the approaching expiration of the time limit on Sunday of her ultimatum to Germany. It is expected she will at once move on Kia-Chau, the German protectorate in China.

A final call to arms, affecting all able-bodied men from twenty years to forty-two years old, has been issued by the Austrian Government.

An Anglo-American Rough Riders corps has been formed in Paris, and its services accepted by the French Ministry of War.

WIRES ARE CUT TO BRUSSELS

London, Aug. 21.—Telegraphic communication between London and Brussels was entirely interrupted to-day, and no despatches were accepted for any place in the Belgian Provinces of Limbourg, Liege, Namur, Luxemburg, Brabant or Antwerp, except for the city of Antwerp.

BRITISH AVIATOR KILLED IN FRANCE

Paris, Aug. 21.—Le Matin says a British military aeroplane, numbered 391, fell to-day. The pilot, whose name was given as Mr. A. F. Geard, was killed, and the observer, Mr. Robert Smithberre, was injured and taken to the hospital, but is expected to recover. The machine was flying at a height of 11,300 feet at the time of the accident.

FAMILIES OF VOLUNTEERS WILL BE TAKEN CARE OF BY CITY

The City Fathers met in committee of the whole Council last night

A committee was appointed to make financial arrangements for carrying out the city's public works. The committee is composed of the Mayor and Ald. Anderson, Finance Minister.

His Worship and the City Clerk were authorized to secure all information regarding the home situation of the volunteers for overseas service in this city, and council places itself on record that their families will not be allowed to suffer want in their absence.

'ABSTAIN FROM ALL ACTS OF HOSTILITY'

Is Advice Given Inhabitants of Brussels as the Germans Approach

London, Aug. 21.—The following proclamation by the Mayor of Brussels is contained in a despatch to the Daily Mail from its Ostend correspondent;

"Despite the heroic resistence of our troops, aided by the allied armies, it is to be leased that the enemy may occupy Brussels. In the event of such an occurence, I rely on the population to remain calm and avoid all panic.

"The laws of war forbid the enemy obtaining by force information relating to national defence. The inhabitants of Brussels have the right to refuse all such information. As long as I live or a free agent I shall endeavor to protect the rights and dignity of my fellow citizens

"I pray you to render my task less difficult by abstaining from all hostile acts. Citizens whatever may befall, listen to your burgomaster. He will not betray you. Long live a free Brussels!"

Retreat to Trenches

The official statement continues: In conformity with a prearranged plan, the Belgian field army retreat on the entrenched camp of Antwerp, after brilliantly fulfilling their duty as dictated by the strategical situation and delaying for a fortnight the German passage of the Meuse.

"Antwerp has a double roll. It is a formidable entrenched camp, fortified on most modern lines, and is the base from which the Belgian army can threaten the German flank and co-operate effectively with the allies.

"The Antwerp defences consist of three fortifications, whose power of resistance can be heightened by flooding a large area around the works. Antwerp is fully equipped with the most perfect appliances. To besiege the fortress, the Germans would have to detach imposing forces and a large seige train. This they are not likely to do. If they don't they will be obliged to cover themselves against the operations of the Belgian army, which is intact, thanks to the skillful retreat and augmented by the Antwerp garrison.

Liege Forts Hold Out

"It is to be added that the Liege forts still hold out. Those at Namur have not yet been attacked. They are as strong as the forts at Liege, and have been considerably strengthened in the past two weeks.

"From this it would seem that the advancing German armies are caught between the positions of Namur and Antwerp, a distance from each other of only 35 miles as the crow flies. The German situation is then a difficult one, since they lack the chief postulate of a plan of march through Belgium, namely, free passage of the Meuse, a route by Liege and Namur, and inaction on the part of the Belgian army."

POLICE CHIEF UNEARTHS BAR-LEAD IN CREEK BANK

Tonawanda, Aug. 21.—Chief of Police Arthur E. Ellicott shortly before noon to-day recovered 1,400 pounds of bar lead which is believed to have been stolen. The chief received a tip that the lead had been hidden along the south bank of the Elliott creek near a shop.

Upon investigation Ellicott found the stuff covered with weeds to hide it from observation until it could be removed. The chief secured a wagon and removed the lead to police headquarters. An effort is being made to locate the owner. No theft of bar lead has been reported in the Tonawandas.

Nearly Five Hundred German Prisoners Are Sent to England Via Dunkirk

London, Aug. 21.—A despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Bruges says that eighteen German officers and 432 men, prisoners of war, have been sent from that city via Dunkirk, for England. When they left Bruges they were escorted by twelve gendarmes with fixed bayonets.

FRENCH WIN NEAR BASEL

London, Aug. 21.—The Central News has received a despatch from Paris saying that French defeated a detachment of German cavalry coming from Leopoldshoehe and Hueningen, in an engagement near Basel. The Germans retired in the direction of St. Louis, leaving 500 dead and wounded on the field. They lost most of their horses

FRENCH WIN MORAL VICTORY

Paris, Aug. 21.—The official news bulletin issued by the French war office to-day says:

"Up to the twentieth day of the French mobilization, despite the assurances of German writers, even those of the German general staff, the Germans have not obtained any of the decisive advantages they counted up. Moreover, the enemy has not been able to carry the war on to our territory. This advantage has at least a moral value which is worth noticing."

850 FRENCHMEN LEAVE CANADA

Montreal, Aug. 21.—The Allan Line were witnessed to-day at the sailing of the French liner Venetia, which sailed from Montreal with 850 French reservists on board. Hundreds of wives and sweethearts and over two thousand male friends were there to see them off, and as the ship moved away almost every woman and child was weeping. The Venetia flies the tri-color, and will be well looked after on her trip by British and French warships.

ROYALTY AT SPECIAL SERVICE

London, Aug. 21.—Intercessory services were held in practically every church in England to-day on behalf of those engaged in the war, with a special prayer for the success of the British arms. King George and Queen Mary, with Princess Mary were present at the service in Westminster Abbey. The Prince of Wales national relief fund reached a total of $7,500,000.

GERMAN AIRMAN IN HOLLAND

Umsterdam, Aug. 21.—(Via London).—Notable activity is evident among the German air craft which fly frequently over Holland.

A Zepplin, following the course of the Rhine, and equipped with powerful searchlights, passed over Zevenarr to-day. Dutch soldiers shot at it and the Zepplin disappeared over the German frontier.

Another Zepplin flew over Maastricht last night and followed the road to Leeren, afterward disappearing.

German aeroplanes have also been seen in several directions, scouting over Holland.

ALLIED CRUISERS AT THE COAST

"Newcastle," British, and "Montcalm," French, Coal At Esquimault

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 21.—Seattle papers to-day publish the story of the arrival on the Pacific coast of the British cruiser "Newcastle" and of the French cruiser "Montcalm," which they say are being coaled from Esquimault station, and are cruising up and down the coast.

There is, therefore, no need longer to keep from the Canadian public the news that their Pacific littoral and harbors are well protected from any incursion by two German cruisers.

H. M. S. "Newcastle," Captain Frederick A. Powlett, Commander Neptune W. Diggle and Lieut. Commander Arthur G. Sparrow, steamed into Edquimault harbor on the morning of Monday last, having been detached from the China station in the British Pacific fleet for the purpose of protecting the British merchant shipping on the Pacific coast of North America.

She was spoken to on the previous night off Cape Flattery, and was steaming at top speed to intercept the German cruisers Leipsiz and Nurnberg then reported to be on their way to Victoria, B.C. After coaling at Esquimault she continued south and was joined by the Montcalm.

1500 Hundred Already In Camp, More to Come

Quebec, Aug. 21.—Seven hundred reservists of the British army arrived here yesterday from various points in in the country and are encamped at Levis. So far over fifteen hundred are registered at the Levis camp and some two thousand are excected to arrive Saturday.

Germans Are Licked After Two Days Of Fighting

St. Petersburg, Aug. 21.—The war office to-day announced that the Russian forces operating in east Prussia have defeated a German army detachment and taken possession of the city of Lyck, 58 miles south of Gumbinnen.

The admission was made that the conquest was not possible until two days of desperate fighting in which the Germans maintain their control and killed many of their attacking forces. It was not until after reinforcements had arrived that the Russians were able to take the city by assault.

The German garrison retired in order, but was forced to leave behind a quantity of supplies and several field guns. The initial attack was made by Cossacks, who were supported by a machine gun detachment. The Cossacks were driven back with heavy losses, but infantry supports were brought up and the fighting continued.

In London there were 2,125 births and 1,021 deaths registered last week.

Among the things loaded in the port of London last year were 170,000 tons of tea.

U. S. KEPT IN DARK AS TO MOVEMENTS OF ARMIES AT WAR

Even Though Diplomatic Channels No News of Europe's Conflict is Available

Washington, Aug. 21.—Officials of the United States government are as ignorant of what is happening on the battlefields of Europe as the general public. Not a single message—and American diplomats are in hourly communication from all European capitals has come in the last five days giving the slightest hint of the development of military operations.

In only one despatch was there any reference to pending hostilities. Minister Whitlock at Belgium reported that although the seat of government had been moved to Antwerp, he saw no need of leaving Brussels for the present. From this it was inferred that the German forces were not yet close to the Belgian capital.

The absence of information about the movements of the big armies is accounted for by officials as due to the fact that American diplomatic officers are so thoroughly absorbed in caring for stranded Americans that they are unable to make any calls at the different embassies or legations where news might be obtained.

Ambassador Herrick, in one of his messages, however, spoke of the fact that even diplomats were unable to learn of what was happening in the war zone beyond what was given out by the official press bureaus, so strict was the censorship everywhere. From the far east the American government had no dispatches to-day and though there were messages from Ambassador Gerard telling of the welfare of Americans, nothing was said by him as to the probable attitude of Germany toward the Japanese ultimatum commanding her to withdraw from Kiao Chow.

FINE JOB TO BE A REPORTER

London, Aug. 21.—The Amsterdam correspondent of the Chronicle says that it was stated of the office staff Thursday that all foreign correspondents found in Belgium after last night would be shot.

Splendid Gift from The Montreal Bank Directors

Montreal, August 21.—The most important announcement yet made by any Canadian corporation in connection with the assistance to be afforded the Canadian Patriotic Funds, was made to-day by the Bank of Montreal when it forwarded notice that at a meeting of the Board of Directors held this morning a contribution of $100,000 had been authorized for national patriotic purposes.

Of this amount $50,000 is to be allotted to the Canadian Patriotic Fund and the remaining $50,000, if required will be given to the same fund or to other national funds as the directors may hereafter determine. The Bank of Montreal has already allowed a large number of its staff to engage for active service, both here and in England, and announced that it would keep all positions open till the cessation of hostilities. It is believed that the example set by the bank will be followed by a large number of other Canadian banks and industrial corporations

JAPAN HAS NO DESIGN ON THE PHILIPPINES

Tokio, Aug. 21.—Japan is quietly preparing for eventualities following the expiration next Sunday of her ultimatum to Germany demanding the withdrawal of German warships from the Orient and the evacuation of Kiao-Chau.

The activities at the German Embassy, where personal effects are being packed for shipment, are the only indication of what the answer of Germany will be. There is no evidence of anti-German feeling here. On the contrary, the authorities have given notice that all Germans remaining in Japan must be treated courteously. German professors are expected to remain at their post unless they are needed for service at home.

The War and Navy Departments are preparing a move on Kiao-Chau, where contrary to current reports, the fortifications are really formidable. Since thousands of Chinese coolies have been the outbreak of the European war employed in strengthening these defences. It is believes here that the taking of Kiao-Chau will not be an easy task.

The Japanese newspapers and leading Japanese express surprise at the tone of the American press that attributed sinister movements to Japan in sending an ultimatum to Germany. They say that this action was taken only after weeks of conversation with Great Britain, and was at the request of and with the approval of Japan's ally.

Premier Okuma and Foreign Minister Kato have made repeated denials that Japan has designs on Samao and the Phillipines, or any other territory.

of the American Japanese Association, and Buei Nakano, vice-president of Baron Eiichi Shibusawa, president the same organization, and president of the Tokio Chamber of Commerce, are heading a movement intended to reassure China or Japan's pacificatory intentions. M. Nakano will leave for China soon, it is announced.

If the worst comes to the worst the Kaiser can write his ultimatum to Italy on the back of the one he got from Japan.

AVIATOR AGAINST CAVALRY

Paris, Aug. 21.—The War Minister announces that a French aviator meeting a division of German cavalry, threw projectiles from his aeroplane, wounding many and causing great disorder amongst the enemy.

The aviator, passenger and machine returned safe and sound, the fusilade of German bullets being unable to reach them at the altitude at which they flew. Another aviator, after having been subjected to gun fire in a region of Belgium occupied by German troops.

MAGICAL EFFECT OF NEW FACE PEELER

To maintain a clear, white, youthful complexion, there's nothing so simple to use and yet so effective as ordinary mercolized wax, which you can get at any drug-store. Just apply the wax at night as you would cold cream. In the morning wash it off with warm water. If you've never tried it you can't imagine the magical effect of this harmless treatment. It causes the old worn-out scarf skin to come off in minute particles, a little at a time, and soon you have entirely shed the offensive cuticle. The fresh young underskin now in evidence is so healthy and girlish looking, so free from any appearance of artificiality you wonder why you had not heard of this marvelous complexion-renewing secret long ago.

Equally magical in its action is a simple wrinkle-removing lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. Bathing the face in this for two or three minutes immediately affects [illegible] and improves [illegible]

WHERE FIRE-FLIES MAKE FLASHLIGHTS

Men and Women Wear Them While Travelling Through the Forests

Travellers and tourists in Mexico are invariably attracted by the wonderful skill and ingenuity displayed by the Indians in the making of miniature objects which they offer for sale. The little dolls, for instance of Cuernavaca, half-inch tall, and dressed in finely embroidered raiment, are the admiration of everyone who sees them.

But perhaps the most wonderful of all are the tiny dressed fleas which may be bought in Mexico City. They are all mounted in small boxes, which are little more than quarter-inch in dimension. Here are a bride and bridegroom, the former with her bridal veil and orange blossoms, and the latter with his Prince Albert coat and silk hat. Ballet dancers dressed in true Spanish dancing costumes, bull fighters in full regalia, and water carriers with their water jugs are also represented among the dressed fleas of Mexico City.

Some further interesting facts regarding Mexican insects are related in the "National Geographic Magazine." It appears that many of the Indian colors are made from Mexican insects, while one of the most remarkable of the many curious foods eaten by the natives is made from the eggs of a species of marsh fly. This fly deposits its eggs in incredible quantities upon flags and rushes. The eggs are then gathered and made into cakes which are sold in the markets. These little cakes are somewhat like brick bats, and the Indians enjoy a meal of them with as good a stomach as white people enjoy cheese. The eggs resemble the fine fish roe, and when mixed with corn meal and fowl eggs form a staple article of diet, particularly during Lent.

The insects themselves, which are about the size of a housefly, are captured, pounded into a paste, boiled in corn husks, and in this form are eaten.

Another remarkable insect found in Mexico is the Elater fire-fly, which the Indians use as miniature torches. The men fasten them to their ankles in going through the forest, and the women wear them in their hair under a thin gauze veil.

Tiny little cages are constructed in which three or four are kept for lighting purposes. The insects congregate by the thousands in many forest trees and, as if by preconcerted agreement simultaneously flash their lights, then darken them and flash them again.

Pharoah's Serpents

A cone of mercuric sulpho-cyanate, when ignited, burns with the development of a tremendous amount of ash. The cone seems to swell and writhe away like a serpent, hence the name. Any boy can make the cones at little expense. To a solution of corrosive sublimate, add a few drops of ferric chloride. Dissolve potassium sulphocyanate in water, and slowly add this to the other solution, until, after stirring, a red color remains. Filter through a sheet of muslin and form the white curds into little balls or cones. Dry, and you need only touch a match to produce Pharoah's serpents. Do not breathe the vapors.

Ostrich Feather Plucking

During the course of the sitting of the Dominions Royal Commission at Port Elizabeth, the question of the supposed cruelty attending the plucking of ostrich feathers, as affecting the market, was raised, when a witness, Mr. Evans, stated that while in London he delivered a lecture with lantern slides showing the method of plucking. After the lecture a lady told him she had not bought feathers for three years on account of the cruelty she supposed was involved in the plucking, but after the explanation which had been given, she expressed her intention to purchase some next day.

Blacking Stool Attached to Chair

So that a man can sit down to shine his shoes there has been patented a blacking stool that can be temporarily fastened in front of a chair.

Lessen the Shock

A French aviator has placed a pneumatic buffer in front of the seat of his aeroplane to lessen the shock should he strike the ground heavily.

Battles in Human Blood

Battles in human blood between white corpuscles and disease germs have been photographed with the motion picture camera by two French scientists.

Snails Are Hardy.

A French scientist who has been experimenting for 18 years to ascertain the effects of low temperatures on fish and animals has found that common snails can withstand the greatest amount of cold.

END OF THE FORESTS

Timber Supply of Canada and United States Rapidly Decreasing

In a report by the United States forestry service it is predicted that "the whole United States lumber crop will be harvested by 1930." This startling prediction brings home a sense of the nearness of timber exhaustion. The lumbermen of the United States are cutting timber at three times the rate of natural growth. If the United States forests will be so soon reduced to commercial impotence, unless new and sweeping conservation measures are undertaken, what of the tremendous extra drain thereafter upon Canadian timber reserves? Already more merchantable timber is burned every year in Canada in forest fires than is cut.

It is clear that the United States, having drawn on its timber reserves with a prodigal hand, must turn to Canada for lumber, as it has already done for pulp. The forestry officials estimate the area of our commercial timber at 375,000,000 acres, and the reserves are 140,000,000 acres, of which 110,000,000 acres are in Quebec. The United States has 187,000,000 acres of reserves. But these are of particular value on water-sheds for flood prevention, and consequently are not destined for the market. Likewise in Canada, the reserves are in most cases as much for the protection of land and the conservation of water supply as for anticipating a shortage of timber. What is specially necessary is that a check should be placed upon too rapid exploitation of the standing timber. We should constantly seek to guard ourselves against the predicament of France, which is spending $250,000,000 in setting out young trees at the Alpine border—to control floods. Every Provincial Government with control over large forest resources should have a profit-sharing policy by which the people get a percentage of the sale price of lumber, as British Columbia now does. Too much of the value of public timber has been going into private hands.

REGAINS VOICE THROUGH SHOCK

Men, Dumb For Years, Given Power to Speak in Marvelous Manner

The recent case of a young woman in England who, after being deaf and dumb for twenty-one years, is slowly recovering both hearing and speech—the shock of the tragic end of her brother, who drowned himself in the Stour, being regarded as responsible for the miraculous example of shock succeeding where doctors have failed—recalls similar instances, says Charles Lewis in "Tid-Bits."

Some time ago the narrow escape of a boy from drowning off North Shields fish quay had a remarkable sequel. While efforts were being made to restore the apparently drowned boy to consciousness by means of artificial respiration, a man who had been deprived of speech two years earlier as the result of an accident pushed through the crowd merely out of curiosity. As soon as he saw the prostrate boy, although not in any way related to him, the sight gave him such a shock that his speech suddenly returned and he fell to the ground in a state of collapse. Upon recovering he continued to speak freely, and has suffered no further impediment since.

It is not many years since a remarkable case of dumbness excited great interest in medical circles in Germany. Twelve months earlier a Bavarian cattle-dealer had been kicked by a horse, with the result that he completely lost the use of his voice. A year later he was riding a doomed horse to the knacker's yard, when the animal, who clearly had plenty of life in him, began to kick and plunge in a dangerous manner. The man, we are told, lost his head completely in wild excitement, and after a few minutes began to talk, regaining his speech to the boundless astonishment of his friends.

MANY WARS IN SIXTY YEARS

One is Precipitated Every Three Years—A Partial List

In spite of the progress of civilization man remains a fighting animal. Peace societies begin to think they are making progress toward taming his instincts, and they are confronted by another war. Here is a partial list of the wars of the Northern Hemisphere in the last 60 years, exclusive of the minor revolts in Northern South America, in Central America and the West Indies, and in Africa:

Crimean war, 1854-56.
Sepoy mutiny, 1857.
Italy and France against Austria 1859.
Civil war in America, 1860-65.
Mexico invaded by Austria and Allies, 1861-67.
Prussia and Austria against Denmark, 1864.
Seven weeks' war, Austria-Prussian, 1866.
Franco-Prussian, 1870.
Russo-Turkish, 1877-78.
Servo-Bulgarian, 1885.
Japanese-Chinese, 1894-95.
Greco-Turkish, 1897.
Spanish-American, 1898.
Filipino-American, 1899.
China against the allies, 1900.
Boer war, 1899-1902.
Russo-Japanese, 1904.
Balkan States against Turkey, 1912.
Balkan States against Bulgaria, 1913.

This, as has been said, is only a partial list. England has had several small wars, including the important conquest of the Soudan, which are not included, and there have been numerous minor disturbances of one sort and another. But the list includes 20 fair-sized wars, or one every three years. There has been no falling off in recent years. Take the last two decades, for instance, and there have been 10 wars, or one every two years.

Our Point of View

In the great European war race, Russia has the Pole.

—o—

Lord Kitchener's promise to the British troops landed in England that they will get plenty to eat will not hurt the British cause.

—o—

King George's sending of his two sons to fight, the Prince of Wales with the army and Prince Albert with the navy, is a splendid example to the Empire.

—o—

The entrance of Japan into the war will not help the people to follow the movements. The Japanese can put forward names just as bad as any in Russia or Austria.

—o—

General Smith-Dorrien, who succeeds to the command of one of the British divisions, will be remembered for his service in South Africa, where some of the Canadian troops learned of his ability at first hand.

Nerviline Ends Neuralgia
Brings Relief Instantly

No Remedy Like Old "Nerviline" to Cure Pain or Soreness.

That terrible ache—how you fairly reel with it—that stabbing, burning neuralgia—what misery it causes. Never mind, you don't have to suffer—use Nerviline, it's a sure cure. Not an experiment, because nearly forty years of wonderful success has made a name for Nerviline among the people of many different nations. "There is nothing speedier to end Neuralgic headache than old-time 'Nerviline,' " writes Mr. G. C. Dalgleish, from Evanston. "It is so powerful and penetrating that it seems to eat up any pain in a minute. My family couldn't get along without Nerviline. We always keep the 50c. family size bottle handy on the shelf, and use it to end chest colds, sore throat, coughs, earache, toothache and pain in the back. My wife swears by Nerviline. For cramps its effect is atonishing and we believe it is better and speedier than any other household family remedy."

Portugal Takes a Chance

Portugal's announced intention to send 10,000 soldiers to the assistance of Great Britain in the present struggle is not the joke that it may appear to many. The act will not turn the tide of battle against Great Britain's enemies, but should England be defeated in the war Portugal [illegible] ial territory, which adjoins German possessions there. An enormous proportion of Portugal's resources is included in the nation's colonial possessions, all of which the little republic is risking by taking an active part in the war.

It is easier, however, to see why Portugal should take this step when it is remembered that her colonies would have been lost to some stronger power long ago except for the friendship and naval power of Great Britain. Ten times 10,000 men would be few enough for Portugal to contribute in payment for the benefits she has received from England.

The present situation, therefore, reminds us that the map of Africa will almost certainly be as much altered as that of Europe by the conflict now going on. Africa is a series of colonies owing allegiance to different European powers and there is not the least doubt that the boundary lines on two continents will be retraced by the victors in the great war.

Significant Signs

Among the significant effects of the pending European war is the fact that the government of Argentina has authorized Romulo S. Naon, Argentine minister to the United States and one of the A. B. C. mediators in the Mexican muddle, to say to manufacturers and exporters of the United States that money deposited with him will be credited to them in Buenos Aires without discount.

Could there be a more friendly overture for trade between this country and Argentina? Minister Naon is a man of high standing and of great wealth, one of the foremost business men of the southern republic. He is now in New York under instructions from his government to do what he can to encourage our manufacturers and exporters to take advantage of the present opportunity to increase their trade with Argentina.

Last year the foreign trade of Argentina was more than $800,000,000, and the great bulk of it was with England and Germany. This trade is now interrupted by war. England and Germany are the best customers of the United States, and like Argentina we are looking elsewhere for outlets for our products.

It is not a time for hesitation; it is a time for action, and it is to be hoped that the friendly hand of Argentina will be clasped by our business men who have long been dreaming of commerce with the South American republics.

GOES TO HOUSEHOLDERS TO FIND OUT FOOD COST

New York, Aug. 21.—W.A. DeFord, assistant district attorney, who is conducting the food price investigation, to-day requested householders to furnish him lists of food purchasers during the last week in July, the cost, the names and addresses of the dealers. He also asked for statements of fact as to whether there is any indication that dealers in the same lines of foodstuffs in a particular community have combined to advance prices uniformly and at approximately the same time.

Many subpoenaes were issued at the prosecutor's office to-day directing dealers, wholesale and retail, to appear and testify. The information if he decides it is important enough for "John Doe" proceedings, will be placed before Chief Magistrate McAdoo.

In Bronx County a similar inquiry was begun to-day, dealers testifying regarding prices. These witnesses, who included representatives of western packers, agreed for the most part that stock farms in the west were holding back their cattle.

The manager of a large drug dealing house admitted that he had raised the price of certain medicines and soaps without real reason, as his cost for these commodities was the same. He was directed to produce his stock list to-morrow.

While Mayor Mitchel's special investigation committee was meeting to-day to consider the reports from various retail grocers' organizations, inspectors of the bureau of weights and measures were on duty at large markets watching the operations of retail dealers. The grocers' associations sent word to the mayor's committee that every effort would be made to discourage attempts to raise grocery prices.

The retail prices in parts of the city advanced to-day in some commodities and decreased in others. Tea, coffee and some of the vegetables rose, sugar remained the same, flour went down and beef in many sections fell one cent a pound.

The economical housewife in fashionable communities found she could buy more cheaply in poorer sections where she was known as a possessor of money.

The developments of the next few days, it was stated, will determine whether municipal markets are to be established.

OIL THE GREAT WEALTHMAKER

We hold over 3,000 acres, more or less, of oil leases North and South of Monarch and several of our leases are in the same range as the Monarch well.

Many companies claim to be close to Monarch but we are one of the very few who are in Range Six upon which the Monarch Well is situated. Therefore, we must be on the same anti-cline and as it is a foregone conclusion Monarch will get oil, so will we.

Fifty-Seven Feet of Oil Bearing Sands Passed Through in Monarch Well

OFFICIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN OUT BY PRESIDENT GEORGESON—WELL IS NOW DOWN OVER 1,800 FEET AND FLOW OF WET GAS HAS BEEN STRUCK IN LOWER LEVELS—GEOLOGIST DUNN IS AWAY AT PRESENT

Heavy oil showings are being found in the Monarch well, west of Olds, although the oil has not yet come in in commercial quantities.

To put the exact facts before the public, President William Georgeson and Treasurer G. W. Morfitt, of the company, this morning issued an official statement from the drillers setting forth the results.

The heaviest oil seepage has been encountered through a stratum 57 feet thick, and the well is now 1850 feet deep.

A sample of this oil baled out at 1,775 feet was brought to the city this morning and is in the office of Mr. Morfitt, Grain Exchange Building. The oil is a heavy black petroleum with the characteristic petroleum odor.

The statement issued by the officers is as follows:

In the absence of Mr. Dunn, Mr. Van Alst, the head driller, reports that from the depth of 1,775 feet to 1,832 feet he went through oil bearing sands for 57 feet. Throughout there was a heavy showing of black oil in the baler. Two further showing of black wet gas were met at 1,805 feet and 1,815 feet.

The well is now down 1,850 feet. Wet gas has shown at 633 feet, 1,430 feet, 1,805 feet and 1,815 feet.

Oil sands have shown at 806 feet, (46 feet), 1,430 feet (40 feet), 1,740 feet (14 feet), and 1,775 feet (57 feet).

The well is now down 1,850 feet, and while there are good oil showings there is not as yet oil in commercial quantities.

Our stock is on the market at 50 cents a share, a Dollar par, and will be advanced without notice any day pending Monarch Well developments. It is practically a certainty that Monarch will be in oil in commercial quantities within two weeks, Our stock will jump away above par and you had better hurry if you wish to share our prosperity.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Campany re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leavinb $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $90,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

SHARES

Shares are selling at $25.00 each; 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

PAWNBROKERS' CUSTOMERS

Supposedly Wealthy and Obviously Poor Patronize the Money-lender

"It is a great mistake," said a Toronto pawnbroker, "to imagine that the pawnbroker deals only with the poverty-stricken classes. The pawnbroker in a big way of business could reveal, if he so chose, some very surprising secrets of the business he transacts with customers whom the outside world looks on as prosperous, and some of them very prosperous. I have known of one reputedly very wealthy business man here, pledging practically all his household silver for some $10,000, and many of his wife's jewels for a still larger sum. You see, people with the reputation of being wealthy must have a certain amount of ready money, and, when the bank has advanced every nickel that it will, they have to come to us.

"Sometimes it is the professional man forced to preserve a good front who is driven to pawn his watch or his wife's jewelry. Sometimes it is the needy tradesman, pressed by the bank, but yet keeping a brave face to the world, who collects all the portable property of a valuable nature which his family possesses in order to raise a little money to enable him to carry on for a while longer. Sometimes the money is needed just for pleasure.

"But, of course, the bulk of our customers are among the poor. Last winter the articles we had offered to us told countless mute tales of the most piteous distress. Some weeks we had literally hundreds of wedding rings offered to us, and these are articles which are rarely pawned in large numbers unless in exceptionally hard times. In fact, we were so loaded up with cheap jewelry that it became almost impossible for us to advance anything at all on some kinds of it, although, in the absence of such a glut, loans would readily have been made."

Many people look on the pawnbroker and his business with disgust. But the respectable pawnbroker deals honorably with his customers, and, in some cases, is an actual benefactor to them. In hard times he is the banker of the poor. But the unscrupulous pawnbroker has many chances of keeping an illegitimate profit. A pledge pawned for $2 or less, if not redeemed within a year from the time of pledging, becomes the pawnbroker's absolute property. But a pledge pawned for more than $2 continues redeemable, even after the expiration of a year, until it is sold by public auction. And before such sale the articles pawned must be exhibited to public view and be advertised on two separate days in a public newspaper published in the city. The pawnbroker may bid for these pledges, but he is required to keep a just account of the sale, showing the day when the money for each article was paid, which if there is any surplus on sale of an article, means to pay the same to the pawner.

When Bananas Are Ripe

There is a popular delusion that the banana has ripened when it turns from its original green to a golden yellow, and those thus deluded decline to touch this fruit when dark spots appear in the yellow skin of the banana.

The banana is not fully ripe when it is yellow. This change from green to yellow is the first outward appearance of a chemical process incidental to the ripening process. Not until a considerable portion of the skin has turned to a deep brown has this ripening process sufficiently developed to give the fruit its greatest value as a delicious and healthful food.

A Curious Punishment

The Slovaks (Hungary are a very peaceful, law-abiding community, but there are probably black sheep among their number, and in front of the Roman Catholic Church at Postyen may be seen an ancient stone pillar, reminiscent of the days when punishment was meted out in much the same way as it was in England in those days. Fastened to this pillar in the centre is a large iron clasp, and at the base two smaller ones close together. These clasps fitted around the waist and ankles of offenders, and when a man or woman had stolen something they were locked to this post on a Sunday and compelled to hold in their hands whatever they had stolen. Every Slovak attends mass on Sundays, from which it may be gathered that this public exposure was no small ordeal. The post bears a terse inscription, the translation of which is, "I do not ask you to come, but if you come, I receive you."

Dissipating Fog by Wireless

The North Railroad Company in France is making experiments on the use of wireless waves for clearing away fog. It is well known that electric waves act upon the water particles which make up fog, so as to dissolve them and turn them into vapor. Following this idea, it is claimed that as much as 600 feet can be cleared up in front of the electric wires which are sending out the waves, the fog being a great value in practice, especially for railroads and ships.

An 1,800 Years Old Egg

An egg which cannot be said to be fresh is one which dates from 1,800 years back. It was found during recent excavations made at Nikopolis, in the tomb of an 11-months-old child Sextius Rufus. Already more than 80 tombs have been explored by the archaeological service in this ancient city, which was built to commemorate the battle of Actium. Among the finds are a quantity of gold jewels, also pottery and lamps ornamented with elegant figures in relief.

Cut This Out

Famous Specialist's Recipe for Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises.

If you know someone who is troubled with head noises, or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand to them, and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferers perhaps from total deafness. Recent experiments have proved conclusively that catarrhal deafness, head noises, etc., were the direct cause of constitutional disease, and that salves, sprays, inhalers, etc., merely temporize with the complaint, and seldom, if ever, effect a permanent cure. This being so, much time and money has been spent of late by a noted specialist in perfecting a pure, gentle, yet effective tonic that would quickly dispel all traces of the catarrhal poison from the system. The effective prescription which was eventually formulated and which had aroused the belief that deafness will soon be extinct, is given below in understandable form, so that anyone can treat themselves in their own home at little expense.

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength), about 75c worth. Take this home, and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of moist or granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose promptly ends the most distressing head noises, headache, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., while the hearing rapidly returns as the system is invigorated by the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrhal poison, and which are quickly overcome by this efficacious treatment. Nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are directly caused by catarrh, therefore there are but few people whose hearing cannot be restored by this simple home treatment. Every person who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness, or catarrh in any form, should give this prescription a trial. There is nothing better.

Important.—In ordering Parmint always specify that you want Double Strength; your druggist has it or he can get it for you; if not, send 75c to the International Laboratories, 74 St. Antoine St., Montreal, P. Q., who make a specialty of it.

A WONDERFUL WHEAT FOUND BY ACCIDENT

Chance Discovery in English Field is Reported Officially to Canada

A new wheat was discovered at Buckden, near Huntingdon, Eng., according to a communication to the Department of Trade and Commerce from the Canadian Commissioner at Birmingham. It is reported to be of an excellent milling quality and to possess an inbred stamina which assists it to overcome disadvantages of the seeding season and of the ripening period. [redacted]

Mr. E. Cook, of Buckden, near Huntingdon, is the discoverer. Three years ago, walking through a corn field at Graveley, he detected an ear so different from all the rest that he plucked it and took it home as a curiosity. It was a large ear, of a peculiar shape, thickening gradually towards the top, of rather exceptional length, with an extraordinary number of corns, and growing on a straw remarkable for its thickness and strength. Mr. Cook thought of sowing the corn in his garden. He preserved the grain until the seed time and when harvest came he had a really wonderful crop from the seventy or eighty grains he had sown. The seed was carefully flailed and stored and the second seeding took place on Mr. Cook's allotment.

He approached Mr. G. Hall, a large farmer, at Buckden, told him about the wheat, and asked if he would undertake to grow the next crop for him. He had now enough seed to sow nearly three acres. An arrangement was made and as the new breed was to grow side by side with, and under the same conditions of cultivation as other very highly esteemed wheats, a very valuable comparison was set up for the first time. Of that comparison Mr. Hall says:

"Essex Conqueror and Little Joss are supposed to be the champion wheats around here, but this entirely beats them. With the 2 bushels 2 pounds of seed which Mr. Cook supplied I was able to sow nearly three acres. One bushel of this wheat to the acre is sufficient, whereas with other wheats you have to sow two bushels to the acre, and I have got as big a crop from three pecks of the new wheat as from two bushels of other sorts.

"This harvest is not a fair test because it was seeded under such bad conditions. I have looked in the Gresham Encyclopedia of Agriculture and I cannot find any type of wheat resembling the ears of this sort. I think the hybrid must have a strain of rivet about it, because it is slightly horned at the top. But the grain has none of the coarseness of rivet."

The produce of his harvest is to be conserved for another seeding.

Heat Received by Earth From Sun

One square yard of the earth's surface receives each day averaging six hours of sunshine an amount of heat equal to that contained in 1.2 pounds of coal, according to an Italian chemist. At this rate one square mile would receive each day heat equivalent to the combustion of more than 2,000 tons of coal; or during the year an area of about 1,200 miles an amount of energy from the sun equivalent to the 1,100,000,000 tons of coal and lignite mined annually in the United States and Europe.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ⅛ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Surgery Extraordinary

There appears to be no limit to the daring and skill of the modern surgeons, which are nowadays so amazing that they verge on the miraculous. Recently there were the case of the restoration of a blind man's sight by transplanting sections of the cornea from a boy's eye which the surgeon had been obliged to remove; and of a girl, part of whose brain had been taken away, without the least harmful consequences.

In another case the heart of a woman, who had been stabbed, was sewn up at a Paris hospital; and a few minutes later she walked off as sound and well as ever. A Swiss surgeon removed the entire stomach of a patient, who gets along just as well without it, eating and digesting through the gullet; and a noseless man was provided with a new organ from one of his own fingers. The patient's arm was encased in plaster, and for four weeks he had to hold his "live" finger to his face until it took root, when it was amputated, to flourish as a nasal organ!

CANADIAN LIVE STOCK

Statistics of live stock in Canada, published by the Dominion Government, throw interesting light on the state of the beef and dairy industries. In the six-year interval, 1908-14, there was a decrease of 244,600 in milch cows; in "other cattle," beef cattle chiefly, the falling off was 1,266,306. The decrease of sheep was [illegible], and this finds an inadequate set-off in the increase of [illegible] in the number of swine. To make the case worse the decreases were steady, while the single increase is due only to a spurt for 1914. The inference to be drawn from these statistics is obvious, and the lesson they convey is equally so. In the face of frequently reiterated warnings the farmers of Canada, and especially of Ontario, have persistently ignored the signs of the times, have continued growing grain for export in the old way, and have sold themselves so short of live stock that it will take years to fill up the vacuum which has been allowed to occur. While the meat-eating population has been steadily increasing the supply of meat has been steadily and rapidly decreasing, and, worst of all the falling off in milch cows means inevitably a continued, perhaps an increasing, scarcity of calves. There are no sure indications observable that any stay has taken place in the downward trend, and the farmers who might be making a handsome profit out of live stock appear to be still bent on taking chances with the cultivation of grain.—The Globe.

Telling the Time by Oil

Do you know that every miner, when descending into the pit to work, takes with him a couple of clocks? These are not ordinary timepieces for they have neither wheels, springs, dials, nor any of the usual appurtenances. The "clocks" are simply his lamp and oil flask. By noting the quantity of oil consumed—or that left—the miner can tell to within a few minutes any hour of the day or night.

When a miner's lamp goes out, as it not infrequently does, in almost any circumstances he must not relight it himself. Instead, though he may be left in pitch darkness, he must grope his way to the lamp cabin, or to some other point where he can obtain the proper assistance. He does the "groping" with his hands, stooping down until he touches the tram lines along which the coals are taken, and sliding his hands along the metals until he reaches his destination or meets someone going in the same direction.

A coal hewer's earnings depend on the weight of coal he gets, and also on the number of fathoms cut. A cubic yard of coal weighs about eighteen hundredweight, and the outstretched arms of an average man extend to about one fathom. By these measurements, independent of the official ones, each man can roughly calculate his earnings for any particular "shift."

CANADA'S NEW PARK

Old Trading Post Stood in Midst of Beautiful Forest Tract

Forty-seven years ago two adventurous young Englishmen, Viscount Milton and Dr. Cheadle, after passing the winter in a Saskatchewan forest set out from Edmonton to cross the Rocky Mountains and to reach the Pacific coast by the overland route. After a most laborious journey, attended with much hardship and often much danger, they accomplished their purpose. They crossed the Rockies by way of the Yellowhead Pass, which accurate surveys have since determined to be the easiest passage through the mountains, and is the route followed by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway on its passage over the great divide. On their journey they arrived at Jasper House, an ancient landmark, even at that time, in the geography of this part of Canada. One hundred years ago Jasper House was one of the most important trading posts of the Hudson Bay Company in all the far North-west. It was built in the year 1800 by Jasper Hawes, who is frequently referred to by the early explorers of the upper Rockies.

SPORT SACRIFICED

Money the Only Consideration in Profession Baseball

Organized baseball seems to be on the verge of losing its last vestige of sport for sport's sake, according to W. J. MacBeth, a New York sporting writer. The commercial end of the enterprise overshadows all else. The magnates are out for the money and make no bones of the fact. The lust for gold is as deeply rooted in the minor leagues as in the major organizations.

The two big circuits depend upon patronage for financial gains. Because of this it is necessary for them to secure the very best talent to display before the public. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are expended every season by each club in the National and American Leagues for the sole purpose of fortifying for the future. Every club owner has several highly paid scouts beating all around the country in search of likely looking "bush" timber. Some have as many as six sleuths under salary. Besides these, there is a grand army of amateur sharps who do business on a commission basis. "This policy [illegible]

FILM PRODUCTION

Very Little Make-up is Used by Cinema Actors

Is there any demand for cinema actors and actresses? This question is so often asked by people who aspire to face the camera for fame and fortune, of one of the biggest film-producers in London the other day.

"No," he promptly replied. "Not unless they have any special talent which can be used in the making of humorous and dramatic pictures, or have acted in particular plays which it is wished to film." He proceeded to point out that to act before the camera requires special qualities. The pantomime actor of a century ago, who depended for effects solely upon actions and not words, would have made an ideal cinema actor, who must necessarily rely upon facial expression and gesture for the interpretation of any scene or incident which he may desire to portray.

Unlike the experienced actor, who rarely looks at the camera, but goes through his part as though it were non-existent, the beginner is handicapped by the thought that every action made is being definitely recorded by the machine.

Furthermore, the cinema actor and actress can rely little on make-up for any particular facial expression. Very little make-up, as a matter of fact, is used, for the simple reason that the immense enlargement the film undergoes when finally projected on to the screen would intensify the paint and powder to such an extent as to make the players appear ridiculous.

More often than not the faces of cinema actors and actresses are whitened, the result being that the powerful battery of arc lamps which are employed in the studio when directed on the player form striking contrasts of light and shade.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

Copper is one of the world's chief necessities, and the demand for it is constantly increasing. Growth of the electrical industry largely accounts for this. Telegraph and Telephone Wire—Trolley Wire—Trolley Wheels and the multitude of other Electrical Machines and Parts—Power Transmission Wire and the use of the metal in various valuable Alloys—these are some of the places where copper is consumed, and while its production is enormous it is used about as rapidly as it can be mined and made ready. THIS IS WHY OWNERSHIP IN A COPPER MINE IS ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY SOURCES OF INCOME POSSIBLE TO IMAGINE.

TIME TO START

Naturally the time to secure an interest in any sort of enterprise is at the start, because it is then that money for development and equipment is needed and this is, of course, the reason why shares in the project are released! When these necessities are provided for the Opportunity passes.

For years we have been spending time, effort and money in getting together one of the largest known copper deposits, and we now own and control thousands of acres of land, covering veins of copper, ore carrying gold and silver values, extensive veins of coal, iron and lime.

The geology is so well defined as to make identifications of size and location of the copper bearing veins a perfect definite matter. In addition to this the estate has been thoroughly prospected by some 4,000 feet of work, there being more than 100 shafts, pits, cuts and tunnels, every one of which shows copper in paying quantities. The dumps of these openings run from 2 to 8 per cent in copper metal.

Facilities for economically winning the copper from its ores are remarkably fine. In the company's own ground are five known coal beds, insuring a perpetual supply of cheap fuel, easily accessible and located within a very short distance of the site chosen for its furnaces. Water and timber are also abundant and easy of access.

One of Colorado's most eminent mining engineers, after thoroughly examining this property, states in his report that the net profits resulting from operation of this property should range from $250,000 to $1,000,000 each year.

There is no uncertainty, no guesswork, about this project. Applied to it, a definite cause will inevitably produce an equally definite effect. Equipment for mining these immense bodies of ore and reducing the metal in them to bullion means dividends—it can't mean anything else—and it is to provide this equipment and the funds required for its installation, and the preliminary operating expenses of the estate that an interest in the project is offered to you.

It is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to join in a well planned, conservative, and exceptionally profitable business undertaking. The foundations are laid, the property is acquired and the next step—providing the equipment—is now being taken. So soon as this is accomplished your chance to secure a share in the enterprise will be gone.

CANADA'S LOG RULES

Several Different Measurements Exist Throughout Canada

It is interesting to compare the International Log Rule with those in most common use in Canada. A sixteen-foot log twelve inches in diameter contains, according to the International Rule, 105 feet, board measure, of lumber; according to the Scribner Rule, used in the Prairie Provinces, 75 feet, board measure, and according to the Doyle Rule, in most common use in Eastern Canada, only 64 feet, board measure, of lumber. The disparity is even greater in smaller logs and it is small logs which make up the greater part of the cut in Canada to-day. Thus, so far as stumpage dues are concerned, it is safe to say that very often the lumbermen pay for only half the merchantable lumber the average log really contains. It is significant that when the British Columbia government recently decided to increase the royalty paid on timber cut in the interior of the provinces, it accomplished that purpose merely by stipulating that the British Columbia Log Rule should henceforth be used in that region instead of the Doyle Rule, thus increasing by 45 per cent. the amount of estimated lumber in the logs cut.

It is possible that in other parts of Canada the bonus paid by the lumbermen in addition to stumpage dues makes up for this loss in scaling. But, other things being equal, lumbermen operating under a lenient rule have an unfair advantage over those whose logs are more closely scaled and the only final remedy would seem to be the adoption of a general rule such as the International, or better still, the substitution of cubic measurement of logs, a practice which has long been in operation in Europe where high lumber prices make acc[illegible] not only desirable [illegible] necessary.

A Cure For Warts

The Budapest correspondent of the "Lancet" states that Dr. Felix Szontagh, of that city, has discovered a new and simple way of treating warts. It consists in covering the wart and the surrounding skin with ordinary caoutchouc plaster, and leaving it so covered for weeks—even, if necessary, for two or three months. Whenever the plaster becomes loose it must be removed and replaced by a new piece. As a rule the plaster is to be changed once in three or four days. Any adherent residue of the caoutchouc is to be removed with ether or petrol, care being taken that the wart or surrounding skin shall not be rubbed energetically, because irritation of the skin is not conducive to the disappearing of the wart.

WHAT WAR MEANS

Soldiers on Active Service a Veritable Scourge—French Honor Mothers

"All's fair in love and war," runs the old saying, and Mr. E. A. Vizetelly, in his volume of reminiscences, "My Days of Adventure," proves the truth of it. Referring to the appearance of the railway station at Nantes during the Franco-German War, he says:

"Never since have I seen anything resembling it. A thousand panes of glass belonging to windows or roofing had been shivered to atoms. Every mirror in either waiting or refreshment rooms had been pounded to pieces; every gilt frame broken to little bits. The clock lay about in small fragments; account books and printed forms had been torn to scraps, partitions, chairs, tables, benches, boxes, nests of drawers, had been hacked, split, broken, reduced to mere strips of wood. The large stoves were overturned and broken, and the marble refreshment counter—some thirty feet long, and previously one of the features of the station—now strewed the floor in particles, suggesting gravel. It was, indeed, an amazing sight, the more amazing as no such work of destruction could have been accomplished without extreme labor.

"When we returned to the inn for dinner, I asked some questions.

"'Who did it?'

"'The first German troops that came here,' was the answer.

"'Why did they do it? Was it because your men had cut the telegraph wires and destroyed some of the permanent way?'

"Oh, no! They expected to find something to drink in the refreshment room, and when they discovered that everything had been taken away they set aboutu breaking the fixtures.'"

Mr. Vizetelly discloses this interesting fact: Whenever letters were found on the bodies of men who fell during the Franco-German War they were, if this man was a Frenchman more usually letters for his mother, and if he was a German, more usually letters for his sweetheart. Many such letters found their way into print during the course of the war. It is well known fact that a Frenchman's cult for his mother is a national characteristic.

Trent Canal Austrians Let Out.

A few days ago some twenty-five Austrians working on the Trent Canal at Severn River were discharged. Two sons of Col. Griffith, who is now at the Oriental Hotel organizing a local lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose, have enlisted and started for the front from Fort Francis, Ont. War Cry Sells Well

Yesterday a farmer from Douro was in the City for the first time in many months. He was met on George street by a demure little Salvation Army lassie, whose blue eyes, whilst conveying the traditional feminine trouble for mankind, still held scintillations of the zeal she shows for the Army, stopped the farmer and asked, "Don't you want to buy a War Cry?" The farmer replied, "Yes, young lady. I've come to the city to get the latest war news. Give me five copies and I'll give the rest to my neighbors."

Bugler Honored

An interesting event took place at the Armouries on Thursday evening, when the members of the bugle band of the 57th Regiment said farewell to Bugler Bruce Mills, son of Major Mills, who has enlisted for service over seas. Bugler Mills has been a member of the Bugle band for a long period and has been most popular with his fellows, who took the opportunity of presenting him with an address and a very handsome wrist watch. The presentation was made by Drum Sergt. Beach, while Bugle Serg. Sharpe read the address.

A Patriotic Concert

The programme for last night's band concert bore out in every number the promise that the concert would be a patriotic one. All the selections were well known tunes, and a total crowd was on hand. The programme was as follows:

1. United Empire ....(March).
2. "God Bless the Prince of Wales"
3. Under the British Flag.
4. Four Gems of Scotland.
5. Boys of the Old Brigade.
6. Irish Selection.
7. Reminiscences of England.
8. O Canada!
9. The Maple Leaf.

Misguided Thieves.

An attempt was made to steal from The Warder last night. If this latest venture of local burglars has any connection with others which have taken place the past few weeks the authorities have one good clue. The culprits are imbeciles. Who ever heard of a sane criminal trying to steal from a newspaper? With the possible exception of the church mouse, a newspaper establishment, from proprietor to printer's devil, is the poorest institution under the moon. The burglars who foolishly forced their way into The Warder office last night are poorer and wiser men to-day. After prying open the drawers of the desk, and banging the safe a blow, they escaped with three cents and two bananas. BUT THEY LEFT THE AXE.—Lindsay Warder.

Miss Jronmonger of The Barn, Sandwich, was killed while driving her car near Grantham.

Hoch der Kaiser who has made the face of Europe look Billious! Nit!

A new picture house will open on or about October 1st on George street with 800 seats.

Local men fond of artificial will regret to learn that booze will go up as well as down. Higher priced grain causes the upward flight.

No letters are accepted at the local post office for Germany, Austria or any of their colonies. Should any such be posted they are sent to the Dead Letter office at Ottawa. None such letters yet have been posted here.

The 57th leaves for Val Cartier this morning. Owing to the recent Censor Act we cannot name the time. The two Regimental bands, the 57th and Bugle Band will accompany the men to the station.

There is one particular in which this City might copy the United States. During the Spanish-American war, in every town and city in that country every important business place floated the stars and stripes. Why not the Union Jack?

COUNT WHITE THINKS WAR WILL NOT LAST VERY LONG

Paris, Aug. 21.—A news dispatch from Tarbes quotes Count Witte, the Russian statesman, who is on his way from Biarritz to Russia as declaring that the European war would not last more than two or three months.

It was bound to end, he said, in the downfall of Germany. The moment had come when Russia should intervene. Her mobilization had been carried out slowly, but surely, and her army was certain to vanquish Germany whatever might happen.

JAPAN HAS DECLARED WAR ON THE GERMANS

Immense Japanese Force Waits Word To Attack The German Forts at Kiao Chau, In China

NEW YORK, AUGUST 23.—DESPATCHES RECEIVED HERE TO.DAY STATE THAT JAPAN HAS DECLARED WAR ON GERMANY, AS GERMANY HAS NOT ANSWERED HER ULTIMATUM, WHICH WAS TIMED FOR SUNDAY MORNING.

IT IS ANTICIPATED HERE THAT JAPAN'S ACTIVITIES WILL BE CONFINED TO THE FAR EAST

Shanghai, Aug. 22.—Not alone the Japanese fleet, but an immense Japanese army is ready waiting the word to strike at the German forts at Kiao Chau, China. Japan did not wait for the expiration of her ultimatum to place her forces in position. Japanese correspondents are warned that any publication of news of the army of navy shall be punished by death

It is reported here that the fleet is mobilized, at a rendezvous near the Shantung peninsula. With the fleet is reported to be a large army on transports, nearly every man of whom is a veteran of the Russo-Japanese war. There is no question in Tokio now that Germany will resist to the end. The entire fortifications of the German concession have been re-inforced. Coolies have been working day and night for a month, strengthening every point! Additional guns have been mounted and the channel to the harbor has been mined.

Tokio advices say that for the present there will be no levying of a war loan. The minister of finance believed that the present budget will be ample for the military and naval operations under consideration. There has been no excitement whatever in Tokio. The German embassy attaches will proceed to the United States when war is declared, which will be at at the expiration of the time limit on Japan's ultimatum, turning over the German affairs to the United States Ambassador All official documents and funds of German Samoa have been transferred to the bank in American Samoa for safe keeping, the German territory not being strong enough to withstand any naval assault

At present there is no indications that the Japanese offensive plans consider any further operations than the taking of Kiao Chau

The assurances given the United States that Japan has no plan of operations that provides for any territorial aggrandizement are believed here to mean there will be no moves made against Samoa.

The Chinese Government is alarmed over the outlook, because of the danger of anti-Japanese outbreaks at various centres when Tokio acts. Japan's protestations that she intends to turn over the Kiao Chau concession to China are not accepted as final. Chinese troops are in the vicinity of Kiao Chau, but the government has made no announcement of its position

FRENCH SUFFER SETBACK

Paris, Aug. 22.—The French advance on Metz has suffered a severe setback. Beyond this announcement little so far has been learned. There are rumors that the defeat was severe but there is no confirmation of this.

BRITISH RESERVISTS IN U. S. TOLD TO BE READY

Washington, Aug. 22.—All British army reservists in the U. S. have been ordered to place themselves at the orders of the British consular officers in their districts.

The reservists have not been ordered to join their colors in full sense of the term, but they have been ordered to get in touch with British consuls to be ready for orders.

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—Announcement was made here to-day that Japan has placed a strict censorship on all cable messages from the Empire. Names and addresses of the sendor and receiver of the same must now appear.

Code is not allowed in messages sent to Japan, but may be used in messages sent from there. English and French are the only foreign languages permitted for communication.

GERMANS USING DUM-DUM BULLETS

French Minister of War To Appeal To the Powers In An Effort to Have Cruel Practice Stopped

PARIS, AUw. 22.—The Government to-day calls attention of the powers which signed the Hague convention to its report that on August 10, following an engagement a French army surgeon found five "dum-dum" bullets on the road to Munster, in Alsace. These bullets were in a rifle clip and were turned over to the French commanding officer.

Other "dum-dum" bullets taken from the bodies of French soldiers killed in battle have been forwarded to the minister of war.

THREAT TO STIR UP TROUBLE IN INDIA

London, Aug. 22.—A Despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Rome says that, according to messages from Berlin, the German press is indignant at Great Britains acceptance of Japans support. The leading paper declares that Germany will retaliate by stirring up an Islamitic revolution in India, Egypt, Tunis, Algeria and the Soudan, which will quickly bring England and France to terms.

Germany Calls Her Last Line To Resist Russian Invasion—Six Million Men Now in Field

London, Aug. 22.—Germany has summoned to the colors her last reserve line, taking in every able-bodied man up to fifty-seven years of age. As soon as the mobilization of this last force is complete she will have a force estimated at 6,000,000 men in the field. This is a report telegraphed here to-day by the Copenhagen correspondent of the Daily Chonicle, and is regarded as authentic.

The reserves summoned in the last call, and their estimated strength, are: 700,000 of the Landwehr; 2,000,000 Ersatz and Landstrum troops, and the war Imergency field army of 1,200,000. Of these the Ersatz forces are all between the ages of forty-five and fifty-seven.

Among the military experts here it is asserted that Germany has called upon her last line of men to protect the country against invasion so that the regular army and the younger reserves can wage the conflict against France and the allies in the west without fear of being completely overwhelmed by hordes of Russians, 800,000 picked troops of whom are now rushing across the border into Germany.

GERMANS TAKE OFFENSIVE

Paris, Aug. 22.—Reinforced by large numbers of Austrians, the German army in Alsace-Lorraine has begun to take the offensive from all bases on the line of the Rhine against the French campaign of invasion, which heretofore forced the Germans to the defensive, say official reports.

OSTEND SERVICE CONTINUES

London, Aug. 22.—The German advance into the western part of Belgium has not as yet interfered with the progress of steamer service between Folkstone and Ostend. The boats from each port left on time to-da The reports in Saturday nights papers that German patrols had reached Ostend have not been confirmed.

DUKE OF ABRUZZI IN CHARGE

London, Aug. 22.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Rome says that the Duke of Abruzzi has been placed commander in chief of the Italian army.

AUSTRIANS SUFFER GREAT LOSS

Nish, Servia, Au- 22.—The following announcement concerning the victory of the Servian troops over the Austrians was made here to-day: "The Servian army has gained a great victory at Mount Paer, and the river Zadar. The enemy retired along the whole front. Our troops pursued them vigorously.

"The enemy suffered enormous loss, the booty was very great. Yesterday the Servians continued pursuing the Austrians' left wing towards the Drina, and captured two more cannons. The Austrians' attacks on the Servians' left wing were repulsed, the enemy retiring, pursued by a strong detachment of Servian cavalry.

"The Servian artillery has destroyed three Austrian barges and three steamers near Stara."

SERVIANS REPULSE AUSTRIANS

Cettinje, Aug. 22.—The war office announces that after an all-day attack upon the Servian position at Grahave yesterday, the Austrains were repulsed with loss.

UHLANS THREE MILES FROM DUTCH FRONTIER

London, Aug. 22.—In a despatch from Amsterdam the correspondent of The Daily Mail says: "I have received a telephone message from Rosendaala on the Dutch-Belgian frontier declaring that German Uhlans were seen Friday afternoon three miles from the Dutch frontier near Eschen, which is 18 miles north of Antwerp."

GERMANS REPORT "MAGNIFICENT VICTORY"

STRATFORD SOLDIER KILLED IN FALL FROM TRAIN

Montreal, Aug. 22.—Frank Johnson a member of the 28th regiment, Stratford, was instantly killed, and his body was terrible mangled about 3.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the foot of Saulter avenue, when he fell underneath a C.N.R. troop train on which his regiment was passing throu Toronto en route for Valcartier. He lived at 116 Nelson street Stratford.

Just how the accident happened no ne of his companions could tell, but it is thought that he was standing between two cars and fell underneath the wheels of one. The train passed over his head, neck and part of his chest. There was nothing on the clothes of the soldier to identify him but his name was supplied by members of his regiment.

His body was removed to the morgue.

It is said that this is the first passenger that has been killed in Ontario by a C.N.R. train.

WOMAN HANGING FROM WINDOW SILL RESCUED

Boston, Aug. 22.—Hanging from the sill of a third story window, scantly clad, Mrs. Delia Duffy of 23 Woodward street was rescued last night by William Smith of 3 Sayward street before her strength gave out. She said she had been forced out of the window. A few hours later the police arrested her husband, Peter Duffy

Mr. and Mrs. Duffy quarrelled earlier in the evening, according to neighbors. The quarrel ceased for awhile, and then they heard a loud scream. Looking up they saw Mrs. Duffy hanging from the window sill. Her body was swaying and it was feared that she would fall any moment. When Smith went upstairs in the kitchen, he declares he found Duffy smoking in the kitchen, apparently not worrying about his wife's predicament.

Recently Mrs. Duffy's three-year-old daughter fell out of the same window and was instantly killed. She was being held up to the window by her sister Rose, two years her senior.

"Had Providence Dealt Differently With Me I Would Have Had a Son To Contribute To The Empire's Defence"

Ottawa, Aug. 22.—The Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, formally prorogued the war parliament this afternoon. In doing so his royal highness thanked the senate and house of commons for the prompt and adequate measures taken to assist the empire in its present struggle, which he hoped would end honorably in its favor.

The closing hours of the House of Commons this afternoon were marked by the delivery of patriotic speeches by the Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, Hon. George P. Graham, acting in the temporary absence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, as leader of the opposition, Sir George E. Foster, and Dr. Michael Clarke, of Red Deer. Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, at the outset, explained that 100,000 men had already volunteered for foreign service, and 27,000 were now on the trains bound for Ottawa, and 28,000 could be taken.

"We can't keep them from volunteering," said Col. Hughes.

A. K. McLe . (Halifax) asked whether, after the first contingent was sent, the militia would be drawn upon.

Col. Hughes said that no one but volunteers would be sent to the war. The minister, in a description of conditions at Val Cartier, said everything there would be in readiness for handling the whole of the Canadian contingent by Sept. 1st.

Dr. Michael Clark electrified the house by a passionate declaration that Canada's sons were fighting for the right. He characterized the government's war measures as wise, energetic and effective. Col. Hughes thanked the member for Red Deer for his praise of the government's measures. He would like to state that Dr. Clarke's son was a member of the Canadian contingent.

Sir Robert Borden paid a glowing tribute to the bravery of the Belgians.

He testified to Canada's desire to assist the empire. At this juncture Hon. G. P. Graham said it was expected that when it came to defending the empire Canada would make history repeat itself. Had Providence dealt differently with him he would have had a son to contribute to the empire's aid.

A burst of sympathetic cheers marked this simple announcement, during which Mr. Graham, who lost his only son two years ago, brushed his hand hurriedly across his eyes.

Continuing, with voice hoarse with emotion, he said Canadians should be proud to fight for Canada and the Empire, and also beside the valiant Belgians.

Sir George E. Foster said the Canadian people must now put on the full armour of courage. They must not be daunted if they heard of temporary reverses in Europe to British arms, or a series of reverses. He hoped the fire of sacrifice would burn brightly in all of us and burn up all that was selfish and base.

FOOD CONDITIONS IN HOLLAND

London, Aug. 22.—The Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that because of a shortage of flour the bakers in Rotterdam are making bread composed of equal parts of flour and potato. the mixture is palatable.

SIR ROBERT BORDEN, PREMIER OF CANADA, WHOSE PATRIOTIC SPEECHES IN THE HOUSE THE LAST WEEK HAVE BEEN THE FEATURE OF THE SESSION

FEAR OF DIRIGIBLES AT SPOT WHERE TROOPS LAND

cen in the success of the allies over the Kaiser gave way to-day to forebodings that the capture of Ostend by the Germans constituted a serious menace against England.

The British navy will be able to prevent the landing of troops in England, but invasions by Zeppelins are feared The possibility dirigibles spreading destruction id openly discussed. The London Times and the Morning Post warn Englishmen that optimism must cease.

German troops are already across the French border, near Lille, feeling out the position of the French, preparatory to an attack in force to open the roadway to Paris.

The populace is chilled by rumors that the French mobilization, as in 1870, was slow. It is admitted in military circles that the Kaiser has retarded the temporary check at Liege by the brilliant success of the last three days.

SAYS WAR WILL NOT EFFECT THE MILLINERY

Boston, Aug. 22.—J.D. Duggan, foreign buyer for Chandler & Company, who arrived in Boston yesterday from Paris, said the war will have little effect on foreign millinery and gowns for the coming season so far as this country is concerned.

All of the worth while models that foreign artists originated for the coming season are already in this country and I believe there will be Parisian styles next spring as in years past regardless of the war," he said. Because the men are off at the front fighting is no reason to believe that the women will not continue to make hats as they always have.

"There may be some difficulty in getting new Parisian styles in gowns and robes for the spring, but that is some distance away. I was fortunate in getting out my new stocks before the war broke over there. But I had to leave my baggage behind in order to get out of Paris myself."

THE BODY OF POPE PIUS X LIES IN STATE AT ROME

Preparations for Burial Under Way—Three Hundred Invitations Issued

Rome, Aug. 22.—The body of Pope Pius X., clad in his pontifical robes and with the emblems of his sacred office beside it, lay to-day in the chapel of the Blessed Sacrament in St. Peter's. The doors of the great church were opened and the faithful resumed their kilgrames to the bier, upon which rested the remains of the holy father.

Preparations for burial are now on their way. The stairway leading to the crypt under the alter, where lie the remains of St. Peter, has been covered with heavy boards. Down these the bier will be lowered gently, until it is finally deposited near the casket of Pope Pius VI. Three hundred invitations were issued for the ceremonies of entombing. Among those present will be members of the diplomatic corps and representatives of the Italian nobility. Troops were withdrawn from the square of St. Peter's this afternoon.

To Peel Off Freckled, Tanned, or Muddy Skin

To remove tan, muddiness, freckles, blotches or any complexion difficulty, the best thing to do is to remove the skin itself. This is easily, painlessly and inexpensively done by the application of ordinary mercolized wax, procurable at any drug-store. The wax peels off the defective outer skin, a little each day, gradually bringing the cutis or second layer of skin to the surface. The pores are unclogged and the face breathes in the life-giving oxygen. The new skin is beautifully soft, clear and white, bearing the healthy glow of youth

Just apply the wax as you would cold cream, only not rubbing it in. In the morning wash it off with warm water. It's the most effective treatment known for a soiled, discolored or aged complexion.

TEETH AND APPLES

The Use of the One as Food Will Preserve the Other

Dr. Sims Wallace, late dental surgeon to the London Hospital, voices the astounding belief that there are some 21,000,000 teeth in Great Britain ruined through eating sweets. He urges the adoption of a diet containing a good quantity of farinaceous food in a form which will stimulate mastication—brown bread, and the eating of fresh fruit with every meal.

The importance of the proper care of teeth during childhood is becoming universally recognized, and the London County Council established a centre for the treatment of dental troubles of schoolchildren with X rays.

According to investigation it was found that about 29 per cent. of the children of well-to-do parents have bad teeth, as against 27 per cent. from poorer homes. This is probably accounted for by the fact that, as the latter have more coarser food, their teeth have more work to do, and are consequently stronger and cleaner. Their sweets are also fewer, and are mostly of the cheap, boiled sugar variety. These sweets break up cleanly in the mouth, whereas the caramels and chocolates eaten by the children of indulgent parents cling to the teeth and ferment.

Boys and girls should be given fruit in preference to sweets. Nuts and all hard fruits encourage mastication. The best fruit for this purpose is the apple. Eaten at the conclusion of a meal it leaves the teeth and mouth sweet and clean.

Our Debt to Negroes

We gladly gulp down the soothing drug the doctor brings us, but we rarely wonder in what romantic way it first came to light, or who took all the risks of testing it upon himself.

It was Humboldt, the great discoverer, who many years ago brought to light the fact that the South Americans and Indians could bear fatigue and hunger to an extraordinary extent by chewing the leaves of a certain shrub. The name of that shrub was coca, from which we now get the wonderful drug cocaine.

And how many of the millions of invalids who have been indebted to the tonic virtues of quassia know that we owe its discovery and name to one Quassi, a negro slave, who had successfully experimented with it during the terrible fevers in Surinam?

It was in the early part of the seventeenth century that the wife of the Viceroy of Peru was attacked by a severe ague, and the natives induced her to try quinine, with such surprising success that she brought the good news to Europe.

Some Schoolboy Howlers

"The people of India are divided into casts and outcasts."

"The seven great powers of Europe are gravity, electricity, steam, gas, flywheels, motors, and Mr. Lloyd George."

"Tennyson wrote a beautiful poem called 'In Memorandum.'"

"During the interdict in John's reign, births, marriages, and deaths were not allowed to take place."

The following were given as examples of the uses of ships: "To go to teach countries and teach savages how to dress"; "To poets, who can get their living writing about ships"; "To take Mrs. Pankhurst to a lonely island"; "For the god-parents of a child who is to be confirmed to send a letter to him."

Sheet Rubber in Armor

The British admiralty is experimenting with warship armor composed of thin sheets of steel with a sheet of rubber between, the theory being that the rubber will stop shells as sand bags stop bullets.

Convertible Wagons

Children's wagons can be converted into sleds by the use of new runners with clamps to engage the wheels.

Nature's Aeroplane

For experiments with model aeroplanes a French inventor mounted the wings and tail of a crow on a wire frame.

Measures the Steam

A recording meter to measure the amount of steam used in an industrial plant has been invented to check waste.

Small But Deadly

Although a new German automatic pistol weighs but little more than two pounds it can fire 100 bullets a minute.

Makes Real Diamonds

An English scientist has produced minute diamonds by exploding a powder made of cordite and carbon.

Wholesale smuggling of horses, cattle and grain across the Canadian border, amounting to thousands of dollars was unearthed by Collector of Customs Judson La Mouse, Jr., of the district of North and South Dakota and Northwestern Minnesota. According to information from Halleck, Minn., near the centre of the smuggling district the operations were carried on along the border between St. Vincent and Warroad, Minn. There is no customs port between these two points, which are about 100 miles apart.

FOUND INDIAN RELIC

Sculptured Stone, Apparently of Great Age, Taken From Lake

While rowing about in Lake Utopia, about three miles from St. George, N.B., Capt. Milliken, of St. George, struck an object in the water near the shore. On investigation he found it to be a piece of granulite stone carved out in the shape of a man's head, resembling in feature the North American Indian. The carving was found within a few hundred feet of the spot where an elliptical tablet, on which was carved in relief a man's head, was picked up some fifty years ago, and which is now in the possession of the Natural History museum. Both the tablet and the recent find are considered to be the work of Indians and Capt. Milliken believes they were done by the same hand. It has also been suggested that they are the work of French or even of English settlers, but many who viewed the two relics gave it as their opinion that they had been in existence for many years before the French settled in Canada, and the popular belief is that the two works of Indian art were placed near where they were found to mark the resting place of some great Indian chief.

COLOR IN FLOWERS

Greatest Number of Plants With Odors Are White or Red

The heads of a big florist concern published the results of some very interesting observations on the relations between the colors and odors of various flowers. They analysed more than 4,200 plants, and they found that: (1) white is the most common color for flowers, and (2) that red, yellow, and blue are more general than violet, green, orange, and brown. The different odoriferous species divide themselves among the different colors in the following manner:

Color of flowers	Number of species examined	Number of species having odors
White	1,194	187
Red	923	84
Yellow	950	77
Blue	594	31
Violet	306	13
Green	153	24
Orange	50	3
Brown	18	1
Total ...	4,200	420

As will be seen, the number of plants possessing odors is only one tenth, the total number of species We also see that in proportion, its is among the white flowers and then the red that we meet the greatest number of odorous plants.

To obtain the largest quantity of fruit from tomato vines under garden conditions, the main stem should be trained to a stake and all side branches pinched off as they commence to grow. WINTER SPRAYING

Experience of a Prince Edward County Farmer Points to Profit

The growing prevalence and popularity of winter dairying is a feature of the dairy industry in Canada at the present time. On this point the following article dealing with the experiences of a farmer of Prince Edward county, is of interest.

"Another resident of this county, Carman Metcalfe, has for several years been disposing of his milk in the factories, and the records of his herd show that from the production end they are not at fault. Several have given over 6,000 pounds; three more were giving over 7,000 pounds and one of them over 8,000 pounds. This is during the summer months only, a period of seven or eight months. However, with these good returns from the cows, Mr. Metcalfe has not been satisfied with his profits accruing from this practice. Feeding silage, red clover and alfalfa hay, and grain for about nine months of the year, Mr. Metcalfe has calculated that it costs him between $80 and $90 to keep a cow each year, and claims that the returns from the factory do not leave him any surplus over and above the cost of maintenance. However, he is a man who finds pleasure in dairying, and now has a scheme whereby he can milk the cows for a longer period and thus receive more satisfying remuneration.

"Fifteen heifers are running on grass which will freshen in October. He intends to ship milk from these cows to Toronto until the factory starts in the spring, when the milk will be diverted into that channel. This proposition has a bright side, and whatever disposal is made of the milk a fair degree of success should accompany the venture. The demand for milk in our cities is not insatiable, but during the winter months it does not seem possible that too much milk can be produced, providing it is handled wisely. Creamery butter is always in good demand, and it seems feasible that any milk produced over and above what is necessary to supply urban consumption might be manufactured into dairy products that will find a ready market.

HEART SURGERY

Remarkable Operations Are Performed on This Vital Organ

Probably the most daring chapter in modern surgery is that which treats of operations on the heart. "The road to the heart is only two or three inches long, but it has taken surgery nearly 2,600 years to travel it," was one writer's striking phrase. Many shrewd observers in the course of the ages had noted that all heart wounds did not result in instantaneous death. But it was not until [illegible] years ago that surgeons began to act upon this knowledge. In exceptional cases death did not result immediately from a heart wound; there were intervals of a few minutes, a few days, or a few weeks. Why not utilize this interval in an attempt to sew up the wound? Medical history of late years reports many successful operations of

The Sleeping Sickness

Belgian Kongo, in Africa, so frequently mentioned in recent European dispatches as a possible objective point of the German troops, is the home alike of the most progressive negroes of Africa and of the most primitive and savage cannibals, according to a statement issued by the National Geographic Society, at Washington.

This African colony is so cut up by rivers and impenetrable forests that the tribes inhabiting the country vary greatly in their customs and language, says the society's bulletin. But a few miles distant from these barbarous savages are endless plantations of millet and grain of their civilized countrymen. The cannibal Bankutus of Belgian Kongo make a practise of removing the upper incisors. Their dress consists of a pleated skirt, which does not quite meet on the right thigh; but the women in the south wear a high girdle with a deep fringe of palm-fiber string. Among this tribe the slaves are compelled to wear a special dress, which is, in fact, the ordinary costume of the Akela, to which tribe most of them belong. The Bankutus are great cannibals, as far as the male members of the tribe are concerned, and the victims are always slaves. In fact, all slaves are ultimately eaten, since it is believed that if a slave were buried his ghost would kill his master.

Their chief weapon is the bow, poison being used on the arrows; shields are now obsolete. One of their most interesting points is their use of a conventional throwing-knife as currency. The Bankutu are almost the only tribe of this region who have been successful in resisting the advance of the white man. This fact is due to their skill in forest warfare. The way leading to their village is defended by poisoned spikes hidden by leaves. They use bows and arrows set like traps in the form of primitive spring guns.

The Actual Condition

A terrible indictment of the man or men who caused the European war comes from a well-known clergyman. He doesn't say who they are; he simply indicts them.

Why not leave this kind of activity to the post-mortem? England is at war. It is a terrible war. She and her allies are facing the greatest military machine in history, composed of a modern nation trained for years for the very task in which it is now engaged. To use a figure of speech, the roar of cannon is in the ears of Britons the world over.

Is not this undoubted fact important enough to call a halt to all introspection and rumination and star-gazing of every kind? The whole world has exclaimed, "War is Hell." Nobody in this country delights in it. Everybody abhors it. Against it, the verdict is unanimous.

So why, in the name of common sense, continue to plead before the people who already agree with you?

War is a curse. Cursing war doesn't make it any better. If Rev. Dr. MacDonald of the Toronto Globe can think of a sterner verdict than "War is Hell" we wish he would communicate it to us, privately. We couldn't print it, but we would be interested to see it.

After this war, when the people have felt the pinch and the nations are in mourning for the brave dead, there will be plenty of opportunities to drive home the lesson. At present, to attempt to drive home the lesson is to complicate matters by hampering the most vitally necessary action of the hour. That is to get ready for action. If pleading and arguing and deploring and weeping, or any one of these, could stay the hands of the rival nations, or even detract one iota from the calamity of war, we would all be doing something along these lines.

Rheumatism Goes Quickly Its Virus Forever Destroyed

EVERY CASE IS CURABLE.

Good-bye to Rheumatism!

Your aching joints, your stiff, sore muscles, those sleepless nights and suffering days—good-bye forever—your day is gone.

Sufferer, cheer up, and read the good news below.

"A man met me a month ago, and said, 'don't stay crippled, quit complaining, limber up.' My answer was, 'I'm rheumatic, I can't do it.' He looked me over in a pitying sort of way and told me to go to the nearest drug store for Nerviline and Ferrozone. The combination had cured him. I was convinced of his sincerity and followed his instructions. I rubbed on Nerviline three times every day—rubbed it right into my aching joints. The pain quickly lessened, and I became more limber and active. To draw the virus of the disease from my blood I took two Ferrozone Tablets with every meal. I am well to-day, not an ache, not a pain and no sign of stiffness at all."

What Nerviline can do in a case like this it can do for you too. For nearly forty years Nerviline has been recommended for Rheumatism, Lumbago and Sciatica and Lame Back. It is the one remedy that never disappoints.

OIL THE GREAT WEALTHMAKER

We hold over 3,000 acres, more or less, of oil leases North and South of Monarch and several of our leases are in the same range as the Monarch well.

Many companies claim to be close to Monarch but we are one of the very few who are in Range Six upon which the Monarch Well is situated. Therefore, we must be on the same anti-cline and as it is a foregone conclusion Monarch will get oil, so will we.

Fifty-Seven Feet of Oil Bearing Sands Passed Through in Monarch Well

OFFICIAL STATEMENT IS GIVEN OUT BY PRESIDENT GEORGESON—WELL IS NOW DOWN OVER 1,800 FEET AND FLOW OF WET GAS HAS BEEN STRUCK IN LOWER LEVELS—GEOLOGIST DUNN IS AWAY AT PRESENT

Heavy oil showings are being found in the Monarch well, west of Olds, although the oil has not yet come in in commercial quantities.

To put the exact facts before the public, President William Georgeson and Treasurer G. W. Moffitt, of the company, this morning issued an official statement from the drillers setting forth the results.

The heaviest oil seepage has been encountered through a stratum 57 feet thick, and the well is now 1850 feet deep.

A sample of this oil baled out at 1,775 feet was brought to the city this morning and is in the office of Mr. Morfitt, Grain Exchange Building. The oil is a heavy black petroleum with the characteristic petroleum odor.

The statement issued by the officers is as follows: In the absence of Mr. Dunn, Mr. Van Alst, the head driller, reports that from the depth of 1,775 feet to 1,832 feet he went through oil bearing sands for 57 feet. Throughout there was a heavy showing of black oil in the baler. Two further showing of black wet gas were met at 1,806 feet and 1,915 feet.

The well is now down 1,860 feet. Wet gas has shown at 633 feet, 1,430 feet, 1,805 feet and 1,815 feet.

Oil sands have shown at '898 feet, (46 feet), 1,430 feet (40 feet), 1,740 feet (14 feet), and 1,776 feet (57 feet).

The well is now down 1,860 feet, and while there are good oil showings there is not as yet oil in commercial quantities.

Our stock is on the market at 50 cents a share, a Dollar par, and will be advanced without notice any day pending Monarch Well developments. It is practically a certainty that Monarch will be in oil in commercial quantities within two weeks, Our stock will jump away above par and you had better hurry if you wish to share our prosperity.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Campany re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300.000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leavinb $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— 'We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised.'' And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and ' capitalise your concern at $90,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

A Chance For Some Golfer

Golfers may be interested to know of a curious prize awaiting a claimant at the Royal Ashdown Golf Club, Sussex. On the club links there is a hole, called the Island Hole, of such a difficult character that a member hit on the unique idea of endowing it with the sum of $36, the accumulated interest of which sum should go to the competitor who does the hole in one stroke at either the Easter, Whitsuntide, or autumn meetings. That was some years ago, and the interest is still accumulating.

INDIANS AND FORESTS

The Red Men Are Being Enlisted as Fire Rangers

The Indian has frequently—and not always unjustly—been accused of criminal carelessness with fire, and to the ancestral habit of setting out fires in order to improve grazing for buffalo has even been ascribed the cause of the prairies on which trees are once more being grown. But owing to the precept and example of Dominion fire-wardens this ingrained carelessness has—in northern Manitoba, at least—been supplanted by an enthusiasm for forest conservation. Several hundred Indians in the district promised to observe every precaution to prevent forest fires, and, as the Chief Fire Ranger writes, "The fact of no fires the next summer is proof positive that the majority of them faithfully kept their pledge." During the course of a few months sixty-three Indians voluntarily visited the Chief's headquarters to discuss the plans of the Forestry Branch in the matter of conserving the remaining forests in Western Canada.

Many of these Indians are sufficiently well educated to serve as fire-rangers, and, following its policy of obtaining the best men possible for this work, the Dominion Government has enlisted quite a number of Indians in the fire ranging service, for which their knowledge of the country and their enthusiasm for the work make them admirably adapted. Several towers have been established, enabling rangers to span at one glance several hundred square miles of country. Wireless telegraphy has also been brought into use and from The Pas and Fort Churchill it is now possible for the rangers in these remote regions to communicate almost instantly with headquarters.

MIDGETS AND DWARFS

They Simply Are Slow in Developing and Remain Childlike

Professor Hastings Gilford delivered an interesting lecture on "Infantilism" at the Royal College of Surgeons in London recently. He pointed out that many so-called dwarfs or midgets are not in reality the result of a stoppage of growth but rather of a protracted delay in development, so that they remain infants all their lives. And when they grow old, as they often do, their infantile characteristics still persist, in spite of their wizened appearance.

So extraordinary is their slowness in passing through the childish stage that in one case Professor Gilford found it took twenty years for one of these little people to grow as much as an ordinary child grows in five years. Growth goes on until well over thirty, and at the end of that time the little "man" may be no bigger than a child of six. One case was mentioned in which one of these "infantilates" passed as a child until nearly thirty years, having no difficulty in travelling on the railway with a half-ticket. Another, a boy of fourteen, could pass as a baby in arms, and took the leading role in one of the London theatres, acting alternately as a baby and as a diminutive "man about town," with great intelligence and ability.

"It is this kind of complaint, if such is its nature, that accounts for the midgets," continued the professor. "They seem to be intelligent and captivating little people, their intelligence being of the childish pattern, such as might be expected of young children who gather years of experience. They never seem to be spoiled, nor even to be embarrassed by the attentions they receive from the public, but show quaint childish traits and a charming naiveté, which makes them great favorites, with those who have dealings with them."

WHAT WAR MEANS

Soldiers on Active Service a Veritable Scourge—French Honor Mothers

"All's fair in love and war," runs the old saying, and Mr. E. A. Vizetelly, in his volume of reminiscences, "My Days of Adventure," proves the truth of it. Referring to the appearance of the railway station at Nantes during the Franco-German War, he says:

"Never since have I seen anything resembling it. A thousand panes of glass belonging to windows or roofing had been shivered to atoms. Every mirror in either waiting or refreshment rooms had been pounded to pieces; every gilt frame broken to little bits. The clock lay about in small fragments; account books and printed forms had been torn to scraps, partitions, chairs, tables, benches, bonps, nests of drawers, had been hacked, split, broken, reduced to mere strips of wood. The large stoves were overturned and broken, and the marble refreshment counter—some thirty feet long, and previously one of the features of the station—now strewed the floor in particles, suggesting gravel. It was, indeed, an amazing sight, the more amazing as no such work of destruction could have been accomplished without extreme labor.

"When we returned to the inn for dinner, I asked some questions.

"'Who did it?'

"'The first German troops that came here,' was the answer.

"'Why did they do it? Was it because your men had cut the telegraph wires and destroyed some of the permanent way?'

"'Oh, no! They expected to find something to drink in the refreshment room, and when they discovered that everything had been taken away they set aboutu breaking the fixtures.'"

Mr. Vizetelly discloses this interesting fact: Whenever letters were found on the bodies of men who fell during the Franco-German War they were, if this man was a Frenchman, more usually letters for his mother, and if he was a German, more usually letters for his sweetheart. Many such letters found their way into print during the course of the war. It is a well known fact that a Frenchman's cult for his mother is a national characteristic.

CANADA'S NEW PARK

Old Trading Post Stood in Midst a Beautiful Forest Tract

Forty-seven years ago two adventurous young Englishmen, Viscount Milton and Dr. Cheadle, after passing the winter in a Saskatchewan forest set out from Edmonton to cross the Rocky Mountains and to reach the Pacific coast by the overland route. After a most laborious journey attended with much hardship and often much danger, they accomplished their purpose. They crossed the Rockies by way of the Yellowhead Pass, which accurate surveys have since determined to be the easiest passage through the mountains, and is the route followed by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway on its passage over the great divide. On their journey they arrived at Jasper House, an ancient landmark, even at that time, in the geography of this part of Canada. One hundred years ago Jasper House was one of the most important trading posts of the Hudson Bay Company in all the far North-west. It was built in the year 1800 by Jasper Hawes, who is frequently referred to by the early explorers of the upper Rockies.

ILLUMINATED HOOPS

Suggestion For Making Croquet a Game For Dark Nights

Sometimes a game of croquet has to be curtailed because of the trouble in finding the arches or wickets in the dusk. The wire is so near the color of the ground that as soon as the light of day fades a bit it is necessary to have some one locate each wicket before the player makes his shot. A good way to obviate this difficulty is to get a short length of white rubber tubing and slip it over each arch so that it will cover the top. This will make the arches stand out against the dark background of the earth in the evening. If desired, this tubing or the entire arch can be painted with a phosphorous paint that will glow at night.

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. The Size of the Waves

The most experienced sons of the sea are apt to have very exaggerated ideas of the size of towering waves which break over the vessels during sea storms, and frequently waves are reported as having reached an almost impossible height.

As a matter of fact it is extraordinary for a wave to attain a height of seventy feet, while the average size of great waves is considerably less. The mountainous seas often encountered by liners in the North Atlantic usually measure about forty feet, though the upward-shooting, quick-falling water attains a greater altitude. The big waves of the North Pacific rarely measure more than thirty feet, while the highest wave ever met by an Australian bound liner in the South Pacific reached fifty feet.

The big waves of mid-ocean are much larger than those encountered elsewhere, and it is very rare that a height of even twenty feet is reached by a wave in the Mediterranean.

GARDEN MEDICINES

Every vegetable garden is a medicine chest full of remedies that are recognized by physicians as of considerable value in the treatment of various diseases.

Onions, for example, contain sulphur oil, and are recommended for insomnia and as an aid to gastric digestion. They should have a prominent place in the diet of sufferers from rheumatism, for they help to allay the pains.

Turnips and parsnips both have peculiar oily principles which are of value as an aperient and diuretic. It is also claimed that they are good for coughs and hoarseness.

Carrots are useful for correcting derangements of the liver. They are also excellent as a dressing for painful wounds and swellings.

The tomato exercises medicinal effects which are not completely explained by the presence of alkaline salts. There is a principle present which, when taken in a concentrated state, produces salivation and a free stimulation of the liver.

COCAINE IS MADE FROM COCA PLANT

Vast Difference Between Coca and Cocoa—The Former Flourishes in South America

Cocoa and coca are two words which are very much alike, so much so, in fact, that they are often confused in the mind of the average person, and perhaps by some thought to be the same thing. The presence of the "o" in the last syllable of the first word, however, makes a portentous difference, for there is absolutely no similarity between the products bearing these names. Cocoa, which is but chocolate with the fat extracted, is the well known drink and food made from the cocoa bean, the fruit of the tree known botanically as theobroma cacao, while coca is the extract of the leaves of the coca plant, or shrub whose technical name is erythroxylon coca, and from which that powerful alkaloid known as cocaine is derived. Both products are indigenous to certain Latin-American countries, both were in common use by the natives of these regions for centuries before a Western world was dreamed of in the Eastern, and both were first introduced into Europe by the returning Spanish explorers. Their place of origin is about the only thing common to both plants.

The medicinal properties of the coca leaves are manifold. That remarkable property possessed by the alkaloid cocaine, of producing local anesthesia has made the plant a boon to suffering humanity and a wonderfully beneficent agent in the hands of the surgeon, even if there were no other uses for it as a curative. Coca however, has many other uses, and among the Incas of Peru it was known as the "divine plant" because of these varied properties.

The original home of the coca plant is in parts of Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia and Brazil, while it is now cultivated in the West Indies, Ceylon, India, Java, etc. The plant, erythroxylon coca, somewhat resembles the blackthorn bush and grows to a height of six or eight feet, according to altitude and climatic conditions. In Southern Colombia, at an altitude of 3,000 feet, and in some other sections of the Andes, it occasionally measures 12 feet in height, but as elevation increases the bush degenerates into a small shrub. The branches are straight and the leaves are green, thin, opaque, oval and tapering at the ends. The pretty little flowers form in clusters on short stems. The flowering season is followed by the production of small red berries. When grown on the coca plantations or cocales the seeds are sown in December and January on small plots of land sheltered from the sun. When the plant reaches a height of two feet it is transplanted to larger spaces, and it becomes productive in about two years and remains so for 40 years or even longer. The leaves are gathered by pluckers who are skilled in their work. Both hands are used and usually only the best leaves are gathered. These are carried to sheds and spread upon stone beds or hard ground to dry. The drying process is completed in about 10 hours and the leaves are then packed into bales and are ready for shipment. In pound packages the best leaves are worth from 35 to 45 cents at the seaport. Bolivia exports $300,000 worth of coca leaves, while Peru, where cocaine itself is manufactured, exports annually about $350,000 of that product.

An Appeal to the Intelligent Investor !

Does a logical presentation of a good investment interest you? Do you believe there is an oil in commercial quantities in Alberta? If you are alive to the situation you do. Then it will pay you to investigate our proposition and our holdings.

Please Read Carefully and Note!

THAT Oil authorities are agreed the Alberta Oil Field is of an anticlinal formation. It has been fairly accurately ascertained in what general direction these anticlines run. Geologist B. W. Dunn chose wisely in the selection of the now famous Monarch well. WINDSOR OILFIELDS, LIMITED, has holdings located close to the Monarch.

THAT Cunningham Craig, one of the world's most eminent geologists, selected the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well. Stock in that company is not offered at any price. We possess acreage adjoining the Mowbray-Berkeley (Section 12, Township 23, Range 5, West of 5th). If a strike is made at the Mowbray-Berkeley what will shares in our company be worth?

Our holdings consist of 1390 acres, carefully selected and judiciously spread over the entire oil field.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

Copper is one of the world's chief necessities, and the demand for it is constantly increasing. Growth of the electrical industry largely accounts for this. Telegraph and Telephone Wire—Trolley Wire—Trolley Wheels and the multitude of other Electrical Machines and Parts—Power Transmission Wire and the use of the metal in various valuable Alloys—these are some of the places where copper is consumed, and while its production is enormous it is used about as rapidly as it can be mined and made ready. THIS IS WHY OWNERSHIP IN A COPPER MINE IS ONE OF THE MOST SATISFACTORY SOURCES OF INCOME POSSIBLE TO IMAGINE.

TIME TO START

Naturally the time to secure an interest in any sort of enterprise is at the start, because it is then that money for development and equipment is needed and this is, of course, the reason why shares in the project are released! When these necessities are provided for the Opportunity passes.

For years we have been spending time, effort and money in getting together one of the largest known copper deposits, and we now own and control thousands of acres of land, covering veins of copper, ore carrying gold and silver values, extensive veins of coal, iron and lime.

The geology is so well defined as to make identifications of size and location of the copper bearing veins a perfect definite matter. In addition to this the estate has been thoroughly prospected by some 4,000 feet of work, there being more than 100 shafts, pits, cuts and tunnels, every one of which shows copper in paying quantities. The dumps of these openings run from 2 to 8 per cent in copper metal.

Facilities for economically winning the copper from its ores are remarkably fine. In the company's own ground are five known coal beds, insuring a perpetual supply of cheap fuel, easily accessible and located within a very short distance of the site chosen for its furnaces. Water and timber are also abundant and easy of access.

One of Colorado's most eminent mining engineers, after thoroughly examining this property, states in his report that the net profits resulting from operation of this property should range from $250,000 to $1,000,000 each year.

There is no uncertainty, no guesswork, about this project. Applied to it, a definite cause will inevitably produce an equally definite effect. Equipment for mining these immense bodies of ore and reducing the metal in them to bullion means dividends—it can't mean anything else—and it is to provide this equipment and the funds required for its installation and the preliminary operating expenses of the estate that an interest in the project is offered to you.

It is YOUR OPPORTUNITY to join in a well planned, conservative, and exceptionally profitable business undertaking. The foundations are laid, the property is acquired and the next step—providing the equipment—is now being taken. So soon as this is accomplished your chance to secure a share in the enterprise will be gone.

COWS THAT WEAR WELL

Testing Brings Out the Milk-producing Facts of the Herd

One of the many advantages reaped from systematic cow testing is the fact that it not only detects cows of indifferent value saving dairymen the burden of providing for worthless cows, instead of their having good cows to support them, but also it has frequently discovered valuable cows. For instance, a farmer at Baltimore, Ontario, had a small, under sized "native" cow which he intended to sell, not placing much value on her. But cow testing showed that she was one of the best in the herd both for milk and fat production.

This recalls a[illegible]
Chm, Quebec

$[illegible].00 because no one knew her value. Indeed she was put in with three others as the four poorest in the herd of the man who was selling out. The present owner believes in cow testing, and has refused $100.00 for her; she gave 322 pounds of fat in seven months.

The men who have built up herds that average 8,000 or 9,000 pounds of milk per cow are just those men who know, through having proved it, that cow testing pays. Your cows may be like fancy china, of very fine appearance, but they may not wear well. But the tested cows, that do produce, that do wear well, may bring you in sixty or seventy dollars each during the factory season.

Lessen Collisions at Sea

Signor Ulivi, the engineer who claims to be able to ignite explosives at a distance of several miles by means of rays, says his invention can be so applied on board ship as to ascertain whether another steamer is within a radius of thirteen miles. Thus precautions can be taken which should lessen the possibility of collisions at sea.

FEASTS FOR EPICURES

Strange Dishes Prepared to Tickle Jaded Appetites of the Wealthy

The fads and fancies of the very rich are displayed in many ways, but in none more emphatically than in the matter of food. Here whim and freakishness are worshipped with amazing earnestness, and the uncommon or most expensive dish at a dinner is often an eloquent symbol of the selectness of the society.

Who, for instance, has not heard of caviare, but how many of us, in ordinary circles, have ever tasted it? It is a dainty appetizer, and consists of the steel-grey colored roe of the female sturgeon, that monster fish caught chiefly in the Caspian Sea. Its quality is reckoned by the size of the globular granules of the roe and the best qualities are cheap at anything less than $8.00 a pound.

Crayfish tails, a dainty composed of the most delicate parts of the crayfish, is another dish open only to the wealthy, for its cost, broadly speaking, works out occasionally at about $2.50 a mouthful.

We are all familiar with the name of truffles, that edible mushroom-like fungus which serves so deliciously with all kinds of meat, but it is not generally known that the black truffle, a most popular feature at rich dining tables, grows underneath the surface of the ground, and its presence is detected by pigs and dogs who are very fond of them and trace them by their peculiar smell. They are about the size of hens' eggs, and are not unlike potatoes in appearance but they are most expensive, as they do not keep long and no method of cultivation has yet been devised to regulate the supply. One of the commonest uses of truffles is as an ingredient in goose-liver pie—patés de foies gras—the most famous product of Strasburg.

This is certainly one of the freakish tastes of the opulent. It is expensive; a little jar, containing about two teaspoonfuls, costs 25 cents. There is one regrettable feature about the use of this dainty—namely, the ordinary goose livers are small and lacking in softness; with the result that it is not uncommon to find flocks of geese penned up in noisome cellars, where, with special dieting, the livers become unnaturally enlarged and more suited to the purpose in view.

Probably to the average person the most familiar of the rich man's dishes is turtle soup. The green turtle of the West Indies is par excellence the most expensive soup provider in the world. Five dollars a quart is about the lowest price at which the real article can be bought.

Calipash and calipee—the names given to the delightful green fat of the upper and lower shells of the turtle—are less known, but their flavor is most delicious, and their preparation in the kitchen is a rite of great mystery and solemnity. Turtle fins also provide a unique entrée for the millionaire epicure.

But there is no end to which freakishness is not carried, and often every delicacy of flavor is sacrificed for mere whim. It cannot be said, for instance, that any but the specially cultivated appetite would negotiate quails, woodcock, and snipe, for these birds are only considered edible when cooked whole and undrawn.

Anglo-Indians delight in a pickle made from the young and tender shoots of the bamboo soaked in oil and revel in a feast of golden mangoes. West Indians pin their faith to an extraordinary preparation of red peppers called salmagundi, a pickle so hot as to require a long sojourn in Jamaica before one can entertain the prospect of its consumption without quaking.

Other travellers declare chrysanthemums and Chinese birds'-nests to be full of the Eastern charm, while such oddities as reindeer's tongues, bull frogs, and snails, and even the extreme whims of delicately-stuffed plums, are but a few of the dishes indicative of the fads and fancies created for the tickling of the wealthy palate.

Telephone Replaces Waiter.

No waiters appear in the dining room of a new French hotel, the guests telephoning their orders from their tables, to which the food is delivered from a kitchen below by electric elevators.

Outdoor Amusement

A recently invented outdoor amusement device for children is a boat shaped seesaw which also revolves like a merry-go-round.

To Prove His Invention.

To prove that a parachute of his invention was an improvement over former types, a Frenchman dropped 1000 feet from an aeroplane with one and landed safely.

LOOKING AFTER YOUNG CHICKS

Plenty of Shade and Good Wholesome Feed Give Best Results

Green food is absolutely essential during the growing period. It can be most economically supplied by growing it directly upon the range. Where the chicks are crowded on small areas, considerable expense must be incurred in supplying it from an outside source in the form of cabbage, grass clippings or sprouted grains, says Harry Lewis of New Jersey College of Agriculture, in Suburban Life. A range which can be kept seeded to a permanent sod is the best, but, where the birds are kept in such numbers as to destroy the grass, it will be found desirable to divide the area into two plots, and rotate them by alternating the areas and raising quick-growing, succulent crops, such as peas and oats, rape, buckwheat, millet, and, during the winter, as a catch or cover crop, rye, wheat, vetch and crimson clover, singly or in combination. The birds can then eat the succulence directly off the root, and the plowing and seeding purify the runs and utilize the manure to grow the crop. An abundance of shade is necessary for a normal, healthy development. Natural shade is the most desirable; where it cannot be secured, artificial shelters must be constructed. Muslin frames, set at an angle to prevent birds roosting on them, are efficient. A rough shelter of bushes or boughs, elevated from the ground about two feet, by laying on crotched sticks, will answer very well. The most desirable shade is that given by a growing plant. It is much cooler due to the large amount of moisture given off. An ideal practice is to plant the range in fruit trees—peaches, plums or apples being desirable. When trees are not present, or while they are making a sufficient growth, it will be found profitable to plant such crops as corn, sunflowers and soja beans between the rows.

The summer colony or developing houses should provide three features—namely, fresh air, sufficient size, and must be easily moved, or portable. They should be portable to facilitate

And, sure enough, there was "daddy" at the stage door. He is W. E. Richardson of Bromley, Saskatchewan, and had made the trip to New York just to see his little girl make her first stage appearance.

Job For Lindsay Boy

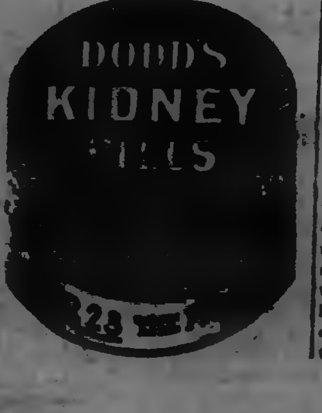
Lindsay Warder : Another popular Lindsay young man left town this morning, in the person of Mr. Howard Williamson, who has secured a position in the Militia Department of the Civil Service at Ottawa. "Tubby" was well known throughout the town and the surrounding villages, where he participated in many baseball tournaments.

A Gull Lake Moose

Great excitement prevailed at Minden's Bay Monday when Messrs. Cruess and B. F. Reesor in a motor boat found a moose, with quite large horns, swimming in Gull Lake. They succeeded in directing its course for more than a mile until it landed in the most conspicuous place among the cottagers, where many of the tourists had a good look at it before it took to the woods. Last year a bear—this year a moose—what next?—Minden Echo.

High Cost of Living

The Times will welcome bonafide communications from those of the public who have reason to believe that any local merchants are putting up prices unduly on account of the war. Correspondents should give the date of purchases made when they were overcharged, the kind of article with its price and the name of the merchant "playing hog." The Times will, as soon as sufficient of such communications are received publish particulars.



Local Business Changes

The flour and feed store of Mr. Roland Denne, George street, resembled in one respect a hundred weddings thrown into one on Saturday. The north side of the store was literally stacked with brilliant and sweet smelling blossoms. It is not every reader that knows that Mr. Denne has part purchased the extensive plant formerly conducted by Mr. Frank Mason at the corner of Water and Brock streets. The new firm conducting the floral business consists of Messrs. Roland Denne, Frank Wise and Ceci, Williamson.

Second Contingent Off

On Saturday evening the second contingent of the 24th Field Battery marched down George and Charlotte sts. to the Grand Trunk station at 8.80. The enlisted men were in plain clothes, and were escorted by a number of members of the Battery in uniform. Georg? and Charlotte streets were thronged with citizens gathered to see them off. 6The contingent was headed by the 57th Band. A big crowd was gathered at the G. T. R. station to see the boys entrain. May they all return, is the sincere prayer of The Times.

Gull Lake Drowning

Mr. Amos Newson, who on Friday last went to fish in the Gull River, As he did not return, his mother tried to control herself. When morning came, Mr. Newson went to the River and saw the unturned canoe. Knowing the rest, he went for Mr. Pearson, who assisted him to get the body and bring it home. The young man, who was but 22 years and six months old, leaves to mourn his loss his parents and sister. The funeral took place on Sunday.

Accident at The Times

Mr. Melville Thurston, of the night staff of The Times, had the misfortune to receive a bad injury while at his work in the Times press room Friday night, or rather early Saturday morning. Mr. Thurston was carrying a ladder with which to reach a shaft to run on a belt when he accidentally knocked a heavy steel bar off a rack on which it was placed, the range of the ladder catching on to the end of the bar. The heavy piece of steel fell lengthwise on Mr. Thurston's foot and penetrated the boot and stocking causing a nasty wound on the upper part of his foot and his toes. We were pleased to see him able to be on the job last night, hobbling to work in bed-room slippers and with the aid of a cane.

CITY IN PARAGRAPH

"Nothing doing" was the word at Saturday's police court.

The Chimes of St. John's Church yesterday morning played the National Anthem.

Fly the Union Jack over your respective places of business!" was the remark made by a local man yesterday to two merchants.

Well, the 57th Regiment contingent has gone to the war. May all the boys come back safely and decorated for bravery!

Bobcaygeon Independent : The storm of Monday put the three Bobcaygeon rural telephone lines, the Bell Telephone line, as well as eleven local phones out of commission. The G. N. W. and C. P. R. telegraph lines were also paralyzed.

This city, whilst meaning well and contributing well toward the Empire, is possibly more lacking in demonstration as soldiers, societies, etc., pass along our streets than any town or city in the province. It's simply a bad habit we shoulh shake off. Let us give hearty cheers and the glad hand when bodies of our men march down the streets. Let us get out of the rube town class!

Announcement From Berlin Gives Details of Defeat of French and Capture of General Officers

BERLIN (by wireless telegraphy from Nauen, Germany, to Sayville, Long Island) Aug. 24.—

"Official announcement was made here to-day that the German army commanded by Grand Duke Albrecht, of Wurtemburg, had defeated a French army at Neufchateau, in Belgium, just north of Luxemburg. It captured many guns, flags, and prisoners, including several generals.

"German armies under Prince Rupprecht, of Bavaria, Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm, and Grand Duke Albrecht are vigorously pursuing the French.

"The army under Rupprecht captured 150 guns at Luneville, Blamont, and Cirey, in the French Department of Meurthe and Moselle.

"The army commanded by the Crown Prince pursued the French beyond [illegible].

"The Germans are west of the river Meuse and advancing against Maubeuge, just over the border in France. They have defeated an English brigade of cavalry."

FRENCH RETREAT AT VERDUN CUT OFF

Washington, Aug. 24.—Through the German wireless station at Sayville L. I., to-day the German embassy received a message reading as follows:

"The army of the German Crown Prince won a decisive victory north-west of Diedenhofen (or Thionville), near Metz, over five French army corps.

"The retreat of the southern French wing on Verdun has been cut off. French troops repulsed toward the river Meuse. Complete route. The Crown Prince's army giving chase took part prisoners and declared the French troops are no longer able to face the terrible fire of the German troops."

The above despatch, which, of course, comes from German sources and from a press bureau in New York that is very active in its efforts to create a sympathetic German sentiment throughout the United States, is given for what it is worth. Even should the report be true of a repulse to a troop of British cavalry, it would not be of such great moment, as the cavalry usually do outpost duty, and after skirmishing fall back to the main body of infantry and artillery.

DAUGHTER SEEKS BUFFALO PASTOR

Washington, Aug. 24.—Mrs. F. A. Downing, No. 706 Elmwood avenue, Buffalo, N. Y., asked Representative Gittins to enquire as to the whereabouts and personal safety of her father, the Rev. William Weber, who left New York city on July 18 on the Berlin, bound for Bremen, Germany, to visit relatives. He was last heard from at Bremen. Mr. Gittins asked the state department to assist.

The state department to-day notified Representative Gittins a cablegram from the American consul at Bremen, Germany, announces that E. S. Smith and Charles Knaupfer are at Dusseldorf, Germany, are well and have arranged to return by an American ship. Mr. Smith is works manager of the Dusseldorf plant of the Carborundum company of Niagara Falls, and Mr. Knaupfer is sales manager.

At request of the same company Mr. Gittins has asked the state department to locate another attache, Fernando Nirando, address July 31, Hotel Terminus Nord, Paris.

MAD DOG VICTIM BEING TREATED FOR HYDROPHOBIA

Batavia, Aug. 24.—Arrangements were made in Batavia for administering anti-rabies treatment to Fred Newman of No. 47 Tracy Avenue. Mr. Newman, who was visiting his brother in Riceville, Cattaraugus county, was bitten last Saturday by a dog that had all the symptoms of rabies.

The wound was cauterised at once, and when Mr. Newman returned home he consulted the Batavia authorities. It was decided at a conference of Town Health Officer Whitcombe, the District Sanitary Supervisor, Dr. Patchin of Dansville, Village Health Officer McCarthy and Poor Master Griffis, representing the county poor department that Mr. Newman be administered the treatment at his home at the expense of the county. From 18 to 25 injections will be administered, four of them daily, by Dr. Gould of anti-rabies pus which will be received in Batavia every day. The injections will be made under the skin of the abdomen.

JAPANESE FLEET BEGINS BOMBARDMENT OF TSING TAU PEOPLE OF JAPAN UNANIMOUSLY APPROVE OF THE WAR

Tokio, Aug. 24.—The Yamato in an extra edition to-day says that the bombardment of Tsing Tau by the Japanese fleet has commenced.

This message was passed by the censor of the Navy Department.

Gravity of Japan's Entrance

London, Aug. 24.—The Daily News, commenting to-day on Japan's declaration of war against Germany, says:

"The immediate gravity of Japan's entrance into the war is its moral effect on American public opinion. Assuming that Japanese action is not limited, according to her pledges, no sensible American will hold England to blame for an event she is quite powerless to prevent.

"The British Government ought to use its influence to restrain within strict limits the forward policy of Japan."

Unanimous Approval of Japs

Tokio, Aug. 24.—Unanimous approval of the war, which is calmly and dispassionately discussed, summarizes the public opinion. The news papers express regret over the necessity of hostilities with Germany and urge the public to refrain from exhibiting resentment toward the Germans in Japan. They print messages of cheer to the army and navy, whom they hope will be quickly victorious.

An imperial messenger went to the Shrines of Ise to inform the spirits of the Imperial Ancestors of Japan's declaration of war. It is announced that a flock of white doves descended on the roof of the Imperial sanctuary at the moment of the expiration of the ultimatum to Germany, and this is accepted as an omen of speedy victory.

The Lady's Patriotic Association, which has a membership of 100,000, is sending to the volunteer Nurses' committee for the packages for the soldiers, and will provide for the families of those who have been called to to the service. The Red Cross Society is equipping a hospital ship.

Communication between Japan and China has been severed for twenty-four hours

Except for the very meagre news that has reached here from New York the entire country is kept in the dark regarding the progress of the war in Europe.

It is believed that the cable between Shanghai and Nagasaki has been cut. The officers of the army and navy are absolutely sphinxlike regarding the progress of events in the China Sea." Everything is quiet here, the attitude of the public appearing almost indifferent.

AUSTRIA RETIRES FROM OFFENSIVE

Has Been Compelled to Cease Active Operations Against Servia

London, Aug. 24.—According to The Times' Venice correspondent, the official telegraph agency in Vienna publishes the following official notice on the Austro-Servian situation:

"On account of the Russian intervention in the Servian war, Austria is forced to give all its forces for the principle struggle in the north-east. Consequently the attack on Servia is henceforth looked upon as a punitive expedition and not as definite war.

"The decision therefore has been reached to retire from the offensive and take up a waiting attitude, making a fresh attack when opportunity presents itself. The considerable losses sustained by the Austrians on the banks of the Drina are not surprising in view of the superiority of the numbers of the enemy, and the fact that the latter are fighting for their existence."

London, Aug. 24.—An Exchange Telegraph Co. despatch from Nish referring to the Servian victory on the Drina, says the Servian artillery sank a number of the enemy's boats, including eight transports, carrying troops.

The despatch says the Austrians are massing on the banks of the Drina and preparing for a desperate attempt to regain lost ground

London, Aug. 24.—A Times' despatch from St. Petersburg says that military observers there have made careful compilation of the distribution of the German forces on both frontiers, from which they gather that it is not possible for the Germans to overcome the allied forces on the western frontier at vital points. The Russians believe there are no Austrian corps in the west.

Regarding the Austrian forces opposed to the Russian advance, they may be said to comprise the whole army except the units of the Servian and Montenegrin borders.

BRITISH SOLDIERS WRITING HOME

Says Germany Used Her Poorest Troops in Fighting the Belgians

London, Aug. 24.—While the movements of the British soldiers on the Continent had been developed in secrecy, the papers published extracts from letters written by some of them at the front which threw an interesting sidelight on the situation. For instance, a sergeant writes:

"The Germans seem to have pushed their worst troops on the firing line in Belgium under the impression that anything was good enough to beat the Belgians.".

A private writes:

"Our great trouble is to get away from the French villagers, who offer us wine. After what Kitchener said most of us are strict teetotallers, and will remain so until the war is over."

Another private says:

"German prisoners were astonished to see our uniforms. They never imagined that we had crossed"

A corporal writes:

"German spies are plentiful. They come in all disguises. One was a travelling monk; another a commercial traveller. A third wanted to be attached to our force as a camp follower. They were quickly dealt with by the French"

A TROLLEY CAR KILLS THREE

Albany, N. Y.—Aug. 24. Frank Healy, John Magraw and Frank Glenn, were instantly killed near their homes in Stottville, during a severe thunderstorm, when a trolley car of the Albany Southern Railway struck a wagon in which they were riding.

DISCOLORED OR SPOTTY SKIN EASILY PEELED OFF

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which most skins are subject at this season, may readily be gotten rid of. Mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the disfigured skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any druggist's. There's no more effective way of banishing tan, freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process itself doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand new, spotless girlishly beautiful face.

Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness, are best treated by a simple solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz. dissolved in ½ pint witch hazel. [illegible]

MINISTER PLEASED BY STATE OF CAMP

Col. Hughes Astonished at Celerity With Which the Work Has Been Done

Ottawa, Aug. 24.—The Minister of Militia and Defence paid another of his flying visits to Val Cartier camp and with characteristic energy visited the lines, conferred with staff officers, went over plans, visited the ranges, all inside a space of three hours, and was back in his office to-night at 7 o'clock, having left the capital at 10 o'clock.

Interviewed to-night he stated that he had no fault to find, and that he was astonished at the manner in which the work had been accomplished. The untiring activities of Cols. Price, McCarthy, McBain, Low, Major Deroche and the headquarters staff had accomplished a feat that had never been equalled in Canadian military history.

The Minister rode for miles around the ranges, which are now in a state of completion. He was gratified to find from reports from all the officers that among the thousands of troops which have been arriving for the past few days there has been no drunkenness. They have been distinguished by proper bearing and good conduct. Col. Langton, of Toronto, and Col. George Murphy, of Ottawa, who are in charge of the transportation, reported to the Minister to-day that the conduct of the troops on their arrival could not be excelled.

Another feature reported to the Minister was that hundreds of men had attached themselves to the troop trains en route and were now in camp asking to be enrolled, with the result that many contingents were arriving there over strength. But yet the authorities in charge at Val Cartier were equal to the task of looking after them all.

While the Minister was passing through the lines he saw hundreds of troops on church parade, and stated that it would be a gratifying thing to Canadian citizens to know that men who were going to the front were doing so with a sober purpose and with the complete understanding that the gravity of their mission deserved. Father Jolicoeur, who is looking after the welfare of the Catholic troops, told the Minister that all the men were excellent in their conduct.

The total assembled strength at the Val Cartier camp to-day is placed in the neighborhood of 10 000

PETES WIN FIRST OF THE SERIES

The Petes appeared before the home crowd again yesterday after a long trip away, and took the first game of the series from the Red Sox by the score of 4 to 1. A good game was the reward of the small number of fans who turned out, and the boys showed great form behind the grand game put up by "Big Bob" Sterling. The Petes' twirler had balls on [illegible] a great [illegible] the fans. At no stage of the game was he in danger, with the exception of the first innings, when a hit by Long, a pass to Masher, and a single by Dudley filled the bases, with none out. Bob tightened up, however, and after striking out Cosino forced the next two batters up to fly out. The Petes got a man on third in their half, with two out, but Rooney hit to Taylor for an easy out.

Neither team did anything in the second period, but in the third Long got a life on a hard one which Fox could not handle, and bunt hits by Masher and Dudley scored him.

The Petes came back in the forth, when after Kelley had been out Bob Sterling shattered Taylor's hopes by landing on the ball for a three base drive to the score board, Blount got a life and Sterling scored on Dudley's error, and Welsh also was safe on a hard one to short. Dolan came in with a long sacrifice fly, scoring Curly, and Welsh crossed the plate later on Rooney's single. Rooney was out stealing second.

The Petes scored the last run of the game in the 7th. Sterling getting another nice single between 1st and 2nd and scoring on Dolan's second sacrifice fly. In three trips to the plate Bob Sterling drew a walk and had two hits Dudley, for Brantford, had a perfect batting average for the day, getting four hits in four trips to the plate. The score:

Peterboro 0 0 0 0 3 0 1 0 0—4 7 1
Brantford 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 8 1

Allied Armies Have Resolutely Taken the Offensive Between the Moselle and Mons, in Belgium

PARIS, August 24.—2.57 p.m.—"The general engagement continues to-day with desperation," is the wording of an official communication given out this afternoon. "Already both sides have suffered enormous losses."

"Our armies had resolutely taken the offensive between the Moselle and Mons, in Belgium. A general battle is now being fought in upper Alsace, upon the Vosges mountains and along the river Meurthe. The main body of troops is under the command of General Pau. These forces hold the front heretofore indicated.

"Amance, Dieulouard, and Luneville have been occupied by the Germans; otherwise the French front has not been modified.

"An army from the north of Wavre is approaching Neufchateau, and is attacking the German forces which have defiled through Luxemburg and are now on the right bank of the Semois.

"Another army from the direction of the Sedan has crossed the Department of Ardennes and is engaging the German army corps which has been proceeding between the river Lesse and the river Meuse

"A third army corps from the neighborhood of Chimay is advancing to attack the German right between the river Sambre and the River Meuse

"This third army corps is supported by an English army corps which has come from the vicinity of Mons

"The movements of the Germans who sought to pass our left Ring were followed step by step, and their right now finds itself attacked by the left wing of our army, which is working in conjunction with the English.

"From this side the battle continued vigorously for more than 24 hours the field extending over the remainder of the front."

London, Aug. 24.—The official press bureau this afternoon issued a statement announcing that the first line of the allied defence had been broken by the Germans, necessitating a withdrawal of a portion of the allied forces to the original position on the French frontier. It was explained that this withdrawal was in accordance with the original plans, and was "purely for strategic reasons."

BRITISH FORCES FOUGHT ALL DAY SUNDAY

London, Aug. 24.—The location of the British overseas expedition was revealed by the War Office to-day, which admitted that these troops have been in battle since Sunday. The official announcement said:

"The British expeditionary forces have been engaged with the enemy in the neighborhood of Mons, Belgium, since early on Sunday. The British lines are holding."

No statement of casualties was given.

A telegrame from Lille, France, reports that the first train conveying British wounded has passed that city Nothing is known about the destination or the place where the men were wounded.

FRENCH ARE CONTINUING THE OFFENSIVE

Paris, Aug. 24.—The battle line is increasing in length. The War Office in an official statement issued at 2.50 this afternoon admits this, but insists that the French are now assuming the offensive. "A general battle is raging from Moselle to Mons. The French are continuing the offensive."

BULK OF GERMAN ARMY IS INVOLVED

Paris, Aug. 24.—10.15 a.m.—The following official announcement was made here to-day:

"The great battle between the greater part of the forces of England and France against the bulk of the German army continues to-day.

"The mission of the English and the French is to hold virtually the entire German army in Belgium while our Russian allies pursue their successes in the east. The Russians occupy nearly fifty miles wide on the German frontier."

CONTACT ESTABLISHED ALL ALONG THE LINE

London, Aug. 24.—10.20 a.m.—The French Embassy this morning received a telegram from the Minister of Foreign Affairs at Paris stating that contact had been established between the opposing forces all along the line and up to the present without advantage to either side. The message confirmed the report that the German airship Zeppelin No. 8 had been destroyed and that there had been great Russian successes.

GERMANS ARE MARCHING TOWARDS VALENCIENNES

London, Aug. 24.—The Ostend correspondent of the Daily Mail says that the German columns are marching southward toward Valenciennes on the Scheldt, 31 miles south-east of Lille, one proceeding by way of Ninove, Grammont and Lessines, Belgium, and the other going by way of Hal, Braine-le-Comte, and Mons, Belgium. They are moving at great speed.

Further north-west advanced parties have appeared and done damage, successively at Thielt and Lichtervelde. It is suggested that this means a dash upon Roubaix, one of the wealthiest of French towns, or upon Lille, In that case the movement toward Valenciennes probably would be an encircling one.
